

The Bibby Family in New Zealand

including the Guy, Matier, McLean and White Families

THIS is the story of Edward and Mary Bibby and their descendants. It is also the story of the early pioneers, the people who in the face of great difficulties laid the foundations for the prosperous life we know today.

Conder Mill where Edward was brought up in England.

Our Early Beginnings

OUR family's roots are in England in Over-Wyresdale, the upper part of the valley of the Wyre, a stream that rises in the Forest of Bowland and crosses north Lancashire to empty into the Irish Sea at Fleetwood. How the first Bibbys came to establish themselves there is not known. Probably an enterprising Bibby, perhaps in search of land, migrated from the southern part of Lancashire, either by Garstang or the Trough of Bowland, early in the seventeenth century. There is a record at Lancaster Parish Church of the baptism of John Bibby, son of James, on 1st January 1608.

The earliest record of Bibbys living in Over-Wyresdale is of the marriage at Lancaster Parish Church of John Bibby I to Annas Slayter, both of Wyresdale, before the mayor, on 1st July 1654, during the period of the protectorate of Oliver Cromwell. Their son John Bibby II, born in 1656, is known to have lived at Marshaw, some three miles west of Abbeystead, at a point where the Wyre, there a mountain stream, emerges from the Trough of Bowland. There are several farmsteads at Marshaw, all deriving from the seventeenth century though with later additions, and it was at one of these that John Bibby II lived. He married twice and outlived both his wives. We know little about him - what we do know is from his will which has been preserved.

Here it is.

In the name of god amen - the seventh day of August 1729 - I John Bibby of Marshaw in over Wyersdale In the Parish of Lancaster and County of Lancaster being in perfect memory and remembrance praised bee god Do make and ordain this my last Will and testament in the manner and form folowing = viz ffirſt I Bequeath my soule into the hands of Almighty god - hoping through the merrits of Jesus Christ my saviour to Receive free

HIS MARK

It is evident from the handwriting that William Jackson drew the will, probably on his friend's deathbed, for John died before the year was out, and his mark on the document suggests that he could neither read nor write. We can infer from the will that John Bibby II was survived by two sons, John III and James, and that John, the elder son, was the more fortunate. John Bibby III inherited the farm at Marshaw on the death of his father in 1729.

John Bibby III married Margaret Townley in 1717. He died intestate in 1739 at the age of about 55, having survived his father by only ten years, leaving a widow and six children, the youngest of whom was only four years old.

Less is known of his younger brother James Bibby I, though he is described in the records as a husbandman and he was probably employed by one of the larger farmers in the lower and more fertile part of the valley. He had four children by his first wife Ellen Kitchen, who died in 1721, and at least ten more by his second wife Elizabeth Brewer, whom he married in 1722. His signature appears on the administration bond consequent upon his elder brother's death, showing that he was able to write. The record of the death of a James Bibby in 1758 probably relates to him.

The sons and grandsons of the two brothers, John Bibby III and James Bibby I were sturdy and fertile. Most of them married and raised large families, and by the beginning of the nineteenth century there were a dozen or more families of Bibbys, a veritable tribe, living in the parish, all descendants of the two brothers. The parish records are incomplete and it is impossible to trace all the branches with certainty, but it is probable that our branch of the family is descended from James, the younger brother, rather than John.

However, this is all surmise as it is extremely difficult with very incomplete records and large families to contend with to trace any ancestry with certainty. It is known though that our Edward Bibby's grandfather was a James Bibby of Ellel but whether this James Bibby was a son of the Edward Bibby who died in 1768 is not known for sure though evidence points that way.

If this Edward Bibby was the son of the James Bibby who died in 1758 we have our ancestry traced back to John Bibby I who was born in 1608. The English family tree would then be -

Edward Bibby 1829 - 1901
m Mary Ann Woodhouse 1831 - 1910

Edward 1864 - 1955	John 1876 - 1962	James Woodhouse 1862 - 1959	Ellen 1866-1954	Constance Ruth 1869 - 1946	Minnie 1871 - 1946	Annie Elizabeth 1868-1953	Thomas Joseph 1865 - 1945

Edward Bibby 1829 - 1901

EDWARD Bibby, born in 1829, was the youngest of three sons in a family of twelve. His father was a miller who owned Conder Mill in the village of Quernmore in Lancashire. This mill was situated on a small stream which had been harnessed for power to drive the mill.

Edward left school at the age of thirteen and was apprenticed to a cabinet maker for seven years. This indenture still in hands of a great grandson is interesting to us today. The terms were:

"The apprentice's father had to provide his son with all sorts of wearing apparel both linen and woollen together with meat, drink, washing, lodging, mending and medical advice etc, for the term of seven years. The wage commencing of four shillings".

Family records tell us that shortly after the completion of his apprenticeship he was best man for a friend who was to leave for New Zealand. This may have influenced him as he too in 1860 did likewise. From there there is a long period of which little is known of him. It is said that he came to Napier, and owned two houses which no doubt he built by himself. In all probability, the sale of these houses gave him capital to return to England. His ship was held up at Melbourne as its crew had gone to the goldfields. In the meantime he obtained employment by assembling chairs at 20/- a day, three times the normal rates. He eventually got back to England and soon after married Mary Ann Woodhouse, the daughter of another miller whose families had known one another for generations.

Once again he set sail for N.Z., this time in the sailing ship Athewarle taking 106 days to reach their destination, Wellington on January 5th 1862.

*Edward's seven-year
apprenticeship contract as a cabinet-maker, in 1843.*

This is our third attempt to tell the history of the Bibby Family in New Zealand.

The first, the Brown Book, published for the reunion in 1977, had lots of information about the origins of the family in England and delightful pen pictures of the original Edward Bibby and his wife Mary, and their eight children. There was also a "Family Tree" but this was not well received as no mention was made of a wife (or husband) who had no Bibby blood!

To overcome these objections, the "Green Book" was published in 1992. This became very popular as many more personal details, actual birthdays, marriage dates etc. were included. However it suffered because it was not compiled on a computer so therefore could not be kept up to date.

Doug Pullar, just before he died transcribed the Green Book tree onto a computer disk using information given by the many family members who attended a reunion at Kairakau in 2001.

Now, Sue White has taken the project a further step ahead. She has meticulously checked every minute detail and has produced a brilliant documentary of the family. She says there will inevitably be mistakes, either because she misinterpreted dates etc or was unable to read the writing from information she received from family members! However these can easily be rectified as all details are now on the computer. Family details of course are always changing, new arrivals turn up, the "olds" depart for better climes, marriages are made (and are broken) but these changes from now on can easily be recorded.

Lastly this publication has the inestimable value of an Index. From this we have deduced there are now 596 descendants of the original Edward and Mary Bibby.

With every good wish for the future.

As she became less able to get about, her garden became her main interest as it did with her father. A marvellous person. She is buried with her parents and four of her brothers in the Waipawa cemetery.

Basil Bibby's Family

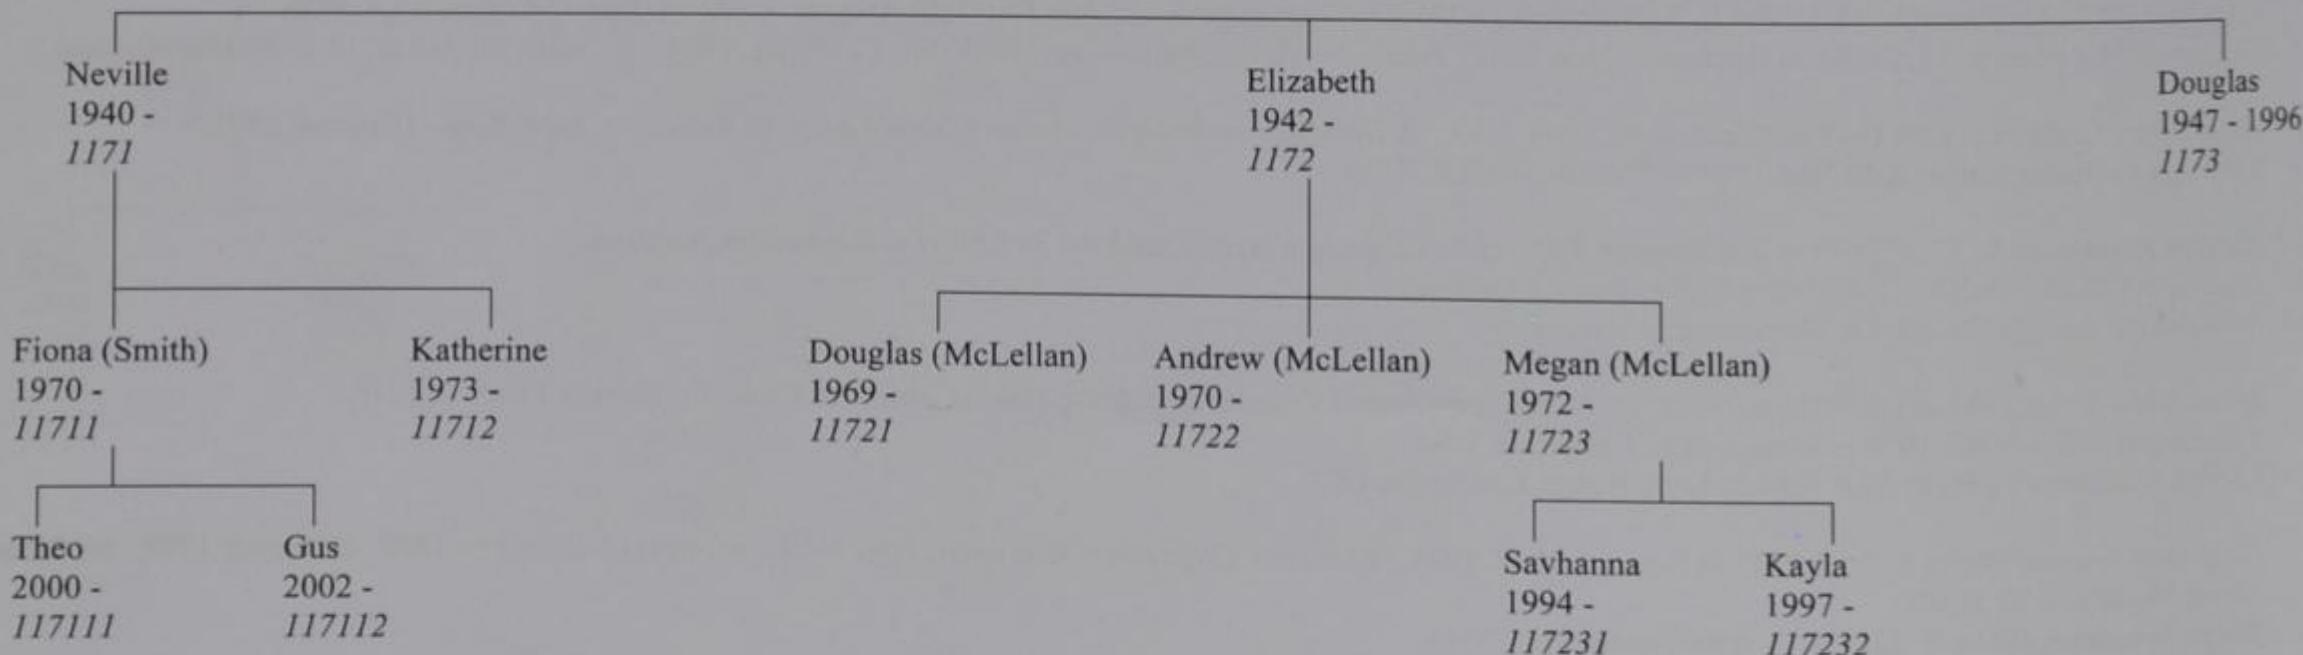

- 16 Basil Glover Bibby b: 6.10.1904 in Waipawa. d: 4.2.1998 in Rochester, New York, USA. m. Beatrice Boardman on 8.7.1933 in Rochester, New York, USA. Education: Otago University, Dunedin, BDS 1927. University of Rochester, Rochester, New York, USA, PhD 1935. Tufts University, Boston, Mass. USA, DMD 1939. Fellow in Dental Research, University of Rochester (1930 – 1940), Dean, Tufts University Dental School (1940 – 1947), Director, Eastman Dental Centre (1947 – 1971) (now part of the University of Rochester). After relinquishing administrative responsibilities, continued in a research/teaching capacity until 1988. Basil's life long interest was in research to find the causes of tooth deterioration and ways to prevent it. He is best known for his work on fluorides and their use in municipal water supplies as well as in tooth pastes and mouth washes. He was the first to apply a fluoride compound directly to the teeth, a procedure now well established in paediatric dentistry. Even while holding teaching and administrative posts, his own researches continued and most important, he inspired many, many others to enter the field. Research subjects covered a wide range, the biology of the teeth, their surrounding tissues, the saliva, oral micro-organisms, and the cariogenicity of food and drink while they are in the mouth. He was author or co-author of nearly 250 published scientific papers and was the author of a book, 'Food and the Teeth', published in 1990. During his long career, he received several honorary degrees and many awards, the most prestigious of which was the Gold Medal Award for Excellence in Dental Research, given by the American Dental Association in 1988.
