WEEKLY MERCURY

Dawke's Advertiser,

Journal of Commerce. Agriculture.

Sports.

Politics.

and Literature.

Vol. II,-No. 82.

NAPIER, SATURDAY, JUNE 9, 1877.

PRICE SIXPENCE

PROPERTIES FOR SALE.

7000 ACRES Freehold, Crown Grant, 24 miles from

Napier

23,000 acres Leasehold, 18 years to run, low rent, with 9,000 Sheep, 40 head Cattle, Horses, Bullocks, &c. Good home improvements, and 2000 acres fenced into paddocks; the whole will take grass seed readily, is well watered, and easy access from town.

3,920 acres Freehold, rich pastoral land, Wairoa, with

800 Sheep, and 100 head Cattle

900 acres Freehold Agricultural and Pastoral Land, Wairoa, with

3,000 Sheep, and other necessary working improvements

3,000 acres Freehold, Southern Seaboard, improved

1,290 acres Freehold, Southern Seaboard, improved

improved 1,220 acres Freehold, Southern Seaboard, improved 400 acres Freehold, Southern Seaboard, an acres Freehold, Southern Seaboard, improved 2,500 acres Freehold, Southern Seaboard, improved, with 2,000 Sheep and 250 head Cattle 4,200 acres Freehold Agricultural and Pastoral Land, Poverty Bay 11,000 acres Leasehold, Pastoral, Poverty Bay, with 3000 Sheep and few Cattle 1,600 acres Leasehold, half interest, Poverty Bay 14,000 acres Leasehold, excellent country, Tologa Bay, with 3,000 Sheep and good improvements 1,100 acres Freehold, rich land, Opotiki, with 1,000 Sheep, and all necessary improve-

1,000 Sheep, and all necessary improve-ments

1,000 Sheep, and all necessary improvements
33,000 acres Leasehold, Pastoral, 26 miles from Napier
150,000 acres Leasehold, Pastoral, 30 miles from Napier with 10,000 Sheep, exclusive of Lambs
55,000 acres Leasehold, Pastoral, 70 miles from Napier, with
5,000 Sheep and 50 head Cattle
9,000 acres Freehold, Agricultural and Pastoral, Seaboard, with 14,000 acres Leasehold, valuable improvements, and 15,000 Sheep, few Cattle, Horses, &c.
1,639 acres Freehold, near Greytown, with with 1,040 acres Leasehold, all fenced and subdivided, and 5,000 longwool Sheep, 120 Cattle, few horses, and every improvement necessary. The coach road passes through the property.

M. R. MILLER, Stock and Station Agent,

COUNTRY RESIDENCE.

FOR LEASE,

MR. GRANT, the purchaser of the undersigned to Lease for a term the very substantial and commodious Dwelling-House, lately occupied by Mr. M'Hardy, with the well-stocked Garden, Orchard, Shrubbery, and a small paddock adjoining with part of the offices, a Coach-house, Stable, &c. This is situated within easy drive of Town or the Farndon Kailway station. To a good tenant the rent will be very moderate.

M. R. MILLER

M. R. MILLER,

FOR SALE,

MR. EVAN'S Draught Stallion "LORD
NELSON," by "Sir Colin Campbell," dam "Blossom," etc, Liberal terms.
For further particulars apply to
M. R. MILLER.

RURAL SECTIONS, WOODVILLE On Deferred Payments.

For particulars, apply to M. R. MILLER.

FREEHOLD ESTATE.

HOMEWOOD-KAIKORA

Undersigned is instructed by Mr obert Evans, of Homewood, Kaikora, to fer for Sale, as a whole or in convenient bridge downward, remainder.

1,000 ACRES RICH AGRI-TORAL LAND. This property has fron-tages to the Waipawa River, from the bridge downward, a ring fence round the remainder.

This property is divided into two large divisions, one of these portions containing three small paddocks, about 30 acres, under artificial grass, two whares, sheep-yards. &c., with or without 1500 sheep now depasturing thereon.

Price moderate, and a considerable portion of the purchase money remaining on mortgage.

M. R. MILLER.

50,000 LBS COCKSFOOT from Pigeon Bay 1500 bushels Rye Grass provincial and Canterbury

ENGLISH SEEDS ENGLISH SEEDS,
Guaranteed imported of 1876.
White Clover
Cow Grass
Heyke Clover
Meadow Fescue
Foxtail
Sheep Fescue
Timothy Sheep rainty
Timothy
Crested Dogstall
Poa Nemoralis
Florin Grass (agrost is stolonifera
&c., &c.,

FENCING WIRE

To arrive per "Plicone," o Coils No. 6, No. 8, &c.
Flour
Oats
Bran, &c., of the best quality.
MURRAY, COMMON & CO.
Napler and Port Abuciri.

Encourage Local Industry!

A S the planting season has arrived again, we beg to draw the attention of the public to our large stock of Nursery Produce. Our collection comprises all the wellknown varieties of Conflers, Forest, Fruit, and hardy Ornamental Trees and Shrubs, and consists of—

and hardy Ornamental Trees and Shrubs, and consists of—23,000 Conifers, as Pines, Cypress, &c.

11,000 Forest and Ornamental Trees and Shrubs

7,000 Forest and Ornamental Trees and Shrubs

7,000 Forest and Ornamental Trees and Shrubs

7,000 Forest and Ornamental Trees and Shrubs

100 Choice Standard Roses

270,000 White Thorn, 1, 2, and 3, year old

6,000 Sweet Briar for hedges

2,000 Arbor Vitae for hedges

4,000 Cherokee Roses, Privets, and Pritis-porums

20,000 Osage Orange, &c.

We also have a large stock of Greenhouse and Stove Plants, Florist Flowers, Vegetable, and Flower Seeds of the best and choicest varieties. We can warrant all our trees, shrubs, and seeds healthy, sound, and true to name. We therefore, beg to trust us trustfully with your esteemed orders, which shall have our best attention.

Orders addressed to us at the Nurseries, or left at our Seed Store, Emerson street, Napier, will meet with prompt attention.

Our prices will be found as low and reasonable as those of any respectable house in the Colony. Where large quantities are ordered, a most liberal reduction in price will be made.

E. W. C. STURM & SON.

Hawke's Bay Nurseries,

West Clive, near Napier,

Hawke's Bay Nurseries, West Clive, near Napier,

WANTED KNOWN—That the Cheapest and Neatest BILL-HEADS may be had at the TELEGRAPH

WAIPAWA.

THE REPOSITORY.

SALE OF FRUIT TREES, &c SATURDAY, JUNE 9, 1877.

MR. J. J. TYE

MR. J. J. TYE
Will sell by public auction, on the above date,
A N ASSORTMENT or FRUIT TREES
Consisting of—
Apples, Pears, Plums
Peaches, Nectarines, Gooseberries
Currants and Nirawberry Plants
Also,
3 tons Potatoes

Also,
tons Potatoes
Set Single Buggy Harness, silverplated (new) Pair Buggy Shafts
Chairs, Knives and Forks
Plateware, Pictures
Tea, and Sundries
And

Several useful Hacks

Sale at 2 p.m.

J. J. TYE,

WAIPAWA.

SALE OF BUILDING MATERIAL, FURNITURE, &c.

MONDAY, JUNE 11, 1877.

MR. J. TYE

Has received instructions from Mr. J.
Sowry (who is leaving the district) to sell by public auction on the above date, at his residence (near the 40-mile post).

A QUANTITY of BUILDING MATERIALS, HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE, &c.

Consisting of

Consisting of—
Consisting of—
Timber, House Blocks, Shingles]
Posts, Stainers, Henches
Iron Spouting, Sashes, Tap and Dies
Rope and Blocks, Vice, Spades
Grindstone, Tools, and Sundries
Also,
Double Bedsteads, Table
Arm, Camp, and other Chairs
Washstand Service, Book Cases
2 Clocks, Sausage Machine
Washing 'rays and Tubs Forms, Stools, Jars
Baskets, Pictures, Books to Bee Hives, with Glass Fronts
Churn, Firewood, Chaff-cutting Machine
And

3 First-class Cows, quiet and good milkers

Sale at 2 p.m

J. J. TYE Auctioneer

FREEHOLD LAND FOR SALE.

3,000 ACRES Rich Pasteral LAND, portion of the Tautane Block.

Terms casy,

JOSEPH J. TYE, Land and Estate Agent, Waipawa.

FOR SALE
WOODVILLE RURAL SECTION,
No. 3, containing 40 acres land,
with Cottage,
Epr further containing 40 acres land, for further particulars, apply to For further particulars, apply to TURLEY & BRATHWAITE, Auctioneers.

HOMEWOOD ESTATE,

THE undersigned have for sale, 166 acres of land on the above fistate, situate between Waipawa and Kaikora Railway Stations. Thirty-five acres are fenced, improved, and leased to good tenants at a rental of 15s per acre.
TURLEY AND BRATHWAITE, Auditioners, Nanta,

SHOWER

ARMED CONSTABULARY.

TENDERS for the supply of FORAGE to the Armed Constabulary, at (1) Napier, (11) Taradale, (111) Havelock, (1v) Waipawa, (v) Danevirk, (v1) Wairoa, (v11) Gisborne, Foverty Bay, (v11) Ormond, Poverty Bay, will be received at this office up to 12 o'clock, noon, on TURSDAY, the 14th day of June, 1877.

Form of tender and all requisite information can be obtained at this office.

Tenders to be addressed to the Officer commanding the Hawke's Bay District, Napier, and marked "Tender for Forage."

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

THOMAS SCULLY,
Inspector A.C.F.
Commanding H. B. District.
District Office,
May 18, 1877.

NEWTON IRVINE & CO.,

WHOLESALE & RETAIL

GENERAL MERCHANTS,

COMMISSION AGENTS,

HASTINGS-STREET, NAPIER

A G E N C I E 8 In Loudon, Wolverhampton, and Glasgow.

AGENTS POR THE WHEELER A WILSON SEWING MACHINE COMPANY.

Indents executed on favourable terms,

IMPORTERS

General Drapery, Hosiery, Household Furnishings, Blankets, Fancy Colored Rugs, Carpets, Hearth Rugs, Oil Cloths, Men's, Youths', and Boys' Clothing, Boots, Shoes, and Slippers, GENERAL GROCERY GOODS OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS.

Wines and Spirits, Ales and Stout, Patent Medicines, Builders' and General Ironmongery, Holloware, Tinwase, Electro Platedware, Lamps,
Lampware, and Kerosine
Oils, Brushware,
Combs. &c.,
Stationery and Account Books, Cutlery,
Earthenware and Glasaware, Saddles and Saddlery.

TAILORING,

MILLINERY, AND

MANTELMAKING ON THE PREMISES.

MONTHLY SHIPMENTS

or

GENERAL DRAPERY. CLOTHING, &c., From the leading Manufacturers, and Warehousemen.

N. I. & Co, having full stocks in each department are prepared to execute all orders that may be entrusted to them with the utmost promptitude,

NEWTON, IRVINE, & CO HASTINGS-STREET

Depot Stores Carlyle-street.

CABLEGRAM.

FFEE BASE

[REUTER'S SPECIAL TO PRESS AGENCY.]

LONDON

May 29.

The Queensland four per cent, loan of £740,700 is subscribed at a minimum of 91.

Boyd has defeated Higgins [for the championship of the Tyne] by 20 lengths.
Arrivals — Newcastle, Somersetshire, Astoon, Schiehallion, Marathon, Collingwood, Thunderbolt, and Pacific.

Wednesday, May 30. Prince Gortschakoff's accompanying the Czar to Ployesti, has given rise to many rumers.

The semi-official organ at Berlin lays The semi-official organ at Berlin lays stress on the necessity of neutrality of Germany, and exhorts Germany to secure the peace of Europe.

The Le Nord is anxious to assure England that Russia will neither assail nor interfere with British interests.

The recapture of Ardahan is not confirmed.

firmed.

A continued cannonade is going on at Widdin and Kalafat.

The Russian troops have evacuated the Transcaucasus province of Abassia.

| | MADI. | | |
|----------------|---------|--------|-------|
| Silvio | | | 1 |
| Glenarthea | and the |  | 2 |
| Rob Roy | | 55.44 | 3 |
| toll tunial | | J | me 1. |
| n the House of | Comm | one th | he Ho |

In the House of Commons, the Hon. R. Bourke said there was no reason to suppose that Russia imagines a peaceful settlement possible, unless one satisfactory to Europe. He had no knowledge of a Russian proposal to localise the June 2, 2.25 p.m.

The Liberals made a demonstration in Birmingham. Mr. Gladstone challenged the Government to test the epinion of the country.
The recapture of Ardahan is officially confirmed.

June 3.

The Brindisi mails were delivered on

The Brindisi mails were delivered on the 14th.

There is a failure in the Stock Exchange. Intense excitement prevails.

Fifty creations have been made of the Order of St. Michael and St. George. Grand Cross—Prince of Wales, Marquis of Normanby, the Prelate, and Bishop Selwyn. Knights Commanders—Walcott, Barry, Robertson, Parkes, Darvall, Blythe, and Governor Hercules Robinson. Companions—Frederick Barle, John Douglas, Thomas Russell, John Smith, Frederick Knollys, and Arthur Gordon.

Wool shows a quieter feeling, at opening rates; 12,000 bales withdrawn.

Wheat lower. Australian, 66s to 68s; New Zealand, 64s to 66s.

Arrivals—Orient and Rangitikel.

SINGAPORE

May 31.

The Russian Ambassadors at Berlin, Vienna, and London have gone to St. Petersburgh.

The German Squadron have gone to the Levant.

Telegrams from Hague (Holland) give rumors of peace negotiations through German mediation.

Germany has sent reinforcements to Alsace and Lorraine.

Peace rumours continue.
The Danube is falling rapidly.
Active operations are going on at Kars
Greece is doubling her army, and summoning reserves. recapture of Ardahan

Russians have completely in The Russians have completely invested Kars.

Mukhta Pasha is commanding the garrison.

The position is very critical.

The Queen of Holland is dead.

BOMBAY.

June 2.

The Circassians in the Russian service have been recalled from the Danube, owing to disaffection. June 2

| TH | B OAKS. | | |
|----------------------|---------------|------|--------|
| Plucida |  |  | 1 |
| Belphæbe |  | 10.0 | 2 |
| Muscatel | 10 4 A 10 A |  | 8 |
| $2.30F $2856$1330 | in this texts | J | une 3. |

June 3.

It is reported at Bangalore that Russia is anxious for peace, after the first victory, to prevent European complication.

M. Gambetta, in replying to the address in the French Chamber of Deputies, counselled moderation, and alluded to the coatingency of Mc Mahon's resigning. He approved M. Thiers succeeding to the Presidency.

MELBOURNE.

Arrived-Wakatipu,

Arrived—Wakathu.
Mr J. C. Francis has received the honor of knighthood.
A draught horse Lion King, valued at two thousand pounds, arrived by the Northumberland.

June 2.
Extensive forgeries have been disvered in the City of Melbourne Bank

SYDNEY.

June 1.

The Chief Commissioner of Insolvency has expressed an opinion that the Bank of New Zealand and the Loan and Mercantile Agency, not being registered under the Companies Act, are illegally trading here, and he advises that they should obtain the passing of a private Act.

Act.
Hennessy's case, 31s 5d, quarters unaltered. Kerosine, 2s 4d; rice, nominal; Adelaide flour, £18 to £20 6s; Adelaide and New Zealand wheat, no transactions, shipments preparing for England; sperm, 10 2d.
Sailed—Australia.

June 9

Arrived—Hero.
There are satisfactory entries for the Metropolitan Stakes.
For the Melbourne Cup a very large number of horses have been entered.
Two thousand pounds worth of jewellery has been robbed from Mr Goldsterm.
June 4.

June 4.
The City of Sydney has arrived with e 'Frisco mail at contract date.
Tararua arrived from Melbourne.

INTERPROVINCIAL.

WELLINGTON.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

June 1 June 1.

The proprietors of the Evening Post announce that to-day their paper will appear in a greatly enlarged form, owing to the demand on the advertising space. The Post will then be the largest evening

The Post will then be the largest evening paper in the colony.

Further complication has arisen in connection with that piece of land which is known as the Rangitikei-Manawatt Block. The Post last night publishes a Block. The Post last night publishes a lengthy letter from a number of Maoris interested in the land, in which the writers complain that their claims have not been settled. They accuse the Government of delaying the settlement of their claims. It appears that the Government paid £4000 to one McDonald, and thought the matter squared, but they were mistaken. The Post, in referring to the matter, says:—"The letter from Hoani Meihua and others, which we publish in another column, prove too clearly that the patching up of the Rangitikei-Manawatu dispute by the payment of over £4000 to Alexander McDonald was a false move on the part of the Government. McDonald is the avowed champion of one of the happs (the Ngatikawhata), and he has been most persistent for years in urging their claim upon successive Governments. Not satisfied with the award made to his slients by the Native Land Court after an exhaustive hearing of the case, he has tried every constitutional means for keeping the question open, and in the end the Government, apparently willing to get rid of his opposition at any price, and anxious to be in a position to issue Crown grants to Messrs Douglas and Co, conceded everything asked for, and made a cash payment in lieu of further award fland, amounting to between £4000 and £5000. We believe that every precaution was taken to obtain from Mr McDonald and his clients, as the condition of this payment, such a bond as will effectually prevent their giving any more trouble, and if this meant the putting a stop to the Manawatu dispute, we feel persuaded that every member of the community would joyfully acknowledge that the Government had done a wise thing." The Post then proceeds to show that the natives are greatly dissatisfied with the arrangements made by the Government in regard to the unatter, and says that the reckless expenditure of £4000 has put fat into the fire, and that fresh claims will arise. It regrets that the Government did not satisfy themselves that the payment of £4000 would end the dispute.

The

cism. They proceed to Christeniuch shortly.

It is said that the Intelligent Vagrant has come into a fortune of £300,000, and it is said that he intends going into the Upper House.

The Evening Post last night is published in an enlarged form. In announce-ing the enlargement, it remarks that the Post is now the size of "double royal," or a paper with eight instead of seven columns in each page, thus making thirty-two columns in all in place of twenty-eight as heretofore. This enlargement in size makes the Post the largest daily journal published in this city, and the largest evening newspaper in 'New Zealand and the whole of the Australian Colonies. To be able to state this, remarks the Post, affords us no little honest pride and satisfaction. It, moreover speaks well for the commerce and resources of the City of Wellington and surrounding districts, that the large and liberal measure of support which is given to journalistic enterprise renders such rapid extension necessary; the enlargement of the Post has given general satisfaction in Wellington. The paper is very popular, and its circulation has risen within the last year very largely.

DUNEDIN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT,)

June 1.

A wool cablegram, dated May 27, says the Continental demand has fallen off. Superior greasy has declined a halfpenny to one penny per pound. For combinto one penny per pound. For combing and washed the market is easier, June 2.

June 2.

Mrs. Duncan Beats, a well known Lawrence resident, has died suddenly. The Taieri County Council have decided to levy no rate, and by a majority are to discontinue levying tolls throughout the County. There was also carried a series of resolutions re interior railway, affirming that the North Taieri is the best route, that failing its construction by the Government, power be given to the County to construct it up to its boundary, the opinion of the Maitoto Council thereupon to be invited at a City Court this morning.

morning.

Archabald Smith was fined 40s, for kissing one Miss Andrews. The defendant's plea was that he did it as a kissing one Miss Andrews. The defendant's plea was that he did it as a lark.

The Good Templars hold a demonstration on Tuesday night. When speeches will be made in favor of the Local Option Bill. The principal speakers will be Mr. Stuart, Dr Rosby, Messrs. Stout, and A. J. Burns.

Four sets of competition designs for a new Town Hall were received yesterday, one from Strouts, of Christohurch, one from Auckland, and two from Dunedin, Lawson and Feter. Three sets are on their way from Melbourne.

A public meeting on the Gaol Chaplainey question will be held next week.

Indian telegrams by the mail contain later news, dated April 18, which states that Vienna advices are that Austria will occupy Bosnia and Herzegovina when Russia crosses the Danube.

Mr Bourke in the House of Commons said no treaty exists for guaranteeing the neutrality of Roumania, which the European Powers consider part of Turkey.

Earl Derby vindicated the action of the Government re protocol, adding, "we best say nothing about our future policy." On April 28, the Powers rejected the Turkish proposals for mediation.

Russia promises not to occupy Bucharest.

WAIROA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

June 1

The Council meeting was held yester-day. The bye laws were all passed. The Tellerary is still to be the advertising medium for the Wairoa County. The fees payable for auctioneers' licenses have been included in a bye-law at £10. I am tired of reporting the bad state of the bar.

the bar.

There is to be a great native meeting this afternoon at Waihiriri, the subject being religion again. The native mind is exercised at the reports in Napier papers re Mere Karaka's visit to Te Kooti. This subject will be brought on the board.

June 4.

W. Black's hotel and store at Mahia were burned to the ground yesterday morning during Mr. Black's absence in Warroa. The cause is unknown. An inquest will probably be held by Dr. Ormond.

June 5.
The Licensing Court sat to-day. All the renewals were granted. H. Flint, Clyde Hotel, had his license extended till midnight. C. Gray, of the Border Hotel, Te Kapu, and Steed, of the Maru Maru Hotel, were warned to provide better accommodation by the next licensing day. A bush license was refused to J. Hamshaw, Waihua.

There is a very heavy surf on the

AUCKLAND.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPOND

June 1.

The Mechanie's Institute Committee applied to the City Council yesterday for a grant to preserve it from closing. Since the Provincial Government subsidy was withdrawn, the Institute has been unable to support itself. to support itself.

The Davenport Brothers go to Sydney, while Davis and Fay make a tour of the Thames and provincial towns.

Papers by the schooner Lovett Peacock, from Newcastle, report that a little girl, aged 6 years, named Annie Maxted, was burned to death at Newcastle. She was left in charge of the house by her father, a coat trimmer. A watchmaker who passed the house in the morning heard the child screaming, and on going in found the girl's clothes in flames. He pulled them off as soon as possible, but the child was so severely injured that she died soon afterwards. The accident was caused by the girl pulling the poker out of the fire.

June 4.

out of the fire.

June 4.

An old woman named Garrett, 70 years of age, residing in a cottage at Howick, and who gained her livelihood by the produce of a small pices of ground and washing, has been the victim of a diabolical outrage. Amongst those for whom she did washing was a blacksmith named David King, a widower, aged 40, residing in the same township. On Wednesday last King went on the spree in company with some other men, and as the potent liquors got into their heads they were prepared for any enterprise. King appears to have gone into the house of Mrs. Garrett, and after some conversation forced the poor old woman upon a sofa and committed a criminal assault upon her. She was too feeble to resist the ruffian. Subsequently she was confined to her bed. Information was given to the police by her neighbour. King was arrested on Friday evening at Howick by Constable Moar, local policeman. Accused was identified by a young woman who had seen him in the house. The case will come before the Police Court to-day. Detective Jeffreys has gone to Hewick to make further enquiries.

GISBORNE.

[PROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

The enquiry into the stranding of the Go-Ahead has resulted in the following decision:—"First, that its was dangerous, if not impossible, to sound the bar on the morning of the 2nd May. Second, that there does not appear to have been any want of care or neglect of duty on the part of Captain Cooper. Third, that it was arranged between Captain Cooper and the pilot that the latter should leave the vessel at the inner beacon; that the vessel was afloat and in the channel when the pilot left her; that there was no evidence as to whether there was no evidence as to whether there was no evidence as to whether there was sufficient water on the bar or not; that Captain Cooper, in attempting to cross the bar without the pilot, allowed his anxiety to get to sea to get the better of his prudence, but that the pilot gave him to understand there was a probability of his succeeding; that Captain Cooper's mistake was not of a character to warrant the suspension of his certificate." June 5.

WANGANUI,

(PROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

(PROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

May 4.

During the time of the fire at Mrs. Rankins, the Sergeant of Police apprehended a respectable tradesman named Joseph Villiers, a tobacconist, and took him to the Police Station. The constable did not tell him what he was apprehended for. During Sunday morning the sergeant released Villiers on his own recognisances, having previously told him that he would be charged with setting fire to the house; and for being illegally on the premises. When releasing him the sergeant wanted Villiers to sign a paper agreeing to take no action against the sergeant in consequence of being arrested. Villiers refused to sign, and the ease came on this morning, the Court being crowded, Villiers only being charged with using obscene language. The evidence proved that the constable apprehending Villiers was drunk, and that he only took him in charge because he alleged Villiers had insulted him. Mrs. Rankin deposed that she had asked Villiers to remain in the house after the fire in order to protect her interests. The case was dismissed. Mr. Villiers intends bringing an action against the police for false imprisonment. Little damage was done to the stock and premises. The ease is a bad one against the police, and great sympathy is felt for Villiers.

WAIPAWA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

June 5.

June 5.

The Licensing Court sat to-day.

Baker's license for the Empire Hotel was refused renewal on the ground that there is no water closet within the honse.

McDonald's Manawatu Gorge Hotel was refused on the ground of it being badly conducted.

The Council sat to-day at noon.

Present: All the members.

The principal matter was rescinding the resolution by which all the roads became County roads.

The Chairman pointed out that the only work done by the Council since its formation was to undo all it had done.

The discussion is still going on, but clearly there is a majority to rescind the resolution, although the solicitor's opinion is that the Council cannot do it without the consent of the Road Boards. The majority, apparently, care no more for legal opinion than they do for the Act, and are quite as willing to rush at pulling down as they were to build up. They act in haste, and repent just as quickly,

The only work done to-day was to affirm the desirability of establishing pounds at Makaretu and Porangahau.

(PRESS AGENCY)

AUCKLAND.

AUCKLAND.

May 31.

Theninth annual meeting of the Moanatairi was largely attended to-day. The report showed that 10,700 tons had been crushed during the year, yielding 33,125 ounces, and realising £85,974. At the end of the previous year the company owed the bank and other creditors £5488. The indebtedness has been paid off, and a sum of £33,940 distributed in dividends, while a further sum of £4000 has been invested as a reserve fund, leaving a balance in hand of £6818. The net profit for the year's transactions has been somewhat over £68,000. The report was adopted, and £250 was voted for the directors.

June 1.

Mr. Buckland reports:—Fat cattle
28s to 30s; mutton, 4d.
Mr. Binny quotes:—Crown brand flour, £22; Southern ditto, £19; bran,
£6; oatmeal, £16; oats, 3s 6d; bacon,
7d to 8d.
The Cross

£6; oatmeal, £16; oats, 3s 6d; bacon, 7d to 8d.

The Customs revenue for May was £13,342, showing a fulling-off of £2948, compared with May, 1876.

During a recent visit of the Attorney-General the Native Lands Bill has been finally settled. Mr. Whitaker's proposals have been accepted, nearly without objection. The Act of 1873 is to be repealed altogether. The general scheme is to return to the policy of 1875, with such amendments as have been suggested by experience. The Government evacuates the land market and leaves speculation to the public. Certificates are to extended to owners, and they may sell or lease to whom they please at once. Mortgages are forbidden. The general idea of the Bill is absolute freedom to the Maoris in territorial rights, and absolute freedom of land from Government interference. The duty is to be 20 percent, ad valorem.

KAIPARA

KAIPARA.

May 31.

A portion of wreck was found near Maungakaramea. One board had the word "Glimpse" on it. The Glimpse was expected from Melbourne to load timber at Kaipara.

The Captain of the Kate M'Gregor, ashore at Waikato Heads, telegraphs that the cargo is dry and that there is a chance of floating her off.

TAUPO.

May 31.

The mail coach from Tauranga to Napier broke down between Tauranga and Ohinemutu in consequence of the bad state of the roads, and the mail arrived here one day late. It left for Napier at 3 p.m. to-day.

The weather is very unsettled.

The lake has risen three feet, and is still rising.

WELLINGTON.

June 1.

Captain Thomas reports flour good at £17 10s; oats, first quality, 3s 3d; bran, £6 5s; wheat, milling, 7s; hams, 1s; bacon, 10d; cheese, 9d; potatoes, £4; maize, none; pollard, £7 10s.

June 2.

Cove: A sunken rock on the eastern side, distance from Porpoise Point about one-third of a mile, west by north with about 6ft of water on it at low water.

June 4.

The Superb from Melbourne, and the Border Chief from the Bluff, have both arrived at London.

The Governor, accompanied by the Hon, Mr. Bowen, leaves at three o'clock to-day per Hinemoa for Lyttelton.

June 5,

June 5, Sailed—Rangatira, for Napier, at 11 a.m. Passenger—Mr. Boon and 6 in the steerage.

BLENHEIM.

June 1. June 1.

An important decision has been given in the Revision Court by District Judge Broad. He rules that the onus of proof of disqualification rests with the objector. Ten appeals have been lodged.

CHRISTCHURCH

CHRISTCHURCH.

June 1.

The Press this morning says it is informed that in consequence of information obtained by Captain M'Clatchie at the Bluff, the s.s. Gazelle is to be sent back without delay to the Auckland Islands, and that Captain M'Clatchie intends forming a company on a small scale for the purpose of recovering the gold in the wrecked ship General Grant.

June 2.

The grain and produce Market is very active. Wheat for milling readily commands 6s 6d; good 5s 9d to 6s; sproated and second quality oats are firm at 3s; barley is dull of sale, and quotations are nominal; flour is in brisk demand at £16 to £17; bran, £4 10; sharps, £5 10; potatoes, £3; cheese, 7d. Grain deliveries are over till spring, and stocks are being rapidly reduced.

June 3.

The N.Z.S. Co. have received advices

June 3.

The N.Z.S. Co. have received advices of the arrival of the Rangitikei at London en June 1. The Rangitikei had 70 passengers from various parts of the colony.

DUNEDIN.

June 1. The Customs revenue collected at Port Dunedin for the past month is £28,871. For the corresponding month last year the amount received was £30,900. During the month of May 58 deaths, 136 births, and 41 marriages were registered in Dunedin.

136 births, and 41 marriages were registered in Dunedin.

June 2.

Yesterday afternoon Archdeacon Edwards and the Rev. Dr. Stuart, on behalf of the city clergy, waited upon the Mayor and obtained his consent to preside at a public meeting next week, to consider the advisability of taking steps to retain the services of Mr Torrence as Chaplain of the Gaol, Hospital, and Lunatic Asylum. The Times says: We have reason to believe that the Otago members, dealing with an economic administration in the Assembly next session, will have a good deal to say concerning Mr Whitaker's Auckland trip in the Hinemoa, and other circumstances connected with that vessel and the Stella. A suburban member, it is known, is determined to make strict enquiries into Colonel Gorton's Branding or Stock-taking Department. tock-taking Department.

June 4.

Mr. Blair, the District Engineer, has been instructed by the Government to make a reconnoisance Survey for a railway to the interior, and report on the relative merits of the various routes.

A stable, containing five horses, in Maclaggan-Street, the property of Mr. Fitzgerald, was destroyed by fire last night. It was insured in the New Zealand offlee for £100. The estimated loss is £300.

BLUFF.

June 2. The Ringarooma, with the Sucz mail, arrived early this morning, after a fine passage of four days and nine hours. She sails at 3 p.m. for Dunedin. She has 16 saloon and 15 steerage passengers, and 203 tons of cargo for all ports.

MASTERTON

May 31.

Mr Carrick, editor of the News, was assaulted to-day in the Club Hotel, in the presence of a number of settlers, by a local auctioneer, for calling him a liar.

TIMARU.

bacon, 10d; cheese, 9d; potatoes, £4; maize, none; pollard, £7 10s.

Captain Fairchild reports the existence of the following dangers in Dusky Sound, not marked in the Admiralty chart;—Facile Harbor: A ledge of rock with about 9ft of water on it, in the centre of the entrance to the Cove on the northwest side of Facile Harbor. Dusky headed by one vote at the late general election, seconded the resolution.

Mr Hayhurst, whom Mr Wakefield only

MARLBOROUGH.

June 4. June 4.
The Racing Club on Saturday evening declined to adopt the New Zealand Club

WANGANUI, June 4 June 4.

A fire broke out on Sunday morning at Mrs. Rankin's millinery establishment, Wickstead Place. Prompt assistance being rendered, the flames subdued and all danger was averted. The fire Brigade attended, but owing to water being cut off every night at 6 o'clock they could not render any assistance.

GREYMOUTH.

June 5.

A digger named Watson, working on the North Beach, in the course of a druaken melee, bit off the nose of his mate named Williams and then burned down the tent. Williams is in great danger; previously he was beaten over the head with a billet of wood by the same party. Watson was committed for trial at the District Court.

The Wealth of all Nations Quartz Company yielded 486ozs. 12dwts. of smelted gold for the month of May. A dividend has been declared of three shillings per serip.

dividend has been declared of three shillings per serip.

A trial was made during the week of Joseph Kilgour's patent gold saving brush, at the Golden Fleece Extended Company'sworks. The trial was thoroughly satisfactory, the result being a saving of 10ozs, 12dwts, amalgam per week.

GRAHAMSTOWN

GRAHAMSTOWN.

June 5.

The Rev. J. Hill was presented with an illuminated address and purse of sovereigns at a public meeting last night. Professor Fay was securely tied in the cabinet and it took him 35 minutes to free himself. When he came out his arms were covered with blood. The ropes also were smeared from a cut on his wrist caused by his struggles to get out. The cabinet manifestations are dispensed with. The Professor was greatly applauded for his pluck. The dark scance business was gone through as usual.

ual. The Waitekauri monthly return shows 50 ounces. The mine is looking as LICENSING COURT.

TUESDAY.

Before R. Stuart, Esq., J. Rhodes, Esq. and J. A. Smith, Esq., Licensing Commissioners.

NEW APPLICATION.

Considerable interest was shown by the publicans and the outside public to know the result of an application made by Mr H. Ford, late of the Criterion Hotel, for a license for a new hotel at the Spit, to be called the Occidental Hotel.

Hotel.

Mr Sheehan, for the applicant, handed in two memorials, one signed hy the masters and officers of vessels trading to the port, and the other from fourteen commercial travellers.

Mr Sainsbury, for the objectors handed in a memorial signed by Messrs Watt, Kinross, Sutton, Balharry, and others.

Mr. Sheehan, in a lengthy and able argument, contended that an hotel such as the one proposed, costing as it would fally £2000, and built for the accommodation of the travelling public and other visitations. tion of the travelling public and others visiting the district, was urgently and greatly needed. He ridiculed somewhat foreiby the ground of objection taken, namely, bankruptey of the applicant, and finally admitted that, should anything of a fraudulent nature turn up in the bankruptey examination of the applicant, he would not obtain the hotel. In fact, said the learned counsel, the head and front of the opposition is led by the growing interest of Mr Swan, of the White Swan Brewery.

Mr Sainsbury, contended that Mr Ford through his bankruptey was incligible to take out a license for an hotel. Where was the money to come from ? The applicant might not pass his examination

Where was the money to come from? The applicant might not pass his examination for a year, but he informed their Worship's that if Mr Swan was the guiding spirit of the opposition, Messrs. Rohjohus and Ellis, were the real applicants for the license. At this period it turned out that Mr Watt on whose objection Mr Sainsbury much relied, also signed the memorial for the applicant.

Ir spector Scully, in reply to the Bench stated that there was ample hotel accommodation at the Spit at present, but he could not say that there was any hotel offering accommodation for the upper classes, such as the one proposed. On the Court resuming at 2 o'clock, the Chairman stated that the Bench de-clined to entertain Ford's application.

PORESTER'S ARMS

The yard being reported to be in a filthy condition, the application was adjourned until the 28th instant, when, if not in a clean condition, the license would be forfeited.

A similar report having been made re-garding the filthy condition of the back yard, the application was also adjourned until the 28th.

The application was adjourned for three months, owing to the house being in a leaky condition. If not remedied by the 28th, the license would be forfeited.

The license for this house was adjourned for six months, so as to have a six-stall stable erected by that time.

The license for this house would be granted provided Mr Edwards would guarantee to put it in repair, and have it handed over to a suitable tenant.

The application for a license by Mr O'Brien at Tunanui would be considered at not meeting.

at next meeting.
All the other applications in the dis-trict were granted.

ABDUL KERIM PASHA, THE TURKISH COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF,

CHIEF.

Abdul Kerim Pasha, the general who has been trained to a certain extent by his connection with British military chiefs, is the best Ottoman follower of Omar Pasha that Turkey now possesses. His great predecessor was a Hungarian. The birthplace of a man "too learned for victory," as Omar Pasha said, is in Bulgaria, not very far from the seene of the atrocities perpetrated by the irregular and unempowered Turkieh troops. General Kerim Pasha is one of the most scientfic military leaders in Europe. His German training and his experience with the English troops concur to make him a man on whom the Turks may well rely. The only drawback which he must fear among a race who believe in Kismit is that he has been hitherto unsuccessful. The circumstances of the engagements do, however, absolve him from any blame, for as a tactician he has proved himself able even while he had no luck. Near the close of last year at Djunis he showed his singular ability by routing the Servians and the Russians under the command of the boasting ex-editor Tehernaieff. The vaunted position of that guerilla chief was assailed and carried by Kerim Pasha, who has at least the grand quality of modesty, to which his antagonist at Djunis cannot lay claim. This Turkish commander is also fortified in his reputation by other attributes which are uncommon among public mm in Turkey. Like the noblest specimen of the military race. Field, Marshal Meliter. Tarkish commander is also fortified in his reputation by other attributes which are uncommon among public men in Turkey. Like the noblest specimen of the military race, Field-Marshal Moltke, Kerim Pasha can be silent in seven languages. He is besides, honest, unassuming, and practical. No monetary advantage ever effects his keen sense of the duty which as a native of the district of Philippopolis he owes to the Power within whose territory he was born and under whose flag he takes an independent position. The soldiers like him. He is severe but just. Stories are told of his passion for sport overcoming his disserction as an efficer, of his fondness for shooting game instead of Russians; yet while crediting these we must not forget that a warrior of three score and ten is unlikely to betray any of those frivolous peculiarities when the existence of his concern in occupying Schumla.

A "HORSEY" REPORTER IN CHURCH,

CHURCH.

(Whitaker's Journal.)

An Irish reporter, who was sent down to Newmarket to write an account of the races, was told that the correct thing was to attend church on Sunday and report what he saw and heard. The organ tening somewhat out of order the music was intermittent, and the result was thus reported:—"At one moment the organ would be galloping to keep up with the choir, and the next minute the choir would get up a tremendous burst of speed to catch the organ. Finally the two started off side by side as they went into the doxology; but as they reached the latter part of the second line and were going finely and squarely, the wind of the organ gave out completely, and the choir had to finish the race alone, which it did in excellent time."

LOCAL AND GENERAL NEWS

We have to seknowledge the receipt of £1 om Messrs, Gow and Serimgeour for the mefit of Mrs. Goddard,

The inside of the mole, on the western pit, has now been faced on its inner slope and the pile driving at the outer end is pro-ressing satisfactorily, although the ground extremely hard.

is extremely hard.

The railway line at the Spit is now in course of being raised to the level of Lever-street, which is being formed from the Ferry landing towards Battery-road, passing the side of Mr Young's Hotel. No steps are being taken as yet to raise the Breastwork Quay, which is fully two feet below the level of the railway. The consequence is, that the quay is, in wet weather a perfect quagmire, and every day it is getting in worse condition.

Messrs Upham and Inglis, we notice, have dissolved partnership as general commission agents. The business will be continued by Mr Upham.

We are glad to hear that all the partridges were not destroyed by the heavy floods last spring. Five covers, numbering about forty birds have been seen this season on Mr. Lowry's property at Okawa. Two years ago, a few coverys were to be seen in the ceighborhood of Mesnee, and elsewhere on the Ahuriri plains, but we have not heard that any birds have been seen since the floods.

A bridge over the Waiohine in Wellington as been constructed nine feet above the wel of the road, with approaches so steep lat nearly all the traffic goes over the old ridge alongside of it.

ridge alongside of it.

The Secretary of the Auckland Hunt Club as communicated with a gentleman in Yanganui, stating that the hounds are about be drafted, and is desirious of learning hether there is any demand for the Flour, we were told on Friday by a Napier baker, cannot be purchased here under £24 per ton. From a Wellington telegram it will be seen that good flour is procurable there at £17 10s. Why there should be such a vast difference in the price of flour in Napier and Wellington must puzzle the outside public.

An article which appears in another column from the Canterbury Press, under the heading "Public Servants Interference with Private Pratice." will doubtless commend itself to many of our readers, and will probably be keenly discussed in several official circles in Napier.

There is said to be a special Providence watching over fools and drunken men, and so Thomas Lloyd, sailmaker, found out. At the Dudley Police Court, Thomss was proved to have been drunk and incapable. He created roars of laughter by pleading guilty, and saying that he was glad of it, for whilst falling about helplessly drunk his shoulder, which had been thrown out, had suddenly whot into its place, and he could now work for his children. The Bench in consideration fined him 5s.

A wedding which excited considerable in-fined him 5s.

A wedding which excited considerable interest took place at Alexandra, Waikato, a few days ago. The bridegroom is well known in Auckland as an old settler, and has achieved a colonial reputation for the quality of his brews. The bride is the daughter of a military settler in the Waikato, and in the capacity of house keeper to the bridegroom, succeeded in winning his mature affections. He has attained the age of 75, and the lady is but 25. It is said that there is much tribulation amongst several dashing members of the A. C. who were paying their addressess to the young lady.

It is stated that the authorites of the Long.

of the A. C. who were paying their addressess to the young lady.

It is stared that the authorites of the London Post Office have resolved to abandon to a large extent the employment of young women in the Telgraph Department, and the persons recently appointed to the staff have all been young men. The reason given for this step is that the women cannot be employed during the night. An experiment has been made at Warrington by the London and North-Western Kailway Company with regard to the employment of young ladies as booking clerks, but the result has been such, after an experience of eight months, that the Company has found ir necessary to replace them with clerks of the sterner sex. It is rumored that the ladies who seted as ticked distributors discharged their duties so gracefully and so agreeably to the passengers that frequently the patience of the guards was tested somewhat severely, as through the conversations at the booking office window the trains were not unfrequently delayed.

The latest deliverance of the irrepressible editors of the Livell Argus is as follows:

Trains were not unfrequently delayed.

The latest deliverance of the irrepressible editor of the Lyell Argus is as follows;—
"Matrimonial,—We hear that Little Cupid is up to his little pranks again. Three well-known bachelors have caved in and a heavy wager has been laid by a Buller Squatter—That he gets married before Ye Kontor. (If its to that Red Headed Nelson Girl, that I saw him squeezing the other data thampden by gum oid chap you can have her and welcome...E.A.)"

Scales News editor of the religions.

Stephen S. Jones, editor of the religious philosophical journal of Chicago, was shot dead in his office by W. C. Pike, who alleged that Jones had seduced his wife All the parties are spiritualists.

It is reported that Mr. C.E. Haughton has not left New Zealand, but is engaged in Otago on the staff of a paper.

The Auckland correspondent of the Otago Times says, that there never was a period when a deeper and stronger discontent existed in the public mind than at present People feel that they are being ruled by men and by parties for whom they have no re speet, and whom they are unable to shake off.

A little sirk named Efficients Hill was

A little girl named [Elizabeth Hill wa urned to death at Clinton, Otago, on Ma

Who would believe that the fashion of lady's dress 850 B C., was very much the same as it is now, A.D. 1877? But here is the cridence from Hesiod ("Works am Days," Part I): In his counsels on marriaghe says;—"Let no fair woman tempt the sliding mind, with garments gathered in a knot behind."

A large meeting was held at Palmerston on the 18th to consider the steps necessary to secure the formation of a railway from Palmerston to Naseby. Committee was appointed, Sir E. D. Bell being one of the members.

It is understood that Mr Fox's Bill, regarding the drink traffic, will take the form of a Local Option Bill.

or a Local Option Bill.

The Taranaki Herald says that the harbour there is now removed beyond the region of uncertainties. Funds being now available, and the necessary data obtained, the Board will be able within three or four years to give facilities for landing and ahipping cargo and passengers in the vicinity of Mikotahi.

The following paragraph will be in-structive at the present time to heads of families in Napler:—"A co-operative bakery has been established in lokitiks, and has caused a reduction in the price of Another Judge of the Native Land Court is likely to be appointed, the Premier having promised to take steps towards securing the services of a Judge in New Plymouth.

During the visit of the Hinemoa to Du Bay, on the West Coast, Dr. Hector covered and mapped two previously charted rocks. On two other rocks, depth of which was wrongly charted, Hinomoa touched.

The Resident Agent at Jackson's Bay, reports that the Government have expended about £20,000 on the special settlement, that is piscing 367 souls on the land. He is of opinion "that without some further assistance the settlement will, comparatively speaking, be a failure."

assistance the settlement will, comparatively speaking, be a failure."

Ballarat, like other places, the Star says can produce Enoch Ardens, as the following narrative will show. About eight years ago a miner left his wife in Ballarat, and started for a new rush in New Zealand. As the steamer he was to have sailed in left the Melbourne decks, he fell overbo rd into the Yarra, and was fished out, all but gone. The steamer kept on her way, and some kind friend, writing to our hero's wife, informed her that her husband had fallen into the Yarra and been drowned. For nearly eight vears the wife received no further tidings of her husband, and, thinking herself a widow, re-married about a month ago, In the meantime the first husband took the next steamer for New Zealand, and, after the usual fluctuations of fortune, dropped on a patch and sailed for Melbourne with a small fortune. As he had never communicated with his wife, some weeks elapsed before he could trace her and then he found his long vacant place occupied by another. Matters rest here; the lady, divided between the old and the new love, does not know well to whom she shoulded ing, and the last act of the play has yet to on its arrival in Melbourne.

Three more sheep were destroyed by a train passing over them on Friday morning. The railway is, apparently, doing the most flourishing butchering business in the province, and it has been suggested that the Superintending Engineer for Constructed Railways should be compelled to take out a slaughtering license.

In companyance of the threet on the contraction of the contraction of the street of the contraction of the

In consequence of the threat on the part of the Immigration Officer to take out summoness against immigrants whose passage moreys have not yet been paid, several have redeemed their promissory notes, and it is to be hoped that the remainder of the out standing debts to the Government in this respect will be paid without much further delay.

Some changes have taken place in the constitution of the Patangata Road Board Mr White has been appointed Chairman in the room of Mr James Tod, resigned, and Mr S. Greevy has accepted the appointment of Warden.

Some individual has poisoned at Taradale four valuable sheep dogs. Mr Macdonald offers a reward of £10 to any person giving informatian of the culprits. The act was a wanton one, and it is to be hoped Mr Macdonald will be placed in a position to bring the offenders to justice.

In reply to a letter from His Worshi, the Mayor, the Colonial Secretary has for warded a telegram stating that a proclams tion is now in course of preparation to abolish the old Napier pound; that as soon as the proclamation has been signed by His Excellency the Governor, the Mayor can establish a pound under the Municipal Corporations Act.

The Officers and Brethren of the Scinde and Victoria Masonic Lodges purpose celebrating St. John's day, June 26, by a ball, and we are requested to intimate to brethren intending to attend, the desirability of taking tickets at their earliest convenience, in order to permit of the necessary arrangements being carried out by the Committee.

We hear that towards the middle of th We hear that towards the middle of this month it is the intention of the Rev. J. Townsend to proceed to Lyttelton to felieve the Rev. Mr. Lloyd, who goes home on twelve months' leave of absence. Mr. Townsend will perform Mr. Lloyd's duties during that period, after which he will return to Napier. It is not yet decided who is to take Mr. Townsend's place.

Before taking his departure from Napier, the Dishop of Auckland strongly recommended the appointment of the Rev. Mr Stuart to the Bishoppier of Waispu. It is understood, that both the Bishop of Auckland, and the Bishop of Wellington, decline to have annexed to their dioceses any portion of the diocese of Waispu.

of the discress of Waispu.

To the Editor, Sir:—There cannot be a doubt that there is a combination amongst those bakers who signed the advertisement notifying the rise in the bread, as I was informed by one of the parties that were he to sell bread cheaper than agreed upon, he would make himself amenable to a fine. Now, Sir, I would suggest to the public that they should not deal with one of these bakers, until they come to their sones, and drop their extertionate price.—I am &c Naries.

The Supreme Court will sit at Napier on

Napier.

The Supreme Court will sit at Napier on the 11th instant. The following prisoners will be tried:—Cartwright and Peters, for obtaining money under false pretences; Hayman, for housebreaking; McRachan, for larceny; Ingle, for forgery; O'Dowd, and others, for foreible entry. The following civil cases are, up to the present time, set down for hearing;—Neal and Close v. Keith and Hunter, for specific performance of contract; John and Arthur Harrison v. J. Palmer; J. D. Canning v. Henare Martua.

At a meeting of the creditors of Mr. John

At a meeting of the creditors of Mr. John M Leot held on Friday in Mr. Sheehan's office, an offer was made to pay 20s in the nound, in bills at four, eight, and twelvemenths. The proposition was accepted. The amount was guaranteed by Mr. S. G. Brandon and Mr. H. Williams, who hold Mr. M Leod's property as security for the payment.

payment.

The entertainment given by the Clive Christy Ministrels on Thursday evening, in the Clive School-house, for the benefit of Mrs. Snowsell, passed off most successfully. The total amount received, was £16 17s 6d. The expenses were £2 11s 6d. The balance £146s, was on Saturday handed over to Mrs. Lascelles.

A man named William Hammerton charged with horse-stealing at Waverley near Wanganui, was arrested at Waipawi on Friday with the horse in his possession He will be remanded to Wanganui.

Mr Rochefort, we are informed, is engaged by Captain Newman to survey the property he purposes cutting up into small blocks for settlement, he purposes cutting up into small blocks for settlement.

The Wangapui Hersid, which supported Sir J, Vogel's Ministry, and for a while the Atkinson-Whitaker Government, remarks in a recent number:—"The question micht appropriately be asked, Who leads in the present Ministry? To this no outsider is prepared with an answer. We should be satisfied if we could say that Major Atkinson was Premier in fact as well as in name. But we cannot believe that he is permitted to shape a policy before it, and it is not so blind as not to see the want of harmony in the Cabinet. A weak team is better than a team pulling in different directions,—the one fatal weakness of coalitions formed of "all the talents." But if the position of the Ministry is unsatisfactory, that of the Opposition is worse. Sir George Grey has declared his intention of resigning the leader ship, and it will be difficult to find one to fill his place; that is with the prestige to bring he different sections of the many-sided Opposition, though his views on the Land Fund must have alienated Canturbury and Orago. But his opinions on Seperation are equalitudications of the companies of the Government. It is far too manifest that principals and parties are in a state of chaos."

The revenue of the Inangahua County is said to be E7000, while its expenditure is said to be E7000, while its expenditure is

The revenue of the Inangahua County is said to be £7000, while its expenditure is estimated at £14,310

In pursuance of the now established cus-tom, a testimonial is to be presented to the Hon Jas. Bonar, ex-Superintendent of Wel-

There are now about 120 men on the field at Tadmor, most of whom are making good wages.

A Wellington paper says—" A remarkable illustration of the curious freaks which nature sometimes indulære in is now in the Rangitikei district. There is within a hundred yards of Marton a baby 18 years old. This may seem a misnome, but we know of no more appropriate term; for though 'the little thing' has a head of the norms proportions belonging to a girl of that age, with long dark hair, the body is that of an infant some six months old. She is carried about by a nurse, is in every way tended as an infant, and unable to articulate a single sound."

Sound."

Rigles" writes in the Australasian:—"A. Gentleman who takes a lively interest in Australian trade development some time ago sent an experimental shipment of 50 first-class sheep from Melbourne to Calcutta. He paid 11a 6d. for them here, say £28 15s, and paid freight and shipping expenses £25 10s, together £54 5s. Six died on the voyage, and the remaining 44 realised 13 to 14 rupees each; but as rupees were at a discount, the sterling was only worth £53 11a. From this was deducted the feeding after landing in Calcutta of the 44 sheep for 11 days, 144 rupees (!) and the total charges for ealing, &c.' smounted to £24 12s 9d; so that the spirited introducer into India of Australian mutton was rewarded for his enterprize by a loss of £25 6s 9d. He suspected his agents of sarcason when they trusted the result would send us another lot, to be here by November or December next, they will be sure to sell to advantage."

The Guardian says:—"The painful case

November or December next, they will be sure to sell to advantage." He fails to appreciate Calcutta advantages."

The Guardian says :—" The painful case of the death of the gardener Smith from blood-poisoning has had a sorrowful sequel. The Rev. Dr. Stuart appeared as a witness at the Police Court yesterday in connection with a very distressing case. Three little children, named Charles, Jessie, and Mary Smith, appeared on the floor of the Court charged with being neglected. Dr. Stuart stated that they were the family of the unfortunate man who had died some times since from blood-poisoning, the result of a seratch received while exhuming the remains of the late Dr. Hulme. Since the death of her husband, the mother of the children had given way to drink, and on Saturday evening last a visit to the home of the bereaved family in Castle-street, revealed a deplorable state of affairs—Mrs Smith lying in a helpless state from drink, while her youngest child was undergoing a perishing process, uncovered in a cradle. The worthy doctor at once interfered, handing the children aver to the charge of a neighbour, and calling the attention of the police to the state of the affairs. A promise was exseted from the mother, who appeared in Court, to the effect that she should amend her conduct for the future, and on these conditions her family was restored again to her control. This is a case of total desolution desending on a family with the death of the breadwinner, protector, and quide. We have already urged the claim of these poor children on those who have inherited the great wealth of the late Dr. Hulme, for it is impossible to dissever the death of poor Smith from its cause. We have heard that the claim has been represented somewhere or to some one interested in those bequests; but whatever may be the ultimate result, we have here, in the meantime, this immediate scene of wretchedness and ruin. A little timely help, judiciously given, might have spared this. Now, the prospects of those poor orphans is a very dreary one.

President Haves has set an example by declaring relationship with himself or family to be an insuperable obstacle to appointment to office, and thus has destroyed the policy of repottem that marked General Grant's administration.

The death of a woman 120 years of agr, at Rensieo, on the frontiers of Chill, is reported.

An attempt was made recently to shoot the editor of the Alta California, General John M'Comb, by a lawyer named Hayes, The editor helaboured his would-be assailant unmercifully.

the editor beisboured his would-be assailant unmereifully.

At a little before eleven o'clock on Monday, the ringing of the fire-bell brought everybody within hearing of it, into Hastings Street. In a space of time that reflects the highest credit on the Fire Brigade, the two engines were dragged out; the steam engine was run down to the salt water well at the rear of Mesars Newton, Irvine and Co's stores, and the manual engine was rapidly drawn to the scene of the supposed fire, at the back of Mr Corbett, the Photographers shop, Hastings-street. On arrival there, it was found that the shingles of the root of a seniorist achief by a spark from the chimner, the accident, however, had been discovered in time to permit of the fire being extinguished by the help of a bucket of water. No daunage was done, and a feeling of relief was experienced at the retirement of the engines to the shed.

A goods delivery eart, with horse attached,

A goods delivery cart, with horse attached, belonging to Mr. Knowles, passed through Hastings-street on Saturday evening last at a pace not in keeping with the safety of pedestrians. The horse must have been startled by something while the driver was delivering goods. Fortunately not the slightest harms was done,

The Queen of Holland, whose death is announced by cablegram, was previous to her marriage to King William III. in 1839 known as Princess Sophia Matilda, of Wur-

In the Odd Fellows' Hall on Monday, Mr. Corbin Lamb gave readings and recitations from some of the best authors. The Hall was not crowded. We have listened to many excellent readers and elecutionists, and now we have heard Mr. Lamb. We will however spare ourselves from such another nfliction.

nthiction.

The Napier Pound difficulty will now soon be settled. We notice in the New Zealand Gazette of the 31st ult., that His Excellency the Governor has, by proclamation, abolished the old Pound appointed by the Superintendent, so that nothing stands in the way of His Worship the Mayor re-appointing it under the Municipal Corporations Act.

Herbert William Brabant, Esq., has been appointed Resident Magistrate of Maketu. This office has been held for some years by F. E. Hamlin, Esq., who, being now relieved may be shortly expected 'at Napier, to occupy the post of Native Interpreter to the Resident Magistrate's Court.

Mr Justice Richmond will take the next

Mr Justice Richmond will take the next sittings of the Supreme Court, at Napier, on the 11th June. Chief Justice Pender; ast takes the Blenheim sittings on the same

The steam fire-engine was christened The steam free-engine was christened last Thursday evening, when there was a grand demonstration by the members of the Fire Brigade, Artillery Volunteers, and Cadet Corps, who, accompanied by the Artillery Band, formed a torchlight procession through the town.

His Honor Mr. Justice Richmond was assenger to Napier by the Rangatira of Vednesday, and has taken up his abode the Criterion Hotel.

passenger to Napier by the Rangaira on Wednesday, and has taken up his abode at the Criterion Hotel.

A meeting of gentlemen interested in getting up a dramatic performance for the benefit of the Cricket Club, Napier, was held on Monday, at the Clarendon Hotel, W. Routledge, Esq., in the chair. A letter was readfrom the Hon. Sec of the Napier Cricket Club, addressed to the General Manager of the Dramatic Club, asking whether it were possible to assist the Cricket Club funds by giving a performance in conjunction with the cricketers. A resolution was passed expressive of willingness to do so, and a committee was appointed to carry out the proposal. The following gentlemen were chosen as a committee:—Messra Swan, Bell, Britten, Routledge, Jscoba, Bear, and Garner. The Cricket Club committee to act in conjunction with the above are—Messra Sainsbury, Mayo, Caulton, and Campbell. A committee meeting will be held on Wednesday night, at the Clarendon Hotel. Before the meeting seperated, the following gentleman signified their willingness to assist at the entertainment, Messra Morgan, DeLisle, and Winter It was resolved that the performance should be given on Friday, the 29th instant. A vote of thanks to the chairman brought the meeting to a close, efter a vote of thanks had been passed to Mr E. Ashton for the use of the Oddfellows Hall gratis.

A Gazette was published at Wellington on Monday, summonung Parliament to meet on

A Gazette was published at Wellington on Monday, summoning Parliament to meet on Thursday, July 19, for the despatch of busi-

We have received several letters asking why only one salt water well has been sunk for the use of the steam engine. One correspondent writes:—"If the fire that occurred yesterday morning had occurred during the night, nothing could have saved the block of buildings in Hestings-street, it being doubful whether the hose would have reached the scene of the fire. The Corporation can readily tote away our rates to pay for entertaining governors, but when it is asked for votes for wells or assist in preserving our property, what is given is done in a most begrudging spirit, and although we also severed for one particular portion of the town."

the town."

The New Zealand Loan and Merchantile Agency is about to have a rival in the field, new having been received in the colony of the floating in London of the National Morte g eand Agency Company of New Zealand. The capital is to be £2,000,000. A number of shares are reserved for the colony; the bank to be the National Bank of New Zealand.

At a meeting of the creditors of Mr O'Shea, held at Wellington on Monday, trus-tees were appointed. Captain Thomas stated that the estate would likely realise 10s in that the estate would likely realise 10s in the £.

In the Resident Magistrate's Court on Monday, a man named Blake was sent to gasl for fourteen days for being illegally on the premises of Mr Johnson at rert Ahuriri.

Our attention has been called to an Order in Council having reference to Inspectors of Weights and Measures, from which it appears that that official cannot recognise any complaint unless on a requisition of five persons. In Wellington we notice the bakers evaded the law by pleading that they sold then loaves at ôd-esch, and did not profess to give any specified weight. Under these circumstances the sooner an alteration in the law is made so as to convict those who attempt to defraud their customers the letter.

The Lydia Howards Troups are, we , advertised to appear early date.

The Lydia Howarde Troupe are, we notice, advertised to appear in Greymouth on an early date.

We hear that a new Constabulary Act, to suit the condition of the recent amalgamation, will be introduced by the Government at an early date. In the meantime, the present Police Force will be reavon on the let July next to serve for a term of 12 months, receiving the rates of pay set forth in the New Zealand Gasette of the 7th May last. The principal feature of the new Act, will be that which confers a retiring allowance on all officers, non-commissioned officers, and constables, incapacitated by ace or ill-health, calculated on the basis of one month's pay for each year's service, Provincial service to reckon. Pensions will be conferred on those receiving injuries on duty, calculated on the resulting disability.

A peculiar case was heard at the Charleston Court the other day. One Peter Murphy by some means got hold of a blank summons for debt, and got it served on Edward Murphy, adding to the amount of debt 11s. fees and 23s. mileage. Mr Herbert Gross deputy-clerk of the Court, then laid an information against the aforesaid Peter Murphy for forgery.

An invention for enabling a horse to cross a river is engaging attention at Paris just now. The invention, if successful, would prove of incalculable benefit to the bush travellers of Australia. It is a device by which horses may be supported while awimming rivers, and is due to the ingenuity of Licutenant Lubowitch, the Austrian officer who, it will be remembered, rode from Vienna to Paris, a year or two ago, on a single horse. The animal has its body covered with trappings and is kept on the sufficient quantity of air. The inventor has proved the efficecy of his contrivance by crossing the Danube.

Ægles in the Australasian tells the following story:—A very good fellow, and a warm man, too, was sounded the other day as to whether he would stand for the vecancy in the Ward, Ha oid not say anything decisive, but in the evening he gently broke the subject to his wife thus Naves, Tom, with my consent." He didn't stand.

The Nelson Mail has been shown a sample, received by the San Francisco mail, of wool which recen'ly sold in London at the enormous price of 5s 1½d. per lb. It is scoured merino, and very nearly as fine as silk There was but one tale of it, and the competition was keen, several of the buyers having determined to secure it at any ressousable price. The gentleman who forwards the sample says that although such a price could not be expected far any large quantity, he believes that 500 hales might have been disposed of, even at the then unsatisfactory stats of the market, at 3s. per lb. The wook, we believe, was from Ereildoun station, Victoria.

Mr. G. Trimmer announces his intention

Mr. G. Trimmer announces his intention to sell the 21h loaf for 41d for cash,

Mr. G. Trumer announces his intention to sell the 2th loaf for 44d for cash.

The News Letter learns on good authority that the Rev. J. C. Andrew has again declined resigning his seat, or for that matter the Mastership of the Nelson College. This is just, it remarks, what we expected; for the worthy gentleman would lose the reputation of being crotchety if he did not do something of the kind. We wonder what the next step wil be. Doubtless, we shall hear more on the subject.

There is no chimney sweeper in Napier, so at least we are given to understand, and that is the reason why so many chimneys lately have caught fire. The Corporation should see to this matter, and call for tenders for cleaning flues, when there can be no excuse for foul chimneys.

We call the attention of the public to Mr. Mark Rolls advertisement in connection with the price of bread.

Mr. Black's hotel and stable at Mahis, which were burned down on Sunday, were insured in the South British office for £400.

A young female was assessulted by a man at the correct of Coste Road and the Maine was the correct of Coste Road and the Maine was the correct of Coste Road and the Maine was the correct of Coste Road and the Maine was the correct of Coste Road and the Maine was the correct of Coste Road and the Maine was the correct of Coste Road and the Maine was the correct of Coste Road and the Maine was the correct of Coste Road and the Maine was the correct of Coste Road and the Maine was the correct of Coste Road and the Maine was the correct of Coste Road and the Maine was the correct of Coste Road and the Maine was the correct Road and the Maine was the correct of Coste Road and the Maine was the correct of Coste Road and the Maine was the correct of Coste Road and the Maine was the correct of Coste Road and the Maine was the correct of Coste Road and the Maine was the correct of Coste Road and the Coste Road and t sured in the South British office for £400.

A young female was assaulted by a man at the corner of Coote Road, and the Marine parade, on Saturday evening. Fortunately Mr. Thompson, attracted by the eries of the girl came to her resoue, when the seoundred decamped, leaving his hat which fell off in the struggle on the ground. It is to be hoped that the man will be found out and arrested. We have heard of several of these cases lately, and if one delinquent was caught, and severely punished it would serve possibly as a lesson to others. It is acrying shame that a young female cannot passalong the roads unmolested.

The New Zealand Reformer, a newly es-along the roads unmolested.

The New Zealand Reformer, a newly established temperance journal, is rather severe on the Wellingron police, who, says, our contemporary "not only wink at the crimes—the foul murderous crimes of the publicans—but we fear if all we hear be true, that they rather encourage them in their illegal work, for not only do they allow public houses to be open after hours—not only do they allow children of tender years to be served with drink—but they drink them selves while on duty, and we are informed that their doing so on Sunday is no exception; and what is more, they do not arrest one drunken man out of fifty."

An attempt to blow up a snag in the Hokitika river, with an 80lb charge of blasting powder, resulted in the destruction of about 30 feet of the adjacent wharf, leaving the snag still definitely obstructive.

about 30 feet of the adjacent wharf, leaving the snag still definitely obstructive.

An Auckland telegram to the Wellington Argus says:—"There is great apprehension lest the new Natire Lands Bill may offer too great facilities to private speculators. It is generally rumored that a ring of large capitalists here will gobble up immense blocks immediately the restrictions are removed."

The Wellington Post says:—"The services of the various Provincial Executive Officers are, we learn, to be dispensed with prior to the meeting of Parliament, and their delegated powers withdrawn. The object of this proceeding is to enable Ministers to meet Parliament with the statement that the entire administration of the affairs of the colony is in their own hands."

War has been declared at Dunedin between the stage and pulpit, or orthodoxy and free thought. Last week Charles Bright lectured on "The religion of inhumanity, or the jackass in the lion's skin," the lecture being intended as a reply to the Rev. De Copeland's discourse on "The religion of humanity, or the jackdaw in peacock's feathers."

We (Auckland Star) are glad to learn that humanity, or the jackdaw in peacock's feathers."

We (Auckland Star) are glad to learn that Sir George Grey's health is rapidly improving, and that he is determined to be in his place in Parliament next session, in spite of all obstacles. One gentleman who saw him lately same away with the impression that Sir George Grey was resolved to go to Wellington, even if he had to be carried on board the steamer.

A certain Civil Servant (says the Post) is likely to learn the intimate association which frequently subsists between "penny wisdom" and pound foolishness." He hired a cab for a shilling journey—the fare for the distance being distinctly marked on the table of fares exhibited. On the fare being demanded, the economical passenger tendered fid, and refused to pay another farthing. The consequence of saving this fid is that he has been served with a summons to pay that sum, together with Ss, the cost of the summons, total 5s fid, which he must either pay, or else see it augmented by another 4s, the cost of thesiring. Possibly counsel may be employed on both sides, in which case the esonomical passenger stands to lose £211s 6d. We are inclined to think he might as well have paid that fid.

"Ægles," in the Australasian, says:—"Two thousand men, under Chamat Croun might as well have paid that dd.

"Æ:les," in the Australssian, says:—
"Two thousand men, under Chamat Croun and Prince Silvio, with several ironelasts had engagement with the Russian batteries at Ibrailha," &c. This is the ingenious interpretation placed upon a submarine message by the Sydney Morning Hersid of the 7th instant. A little consideration will suggest that on that occasion its sporting reporter and its war correspondent had been spending a cheerful evening together. The real purport of the first part of the message was, that the Two Thousand Guineas had been won by Chamant, with Crown Prince and Silvio second and third!" The telegram was forwarded from Sylney to New Zealand in the same condition as the Herald published it.

G A. Oliver, Esq., held a Revision Court on Wednesday, when all the objections that had been made to the Electoral Roll were withdrawn.

From Masterton we learn that the Rev. J. C. Andrews has resigned his seat in the General Assembly for the Wairarapa, and that Mr. G. Beetham, a younger brother of our worthy Magistrate is seeking the suffrages of the electors.

of the electors.

There was an alarm of fire on Tuesday, about 5 o'clock. The Brigade got out their engues with very great rapidity, and proceeded up the White road. It was after wards found out that it was but a fire in the Meance swamp, and the Brigade therefore turned and put back their engines. The membrs of the Brigade have, however, shown that they are always on the alert, and prepared for any emergency.

The Wellington town belt leases for 14 years were sold by auction on Tuesday. There was a large attendance and the bidding was spirited; 36 luts out of 60 were sold at an aggregate rental of over £5000 a year. The prices ranged from £5 to £10 10s per acree.

Since our last, the following civil cases.

sggregate rental of over £3000 a year. The prices ranged from £5 to £10 10s per acre. Since our last, the following civil cases have been set down for hearing, in the Supreme Court:—Thomas Kennedy Newton, w. W. W. Carlile, and others, and Edward William Knowles v. W. W. Carlile, and others, and Edward William Knowles v. W. W. Carlile and others, all for libri. These cases will be heard before special juries.

As lately reported, Mr Thomas, better known as the author of the "Vagabond Papers," appeared at the Ilrunawick Police Court to answer the éharge of having conveyed tobacco to one of the prisoners at the Pentridge stockade during a recent visit to the scene of his formers labors. The court was crowded, and a great deal of interest was evinced in she case, but the inquiry was cut short by Sergeant Sleigh, who raised an objection on behalf of the accused that three offences could not be alleged in one summons. This point was fatal to the prosecution. The ill-drawn summons, with its triple charge, was dismissed, and the "Vagabond" left the court.

Amongst other items of news by the Amongst other items of news by the San Francisco mail more of leas improbable, is the following: "M. Bourgoing, the French envoy, has had a stand up fight with Edhem Pasha. Bourgoing taking offence at the language of the Turk, is alleged so far to have forgotten the dignity of his situation as to grapple with Edhem Pasha, who thereupon drew his scimitar. The affair naturally created the greatest consternation among the diplomata, until Chaudordy rushed forward and pulled back his colleague by the coattails."

ward and pulled back his colleague by the coat-tails."

Professor Taylor and his wife, the Champion Naters, arrived in Napier overland, and will give three performances in the Oddfellows Hall, commencing this (Saturday) evening. The Wanganui Chroniele, in noticing their performances in that town says: "The advent of the famous Rinking Champion, Professor Taylor, and the charming Lillie, Queen of Skates, last night atreated a large gathering of ladies and gentlemen to witness the unique performances of these incomparable rinkers. There were also present a considerable number of the members of the Club, who regularly frequent the Hall to indulge in this new and fascinating amusement. Both Lillie and the Professor were medals and other distinctions which had been conferred upon them by their patrons and friends in the various metropolitan centres, conspiruous upon the breast of the lady being two gold medals—one presented to her, on behalf of her friends in Christchurch, by Sir Crascroft Wilson C. B., and the other by Mr Krull, the German Consul in Wellington. We do not propose to describe the performance, sare to say that it exhibited the perfection to which rinking can be brought, and proved what marvellous evolutions can be gone through on roller skates."

On Tuesday, in response to the advertisement, calling a meeting to consider the ad-

On Tuesday, in response to the advertisement, calling a meeting to consider the advisability of starting a Co-operative Bakery, between 250 and 300 people assembled in the billiard-room of the Provincial Hotel, the Protestant Hall, in which the meeting was first announced to take place, not being available. J. Sheehan, Esq., M.G. A., was unanimously voted to the chair. The Chairman after reading the advertisement convening the meeting, called on Mr. Street to state the object for which they were assembled. Mr. Steel said the meeting had been couvened in consequence of the bakers having risen the 2lb loaf to 6d, and to see what was the opinion of the public in the matter. Since the meeting had been announced, one baker had advertised to sell bread at 5d, and to night another had come down to 44d, and be believed by eco-perstion, they could have the 2lb loaf for 4d. Since the proposition had been mooted two bakeries had been offered, which the Company, if formed, could either rent or purchase altogether. The capital required would be £2,000, in £1 shares, thus enabling the working classes to take a share. All classes had promised to take a share. All classes had promised to give their support to the movement, and he believed the shares would be readily taken up. He would move :—"That it is desirable, in consequence of the action taken by the bakers of Napier, that a co-operative bakery be established." Mr. John Begg them at the request of the proposer addressed the meeting, and gave an amusing a coount of how he came to grief in managing a Cooperative Bakery. He had no faith in a people who supported such a man as Sir Julius Vogel and his crew. (Cheers and laughter.) He was afraid they would not attack together, and when the bakers would be forced to lower the price of bread, the people would go to the nearest shop. What they should do, would be to support the baker would not stick together, and when the bakers would be forced to lower the price of bread, and deal only with him. This would teach the others a less proceedings,

A vote of thanks to the Chairman closed the proceedings.

An extraordinary case of murder was heard at the Hobart Town Criminal Sessions, which commenced on the 20 February. Michael Bakey was charged with having wilfully murdered one Thomas Fynch, in the district of Franklin, on the 20th January last. The facts proved in evidence were briefly that Bakey, being jealous of one Donis O'Reilly's intimacy with his wife, placed a bottle of rum containing a quantity of strychnine, in O,Reilly's garden. O'Reilly happened to be a tectotaller, and gave the rum to the deceased man, who chanced to be passing on the 20th January Fynch drank nearly half the contents of the bottle, and died in tetanic convulsions an hour or two afterwards. The several steps in the crime were cleary traced home to the prisoner, and notwithstanding an able defence, the jury, after a short retirement, brought in a verdit of guilty, with a recommendation to mercy, on the ground of the provocation received from O'Reilly. His Honor passed sentence of death in the usual form.

Some doubts having been expressed as to whether the Bank of New Zealand and the New Zealand Loan and Mercantile Agency were trading legally in the colony of New South Wales, the opinions of four of the leading counsel in Sydney has been obtained, and all agree that those Companies are trading with the fullest legality, and have the fullest power.

Our attention was called on Wednesday y a storekeeper in town—who is a Our attention was called on Wednesday by a storekeeper in town—who is a large consumer of butter—to the disgraceful state in which some dairy men in the country send to town for sale their butter. It was wrapped up in di-ty linen cloths, and its make-up was a caution. In no other part of New Zealand should better butter be produced than in Hawke's Bay; yet owing to the carclessness of some dairymen this product bears anything but a good name.

The s. s. Ringarooma, with the Suca mails, arrived at Wellington on Wednesday moving. The letter portion for Hawke, s Bay will arrived overland by yesterday evening's train.

A public library has been started at Mavackakaho, the nucleus of which was formed by private donations from Napier, amounting to three hundred volumes.

In the Resident Magistrate's Court on Thursday, there was only one case on the charge list, that being against one John Honderson for drunkenness, who having been let out on bail, forgot to make his appearance, and his ball money £1 was ordered to be forfeited. The Scandanavians having settled their assault case among themselves, the charge was withdrawn.

The Napier Police have just completed a

The Napier Police have just completed a census of the town of Napier. From this it appears there are 911 inhabited houses, the total population being 5135. The house containing the largest family is the Gool, where, on the day of the census there were forty inmates.

forty inmates.

The dog-tax for the Borough of Napier is now being collected. We understand the Police are going to enforce this tax more rigorously than before. The tax must be paid at the office of the Inspector of Police, Government Buildings.

Inspector Scully, gratefully acknowledge to receipt of £10 10s from "Anonymous" or the destitute poor.

It is said three of the railway engines are to be re-christened. The "Eel" is to be named "The Cleaver," and the other two are to be termed respectively, "Sausage Machine," and "Butcher."

The many friends of the Rev Father Forest, who has been all the week suffering from a severe illness, will be glad to learn the the reverend gentleman is much improved in health.

Old Spence, who has often been up be-ore the Napier Resident Magistrate, has een up to his games again. It was this otable individual whose heart-rending tale notable individual whose heart-rending tale caused so much commiseration for him when found in a lone but at Kaikors on Monday morning, and to whom Mr Pritchard ex-hibited so much kindness. He is always an immate of either the Hospital or Gaol, and is now under the watchful care of Constable McGuire at Waipawa.

Our attention has been called to the state of the lower end of M.Iron-road. Some persons have been quarrying there, and left large boulders in such a position as to make it positively unsafe for persons to drive vehicles along these dark evenings. We hope our calling attention to the matter will be the means of having it rectified.

be the means of having it rectified.

In teference to our Waipawa telegram in to-day's issue, we learn that as the 7.55 a.m. down train yesterday was between to Aute and Kaikora, a bull-ck standing by the side of the line at the time the train was passing, took it mio his head to rush the carriages. The beast str ck one of the trucks that was loaded with iron rails, and the force of the concussion, together with the animal being run over, threw three trucks off the line. The train was delayed two hours and a half in consequence, but no mischief was done, beyond killing the bull-lock.

Mr. H. Savern who through New Zealand, giving scientific experimental lectures, arrived with his agent Mr Davy in Napier on Wednesday, by the s.s. Rangatira. He purposes giving his first lecture in Napier in the Protestant Hall this evening, the subject being the "Earth and its Satellite."

"Earth and its Satellite."

The joint committee of the Dramatic and Cricket Clubs' entertainment, met or. Wednesday at the Clarendon Hotel, and arranged a progremme. It has been decided to produce the sparkling one-act comedy of "Faint heart never won fair Lady," and Mr Laughidge's pretty buriesque of "Fair Rosamono," with a musical interlude between the two pieces.

The Press Agent at Sydney thought the following item of information worth sending by cablegram on Wednesday: — "The win-ming dog Pilot, of the Grant and Polworth Coursing Derby (Victoria), has been bought for New Zealand."

Mass will be celebrated by the Rev. E. Reigner next Sunday, in the Schoolroom, Havelock, at 112.m.

The Waipukurau Riding, in the Waipaws County, seems doomed never to enjoy the benefit of a representative. The last election held on the May 22 has been appealed against by Mr. S. Johnston, on the ground, mainly, that the Returning Officers should have allowed plural voting. The petition was filed on Tuesday last.

A correspondent to an Australian paper says:—"I may state that human hair, placed in rat holes, or laid about the premises, will banish these vermin. Any barber will gladly give it away. Chloride of lime is also efficagive it away. Chloride of lime is also efficacious."

A new telegraph station was opened on Thursday at Stirling, County Bruce, Otago.
There is a Maori minister in this Province (writes *Loafer" in the Canterbury Press) who is anxious to impress the advantages of truthfulness upon his congregation. He has endeavored to work this by fining the members of his flock a shilling upon every occasion they lie. Assuming the noble Maori to be as good on the falsehood as the white man, I should imagine t te minister's regulations must be more honored in the breach than the observance. Otherwise (the ecclesiastical mandate has now been in force same months) the rev. gentleman would ere this have reduced the whole trine to the lowest depths of insolvency. It appears, however, there are times when the rule works out in a flawless attle. The following facts prove this:—A Maori went to pay a bill which he owed the storekeeper, sumouring to 11s 6d. While counting it out he observed to his creditor that he supposed, as the account had been standing so long, he had given up all hopes of getting paid. "Oth, no," said the storekeeper, "I knew you were honest, and felt sure that you would pay soon." "That's a lie," responded the truth loving Maori, "You're fined a shilling, so here's ten and six. Tenakoe," and he walked out.

Our attention (says the Star) has been called to a somewhat nowel excited to

Our attention (says the Star) has been called to a somewhat novel swindle perpetrated upon unsuspecting Auckland importers by some rather too elever person in Hobart Town. The plan is to pack a number of apples in a case, which by the peculiar fast ning of the hoards can be conveniently opened at one end only. At this end two or three rows of fine apples are temptingly arranged on the top, while beneath are nothing but very diminuity specimens. Mr Hannaford was the victim in this case, having bought the applies at auction, but fully exonerates the auctioneer, who was equally deceived. The price paid was 3½ i a pound. It would be well for our Hobart lown friends to bear in mind that by this course they will injure their own trade.

A writer in the Nelson Mail on the subject

Hobert from friends to bear in mind that by this course they will injure their own trade.

A writer in the Nelson Mail on the subject of writing on the racing disqualification says:

—"I don't think wetreat our race hors s well in New Zealand. It may be remembered that some years ago that magnificent mare Peeress, with which so many of us in Nelson are acquainted, was disqualified because the poor tlining who was so eager to take her part in the contest was debarreed by her owner from starting; and now Pishook, the winner of the Dunedin Cup, who tried his best to win, despite the efforts of his pockey, at an Olago meeting the other day, has been subject to a similar indignity. Why pass such a slur on the noble aniuvals, whose disappointment at being debarred from what to them are the pleasure and excitement of a well contested race, is, I really believe, as great as that of their backers? They are honest enough, and therein they set an example that might be followed with advantage by that professedly noble aniunal—man, Put the saidle on the right horse, Messicurs the Stewards. Let disgrace lie on the proper should-rs, and whenever you find an owner or a jockey playing such peaks, disquaify him, order him off your course, and never allow him another chance of selling the public, upon whom, after all, depends the aucess or failure of your race meetings. Racing in New Zealand used, in the year long gone by, to be conducted upon homes, and honorable principles, but now! Ye what can we say of it now? "

The two visits of the Hon, W. Fox (says the Pates Mail) to this district, have been and honorable principles, but now! Ye what can we say of it now? "

The two visits of the Hon. W. Fox (says the Patea Mail) to this district, have been well timed—in that there have been splendid opportunities of picking up "freightful examples" in regard to the debasing effect of drink on the native race. His visits have, however, been ill-timed so far as the credit of the district is concerned. On his first risit to Carlyle, a lot of Maoris had just received cash on account of lands disposed of to Government, and were spending some of it in liquor. It was the same at Hawera. Again, on arriving at Hawera on Monday last, that usually quiet township was in complete aproar, for the reason that it was swarming with Maoris, who had received payment for land, and were doing a general jolification on the strength of it. Such a rumpus had not been before known there. The hon, gentleman, locating in one of the pubs, would get a full benefit of the noise, Having twice had similar experiences, he will no doubt conclude that sort of thing to be the rule, and will make the most of it in tectotal circles.

A civil case came before the Resident Megistrate at Wellington on Monday, in which a Mr. Hooper, who had for some time been employed as Editor of the New Zealand neformer, sued the directors of that public - tion for the recovery of three months' salary. It appears that Hooper was employed by the provisional Directors of the Company owning the publication, and edited it for some weeks. Directly, however, the permanent Directors were elected they discharged Hooper, giving him a week's wages in lieu of notice. Hooper, it appears, contends that he was entitled to three months' wages. The Directors refuse to recognise this claim. The hearing of the case was postponed. [In our telegrams to-day will be found the sequel of this case.]

LATEST TELEGRAMS.

CABLEGRAM.

[REUTER'S SPECIAL TO PRESS AGENCY.]

SINGAPORE.

Great difficulty is experienced in sup-plying the Russian army in Roumania with provisions.

The Circassian insurgents have been defeated with great loss.

AUSTRALIAN

(Per s.s. Australia.)

MELBOURNE.

June 1. An attempted murder and suicide ha occurred in Stephen street. A woman named Annie Walker cut the throat of her so-called husband, and then cut her own in a fit of jealousy. She lies in a precarious state. The man is not much injured.

The three-masted schooner Yange three-masted schooner Young injured.

The three-masted schooner Young Australia was driven over a reef at Curdie's Iulet, near Warnambool. Five persons were saved, and one drowned.

Mr Berry, at Geelong, said he would introduce a land tax estimated to yield £200,000, which would leave a surplus at the end of the year. The whole to be devoted to the reduction of the tariff. Protective duties were not to be interfered with, but other articles not now protected, would be added. A loan for railway purposes would probably soon be required.

Mr Francis has declined the honor of knighthood. He is understood to hold a very decided contempt for colonial fitles. Two men were arrested for forgeries on the City of Melbourne Bank. They are supposed to belong to an organised gang.

A motion for £2000 to form a Torpedo Brigade was carried by the Queensland Parliament,
A monster meeting at Kingsborough has resolved to petition Parliament to prohibit the Chinese from going on the goldfields.

SVDNEV

The Government, in consequence of a vote of the House, withdrew all the proposed increase of salaries.

A vote of £100,000 for immigration

A vote of £100,000 for immigration was carried.

Several speakers in the Opposition said that already la ge numbers were unable to obtain employment in New South Wales.

Wales.

COMMERCIAL.

Olive raisins, 6½; cornsacks are sold at 9s 6d; sales of wheat are 7s 2½d to 7s 3d; kerosine, 1s 8d.

INTERPROVINCIAL.

WAIPAWA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT,)

June 6, noon, The train is off the line at Kaikora The metal is all torn up.

A bullock jumped off a high embankment between the trucks,

WAIROA.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

June 6,
June 6,
June 6,
The Revision Court on the County
Electoral Rolls sat to-day. There were no objections, and but one application,
J. Aislabie to be included.
The bar was never in a worse state,
There is a heavy sea. The out-flow of the river is over half a mile of shingle
No tide, however high, can come in.

AUCKLAND.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

June 6,
Dr Goldshro' has held an inquest at the Lunatic Asylum respecting the death of an immate named Henry Swain. It was shown by medical evidence that the deceased labored under a peculiar form of insauity, known as kleptomania, and this had assumed such a pronounced type that he could not resist the temptation to steal any articles he could lay his hands on, and was in the habit of running off with the parients' blankets. In examination of the sealp, it was showed that there were large quantities of congested blood on the inner surface of the skull, and towards the interior of the frontal bone there was a speculum of bone, a quarter of an inch long, which was thought to have been the source of irritation to the membranes and brain. Death was attributed to exhaustion resulting from congestion and chronic disease of the brain. The jury returned a verdict accordingly. The deceased had frequently brought himself into the hands of the police by his singular freaks, and was recently confined in Monot Eden Gaol, but only a tew hours after his release he was again attacked with a mania for stealing, and was arrested. Medical men are of opinion that the piece of bone found in the brain by the irritation it would cause was sufficient to account for the peculiar mania with which he was afflietd.

The Teototallers made a special effort to stop all of the six licenses in Kaipara, and had collested a thousand names to the memorial, but the Court overruled it as informal.

The Licensing Bench in Auckland refused two applications for new licenses for houses on which large sums had been expended. of insanity, known as kleptomania, and this had assumed such a pronounced type

DUNEDIN.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT,]

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT,]

June 6,

At the City Council Meeting yesterday, a lawyer's letter was read intimating that Scanlon intended prosecuting his action against the Mayor for the recovery of moneys spent in entertaining the Governor. The Mayor wanted to pay the money himself, but the Council refused to allow him to do so.

Another lawyer's letter was read on behalf of the local competitors for the Town Itall designs, protesting against the reception of any not received by the Town Clerk on June the 1st. This is aimed at the Melbourne designs received by the Ringarooma, but the Council will receive all bearing post marks up to June. Veritas (Melbourne) and Leo (Donedin) are most fancied.

Very few of the up-country Cauncils will be represented at the Council County Conference.

The Liecusing Bench was unable to (Dunedin) are most fancied.

Very few of the up-country Csuncils will be represented at the Council County Conference.

The Licensing Bench was unable to get through the whole of the business at yesterday's sitting. The Bench granted no new licenses.

The Fire Brigade's relations with the City Council are not over pleasant. The undue delay at getting to work at Nunday's fire provoled a sharp comment from the Times, with which the Brigades are indignant. Some Councillors will try and have a paid Brigade appointed.

June 7.

A rather large robbery of money in a boarding house at Oamaru is giving rise to other proceedings and complications. Craigs and his wife, and a man named Madden are all under remand charged with being concerned in the robbery, and one Alice Purnell, who is an important witness in the prosecution against the Craigs, is charged with having committed perjury, in which she claimed wages from Craigs. She then swore that the signature to the receipt put in by Craigs was not hers. The Craigs swear with equal pertinacity that Purnell signed the document. The Blench committed the woman for trial at the District Court, and refused the application of her counsel to remit the case to the Supreme Court, saying that they had no reason to suppose she would not get justice from an Oamaru jury. Purnell's trial takes place to day, and the Craigs and Madden are to be brought up again on Friday. She maintains that she never was able to write.

The Harbor Board find themselves in a difficulty again or Fethe dock. Mr. Proudfoot, after he had verbally promised to do so without consulting his partner, and the firm will charge one shilling per cubic yard, which means an extra expenditure of £76.66. The Chairman of the Public Works Committee said yesterday that the way the Board was going on they would have a deficiency of £56,000, and only get the harbor improvement scheme in three parts completed: The chances are that the Board, by a small majority, will adhere to the Engineer's original plans.

(PRESS ASSENCY.)

AUCKLAND.

June 6.
The Australia arrived this morning

pal subsidies,

ton, to consider the reduction of Municipal subsidies.

The Governor arrived here at 11.30 o'clock yesterday morning, and was received by the Mayor and City Councillors, the Primate, Judge Johnston and other gentlemen, at the railway station, where a guard of honor, composed of the City Guards and Engineers, was drawn up. An address from the City Council was read by the City Solicitor. The Governor made a verbal reply, in which he said he was agreeably surprised at the great/progress and improvement in Lyttel-ton Harbor since he visited Canterbury last year, and was sure such a harbor must tend greatly to promote the prosperity of Canterbury, and the colony as a whole. Three hearty cheers were given for the Governor. He was then escorted to an open carriage, in which he was driven to the Club, where he will reside during his visit. At one o'clock the Governor attended a private luncheon given by the City Council, only about twenty-four being present.

The citizens have not complied with the request of the Mayor to observe a holiday, the reason being that not sufficient notice was given.

DUNEDIN.

June 6.

Walker, the trance meduim, gave a seance on Monday night in the presence of fifty people. He lectured on evolution and those present say that the lecture was an exceedingly able one. Arrangements are being made for a public appearance.

was an exceedingly able one. Arrangements are being made for a public appearance.

The fire Brigade had a stormy meeting on Monoay night, in the cour e of which they sought to vindicate themselves against the charges of incompetency and delay in dealing with the fire on Sunday evening. One member said that the officers stood looking at each other, and he expressed a hope that in future the captain would not swear but conduct himself like a gentleman.

A public meeting was held at the Temperance Hall last night to consider a Local Option Bill. There were about 800 people present. The Mayor presided. The following resulutions were carried:

"That in the opinion of this meeting the principle embedied in the Bill is equitable, practicable, and likely to afford the public relief from the many evils resulting from the consumption of intoxicating liquors:" "That in the opinion of this meeting no system of Licensing laws has yet been effective for the prevention of evils to prevent which they were canced and therefore a change is necessary both in the principle and method af the laws dealing with the liquor trade. In the opinion of this meeting a very large proportion of vice, crime, disease, poverty, and other social evils which exist in this colony are the direct result of the traffic in, and the using of alcoholic beverage." A petition for presentation to the Assembly was also submitted and approved. Mr M'Laren interrupted, and a free fight ensued, which ended in his being thrown down stairs and out into the street.

INVERCARGILL.

On Wednesday the first meeting of the Southland Coursing Club took place at Morton Mains. The weather was splendid, and the actendance large. Hares were plentiful, and the sport was very good. None of the stakes were settled, having to be run off to-day.

WELLINGTON.

WELLINGTON.

June 6.

The Zealandia with the London mails of the 3rd May left San Francisco for Honolulu and Auckland on May 23, and is due at Auckland on the 15th instant. The City of Sydney, with the New Zealand mails of the 9th May, arrived at San Francisco on the 31st ult.

The Governor has remitted the sentence of two years penal servitude, passed last session on Richard Gordon, who was convicted of horse stealing in the Wairarapa. The evidence on which he was convicted is shown to have been unreliable.

convicted is shown to have been unre-liable.

In the case of Hooper v. the Reformer newspaper, for £75 damages for insuffi-cient notice of dismissal, the editor was nonsuited. The case will probably be taken to the Supreme Court.

PORT CHALMERS. June 7. A large Masonic gathering took place from Sydney, and will leave with the Frisco mails this evening.

CHRISTCHURCH,

June 6,

The City Council has received several letters favorable to the proposed Confererence of Municipal delegates at Wellington, to consider the reduction of Municipal delegates at Wellington, to consider the reduction of Municipal delegates at Wellington, to consider the reduction of Municipal delegates at Wellington, to consider the reduction of Municipal delegates at Wellington, and installing the principal officers. Fully 70 members were present. The Chaptor was consecrated by excompanion E. Nathan, and the principal officers were installed by Companion of the consecration of a Royal Arch Chaptor, and installing the principal officers. Fully 70 members were present. The Chaptor was consecrated by excompanion E. Nathan, and the principal officers. Two members were than example of the consecration of a Royal Arch Chaptor, and installing the principal officers. Fully 70 members were present. The Chaptor was consecrated by excompanion E. Nathan, and the principal officers were installed by Companion and the princ ceedings.

HOKITIKA.

Fifty-six applications for publicans licenses were granted by the Licensing Bench on Tuesday. None were refused.

Bench of fused.

The Harbor Board is making a survey of the river before commencing the harbor works, for which it is proposed to borrow £10,000 on debentures in Christchurch or Dunedin.

WESTPORT.

At the Licensing Court, on Tuesday, thirty-four applications for the town and district were all granted, except two new applications, and these were adjourned. The publican business is greatly overdone, the entire population being about 2000.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

SHORT WEIGHT IN BREAD

Sino-In Monday's Telegraph I am glad to see that the matter of short weight in bread has been brought before the public by "One who wants to know;" and he asks if there is an Inspector of Weights and Measures in Napier? Allow me to add my testimony to his, that when loaves purchased for my family have been weighed, the result has been from two to four ounces shert, and in loaves which the bakers are pleased to call fancy bread, from two to five ounces short. True, we have an Inspector of Weights and Measures, but even allowing that he occasionally pays the bakers a visit, and tests their weights and measures, will that remedy the evil? What I want to know is this: Are not the bakers bound by law to sell their bread the correct weight, and also to weigh it to a customer when asked to do so? If so, the public have the remedy in their own bands, by compelling the bakers to weigh the loaves when delivered, and no doubt Mr Seully will see that the scales and weights are in proper order. The present system of short weight I look upon as a most monstrous piece of dishonesty, and with the high price combined, must tell very severely upon poor people who, in many cases, have a hard struggle to keep body and soul together; and thus have, as it were, the very bread taken out of their mouths.—I am, &c., Anorther who wants to know. In Monday's TELEGRAPH I am glad

Another who wants to know Napier, June 6, 1877.

THE SPIT FERRY.

Sir.—I am glad to see the Harbor Board purposes to bring about some improvement in the ferry arrangements across the harbor. The existing arrangement is simply ridiculous, and would not be tolerated. I am sure, in any other civilised community but Napier

I do not wish to find any fault with the present ferryman; he is about the most civil and obliging man who has been there for a long time past. I simply complain of the ferry itself—the modus operandi of the concern, which is utterly bad, and unfit for the traffic.

By inserting the above in your valuable paper you will oblige

A TRAVELLER.
Napier, June 5, 1877.

Napier, June 5, 1877.

RESIDENT MAGISTRATE'S COURT

FRIDAY, JUNE 1.

(Before R. Stuart, Esq., R.M.)

DRUNKENNESS.
One James Blake, for this offence, was fined and paid five shillings.
BREACHES OF NAPLER HARBOR

BREACHES OF NAPIER HARBOR

REGULATIONS.

Daniel Cotton on the information of Edward Cook, Wharfinger, was charged with taking his hackney carriage plying for hire on part of a planked jetty. He was convicted and fined £1, with costs and expenses amounting to £1 10s.

The same defendant was further charged with bringing goods for shipment on the West Quay, a wharf under control of the Napier Harbor Board, without the production of the Wharfinger's receipt for the wharf dues. He offered no defence, and was fired £1, and costs and expenses amounting to a further sum of 16s 6d.

ALLEGED BREACH OF "STAMP ACT"
William Warrand Carlile, Peter Dinwiddie, and Thomas Morrison, were charged on the information of the Deputy Commissioner of Stamps with having about the 7th December, 1876 unlawfully written or caused to be written a receipt for a sum of £2 10s. to one Joseph Jessop, without the said receipt being duly stamped. They pleaded not guilty. The evidence of the Deputy Commissioner and Joseph Jessop was taken for the prosecution, and of Mr. St Clair and Messrs. Dinwiddle for the defence. His Worship considered that the charge was not sustained and dismissed the information with costs.

CIVIL CASES.

Some eight or nine civil actions had been settled out of Court, two against natives were confessed, and two others adjourned for a month. The following were heard:—

Rowman v. Taylor.—Claim £9 12s for adjourned for a month. The following were heard:

Howman v. Taylor.—Claim £9 12s for groceries, &c., supplied from the shop known as Mr. Topping's at Port Ahuriri. An account had been previously rendered to defendant for the same goods, in which he was made Topping's debtor; now he was sued by Bowman. Nonsuited.

Pyne v. Smith.—£9 7s 6d, for board and lodging. Judgment by default for amount claimed, and '3s costs.

SATURDAY, JUNE 2.

A HAPPY TRIO, W. Thompson, F. M'Carthy, and Henry Davis, all charged with drunken-ness were convicted and fined each five shillings, or twenty-four hours imprison-ment. Owing to the prevailing tightness in the money market, the whole trio went unanimously for the twenty-four hours.

hours.

hours,

James Griffen was sent to gaol for one month, with hard labour, for habitual drunkenness

FROTECTION ORDER.

Mr. Lee applied for a protection order for a Mrs. Williams, whose husband, after deserting her for eight years, arrived in Napier on Saturday, and made a claim to what property she had in her possesion. After hearing the learned counsel, His Worship acceded to the request.

MONDAY JUNE 4

DRUVKENNESS.

Thomas Hudson, for this offence, was fined and paid five shillings.

William Smith preferred a twenty-four hours alternative.

ALLEGED LUNACY.

William Narrow, who had been remanded until to-day for medical examination as a suspected lunatio, was brought up and disch reed, the medical testimony not warranting his further detention.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 6,

John Morgan, not being in funds to the amount of five shillings to pay the fine imposed for having imbiled too freely, went to prison for 24 hours.

freely, went to prison for 24 hours.

IUNAUY.

George Hammond, who had this time been brought all the way from Waipawa, was charged with being a lunatie, and not under proper sare and control. He made some incoherent remarks, and produced his handkerchiet, which he laid down in front of him for some inexplicable reason, muttering some unintelligible words at the same time. He was remanded until Saturday morning for medical examination and report.

ALLEGED ASSAULE

ALLEGED ASSAULT.

A case of this kind, in which all the parties concerned are Scandinavians, was adjourned until to-morrow.

THE LATE BUNAWAY.—BREACH MUNICI-

Thomas Hall, charged on the information of Sergeant Robinson with leaving a horse and vehicle, of which he was the driver, unattended, admitted the offence, and was fined £2, with 6s 6d costs of Court,

CHRISTIAN BREIHREN AT MANAWATU,

The Fielding correspondent of the New Zealand Times, under date May 28, furnishes the following:—

I have to note a remarkable social development in this district, brought about slowly and sile tly by the influence of a religious belief, which brings to mind the statement that a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump. Here is a religious community, with Christian ideas as primitive as were held in the latter half of the first century of the Christian era. The members of this communion call themselves Christian Brethren—a sect things. Pitman never knew what became of his fowls; but when we read in the paper next day that twenty-four undone chekens, with fishooks in their craws had been rained down by a hurriesne in New Jersey, we felt certain that the sky-rocket had done its duty.—Max Adeler.

"Oh, she was a jewel of a wife," said Pat, mourning over the loss of his better thalf; "she always struck me with the soft end of the mop."

that had its origin a few years ago in Wairarapa. Their founder was a Mr. Beckland, a Norwegian, who met his death by drowning in one of the Wairarapa rivers. The mantle of Mr. Beckland fell on the late Mr. Feist, and from Mr. Feist it descended to Mr Roots, late of Wairarapa brethren at Feilding, many of the Wairarapa brethren having come over to Feilding. These worthy people read no book but the Bible. Newspapers have no interest for them, and they neither know nor care for any of the new ideas that have been troubling the peace of other Churches; at Feilding the brethren are not troubled about any new readings of the old book. They believe in the near approach of the end of all material things. When one of them addresses anyone on any subject whatever he does so in the name of the Lord Jesus. I one day remarked to a brother that a good many of the brethren were coming to Feilding from Wairarapa. His reply was that "a good many more will come here if the Lord tarries and no estrhquake occurs." They

WORK YERF MUCH ON THE COMMENIST PRINCIPLE.

as regards properly, 1200 seres of land have been bought in the name of their leader. Mr. Roots, which is held on the enoperative principle, and this principle seems to succeed with them in many of their undertakings sthey are industrious and are also so much under the influence of a strong religious feeling, looking, as they do every day, for the end of the world. Another trait I notice is that they take no part whatever in public questions or politics affecting the community. In short, whatever view one may take of their ahounding faith it has the effect of making them very good members of society, and also desirable number of a class that had such a strong affinity, chemically speaking, for the brethren's faith that the numbers of the brethren have increased, until they are now the most important religious body in the district. Another specimen of their primitive faith it hat when siekness overtakes any of their number to leader of the same meet and pray over the sick

HOW TO RAISE CHICKENS.

We have a good deal of trouble last summer with Pitman's chickens. As fast as we would plant anything in our little garden, those chickens of Pitman's would creep through the fence, seratch out the seeds, fill up, and go home. When the raddish-beds had been ravished in this manner for the fifth time, we complained to Pitman. He was not disposed to interfere. "Adeler," he said, "I tell you it does 'em good; and it does them beds good to be raked over by chickens. If I have raddishes, give mechickens to scratch around 'em and eat up the worms. Raddishes tast hayen't heen seratched ain't worth a cent." Then we climbed over the fence, with the determination to take the law into our own hands. We procured a half peek of corn, and two dozen diminutive fish hooks. Fastening the hooks each hioto a grain of corn, we tied thin wire to each hook. Then we scattered the whole of the corn on the raddish-bed and fixed the end of the wires to the biggest sky-rocket we could get. The rocket stood in a frame about ten yards away from the hooks. That very morning Pitman's chickens came over and instantly began to devour the corn. We were ready, and as soon as it was evident that the hooks were all swallowed, we applied a match to the rocket. It is regarded as probable that no barn-yard fowls that have lived since the days of Noah ever proceeded towards the azure vault of heaven with such rapidity as those did. A fizz, a few ejaculatory cackles, a puff of smoke, and Pitman's roosters and pullets were wishing around among the celestial constellations without their feathers, and in some doubt respecting the stability of earthly things. Pitman never knew what became of his fowls; but when we read in the paper next day that twenty-four undone chickens, with fishooks in their eraws had been rained down by a hurrieane in New Jersey, we felt certain that the skyrocket had done its duty.—Max Adeler.

Shipping Intelligence. PORT AHURIRI

ARRIVAL.

June.

Mary Wadley, three-masted schooner, from Newcastle, N.S.W. No passen-

Rotorus, a.s., from the South. Passengers—Mrs Luckie, Misses Luckie, Kilman, and Baker, Messra Cotterill, Rundle, Jobson, Chambers, and 55 for the North Rangatirs, s.s., from Welliagton. Passengers—Judge Richmond and Sceretary, Mrs Cook and 7 children, Mrs Bowerman, Messra, Boon, Suffield, Simmons, McGibbyn, Levern (2), and Davey.

Davey. 7—Fairy, s.s., from Mangakuri

7—Fairy, s.s., from Mangakuri

DEPARTURE.

May

31—Wanaka, s.s., for Auckland via Gisborne and Tsuranga. Passengers—Right Rev. Bishop of Auckland, Archdeacon Williams, Rev. J. C. Eccles, Rev. J. M. Fraser, Messrs Mann, Patterson, Liddle, Chapman, Meyers, and six original June.

1—Albatross, schooner, for Whangapoua 2—J. ne Douglas, s.s., for Port Chalmers. Passengers—Messrs King and Brown.

4—Rotorus, s.s., for Auckland. Passengers —Mrs Campbell, Miss Francis, Messrs D. Fleming, F. H. Meinertshagen, Beetham, Smith, H. Williams and son, two others, and 55 original

4—Columbis, schooner, for Kennedy's Bay. 6—Falcon, barquentine, for Newcastle, N.S.W.

The s.s. Wanaka did not leave the anchorage till 10.30 p.m. on Thursday, having been detsined in loading the Bella. The ketch Why Not did not bring a full cargo from the Wanaka, owing to not being able to lay alongesde.

The s.s. Sir Donald had a good run down to Wellington, where she was immediately taken on the slip, and has had a thorough overhaul.

The s.s. Jane Douglas left on Sisturday.

overhaul.

The s.s. Jane Douglas left on Saturday at 8.15, with a full cargo of tallow for transhipment at Port Chalmers for London, per at 8.15, with a full cargo of tallow for transhipment at Port Chalmers for London, per the Fernglen.

We hear Mr Warner has got the contract for lightering the waterworks plant ex Andrew Reid, which vesselleft Wellington for this port on Saturday.

The s.s. Rotorua, Captain Macfarlane, arrived at the amolorage at 8.45 a.m. on Monday. She was immediately tendered by the steam launch Bella. The mail steamer only remained here one hour. Mr. Pringle, the purser, furnishes us with the following:—Left Port Chalmers on the 1st June, at 1.45 p.m.; arrived at Lyttleton on the 2nd, at 7.30 a.m.; proceeded at 7 p.m. same day, and arrived at Wellington at 10 a.m. on Sunday; left at noon for here, arriving as above stated. Experienced light variable winds and hazy weather throughout the passage.

The Waires Free Press has the follows.

passage.

The Wairos Free Press has the following:—"The bar being bad precludes the arrival of either of the steamers now lying loaded for this port in Napier.—the d——har."

arrival of either of the steamers now lying loaded for this port in Napier,—the d—bar,"

The Napier shareholders in the A.S.P. Company will be glad to learn that the steamers belonging to that Company are put down in the last annual report as being worth £36,500.

The three-masted schooner Mary Wadley, Captain Cronin, has been 18 days on the passage from Newcastle, N.S.W. She comes cous gned to her owner, Mr. Vautier, and has a cargo of 230 tons coal.

A schooner called the Saucy Kate, is supposed to be on her way to Napier from Dunedin. Several consignees have received Bills of Lading of goods in her.

The following appears in the minutes of the annual meeting of A.S.P. Company, held in Auckland on the 28th May;—"Mr. L. D. Nathan moved that this meeting of share holders empower the Directors to sell all boats and property of the Company, whenever they can obtain fair prices for the same, with a view to wind up the Company as soon as possible." This was carried, only one gentleman, Mr. D. H. M'Kenzie, voting against it.

as possible. This was carried, only one gentleman, Mr D. H. M'Kenzie, voting against it.

The schooner Kate M'Gregor, which went ashore at Port Waikato, has been floated off, and is now bring repaired.

A i ress Agency telegram states that Capit Fairchid has on board the Hinemoa tragments of an old vessel wrecked in Facile Harbor, Dusky Sound, including part of a rudder bearing the name "Saville London." The vessel was of a large size, probably 80ft. long. It is supposed that they are portions of the same wreck seen 26 years ago by the Acheron survey party. The captain also discovered a large iron case lying in the fore part of the vessel. A further attempt is to be made to raise the iron case.

The ship Hermione, from London, with 1800 tons cargo and 39 passengers, arrived at Port Chalmers on Monday; 103 days out. Sighted no ice; spoke no vessels.

The s.a. Rangatira, Capt, Evans, left Welstein and the same more.

The s.s. Rangatira, Capt. Evaus, left Wellington wharf at 11 s.m. on Tuesday morning, and arrived at the anchorage at 10.15 a.m. on Wednesday, having made a good passage of 23 hours. The Rangatira experienced a fresh head wind and beam sea as far as Cape Palliser, then till arrival a light S.E. wind.

Three days after the Mary Wadley left this port for Newcastle on her last trip, she encountered a very heavy gale, and in the tossing about her ballest shifted, causing her to go on her beam ends. Capt. Cromin then dropped his best bower anchor over the quarter, with a good scope of rope, and also a hen coop attached, which caused her head to pay off before the wind, and fortunately she righted. On her last trip from Newcastle, she again suffered from bad weather, having been struck by a heavy sea, which carried away a portion of her bulwarks and smashed about seven stanchions.

The barque Andrew Reid was at anchor in the fairway when the Rangatira left Wellington. She had taken on board 600 tons of ballast, and will leave for here the first favorable opportunity.

The schooner Isabella Pratt, a constant trader to this port, is at present in Wellington, having just arrived there with a cargo of breadstuffs from Oamaru.

The barquentine Falcon took her departure for Newcastle on Wednesday, The following are the names of the passengers:—Messrs. Willis, Buchanan (2), and Robertson.

The s. Jane Douglas, hence on Saturday last, arrived at Port Chalmers on Tuesday, at 4 p.m.

The ketch Mary Ann Hudson has been last, arrives at 4 p.m.

The ketch Mary Ann Hudson has been successfully launched, and is now in the Mohaka very little the worse for her beach.

The ketch Mary Ann Hudson has been successfully launched, and is now in the Mohaka very little the worse for her besching.

A Press Agency telegram states that the wreck of the Feronia enquiry has resulted in the suspension of Captain White's certificate for three months, and the mate's, David Young, for one month.

The s.s. Fairy, Capt. Campbell, returned to port on Thursday, having been unsuccessful in landing the whole of her cargo at Messrs Coleman and McHardy's station. Capt. Campbell managed to get two boat loads on shore on Tues'ay, but towardscreening a strong southerly wind springing compelled him to seek the shelter of the Kidnappers, where he remained till on Thursday, and as there was no appearance of the weather improving, the captain deemed it advisable to return to port.

The s.s. Ladybird, Capt. Griffiths, is now taking the place of the s.s. Taranaki, pending some slight repairs to the latter steamer.

The s.s. Hinemoa arrived from Kuipara vesterday at 1 p.m. after a very smartrun of 27 hours. She landed the steam launch known as the "perfect failure" at Kaipara, and it is stated that it will be about as useful there as it was at Wellington. We hope, at any rate, that it will not have to visit the slip as often as it had to here, for in fact while in this port it was quite amphibious in its habits.—N. Z. Times.

The Otaga Guardian has the following:—"Captain Arnold, of the schooner Owake, which arrived in harbour on Wednesday last, reports that the supposed missing vessel Aspasia, which left Wellington on 2nd May for Kaipara, put into Keider Bay on the 14th instant. Her captain reported being off Kaipara with dirty easterly weather for four days, when the wind suddenly shifted to the westward on the 11th instant, and he kept away for the Sound, having lost jibboom, both jibs, portion of bulwarks, and was without firewood or water. During the gale her espain sustained severe injuries to his right arm. When the Owake left Keider Bay on the 17th instant. The captain's wife and two children were on

| | | | | e | 8. | d. |
|----------|----------|-----------|--------|-------|----|-----|
| Spirits | 35 CF 36 |  |  | 1597 | 7 | 11 |
| Cigare |  | 121 |  | 38 | 13 | 9 |
| obacco | 1 1867 | 13-58-510 |  | 729 | 0 | 0 |
| Wine | 98571 | | 200 | 156 | 12 | 4 |
| Ale | 10.00 | 201 | ant. | 24 | 0 | 0 |
| Tea | 1, 1987 | 10.00 | or in | 124 | 11 | 0 |
| Coffee | 200 | LAULT 15 | 3000 | 17 | 13 | 6 |
| Sugar | | bittur | 11 | 369 | 10 | 9 |
| Goods by | weis | ht | | ă0 | 12 | 3 |
| Goods, a | | | | 369 | 10 | 0 |
| Other du | ties |  | | 27 | 7 | 0 |
| Total | d | 1.4 97 | a clas | £8527 | 18 | - 6 |

MARRIAGES.

MARRIAGES.

MAY—HILLS—At the residence of William M'B-ath. Esq., Eglinton-road, Mornington, Dunedin, on the 31st May, by the Rev. Dr. Stuart, Mr. William May, of Dunedin, to Jessie Emma Gertrude's seemd daughter of Mr. Edwin Hills, of Napier—Auckland papers please copy.

NORMAN—QUEREE.—At her uncle's residence, Springfield, Puketapu, on June 6, by the Rev. P. C. Anderson, Lizzie Queree to John Norman, both of St. Heliers, Jersey.

DEATHS.

Heliers, Jersey.

DEATHS.

HENDERSON.—On 30th May, at his father's residence, Woolcombe-street, Wellington, Harcourt Herbert Henderson, youngest son of John Henderson, Esq., C.E., aged 1 year and 9 months.

PATON—At Napler, on June 5th, Joseph, fifth son of Mr T. Paton, aged 17 years and 6 months.

NILESON—At the Napler Hospital, on the 6th June, Gustaf Nilsson, aged 27 years.

POST OFFICE NOTICE.

MAILS CLOSE

MAILS CLOSE

Auckland per ss. Southern Cross, on Saturday, at 11 am.
the undermentioned places every Monday, and Thursday, at 5.30 a.m.—Clive, Hastings, Havelock, Te Aute, Kaikora, Waipawa, Waipukurau, Danevirk, Norsewood, Tahoarite, Woodville, Foxton, Palmerston, Wanganui, Taranski, Wellington and Southern Provinces, &c., Wallingford, Porangahau, Wanui, and Castle Point, the other days of the week, mails close as usual, at 6.30 a.m.

J. Gronn.

Chief Postmaster.

Government Notifications.

District proclaimed under "The Hawke' Bay Rivers Act, 1876,"

NORMANBY, GOVERNOR.

(L.S.) NORMANBY, GOVERDOR.

A PROCLAMATION,

WHEREAS a petition from the owners or occupiers of more than two-thirds of the acreage of the district comprising the part of the Provincial District of Hawke's Bay defined in the Schedule hereto has been presented to His Excellency the Governor, praying him to delare that "The Hawke's Bay Rivers Act, 1876," shall come into operation within such district;

Now the Company of the

"The Hawke's Bay Rivers Act, 1876," shall come into operation within such district;
Now, therefore, I, George Augustus Constantine, Marquis of Normanby, Governor of the Colony of New Zealand, in pursuance and exercise of the powers and authorities vested in me by the said Act and by "The Abolition of Provinces Act, 1876," slo hereby proclaim and declare that the said "Hawke's Bay Rivers Act, 1876," shall, from and after the date hereof, come into operation in that part of the Provincial District of Hawke's Hay the boundaries whereof are defl..ed in the Schedule hereto; and do also proclaim and declare the same to be a district under the said "Hawke's Bay Rivers Act, 1876," and the name by which such district shall oe known is the "Taradale District;" and to further proclaim and determine that the number of Conservators who are to constitute a Board for such district shall be five.

SCHEDULE.

Bounded on the South by the Tutaekuri River; on the East by a straight line running north and south from the Tutaekuri River; on the East by a straight line running north and south from the Tutaekuri River to the head of Purumu Creek, down Purumu Creek to where it joins the Tutaekuri River to the Aburiri Harbor; on the North by high waternaark of the south side of the said harbor to the foot of the first hills; on the West by the foot of the said hills to Redelyffe cutting.

Given under the hand of His Excellency the Most Honorable George Augustus Constantine, Marquis of Normanby, Earl of Mulgrave, Viscount Normanby, and Baron Mulgrave of Mulgrave, all in the County of York, in the Peerage of the United Kingdom; and Baron Mulgrave of New Ross, in the County of Wexford, in the Peerage of Ireland; a Member of Her Majesty's Most Honorable Privy Council; Knight Commander of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George; Governor and Commander in-Chief in and over Her Majesty's Colony of New Zealand and its Dependences, and Vice-Admiral of the same; and issued under the Seal of the said Colony, at the Government House, at Wellington, this seventeenth day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven.

DANIEL POLLEN.

"HAWKE'S BAY SPECIAL SET-LEMENTS ACT, 1872."

Crown Lands Office,
Napier, 19th May, 1877.

NOTICE is hereby given that the following selections of land in the MAKARETE RESERVE having been forfeited, will under Section 13 of the above Act, be sold for Cash, by Public Auction at the Crown Lands Office, at Noon on MONDAY, the 30th July, 1877.

SCHEDULE Contents Applica-Upset price £ s. d. 50 0 0 Contents Up:
A. R. P. £
100 0 0 ... 50
100 0 0 ... 50
100 0 0 ... 50
100 0 0 ... 50
60 0 0 ... 50
40 0 0 ... 50
40 0 0 ... 20
50 0 0 ... 25
50 0 0 ... 25 13,,, ,,, S6... 50 0 0 ... 25 111... 50 0 0 ... 25 111... 50 0 0 0 ... 25 The above areas are exclusive of 5 per cent allowance for Roads.

Commissioner of Crown Linds.

NOTIFICATION.

Crown Lands Office,
Napler, 19th May, 1877.

I HEREBY give Notice that the right to depasture Stock for a period of 5 years over 1500 acres more or less land in the Arapawanui and Mocangiangi District, now at the disposal of the Government, and which was lately comprised in License No. 123, will be offered for competition by Public Auction at this office, at Noon, on SATURDAY, the 30th June next, subject to the terms of "The Hawke's Bay Renewal of Licenses Act, 1870."

Conditions may be obtained at this office.
J. T. TYLEE,
Commissioner of Crown Lands.

NOTICE

Office of Waste Lands Board.
Napier, 8th December, 1876.
HUGH McCORMICK, formerly of the 65th Regiment of this reputation.

You are hereby required, within aix months from this date, to prove to the satisfaction of the Waste Lands Board that you have complied with the conditions required to entitle you to 60 acres of land in the Wakarara District, selected under a willtary Settlers Land Order, and if you fail to prove your claim within the specified time, your title to the land with set forfeited and the land be dealt with as the Board may direct.

J. T. TYLEE, Chief Commissions

JOHN M'VAY,

SADDLER & HARNESSMAKER

Hastings-street.

The Cheapest House in the Trade

MONTEITH,

H. MONTES.

Land State, and General CommissionAgent, Waipukurau.
Goods Stared and Forwarded.
ces and Stores: Near the Railway Station.

The Meekly Mercury

HAWKE'S BAY ADVERTISER,

SATURDAY, JUNE 9, 1877

HAWKE'S BAY ADVERTISER.

SATURDAY, JUNE 9, 1877.

The question that just at present most nearly concerns this colony in general, and Hawke's Bay in particular—always provided England remains neutral—is, how long is the Russo-Turkish war going to last? It is evident that the period of exceptional prosperity we have been enjoying for the last five years is fast drawing to a close, if it has not already come to an end. It is equally clear that anything which disturbs the manufacturing industry of Europe is immediately felt here in the depression in the value of colonial produce. This colony is solely dependent on the state of the European markets, and the prosperity of Hawke's Bay depends upon but one of these. If the London wool market is depressed, trade here languishes, property of all descriptions depreciates in value, and there is no money for the employment of labor. Such was the condition of this province ten years ago, and as our settlers have developed no new industry since then, we cannot but expect a similar state of things to occur again. Herec, it is of the utmost importance to us as a community, to consider the position in which we are placed by the commotions in Europe. Before the war began, trade was depressed, money was scarce: Germany, despi'e the enormous sums of money she received from France, was in a state of impecuniosity; and the shadow of a coming war clouded the manufacturing industry of the French. This gloomy condition of affairs has been still further darkened by Russia's attack on Turkey, and as long as the war lasts we can scarcely hope for any material improvement of trade. In 1854 Russia entered upon a similar war, unaided, and though she had to contend against England, France, and Turkey, and was menaced by Austria, she succeeded in prolonging the struggle till 1856; the war lasting exactly two years. Should the present hostillties be continued for two years, we shall then be entering upon a period that cannot but have a serious effect upon the wool market. In 1850, the French Pre to what form of government she will have. The past history of France affords no hope that this question will be settled in such a way as not to seriously disturb the industry of the country. The French manufacturers are the largest foreign buyers of Australian wools in the London market, and should a revolution in France follow closely on the heels of the Russo-Turkish war—a by no means improbable contingent—then we may anticipate a period of depression here compared to which that of 1868 may be considered prosperity. Taking these possibilities into consideration, would it not then be as well to "set our house in order," and in some measure to be prepared for the worst? We have said that this question affects Hawke's Bay particularly for the reason that, at present, we have absolutely no industry but that of wool growing, nothing whatever to fall back upon. The subject we have thus raised, and only slightly glanced at, is of the deepest interest to the bulk of the inhabitants of this province, and it is one which concerns the welfare and prosperity, to more or lest extent, of every one earning his living in the colony.

The estimates of the receipts and expenditure for the year ending June 30, 1877, of the Cook County Council, have been published, and are deserving of notice. The total income is estimated at £7055 17s 1d, but, as since this was made the town of Gisborne has been created a borough, it will probably be reduced to £3715. The expenditure is put down at £3715, a sum which includes the cost of the maintenance of the Gisborne streets, an expense the County will not new have to bear. The most noteworthy items in the expenditure are "salaries and office furniture. £450," and "contingent expenses, £100." It will thus be seen that the total cost of the administration of the County is estimated at but £550. This economy is the more remsrkable as it is contemplated to levy a five per cent rate, a procedure that involves the expenses of valuation and collection. Besides this, we believe, there are no Highway districts to assist in keeping local roads in repair. Let us now compare these estimates with those of the Hawke's Bay County Council. In these latter, the total income is put down at £2,775, an amount which is calculated to be spent with the exception of £147. But although only £2,628 are to be expended, it will cost the County no less than £995 to spend it, that is to say, that amount is put down to the 3 lst December next. Now, it is evident, the Cook County Council must altogether have mistaken the cost of the administration of its sfairs, or else that the Council for Hawke's Bay is ruinously extravagant. But, in the event of the Cook Council having under estimated its expenses, it will have a balance of over £500 to fall back upon. The position of the two Counties, however, is incomparably superior to that of many in the Middle Island. The revenue of the Inaugabus Council, for instance, is £7000, while its estimated expenditure is £14,310, a financial condition that provokes the following from the Nelson Times:—'There are only two ways to avoid foture financial difficulties for County Councils, and unfortunately be be found a letter from the Inspector of Police to his Worship the Mayor calling the attention of the Municipal authorities not only to the destitution which exists among a certain part of the population of the borough, but also to the fact that in order to assist destitute persons the Inspector has out of his own private pocket expended nearly £700 in alleviating distress and assisting the poor. The Inspector before expending any more of his own monies naturally seeks to be reimbursed for this outlay. A plea has been made to the General Government, but it turns a deaf ear. Inspector Scully asks the Municipal Council, but with that spirit of procrastination which distinguishes that body, under the belief that it should not bear the burden, the matter is allowed to lie over, notwithstanding that the Council had before them a communication from the Christchurch City Council which clearly showed that no help was to be expected from the General Government, they having used every means to get an adjustment of accounts having reference to Hospital and Charitable Aid. We venture to predict that the Napier Council will meet with the same rebuff from the General Government as that of Christchurch, and the sooner, to put it in Mr Lee's words, "we look the matter straight in the face the better." No doubt when the General Assembly meets the Government will be forced to act with justice, and will not be allowed to evade those payments which by the abolishment of the Provinces fairly fall on its shoulders, but in the meantime it is a disgrace to the Municipality that the Inspector of Police should be called upon to pay out of his private purse monies, for charitable objects, or if he refuses to do so, that those needing assistance and help cannot obtain it.

Hawke's Bay, having been declared by its early settlers to be a pastoral country, has continued to produce nothing but wool. The character thus given to this provincial district, the local government and legislature, in the past, were by no means backward in encouraging the idea that this portion of the colony was better fitted for sheep than for human beings. The consequence has been that, although we may be justly proud of our provincial flocks and herds, the country has fa'llen into the hands of the few, and our exports fall infinitely short in value to what they should do from the soil and climate we enjoy. In periods of commercial depression, the effect of limiting our industry to one line was most marked, and in the future will be still more so. We shall find that while the other provinces in the colony are developing to their utmost their natural and industrial resources, Hawke's Bay is standing still. Let us for one moment glance at the present condition of Canterbury, and ask ourselves why it is that that province has so completely outstripped Hawke's Bay in riches, population, and commerce. Neither the soil nor the climate of Canterbury can be compared with ours; the country was naturally less attractive to immigrants than this should have been; and land, though abundant, was four times as dear as it was here. But with these comparative disadvantages, capital and labor floved into the country, because its rulers were wise enough to perceive that there was abundance of room for both the agriculturist and the grazier. The rulers in Hawke's Bay, on the other hand, pursued a different course; they knew that the country could support sheep, and, being sheepfarmers themselves they so framed the land laws that the agriculturist was practically shut out. Not until every inch of open country had been converted into a sheep run was it deemed advisable to let the man of small means participate in the ownership of the soil. The mischief done in the carly days of this settlement will take very many years to remedy the estimate of the value of all we shall receive from weel, tallow, and hides, ex-ported for the year ending April 30, the estimate of the value of all we shall receive from wsol, tallow, and hides, exported for the year ending April 30, last.

We will now turn to the picture Canterbury presents as described by the Lyttelton Times — "Farmers are numerous, their small holdings are everywhere to be seen dotting the landscape, their land carries a large population, comparatively; a great manufacturing wade has arisen for the supply of their wants. They make the employment of capital lurrative, and the products of their industry has assumed very respectable proportions. This class has not always the same reason to fear the results of war that the pastoral interest may justly entertain." Our southern contemporary then compares the value of the respective productions of the agriculturists and the wool growers. The value of the wool exported this year is estimated at £675,000. Against this, our contemporary says, "estimating for the purposes of a rough comparison, wheat as worth to the farmer four shillings per bushel, oats at two, barley at four, and the potatoes at forty shillings the ton, we obtain the following figures:—
2,700,000 bushels wheat ... £540,000 2,100,000 ... oats ... 210,000

... £840,000 ... 210,000 2,700,000 bushels wheat 00,000 , oats 00,000 , barley 20,000 tons potatoes 500,000 890,000

To this has to be added— Butter and cheese Grass seed, hams, bacon ... 110,000

Total value of agricultural produce £1,100,000

These figures are probably rather under than over the real state of things; but they are sufficient for showing approximately the relative values of the agricultural and pastoral products of Conteshary. agricultural Canterbury,

A LETTER has been received by His Worship the Mayor, from the Christ-church Corporation, on the subject of the deductions from the subsidies made by the Government for the maintenance of the charitable institutions. The Christ-church City Council proposes that delegates from all the Boroughs should meet at Wellington, before the next meeting of the General Assembly, for the purpose of taking joint action to remedy the injustice, and of suggesting to the Government a better means for the management and maintenance of charitable institutions, so that the burden of their cost should fall fairly on both town and country districts. The proposition is a good one, and we trust the Napier Corporation will act with that of Christchurch and other Boroughs, to bring about a more satisfactory state of things.

about a more satisfactory state of things.

The cablegram informing us of the capture of Ardahan by the Russians was dated London, May 23, and on the 28th it was reported that that Turkish frontier post had been retaken. This latter news has since been contirmed, so we have pretty good evidence that the Russians are far from having it all their own way in Asia Minor. Neither have they gained any advantage on the Danube, and that river being now flooded a further delay of active operations of importance is hkely to occur. It is not improbable there may be some foundation for the report that Germany is endeavouring to bring about necotiations for peace. It is well enough known that the Czar was averse to going to war, and the conference of the Russian Ambassadors, at St. Petersburg, that is implied by their temporary withdrawal from the Courts of Berlin, St. James', and Paris, give some hone that a peaceful settlement of the difficulty into which Russia finds herself by undertaking the solution of the Eastern Question unaided, will be found. by undertaking the solution of the Eastern Question unaided, will be found.

The Waipawa County Council is remark able for its eccentricities I. that to procure open land for agricultural purposes it must be acquired second hand, and such a value is put upon it as to render its purchase a very doubtful speculation.

The Waipawa County Council is remarkable for its eccentricities. It appears not one open the soil disant local purposes it must be acquired second hand, and such a value is put upon it as to render its purchase a very doubtful speculation.

We have said that Hawke's Bay is a pastoral country, let us look then at the result of having turned it into a sheep-walk. We have a population of about 12,500, of whom 581 occupy land either as freeholders or leaseholders o

Hawke's Bay. These lands have been vastly improved in value by the main roads formed under the Provincial Government, and by the railway, yet they have contributed nothing to the revenue. To make them pay a just contribution to the public purse, a County rate is desired, by the far seeing in the Waipawa Council, and this would certainly be struck when the proper time arrives (July) if the far seeing could have their way. But it is to be feared that one object sought to be gained by throwing the roads back again upon the Road Boards, was to test the strength of the two parties in the Council, and, if possible, to relieve the outlying districts of all fear of taxation. If, however, no such object is at the bottom of the movement, we are quite of opinion that the Road Boards should be left with their full functions undisturbed. The double rating to which they would be subjected by a County rate, they can well bear, and the money so raised will be no more than sufficient to cover the cost of their requirements. The Waipawa Council should have been taught a lesson from its past proceedings, and have learnt the folly of jumping at hasty conclusions. At the present time, it is quite on the cards that, at the next meeting, notice of motion will have to be given to reseind the resolution carried by Colonel Herrick. The Council has relieved the Road Boards of their responsibility, and as their consent has to be obtained before that responsibility can be again thrust upon them, some may justly decline to be saddled with the trouble and expense.

The Napier Licensing Commissioners have decided that what is sauce for the geose is not sauce for the gander; the Waipawa Commissioners have also arrived at the same very equitable decision. The former, in the matter of the license for the Vi-toria Hotel, Napier, applied for by Mr. J. M. Parker, required the proprietor to creet a six stalled stable in connection with his house, otherwise the license would be cancelled at the next quarterly meeting. Now, it would strike most people, that, if a six stalled stable were an essential requirement to the Victoria Hotel, it would be also a necessary qualification for the licensing of all hotels and public houses situated in Napier. But then most people differ from Licensing Commissioners. No stable is wanted for the Criterion or the Ma-onic Hotels, and other public houses might possibly be mentioned where there are no stables on the premises. Why Mr. Parker's customers should be expected to want the use of stables any more than persons frequenting the Criterion or the Masonic Hetels, is a question we must leave to the Commissioners, however, beat those of Napier hollow. These gentlemen have resolved that certain hotels, where "the quality" do mostly stay on their travels, shall have peculiar conveniences attached to them, which, hitherto, in neither private nor public houses could rarely be found. The rise in the value of land is supposed to have something to do with this desire for unaccustomed luxuries. Be this as it may, when the Empire Hotel at Waipawa, was being improved and entarged, and made one of the hest hostelries in the province, the proprietor. Mr Baker, received warning that unless he provided the convenience above hinted at. his license would be cancelled. Mr Baker replied, that water was not laid on to his premises; that there was no drainage; that the stud of his building wa- not high enough to permit of that which was demanded of him; that unless he whole of the arrangements were perfect, the "convenience" would not only be a unisance, but unhealthy,

Our morning contemporary learns, "with reference to the decision of the Licensing Commissioners requiring stables to be erected in connection with Mr. Parker's hotel, that the reason that neither the Criterion nor the Masonic have been required to have stables in connection with their hotels, is that the requirement is supplied by Palmer's stables being in the immediate vicinity of those hotels." We must presume from the above, that the Licensing Commissioners have favored the Herald with their reasons for giving a decision that strikes every sensible man as one requiring to be immediately reversed. The explanation only makes what is bad, very much worse. No excuse that can be offered will alter public opinion on the matter, which is, that arbitrary conditions are imposed on some publicaus, and others are allowed to jog along just as they please. We now learn that the Criterion and Masonic Hotels are not required to have stables on their premises, as being in the immediate vicinity of Mr. Palmer's livery establishment. Do the Licensing Commissioners consider it any part of their duty to protect private enterprise? If so, why are not publicans compelled by the Commissioners to deal with certain butchers, and bakers? Let us not be misunderstood in this matter. We do not consider there is any more necessity for the Criterion Hotel to have stables than for the Victoria Hotel to be forced to erect them. In towns like Napier, livery stable keeping is a private undertaking, with which the public houses should not enter into competition. More than that, there should be a Muncipal bye-law to prevent stables being erected within certain distances of dwelling houses. It may fairly be considered that the Commissioners, by their absurd decision, have added to the risk of fire within the town. It is simply ridiculous to compel a publican to crowd buildings on to a small section of land, and to virtually tell him that unless he lives in constant dread of having his premises destroyed by fire, the investment of his capital in dread of having his premises destroyed by fire, the investment of his capital in his business shall be so much money thrown away. We have seen above the reasons given for having stables built at the Victoria hotel; it only remains to be discovered why the Terminus, the London, and Shakespeare Hotels, which are stables than is the Victoria, are not also compelled to provide accommodation for horses. A dirty ill-kept drinking shop, without accommedation of any sort for man or beast, obtains a license without difficulty; a decent house, a credit to the town, and of convenience to the public, is saddled with conditions that can only be regarded as arbitrary, and, so far as its customers are concerned, absolutely unnecessary. It is high time some change in the method of licensing houses was brought about. The examples of the working of the existing system, afforded by the Licensing Commissioners of Napier and Waipawa, should be sufficient to show that nothing can be worse.

The New Zealand Times and the Wellington Post have been discussing smartly the present position of Sir Julius Vogel, the Agent-General. The controversy was commenced in a leader in the Evening Post of Saturday last, which advocated that, as Sir Julius Vogel had only been appointed for one year, and that there was a general agreement of opinion that the necessity no longer existed for maintaining an Agent-General and a costly staff in London at the expense of the colony, because in truth there was little or no work to do, his services should be at once dispensed with The Government organ, the New Zealand Times, of Monday, denied that any such arrangement had been made, and said "that the present Agent-General was not appointed on an understanding that the office should be temporary, but that on the contrary it was Sir Julius Vogel himself who declined to accept the position of Agent-General, unless on the understanding that he intended to leave it and direct his attention to his private affairs, if necessary, in two years." The Times then accused the editor of the Post of making "an untrue and cowardly statement," and also of showing an affairs, if necessary, in two years. The Post of making "an untrue and cowardly statement," and also of showing an "obstinancy as blind as it was ignorant." This called forth from the Post on the same evening a reply, which may be said to be a most crushing one, and proved at least that the Times editor was no match for his antagonist of the Post. The Post quotes the despatches of the Premier to Sir Julius Vogel on his acceptance of the office, which show plainly that the arrangement was made for one year only. Also a letter from Dr. Pollen, dated 19th October, 1876, forwarding the commission as Agent-General to Sir Julius Vogel, in which Dr. Pollen remarks: "You will observe that no definite term is assigned in the commission to the duration of the office. It is, however, understood, as expressed in my letter of the 6th ultimo, that, for the reason therein assigned, the appointment is only for one year certain from the date of your arrival in England." The Post's article concludes as follows:—"Finally, we desire to offer a word or two of counsel and advice to the editor of the New Zealand Times. He should be a little more cautious in calling names and attributing all sorts of offences to his contemporaries which have no foundation in fact—in case they might retaliate. If they did so, they might say, and with perfect truth, that the New Zealand Times is the most unreliable and un readable newspaper of its size in the colony; that its editorial columns are almost absolutely destitute of ability, vigor, or knowledge of political affairs; that its pretensions to assume the position of "a really colonial journal," are every where laughed to scorn; that it displays no enterprise in the way of obtaining information and news; and finally, that the bulk of its contents consist of a distasteful and indigestible cold hash of literary matter as ever was forced upon the notice of a long-suffering community."

WAIPAWA COUNTY COUNCIL.

WAIPAWA COUNTY COUNCIL.

The Waipawa County Council met on Tuesday, in the Court House, Waipawa, at noon.

Present—Messrs Mackersey (Chairman), Levy, Herrick, Rathbone, Russell, Lawrence, and Monteith.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

The correspondence was read.

The -Road Overseer's report on all roads within the County, upon which provincial government money had been expended, was read. The total cost of these roads was put down at £42.0.

Mr James McMillan's tender for the collection of the dog tax at 20 per cent on the receipts, was accepted.

An application from Mr Adolf Brew for the appointment of Poundkeeper at Sherwood (Makaretu) raised the question as to the power of the tounel to establish pounds, and appoint poundkeepers.

Mr. H. R. Kussell drew the attention of the Council to the Act, and moved that a Pound be established at Sherwood, or other most convenient position within the district of Makaretu.

Mr. Rathbone seconded the motion which was carried.

An application from Te Kuru to Mr. S. Locke, to have the native stock-yard at Porangahau, declared a public pound having deen referred to the Waipawa Council, Mr. Russell moved that a Pound be established at Porangahau, the site to be shosen by the settlers.

Council, Mr. Russell moved that a Pound be established at Porangahau, the site to be shosen by the settlers.

Mr. Monteith seconded the motion.

Mr. Rathbone called attention to the bad management of the existing Pounds, to the fact of impounded cattle escaping, and of the claim of poundkeepers to non-repropulsibility.

to the fact or impounded cattle escaping, and of the claim of poundkeepers to non-responsibility.

The motion was carried.

The Chairman pointed out that permission to the Council to use the Court House as offices, and as a meeting place, was only granted temporarily; that at that moment the Court-room then occupied by members, was wanted by the Licensing Commissioners. He thought the Council should take steps to provide the Council with permanent offices.

After some discussion, Mr. Levy moved, and Mr. Lawrence seconded, that application be made to the Colonial Secretary for the permanent use of the Court House.

Mr. Russell moved as an amendment, for the permanent use of the Court House.

Mr. Russell moved as an amendment, which was seconded by Mr. Monteith, "That in view of alterations in the existing legislation bearing on local government, the matter of offices be left till after the next session of Parliament."

The amendment was carried.

The consideration of letters from Mr. Glenny, and from Mr. Bridge, in reference to opening up roads in their respective localities, was deferred pending the decision of the Council with respect to taking over the County roads.

The Chairman said the next business before the meeting was the consideration

The Chairman said the next business before the meeting was the consideration of Colonel Herrick's motion to rescind a former resolution passed by the council, by which all highways within the County had been declared County roads. At the last meeting of the Council the question had arisen as to whether it was competent for the Council to rescind that resolution without the consent of the Road Boards. It had been agreed to refer the matter to Mr. Cotterill, for a legal opinion, and the reply received was that "there can be no doubt the resolution cannot be rescinded without the consent of the Road Boards." The consent of the Road Boards had not been obtained. He did not know to what extent the outside public had been watching the proceedings of that Council, but it must have been apparent that the only work done since its formation had been to pull down at one meeting what had been done at a previous meeting. The Chairman then referred in strong terms to the systematic manner in which the Council had all along stultified itself. He then said, if Colonel Herrick's motion were carried, the same majority that earried it would be united enough, he feared, to prevent any County rate from being levied; the out lying districts would escape taxation altogether, though it was in them that the largest expenditure of public money was required. There were at present nine Road Boards in working order, but their revenues were altogether inadequate to meet their wants. Putting the rates they levied at an average of 6d in the pound, the following statement showed their pecuniary position,—the total valuation of the nine Road Boards was £38,178, the rates on that sum would bring in £1486 1186d, which with the Government subsidy would be a total revenue of £2973 2s. The total valuation of the outlying districts, was £41,725 8s 3d, which, had they been liable to be rated, would have brought in a revenue with the Government subsidies, of £2036 5s 6d, which of course was now lost to the county. The five Road Boards of Norse wood, West Woodville, Ormondville East Woodville, and Makareu, had but an united income of £166 18s 5d, and that required twenty-five Wardens to expend. On the other hand, if the Road Boards would merge themselves into the County, the revenue of the Council might be estimated as follows:

Road Boards would merge themselves into the County, the revenue of the Council might be estimated as follows:

Road Boards would merge themselves into the County, the revenue of the Council might be estimated as follows:

Road Boards would merge themselves into the County, the revenue of the Council might be estimated as follows:

Road Boards would merge themselves into the Council might b

Dog tax, say Auctioneers licenses

Against this, if Colonel Herrick's motion were carried, the available revenue of the County would only be £2.026 13s 6d. He (the hairman) considered it of the highest importance to strike the highest rate the law allowed, in order to obtain the largest possible subsidy. They could not expect these subsidies to be continued, and they should take advantage of them while they could get them. It was further of moment that the County should be in a position to carry on needful public works; the contractors who had been engaged on Government works were now out of employment, and they, having all necessary plant on hand, were in a position to undertake work at a cheaper rate than others. Moreover, while they were thus engaged, they would probably settle down as permanent settlers. Speaking for himself, as a woolgrower, he did not want roads; sheep-tarmers who did not intend disposing of their estates wanted neither population nor roads, but as members of that Council it was their duty to sink, private interests, and seek the welfare of the country.

Mr Monteith said there was no guarantee that the Council would strike such a rate as would bring in a revenue sofficient to keep all the roads in repair, and carry on the work of the Road Boards.

Mr Rathbone did not think the statement of the Chairman put the matter in £10,658 Against this, if Colonel Herrick's motion

Mr Rathbone did not think the statement of the Chairman put the matter in a fair light. The Road Boards had done good work in the past, and he hoped Parliment would further strengthea their hands next sersion. He thought the Counties Act should be amended so as to give power to the Council to levy rates in outlying districts. The report of the Road Overseer had shown that it would take over £4000 to keep the main roads in repair, the by-roads had not been considered, and he thought the local hodies in a far better position to look after them than that Council could be.

The Chairman remarked that although only the principal roads had been reported upon, it was seen that a much Mr Rathbone did not think the state-

The Chairman remarked that although only the principal roads had been reported upon, it was seen that a much larger amount was required for their maintenance than the Road Boards could find. Some of the roads had been reported as passable which, he knew, were in a state that obstructed the traffic.

Col. Herrick said the report referred only to ourlying roads, showing that the Road Boards had done their work well. He anticipated that Road Boards powers would be greatly increased after next session.

ssion. Mr Russell said they were wandering Mr Russell said they were wandering from the immediate question, and moved that a special meeting be appointed to consider Colonel Herrick's motion. He sympathised with the Road Boards, but he considered the subject of such im-portance as to demand more consideration than had been given it by members. He thought that if more deliberation had been shown by the Council before taking the action, they would not have had to undo so much of the work they had performed, performed,

Mr Lawrence seconded the motion,

Mr Monteith moved, as an amendment, and Mr Levy seconded, that Colonel Herrick's motion be disposed of

at once.

Then followed a long discussion of no Then followed a long discussion of no importance, each member speaking four or five times on the question. Finally, Colonel Herrick's motion was carried, that the resolution, passed on the 19th April, with respect to all roads heing taken over by the County Council be rescinded, subject to the approval of the Road Boards.

Messes Lawrence and Rathbone were Read Boards,

Me-srs Lawrence and Rathbone were appointed a Finance committee.

A special meeting of the Council was appointed to be held on Tuesday, 19th inst., for the consideration of the report on the roads.

The Council then adjourned.

OFFICIAL ECONOMY

OFFICIAL ECONOMY.

Ministers are determined to retrench. Two office boys have had their salaries docked 2\(^2\)d a week. If it wasn't for this stern economy there'd be nothing left to pay Ministers' travelling expenses. The other day at Wellington there was a sale of furniture at a place called the Terrace. It is a road out along the side of a bleak-looking hill, from which elevated position the Government swells look down in lofty grandeur upon the little insignificant taxpayers. One of the things sold was a pianoforte, and it was bought for the Government for £90 Of course, the instrument wasn't worth half that, but it dosen't matter. It is said the piano has been purchased for the Ministerial residence and that Dan'l Pollen intends to revive the Vogelien splendours of the past when champagne lunches and "jigs" turned the political scale, and spoony young members were betrayed Judas-like. The purchase of the piano has caused some excitement in fashionable circles in the Empire City, and the tailors are counting upon a revival in trade in dress suits. A friend of mine has sent me an account of a conversation he accidentally overheard between the wives of two M.H.R., which stands for "Muddle," "honorarium," and "Rant," It took place in a draper's shop. Said Mrs. A., as she meditatively turned over a sevenand-sixpenny silk. "So the House meets on the 20th July. How does your husband vote?" Mrs. B. (contemplating a fashionable sable jacket) "Well he would very much like to join the 'piposition for he thinks a change of administration would stop the extravagant expenditure that is now going on, but if the Major gives parties and balls like that dear Sir Jutius, of course, Mr B. will support the Ministry. I couldn't think of permitting him to join the opposition under such circumstances." Whereat I want some one to answer this conundrum: If the majority courtols the affairs of the State, who governs the majority?—Auckland Stat.

An old lady sleeping during divine service in a church in Liveryool, let fall

An old lady sleeping during divine service in a church in Liverpool, let fall her Bible, with clasps to it; and the noise partly awaking her, she exclaimed aloud, "What, you've broke another jug, you slut, have you?

A man who drinks on the sly when he does drink, inadvertently began a speech the other night, "Unaccustomed as I am to public drinking"—stopped, stammered, and tried to recover himself, but the point was seen, and the applause became tremendous.

"Five o'clock tea:" Mistress—"I really must inquire, Timmins, why the tea comes up so weak of an a termoon?" Parlor-maid—"Well, it should not m'um! Cook, she puts in a spoonful for merself, a spoonful for myself, and a spoonful for the parlor; and as you rings as we finishes, I fills up the teapot myself with bilin' water!" Punch.

A man is never so full of longing to be at rest in the grave, as when he has just landed on the cellar bottom, with the handle of his wife's best china pitcher in his hand.

Why cannot the Russian soldiers make why cannot the Russian soldiers make use of their railways? Because they eamnot get into (Kars).

That was an intelligent compositor who, when he came to the words "Arch-Bishop's residence."

A Quarter of Twelve.—"Ben, why were you out so late last night?"—It wasn't so very late—only a quarter of 12!"—"How dare you git there and tell me that? I was awake when you came, and looked at my watch. It was three o'clock."—"Well, isn't three a quarter of twelve."

THE NOVELIST.

LADY TREVOR'S SECRET :

OR, THE

Mystery of Cecil Rosse.

BY MRS, HARRIET LEWIS.

CHAPTER XIX.

AN UNEXPECTED VISIT.

AN UNEXPECTED VISIT,
Lady Trevor stood upon the threshold of her wicked success. She was about to discover 'eeil Rosse, to meet her face to face! Her excitement deepened with every in-tant. She paced the floor of her morning-room like a caged panther.
Her dark face grew darker still with sinister joy; her hard black eyes glirtered like polished jet beads; her rouged lips were set toge her in a hard, tense line. She looked all evil in that hour of joy, like a lost soul revelling; in deeds of line. She looked all evil in that hour of joy, like a lost soul revelling in deeds of darkness.

"Oh, why doesn't Pulford come?" she muttered, impatiently. "We ought to consult together before her arrival. What are we to do?"

Her excitement had grown to feverheat before her messenger returned with the statement that Mr l'ulford had been found at his lodgings and would present himself at her ladyship's house immediately.

himself at her ladyship's house immediately.

The message had scarcely been delivered when Lady Trevor's trusty ally made his appearance.

He entered the morning-room after his usual noiseless fashion, and paused an instant unseen just inside the door, watching the tall, full figure in its long maize colored robe, sweeping the floor in haste to and fro, the dark face gleaming, the pointed, cruel-looking teeth shut tightly into the full under lip, the eyes full of wicked fire. Then he broke the silence, exclaiming:

"Rehearsing tragedy, Edith? What's the matter?"

full of wicked fire. Then he broke the silence, exclaiming:

"Rehearsing tragedy, Edith? What's the matter?"

Lady Trevor started and rushed up to him crying exultingly:

"She's found, Horace; she's found?"

"Who is found? Who has been lost?"
demand d Mr Pulford, with an air of bewilderment.

"For whom have you been searching during the past month? Whose presence in England endangers my liberty and my fortune?" cried Lady Trevor, in a fierce whisper. "Whose existence is a continual menace to us?"

"The girl? You don't mean."

"I do!" interrupted Lady Trevor, rehemently, "Fate has thrown her in my way! She is coming here, to this very house, to see me!"

"Cecil Rosse?"

Mr Pulford stared, amazed, stupefied.
"Do you see that cloak?" exclaimed Laby Trevor, pointing to the glittering garment upon the chair, where she had thrown it. "Madame Lange, the fancy work dealer, who has done much work for me, brought it to me this morning. I asked her if it had been done in France. She answered no, that a young girl named Cecil Rosse had done it, and I bade her send the girl to me for more orders. She will be here to-day, this very hour, perhaps."

"The same is not common. It is the same. Madame Lange said that her Miss Rosse is always attended by an old German serving woman. Of course, it is the same, There cannot be a shadow of doubt."

"Chm your excitement, Edith. If the girl were to come now you would be

"Clm your excitement, Edith.

of doubt."

"C Im your excitement, Edith. If the girl were to come now you would be tray everything. If she does come what shall you say to her?"

"I shall give her work. I shall make her trust me. I shall be as gentle and gracious as a tigress playing with her victim. But what must come afterwards you know as well as I. I cannot have her at liberty. I cannot live in terror of her. I cannot risk the discovery of her by the Marquis of St. Leonards, or by Lord Glenham. She must be got rid of!" and Lady Trevor hissed the words into the ear of her confederate.

"I understand. Whatever we do, we will do together and share the guilt alike," said Mr Pulford, coolly. "I am willing to do anything to retain in our hands the magnificent fortune you now hold. Whatever menaces our possession of that fortune I shall sweep from our path as remorselessly as I would destroy a fly."
"I will have no murder!" heeathed path as remorselessiy as I would a fly."

a fly."

"I will have no murder!" hreathed "Lady Trevor, shuddering, "Not that, Pulford. It cannot be necessary."

"Perhaps not. We shall see. But if it should prove necessary we shall not hesitate even to commit murder," said the baronet's widow, "that you embroidered this opera cloak. I was quite sure that the work was French. Did you really design and embroider it yourself "Cecil replied in the affirmative.

"It is marvellously well done," said Lady Trevor, taking a seat near that of to stop even at murder, Edith.

would be preferable to suicide. You may be forced to one or the other."

would be preferable to suicide. You may be forced to one or the other."
"Hush! I cannot bear such words even from you. Let us try anything rather than commit the worst of crimes."
"I am willing, if milder measures will answer. Do you think I am anxious to inbue my hands in blood unless I am driven to it? The girl must be disposed of: but how? Sit here by me on this sofa, Edith, and we will try to arrive at some decision."

of, but how? Sit here by me on this sofa, Edith, and we will try to arrive at some decision."

They sat down near together, and conversed in whispers for a long time.

An hour—two hours—passed. Lady Trevor began to watch the clock with feverish anxiety.

"The girl must be here soon," she exclaimed. "I will see her alone, and engage her to do some embroidery for me. After half-an-hour or so you must come into the room quite carclessly, as if in search of a book, and observe her, and take good care to fix her features in your memory. We will be very careful not to excite her suspicions. We understand each other now, Pulford."

"We do. And as soon as this girl is safely out of our way you will marry me?"

"I promise. You will back a right to

"I promise. You will have a right to are in the fortune you will have helped share share in the fortune you will have helped me to retain."

The luncheon-hour had arrived, and still Miss Rosse did not make her appear-ance. The confederates lunched together, but neither made any pretence to appetite and returned as speedily as possible to ie morning-room.

It was three o'clock, and the conspirators were growing impatient, when a double knock was heard upon the oute door of the dwelling. Both started, "That is not a work-woman's knock, said Mr. Pulford, "It is some visitor—said Mr. Pulford. "It is some visitor—"

A servant entered.
"A young person wishes to see your ladyship," he announced. "The name is Miss Rosse."
"Show her up, J ames," exclaimed Lady Trevor, flushing and paling with singular rapidity. "Let her come up at onee."
The servant disappeared. Mr Pulford hastily beat a retreat to the library. A minute later Ceell Rosse was ushered into minute later Cecil Rosse was ushered into the morning room.

Lady Trevor was standing before the hearth, looking intently into the five, her heart beating wildly, her dark face 1a'e as ashes, her manner full of agistion the made a violent effort at self-control, and turned slowly, facing her visitor.

She had expected to behold a beautiful girl, but she was amazed at the vision of beauty, grace, and loveliness that met her eyes.

She had expected to behold a beaurity girl, but she was amazed at the vision of beauty, giace, and loveliness that met her eyes.

The lithe and slim figure, dressed simply in black that fitted it exquisitively, the star-like face, and its splendid young beauty, the radia t eyes, with the golden rint in their red-brown depth, the tenderness and spirit expressed in the lovely mouth, all impressed her with startling force and vividness. She marked the simple, girlish digaity, the unconscious hauteur of carriage, the lofty poise of the small and beautiful head, and a sudden terror passessed her.

This a working-girl! this an embroideress come for work! Why, she looked lik a young princess. Lady Trevor said in her own heart fercely that she had been deceived, that Madame Lange had lied to her, that this was no virl in search of work, but one who had been wronged and who had come demanding her rights!

The guilty woman trembled with fear. And even in that moment of terror, her heart was riven by a keen pang of jealousy. This girl, who looked like a goddess, had won Lord Glenham's heart. After loving Cecil Rosse he would never love Lady Trevor, that the latter felt convinced. She felt an awful impulse of hatred toward Cecil. In spite of her refluctance to do murder, she could have strangled the girl in that first moment with her convulsively-working fingers.

"You wished to see me, madam?" asked 'ceil's clear, sweet voice, breaking the silence. "I am Miss Rosse, sent to you by Madam Lange."

"Ah, yes," said the widow, hoarselv "Be seated, Miss Rosse, lent an ord quite well, but will attend to you directly."

Cecil sat down as directed. The man ner of Lady Trevor struck her as very singular, and something in the appearance of the tall brunette impressed her deeply. But before she had time to analyze her feelings, Lady Trevor was e-lin and ready to enterupon the apparent business of the visit.

"Madame Lange tells me, Mis Rosse," said the baronet's widow, "that you embroidered this opera cloak, I. Was quite sure that th

Cecil. "And it is so accurate and so charmingly designed that I know you must have learned your trade in Paris!"
Cecil reddened. He pride was stung, and her mamor was a little touched with, haughtiness as she responded:
"I did not learn to embroider in Paris but in Germany. The art was taught me as an accomplishment. I am glad that my work has pleased you, madam, and shall be glad of further orders."
"I was yery positive that the work was

"I was very positive that the work was French," said Lady Trevor. "You have certainly a great deal of talent, Miss Rosse. By the way, is yours a German

"I am not German," answered Ceeil, quietly. "I was brought up in a little village of the Black Forest, but I am of English birth."

"Singular? Your parents settled there, perhaps?" asked Lady Trevor, carelessly.

The girl's face grew paler than usual. "I have no parents, she said, with her head held a little higher than before. "I was brought up by a German Luthe an pastor and his wife, but they were not my kindred."

She was beginning to wonder at the not my kindred."

She was beginning to wonder at the interest which Lady Trever seemed to take in her history. The widow, having satisfied herself of the girl's identity, hastened to change the subject.

"I am so delighted with your work, Miss Rosse," she remarked with assumed carelessness, "that I should like to engage your service exclusively during the next few months. I may as well tell you what all the world knows—I am about to be married!"

Cecil bowed gravely, her lips growing white. She had suspected that her new patroness was the lady whom report declered to be the betrothed wife of Lord Glenham.

patroness was the lady whom report declered to be the betrothed wife of Lord Glenham.

"If you know anything about fashionable society," said Lady Trevor—" and even a sewing-girl, I presume, takes an interest in the aristocracy from which she derives a support—I dare say you have heard my name linked with that of the Farl of Glenham!"

"Ceil again bowed. She could not speak. The hard black eyes of herememy read her secret agitation, and glittered with triumph

"I am to be married in the course of a few weeks," continued Lady Trevor. "We shall spend the winter abroad. Now the work I have in band would require your residence at one of my country houses throughout the winter."

Cecil looked surprise.

"You would see nothing of me or my husband," continued Lady Trevor, as the girl did not speak. "The servants would remain in the house, of course, but they would not in any way interfere with your comfort—on the contrary they would have strict orders to treat you with every consideration

"What is the work you wish me to do?"

"I possess some priceless old tapestry do?"

"I possess some priceless old tapestry that has been in our family for hundreds of years," explained Lady Trevor, "It is moth-caten and rat-bitten, but enough of it remains to render its renovation desirable. The design is rather elaborate and intricate. The hand of an artist is required in its restoration. Pieces of canvas require to be fitted in with the utmost precision and nieety, and the design carried out upon them. Up to now I have never found any one to whom I would entrust this precious work. Will you undertake it!"

Cecil hesirated.

"The pay shall be liberal," said Lady Trevor, hastily, "As I require not only manual dexterity, but thought, research, invention, I am willing to pay one hundred pounds for the work, which will require the winter for its successful aecomplishment"

"The ray is more than liberal madam," said Cecil, "but I am not sure that I can "I possess some priceless old tapestry

"The nay is more than liberal madam," said Cecil, "but I am not sure that I can accept the place you offer me. I have an old servant from whom I cannot be separated—"
"It is not now.

not necessary that you should

"It is not necessary that you should be. She can accompany you."
Cecil reflected scrously, while her enemy watched her as a cat watches a mouse. The girl felt that she was very pleasantly situated at Queen's Crescent, her landlady was kind and motherly, and the place had already besun to seem home-like to her. But then she had a longing for the country, and often felt stifled in the close quarters of her lodgings. The sum offered for her winter services was munificent. She could keep Gretchen with her, and in the spring they could have a handsome little extra fund to add to their store.

have a handsome little extra fund to add to their store.

Against these considerations were to be placed certain drawbacks and objec-tions. She felt that she could never meet Lord Glenham again. She loved him with all her heart, and could not bear to look upon his face when he should be the husband of another. How could she work for his wife? The passionate young soul thrilled with jealous pain, How could she take money from the woman who had supplanted her in Lord Glenham's heart. Lady Trevor witnessed the struggle going on in Cecil's mind, and awaited its going on in Cecil's mind, and awaited its conclusion;

"I did not deem it necessary to say that your board and that of your servant, with other necessaries, would be included in the price of your services, and be exclusive of the hundred pounds," said the widow, "I can see, Miss Rosse, that you have been brought up as a lady. You would be treated as such at my house. The servants will regard you as a superior. You will be virtually mistress of the house, since I shall be abroad with my hu-band, and shall not return until your work is done."

"Where is your house, Lady Trevor?"

"In the northern part of Yorkshire, hear the coast. It is remote from a rail-way station, and if you decide to go, I shall be glad to send you to Greycourt—that is the name of my place—in my yacht. It will be in London to-morrow, and is to sail to-morrow evening for Greycourt."

This was false, the Undine being at the magnet or her way down the year.

and is to sail to-morrow evening for Greveourt."

This was false, the Undine being at that moment or her way down the west coast from Scotland en route for London. But the plans of I ady Trevor and Mr Pulford were well-laid, and this statement was in accordance with them.

"I cannot give you a decided answer at his moment, Lady Trevor," replied Cecil. "I must first counsel with my servant, who is my only friend. If you will kirdly give me until evening to consider your kind offer, I will send you my answer."

The widow could scarcely conceal her

sider your kind offer, I will send you my answer."

The widow could scarcely conceal her disappointment. She had expected the girl to accept her offer without much delay.

"If you desire to achieve an independence, Miss Rosse, I am sure that you could not do better," she exclaimed, "And the work would interest an artist. Of course you must do as you think best, however."

Befor Cecil could make any response, Mr Pulford sauntered into the room, Under cover of searching for a book, he stared curiously at the young girl, starting at the sight of her splendid beauty and radiant loveliness.

Cecil colored under his gaze, and arose to her feet.

"If you will excuse me now, madam," she said, courteously, "I will return to my lodgings and counsel with my servant."

The door-knocker at this moment

vant."
The door-knocker at this moment sounded violently. Lady Trevor paused to listen. Before she could collect her thoughts sufficiently to answer Cccl. the door open-d, and the Marquis of St. Leonards stalked into the room.

CHAPTER XX.

THE SUCCESS OF THE CONSPIRATORS. The consternation of the two plotters at the unexpected and unwelcome appearance of the old lord was too great for ande of the old ford was too great or words.

Lady Trevor's visage grew livid in its swift pallor. Her hard, black eyes filled with sudden horror. She clutched at her chair with uncontrollable faintness. Mr. Pulford stood like a statute, scarcely less startled and horrified.

The meanis surveyed them both in startled and horrified.

The marquis surveyed them both in assonishment, His keen old eyes could not fail to mark their agitation, but he attributed it to a wrong cause.

"Excuse my unceremonious entrance, Edith," he exclaimed. "I would not let the footman announce me, especially as he said that you were not engaged with visitors."

he said that you were not in the said that you were a vigorous effort at self control.

"You are always welcome, grandpa," she said, her voice quavering in spite of herself. "I am delighted to see you!"

"You look so!" said the Marquis deely.

dryly.
Ceeil had made a movement to with-Cecil had made a movement to withdraw. That movement drew the marquis's attention upon her. He had not previously noticed her presence, now he stared at her, bewildered. He recognised her at first glance, as she also recognised him.

"Miss Rosse!" he ejaculated, his stern and haushty old face kindling into sudden warmth and pleasure. "Is it possible! I am delighted to see you!"

Lady Trever and Mr. Pulford exchanged looks of utter amazement and horror.

changed toose of the property of the marquis approached Ceeil, holding out his hand. She, blushing like a rose, placed her small hand in his, and faltered a response. Something in his looks and tones thrilled her strangely, "Grandpapa," said Lady [Trevor, huskily, "I did not know that you were acquainted with Miss Rosse."

acquainted with Miss Rosse."

"I owe to Miss Rosse the preservation of my life and property," said the old marquis. "I was attacked by two miscreants upon the night after my return to town in a dark little street out of Regent Street. The rascals threw me down, clutched my throat, and would have strangled me and rifled my person at the same moment if Miss Rosse had not come to my rescue. She had seen the struggle and, like the brave young lady she is, she gave a scream for help and came flying towards me! The two rascals took to their heels. I have thought very often of you since that night, Miss Rosse, and am very glad to see you again. I am delighted to find that you are one of Lady Trevor's friends." Trevor's friends.

It never occurred to the old Lord that this graceful, high-bred, beautiful girl was less than Lady Trevor's social

"The service I was enabled to render your lordship was too small to merit of your 'gratitude," said Ceeil moderately. "I trust that you have quite recovered from the effects of the assault."

"Quite, I thank you. Do not let me keep you standing, Miss Rosse!"

"I was about to go, when you came in," replied Ceeil. "Permit me to bid you good-morning."

She bowed to Lady Trevor, to Mr. Palford, and to the marquis, who opened the door for her, and watched her departure with something of wistful sadoess in his grand old eyes.

"The loveliest girl I ever saw in my life!" he ejaculated, when the housedoor closed after her. "Who is she Edith? The heiress of some noble house, I know."

Mr. Pulford disgreetly withdrew into The service I was enabled to rende Edith? The heiress of some noble house, I know."

Mr. Pulford discreetly withdrew into the inner room, leaving the marquis and his granddaughter alone together.

The widow felt a great burden lifted from her, as Lord St. Leonards indicated by his question that the girl's history was not known to him.

"You are mistaken grandpapa," she exclaimed. "Miss Rosse is not what you think. She is only a sewing-girl."

"Impossible! She! This is not a proper subject for jest, Edith," said Lord St. Leonards, sternly.

"I am not jesting. The girl has been ewing for me. Do you see my cloak? Is it toot a perfect work of art? Miss Rosse embroidered it. I consider her one of the foremost in her trade?"

"But there must be some mistake, Edith. Miss Rosse is a thorough lady, well-educated, and well-bred. She is better fitted for a governess, if she is poor, than for manual labor."

"Ah, beauty blinds the eyes of men!" cried Lady Trevor, with assumed playfulness. "Miss Rosse has the outside varnish and veneer of good-breeding, but she is of obscure parentage. Why, she was brought up on the Surrey side, on some humble street in Southwark, and her father is a shoemaker. She has one sister who is a milliner. On account of her beauty this girl has had superior advantages, which she has well improved. She looks quite like a lady!"

The marquis looked staggered at this declaration, uttered with every appearance of fruthfulness.

"If the girl be what you say, Edith," he exclaimed, "then I will never more believe in blood. Generations of culture and reament among her ancestors. We of the aristocracy, as we call it, are no better, perhaps, than our neighbours of Southwark, but they, for generatious, have had time only for labor, thought only for wants and how to gratify them. Our ancestors have been among those who have made the laws; they have been leaders; they have cultivated their minds and let their muscles dwindle into feebleness, and the result is that we look different, and are different from the people who have been obliged always papa."

"I judge from her face. I am a student of physiognomy. I never saw her but twice—that night in the street and now. But, Edith, I never met a person who se impressed me so singularly and deeply. Do you know her address?"

The widow felt a new and keen alarm, which she did her best to conceal.

"She lives in Southwark, but she did not tell me the street and number, "she replied, with pretended indifference. "She will bring home fresh work for me next week. I'll ask then for her exact address."

"I lew little Albe had lived she world."

address."
"If my little Alba had lived she would have been about the age of Miss Rosse," said the old marquis, thoughtfully. "And this young girl's eyes somehow remind me of the baby eyes of my little grand-child, a deep gloom with sunlight in its midst."

child, a deep gloom with sunnight in its midst."

Lady Trevor stooped to pick up her handkerchief. Her breathing was strangely hurried. The marquis could not see her face.

"Alba might have looked as Miss Rosse does," he continued, as if thinking aloud. "But then I never see a young girl but I think of the little child I idolised. Oh, Edith, I can never forgive you for keeping her from me during those tast months of her little life! I can never forgive you for letting her die away from me. I parted from her when she was all baby-beauty and brightness. You sent her back to me in her cuffin."

"You are unjust, cruelly unjust, grand-

You sent her back to me in her coffin."

"You are unjust, cruelly unjust, grandpapa! I would to Heaven I had died in her stead!" cried Lady Trevor, putting her handkerchief to her eyes. "You blame me for what I could not help—"

"If I could only be sure of that. I doubt you, Edith, in spite of all my efforts to believe in you. The little creature stood between you and a colossal fortune—" efforts to believe in you. The little creature stood between you and a colossal fortune—"

"And you think that I may have killed her? Why, I was not twenty-one years old at the time!"

"You were old in many respects, and you were the wife of one of the worst men who ever disgraced the name of Englishmen. I believe that he would not have scrupled to kill a little child who stood between him and a great inheritance. I may be wrong. If so, forgive me. But you were greatly to blame for not bringing her to me immediately after her mother's death. That you did not do so, I will never forgive you! You benefited by Alba's death. That fact in itself is an accusation against you!"

"You are very cruel and unjust to me. I am friendless and alone!" murmured Lady Trevor, in passionate reproach. "Do you call this reconciliation, my lord? I cannot bear such scenes as these. I will not. If you will teat me as your grandchild whom you have forgiven, I will devote my life to your happiness, but to be accused of horrible crimes is more than I can bear."

"We will have no more of such accusations Edith," said the Marquis, in a subdued voice, repenting his outbreak. "The sight of Miss Rosse brought it all back to me, my grief and loss, and the memory of the little dead child in her baby-beauty and sweetness. I live a lonely life, full of haunting memories. If I had only a family about me I should be content. I am old: I was made for domestic life. Igo home to great desolate rooms, where only servants enter to break my solitude. I sit alone at my table, with my butler and footman to wait upon me, but with no friendly face near, no kindly voice to speak to me. It's a hard, barren, miserable life."

"You need some one to cheer you, dear grandpapa," said Lady Trevor, changing her seat for one nearer to him. "Let me friendly face near, no kindly voice to speak to me. It's a hard, barren, miserable life."

"You need some one to cheer you, dear grandpapa," said Lady Trevor, changing her seat for one nearer to him. "Let me come to St. Leonards. I would ask nothing better than to devote my iffe to securing your comfort and happiness."

"Very prettily said, but I cannot have you there yet. I should break out upon you in stormy seenes like this one, until your life became a burden. I feel very bitterly towards you still at times. I suspect you of crime towards your innocent little step-sister. Heaven grant I wrong you, Edith! But for the present you must see that we are better apart. I loved the Earl of Glenham as if he were my son. If he can be weaned from his foreign adventuress, and if you and he should marry, I shall be glad to have a place at your fireside. Gordon's presence will turn our antagonism into harmony. Until that marriage, I shall come to see you often, and desire your visits, but we will not have one home!"

"And you will continue to bear your loneliness, grandfather?"

The Marquis flushed with a new idea.

"I do not know that that is qutie necessary, Edith," he answered. "You say that Miss Rosse belongs to an obscure family, and that she is well-educated. She is out of her proper place where she is. She is made for a life of refinement Edith, I will adopt her, if she will con-

"Grandfather!" "Grandfather!"
"Does the project seem wild? I will adopt her as my grandchild, ward, whatever she may choose. She shall brighten my lonely home, sing to me, write my letters, and fill out my desolate existence with new interests, I think she could not refuse my offers."
"It is not proper. The world will talk," ejaculated Lady Trevor, in a panie,

"I am seventy-five years old. People do not imagine evil of one so near the grave. The child is but seventeen or so. And I will legally adopt her, Edith, and settle upon her a fortune sufficient to keep her properly after I am gone. I wish I had her address."

"I shall have it next week when she brings home my work. I will then send it to you," said the widow, hoarsely.

"Thank you. I will go down now and see my lawyer about it. He must see the father and arrange affairs legally. I will myself see Miss Rosse."

"You don't seem to anticipate a refusal." "I am seventy-five years old, People fusal.

fusal."

"I do not. I saw that she liked me as I liked her. It was a mutual attraction, Edith, although I am so old and she is so oung. I know I could win her daughterly love. I intend to make the effort at any rate. Send me her address as soon as you receive it. I'll go down now to see Barker."

He arose, and the widow followed his example.

"Ah, by the way," said Lord St Leonards, halting midway to the door.
"I noticed your confusion, Edith, when I entered the room. And I knew its cau-e."

"Impossible!" breathed Lady Trevor.
"I expressed my disapprobation of man Pulford when I was at Castle Cliff. man Pulford when I was at Castle Cliff.
He was the friend and companion of your dissolute husband, and you should not permit him to visit you. No wonder you were confused at having me find him so familiarly in your presence. You muss close you doors upon him. I know faces. His is a bad one!"
"You do him injustice my lord. He is you were contised at naving the find him so familiarly in your presence. You must close you doors upon him. I know faces. His is a bad one!"

"You do him inju-tice, my lord. He is my man of business—"

"Get rid of him, then. Some one asked me yesterday at my club if it were true that the fellow were your lover. Think or that, You may imagine how! I resented the insinuation. After your mad folly in running away with Sir Albert Trevor, people suspect you capable of any amount of idiocy, I imagine. Get rid of Pulford. I'll find you another man of business who won't presume on his place!"

"I can't discharge Pulford at present, grandfather, but I will do so before I marry Lord Glenham. Come and see me often. I am always delighted to see you!" said the widow, bestowing an embrace and kiss upon the marquis, who received it as if it were distasteful.

"Good-morning, Edith. Don't forget Miss Rosse's address!" and the old lord formally took his leave.

Lady Trevor had scarcely resumed her seat when Mr Pulford rejoined her.

"Did you hear what the marquis said!" demanded the widow.

"Every word, including his complimentary ment on of myself," replied Pulford, his florid face burning with his anger.* "Proud as he is, he'll find that I shall be his grandson-in-law in spite of him! That will be my revenge upon him, Edith, I thought your reply to him very good."

"He wants to adopt that girl!"

"Can he susneet?"

very good,"
"He wants to adopt that girl !"

"He wants to adopt the has "Can he suspect?"
"No. He is in his dotage. He has taken a fancy to her, but he cannot possibly have the most remote suspicion of the truth, else he would have killed me in his fury. He is awful in his rages. But his far, a complication! Who could have what a complication! stoty have the most the truth, else he would have killed me in his fury. He is awful in his rages. But what a complication! Who could have forseen that he would encounter her? Do you know, Pulford, I feel as if I were fighting against invisible beings—as if I were struggling with fate itself in this matter? Just see what has happened. The girl was hidden in the depths of the Black Forest, and Lord Glenham found her there and fell in love with hr. Her guardian died and she came to England, and Lord St. Leonards encounters her strangely, and wants to adopt her. Do you believe in Providence?"

"I am tempted to do so now."

"And so am I. There is something in all this I can't understand. The girl has not decided to accept my proposition, Suppose she refuses?"

Suppose she refuses?"

"Then we'll carry her off by force.
We have gone too far to stop now."

"She hesitated because she believes me engaged to marry Lord Glenham, and she does not want my money, and she does want to avoid seeing him. I offered a handsome bait. I think the old servant will prove a prudent sort of person and advise her to accept the offer. She was brought up in the forest and I saw her eyes sparkle at the mention of the country. I think my pretty gudgeon will swallow my bait."

"I will have a yacht ready to-morrow for the trip. I can charter one easily enough. The other arrangements will also be made to-day!"

Lady Trevor's prophecy proved correct. Old Gretchen had a longing, even greater than that of her young mistress, for the country, and strenuously urged. Cecil to accept Lady Trevor's effer.

"We shall never see Lord Glenham there," the old woman urged. "Her ladyship's money is as good as anybody's. Do consent, Miss Cecil."

"It is something to live for an entire winter in the house he will hereafter inhabit," thought the girl, drearily. "And the work I do will meet his eyes often and often in the years to come, and he will never know whose hands restored his tanestry. Yet she may tell him, and he will look on the work with tenderness, for her he once loved. I'll go."

"I'll leave a letter for Mr Crafton," thought old Gretchen, "He can follow us if he likes. He'll have a better chance of winning Miss' ceil in the country."

And so it happened that Cecil, suspecting no deep laid design against herself, feeling no misgiving, sent that very afternoon a letter to Lady Trevor accepting the situation offered her.

If she could have seen the evil joy of the conspirators when the letter reached them she would have trembled with terror.

"It's all right now," said Mr Pulford.
"Write to her to come here with her ror.

"It's all right now," said Mr Pulford.
"Write to her to come here with her luggage and her servant in a cab at five o'clock to-morrow afternoon, he will come—she will go away again—and then she will disappear from the knowledge of all who have known her, and be beyond the search of the keenest detective in all England. It will be only another of the 'mysterious disappearances' that all England. It will be only another of the 'mysterious disappearances' that now and then are recorded in the news-papers. I am impatient for to-morrow! We shall sleep in safety to-morrow nigat! We shall then have never more reason to fear 'Miss Rosse!'"

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

AWKWARD MISHAP TO THE NAPIER COACH,

ANKWARD MISHAP TO THE NAPIER COACH.

An awkward mishap, says the Masterton News, befel the Napier coach on its outward journey the other day. Arriving at the Mangatainoka, the river was so high that the ford could not be taken. The day was too far advanced to think of returning to Eketahuna, so that nothing was left for the hapless passengers but to make the best shift they could for the night. The coach contained, besides the driver, a lady and four gentlemen: Professor Taylor and his coadjutrix, "Lillie, Queen of Skates," being amongst the number. To make matters worse the weather was wretchedly bad, with rain falling in perfect torrents. Fortunately, a roadman's party was camped in the vicinity, from whom Mr. Taylor and the lady received shelter for the night. Some idea of the shelter afforded may be gathered from the fact that they were stowed away in a tent 6 x 8 al ang with another woman, two men, and four children. The other two passengers, along with the driver, had to do the best they could inside the coach. The only thing in the shape of edibles to be procured was a piece of "damper" moistened with a few mouthfuls of tea, so that altogether it will be seen, that while the party were not well housed, neither did they fare very sumptuously on the occasion. The Mangatainoka is one of the rivers on this road upon which punts were lately placed. These, however, have not yet been brought into use, in consequence of the wire ropes not having been suspended. The ropes have been lying on the ground for five or six weeks past, but in consequence of the blunder of some one having charge thereof, the punts are, practically speaking useless. Now that attention has been thus pointedly drawn to the matter, surely the completion of the work will not be longer delayed.

The gentleman who kissed a lady's "snow how how "caucht a target and a lady's "snow how how "caucht a target and a lady's "snow how how "caucht a target and a lady's "snow have a target and a lady's "snow have a lady."

The gentleman who kissed a lady's "snowy brow "caught a severe cold and has been laid up ever since.

A Sunday-school teacher was giving a lesson in Ruth. She wanted to bring out the kindness of Boaz in commanding the reapers to drop large handfuls of wheat. "Now children," she said, "Boaz did another nice thing for Ruth; can you tell me what it was?" "Married her!" said one of the boys.

London Punch defines a woman as a creature endowed with self-ornamental natincts.

EDUCATION BOARD.

MONDAY, JUNE 4.

Monday, June 4.

The Education Board met this morning at eleven o'clock.

Present—Messrs Rhodes, (Chairman),
Newton, Lee, and Chambers.

A letter was read from the Rev Mr Simeox, re the Wainul school, info ming the Board of the election of a School Committee, and of the amount of the sum subscribed (£161 18*); also asking whether the Government would augment the sum of money locally raised, by a grant to enable a schoolhouse to be built to accommodate eight or ten weekly boarders.

to accommodate eight or ten weekly boarders.

The Secretary was instructed to refer Mr Simcox to the Act, and that when the amount subscribed had been deposited in conformity with the same, the Board would advance one-half the amount up to £100; the plans of the building to be submitted to the Board.

An application from the Waipukurau School Committee, for a further grant in aid towards the cost of the schoolmaster's residence, was read.

aid towards the cost of the schoolmaster's residence, was read.

The application was approved of, and £100 granted in aid.

An application from Mr. Anning for the favorable consideration of the Board to aid him in his endeavors to carry on a private school at the Western Spit, was refused, on the grounds that it was a private school.

The same of 650 was avoided to the refused, on the grounds that it was a private school.

The sum of £50 was granted to the Kaikora school for its enlargement, and the sum of £25 to the Hastings school.

The resignation of the Hon, R. Stokes from the trusteeship of the Waipawa school was received and accepted.

A letter was received from Mr. E. Fannin, written on behalf of the settlers of Mohaka, requerting to be informed as to the amount required to be subscribed in order to obtain a grant in aid of £100 towards the erection of a school house and master's dwelling.

The secetary was instructed to forward the required information.

The accounts were then passed, and the Board adjourned until next sitting

The accounts were then passed, and the Board adjourned until next sitting

MRS. NEILL'S CONCERT.

MRS. NEILL'S CONCERT.

When we say that the concert, given on Friday by Mrs. Neill, was the most successful of the agrecable series that lady has offered to lovers of music since her residence in Napier, we mean it to be understood that it was the best amateur performance of its kind that we have had here for very many years. At her former concerts, Mrs. Neill has had the pianoforte only, but last night she had brought together an exceedingly effective band of instrumentalists.

The programme commenced with the Sadowa March, which, after a little shakiness at first, was played very well, and in excellent time, Miss Martin presiding at the piano, and Mr. Crawford playing first violin. This was followed by the "Mermaid's Song," and chorus. Mrs. Neill took the solo, which she rendered most artistically, Miss Martin playing the pianoforte, and Mr. Jones the cornet, accompaniments. At the right moment, the stage scenery was drawn back, and the chorus singers, forming a bank of young ladies, were disclosed. The effect was extremely pretty. Mr. Jones gave afterwards Wallace's beautiful song, "There is a flower that bloometh," which was deservedly encored, to which he responded, by singing "In Happy Moments." The duet that followed "Sainted Mother," by Mrs. Neill and Miss Le Couteur was a "mirably sung, and received a well merited encore. Mrs. Powell's "Love's Request' was also encored, being very aweetly rendered. "Softly falls the shades of Evening" was given as a quartette, by Mrs. Neil, Miss Le Couteur, Messrs. Jones and Martin. The lively "Rain Chorus," from "Chilperie," was given with excellent spirit and time, and was loudly applauded, and encored. Miss Martin's accompainment on the piano was excellent. The first part of the programme was brought to a close by the "Miserere" from "Il Trovatore," Mrs. Neill took the part of Leonora, and Mr. Jones that of Maurico. This which could only be done by good artistes, was really well sang, and provoked much applause. The invisible chorus was most effective.

applause. The invisible chorus was most effective.

The second part of the programme opened with a lively galop by the band, which was followed by the Gipsy Maiden's chorus, and then by "Ring on aweet Angelus," by Mrs. Powell. A duef, "The Sailor Sighs," by Miss Le Couteur and Mr. Morgon was encored. Then came a charming song, "Waiting," by Mr. Neill, accompanied on the piano by Miss Rearden. In response to an encore Mrs Neill gave "She wore a wreath of roses." This was most sweetly and feelingly rendered, and was decidedly the gem of the evening. Messrs Jones and Martin sung "Love and War," a very spirited duet, that was very well given. Miss Le Couteur's "Shy Kobin" elicited immense applause and an encore. The trio "I'm not the Queen" by Mrs Neill, Miss Le Couteur, and Mr Morgon was admirably given, and was deservedly encored. "Hark the Drum," was sung by Mr Morgon, accompanied on the piano by Mr Crawford, and on the cornet by Jones. In this Mr Morgon has seldom been heard to better advantage. The "Market Chorus" brought the concert to a conclusion, after a most enjoyable musical entertainment.

THE WINTER IN ENGLAND.

THE WINTER IN ENGLAND.

The London correspondent of the Auckland Star says:—We have been having an awful winter. For the past two months the papers have daily contained a ghastly register of shipwrecks and drownings. The floods in England have been awful and universal, and no doubt Parliament will be called to legislate on some scheme for preventing extensive floods in future. As for wrecks, our coasts have been ilterally strewn with the bodies of drowned scamen. In one gale no less than 17 fishing smacks were lost out of Yarmouth and Lowestoff; and if we put the number of hands at five each, which is below the mark, we have an awful result. There has been very little frost or mow, but endless wind and rain. List week was wet and warm at the beginning, primroses were opening, and every one thought he smelt spring. In twenty-tour hours the ground was a foot deep in snow, and the thersometer registered 23 degrees of frost. This lasted for two or three days; and then hey! presto! just as the skates began to appear in the windows, down came an awful gale of wind, with forrents of rain and a balmy atmosphere, followed again two days ago by a northerly blow, with sleet and hail enough to skip one alive, such is life in this lively old hulk of a country where o dy the fiftest survive. I am rapidly becoming convinced that the reason why the English have maintained their repution and their stamina is, that sickly folks usually are carried off before they have time to reproduce their infirmities and only the tough and wiry attain a decent age.

LOCALE OF THE WAR.

The following article from the M bourne A.e., written by a military gentle-man who has a thorough acquaintance of the scene of operation, will be read with interest:—

man who has a thorough acquaintance of the scene of operation, will be read with interest:—

The Australian Associated Press telegram of 9th May shows that hostilities are now in full force along the whole line of the Danube from Kalafat and Widdin, the western frontier line of Roumania, to Galatz, one of the most important fortified positions on the Danube to the west, and that so far the Turks are acting on the offensive with more or less success. The Turks, the telegram of 9th May states, are bombarding Kalafat, which is on the north or Roumanian side of the Danube, and the Roumanian batteries are replying to the fire. Kalafat played a most important part in the campaign of 1853-4. The Turkish town of Widdin is on the opposite side of the river. It contains a large population, and has for centuries been one of the strongest potts in the contests of the Turks with their northern neighbors. Kalafat is a much smaller town, having outside it two high hills about a mile asunder, which have furnished the means of supplying Kalafat with strong fortifications. On the 28th October, 1843, the Turks—12,000 strong—crossed the Danube, and occupied Kalafat and a small island near the Wallachian shore. The Russians at once retreated upon Slatina, a small town on the Aluta River, and the Turks proceeded at once to strengthen Kalafat. They raised redoubts of greath strength and extent, some on the two lofty hills, commanding all approach to the Danube in that direction. The little island, too, was defended by strong earthern entrenchments, mounted with large guas. Taken in all approach ...

The little island, too, was defended by strong earthern entrenchments, mounted with large guns, Taken in connection with Widdin and its defences, the two towns and the interlying island formed one stronghold, well fortified, supplied with 250 heavy guns, and occupied by a large army. The Russians the two towns and the interlying island formed one stronghold, well fortified, supplied with 250 heavy gnus, and occupied by a large army. The Russians were not prepared for such a vigorous attack in this one spot. They had 400 miles of the Danube to look to, and could not spare a large force at each important olace. Shortly after the occupation of Kalafat there were several brilliant encounters between the contending forces, the results of which greatly buoyed up the spirits of the Turks, and these culminated in the famous battle of Citale, Citale is a little higher up the Danube than Kalafat. Aurep, the Russian general, had been ordered to advance upon Kalafat from Krajova, and he endeavored to render the roads passable for artillery between Slatina, Karacal, Krajova and Kalafat. The Torks however, drove the Russian general Fischbach from Krajova, and compelled him to retire behind the Aluta Meanwhile 20,000 Russians advanced upon Kalafat. The Russians got round on the flank of the Turkish entrenchments, and flong up redoubts at Citale. Achmet Pacha, who held Kalafat, sent a strong corps to the little village of Maglovet, near Citale, where the troops bivouacked tor the night. The next day the contending armies met in battle, when the Turks gained the most brilliant victory they had yet achieved. The Russians were defeated both in the village and on the plain, for in effect there were two distinct hattles, The Turks bots at Citale 338 dead and 700 wounded, whilst the Russians numbered 1500 dead and an untold number wounded.

Many subsequent skirmishes took place between the Turks and Russians near ber wonnaed.

Many subsequent skirmishes took place hetween the Turks and Russians near Kalsfat without any decided advantage. Subsequently the battle of Giurgevo lower down the Danube, was tought, and to this we lately made reference in connection with recent hostilities. The whole of the Russian operations along the Danube in 1853 were directed at obtaining the strongly fortified Turkish city of Silistria, on the south bank of the Danube. This is now also the coveted position, but so tar the Turks, under greater advantages than they labored in the last war, are not only holding their own all along the river, but are proving themselves at every important point stronger than their enemies. That the Turks are allowing the Russians quiet possession of Ismail and Kilia, near the mouth of the Danube, is intelligible enough. The Turks are quite willing that the Russians should enter the Dobrudscha, knowing that if once a Russian army landed there they could shut them up like rats in a trap, as in the last campaign, and that a comparatively small force would sufface to keep them from advancing beyond Trajan's Wall upon Silistria.

The telegram received on the 18th inst states that the Russians attempted to cross the Danude at Rent, a small Russian town of Bessarabia. This is evidently a mistake. Reni lies between Galatz and Ismail, on the Moldavian side of the Danube. By crossing the river successfully at this point, the Russians would enter the Dobrudscha, and the design, no doubt, was to march upon Toutcha, its capital city, which lies but a short distance from the river. If, as the telegram states, the Russians were defeated here with great loss, it shows that along the entire length of the Danube the Turks are still holding their own, although they are being attacked at numerous points on the river for a total distance of between 400 and 500 miles. The Russians, it is to be remembered, have possession of Ismail on the west, and Galatz on the east, so that, Reni lying between the two, they must have been able to o more importance.

MR. FOX'S NEW PERMISSIVE BILL,

BILL.

The Hon. W. Fox, at a public meeting held at Wanganui this week, gave the following outline of the new Bill he purposes introducing next session:

The alterations which it was proposed should be made in the present Licensing Law by the Permissive or Local Option Bill, he would explain. By the present law, Licensing Courts have been instituted, composed of nominees of the Government, into whose hands the vast monopoly has passed; but it was not proposed to interfere with their duties or powers, save in one important particular. The first duty of the Court was to decide upon the qualifications of the applicant for a license; the second, as to the suitability of the premises. With these duties it was not proposed to interfere. The third question they had to decide was, whether the license was wanted—not in the interests of the publican, or importer, or distiller—but in the interests of the people of the district. By the Permissive Bill this most important question would be taken out of the hands of the Court, and relegated to the people themselves to decide—he hoped to the adult, males and and relegated to the nands of the Court, and relegated to the people themselves to decide—he hoped to the adult, males and females of every licensing district. There were one or two slight variations of opi-nion as to how the will of the people should be expressed. Mr Stout and others, backed by the authority of constitutional usage, wished the matter decided by a simple majority of one; for himself, he was liberal enough to abide by the result involved in recognising a majority of three-fourths. Mr. Stout's bill relegated the matter to a simple majority of the ratepayers; he, on the other hand, was willing that it should be decided by two-thirds of the number who recorded their votes—the Resident Magis-rate forwarding voting papers to every householder, whose duty it would be simply to fill in the word "yes" or "noo" in answer to the query therein contained, as to whether any license should be granted within the district. The speaker here explained that the Licensing Bill introduced by him in 1873 contained the germ of the permissive principle, but the machinery for carrying it ints effect had been so mutisated by its opponents that it was rendered unworkable. In addition to the stale arguments against the bill, that it would not effect the objects simed at and that it was an interference with personal liberty, it was now urged that obtaining the voice of the people in the way proposed was unconstitutional—was Napoleonic—was in the form of a plebiscite. To this he might answer, that if it was unconstitutional it was in accordance with the practice of the British Parliament, which had recognised the principle when dealing with the questions of public schools and public libraries.

TORPEDO EXPERIMENTS.

Ar the present moment all information in reference to means of defence against naval attack is of interest. The Guardian of March 14, gives the following secount of some very interesting torpedo experiments made a few days previously at Cherbourg with a little "submarine" vessel called the Thorneycroft. It was the first occasion of testing in French waters whether a torpedocould be launched against a ship in full sail. Admiral Janrez, who commends the squadron, ordered a di-abled ship, the Bayonnaise, during a rather rough sea, to be towed out by a steamer belonging to the navy:

"A second lientenant, M. Lemoine, was sent for, and informed that he had been selected to make the experiment of launching the Thorneycroft against the Bayonnaise while both were in full sail. He accepted the mission without hesitation, picked out two engine-men and a pilot, and went down with them into the interior of the Thorneycroft, of hich only a small part was above water this visible portion being painted of a brey-ish colour, so as to be easily confused with the sea. The torpeds was placed so as to project from the how of the vessel, at the extremity of which were two lateen sailyards about three meters in length. The towing steamer then took up its position in front of the squadron, and the Thorneycroft also assumed the position assigned for it; an interval of three or four marine miles separating the torpedo and the Bayonnaise, On a signal being given, both were set in, the steam-tog went at 14 knots as hour, going at full speed in order to escape the Thorneycroft. The latter went at 19 knots an hour, a rate not attained by any vessel in the squadron The chase lasted about an hour, the squadron keeping in the rear, so as to witness the onerations. At the end of that time the distance between the Thorneycroft and the Bayonnaise had sensibly diminished, and at a given moment the former, in order to come up with the latter at the requisite distance, had to slacken speed to eight knots an hour. The whole squadron was ferred by sa

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

PRICE OF BREAD.

Sir.—I see the bakers of Napier have combined to rise the price of the 2lb loaf here to sixpence. I enclose to yeu a paragraph from the Wellington Argus, which at the present time is more applicable to Napier than any other part of the colony. On behalf of heads of families here I hope you will use your pen in trying to upset this scandalous arrangement.—I am, &c.,

PATERPAMILIAS.

White Road, Napier, June 1, 1877.

The following is the paragraph for-warded by our correspondent:-

PRICE OF RREAD.

PRICE OF READ.

Twenty Auckland bakers have combined to raise the price of the 21b loaf to 5d. The Auckland people feel very sore at this, and the Star, in a leading article, goes into figures to show that although the price of colonial flour has risen £2 since the beginning of the year, the rise in the "staff of life" is equal to a rise of £6 in flour. It urges on the public to "smash up" the combination, and says:—"What misery and hardship does this penny a loaf on bread mean to hundreds of struggling families in Auckland? We declare war to the death against this and every similar combination, and the subject shall not rest till every honest man cries 'shame on it.' It reason and remonstrance fail, the combination shall be met by co-operation." The article thus concludes:—"We now offer to publish an advertisement gratis for every baker who breaks through the ring, and sends us his name as being prepared to sell bread at a reasonable price. But if none are willing to do so let the people look to themselves, the remedy is in their own hands, and there shall not be wanting opportunity to apply it vigourously and well." The Star's remarks might also apply to Wellington, as here the price is 4jd the 21b loaf, while the quality is often bad; the bread half raw, and in many cases underweight.

WAIPUKURAU RIDING

WAIPUKURAU RIDING ELECTION.

ELECTION.

Stra,—I notice in your last night's edition a letter from Mr. S. Johnston, in which he denies the report re the closing of the road through Colonel Lambert's property. He is evidently misinformed on the subject, as it is a well-known fact that about a fortnight before he was last elected, that the road desired by a large majority of the Makaretu settlers was opened for their use, they all supporting Mr. Johnston in consequence. The day after he was elected the gates on that road were locked by Mr. H. Lambert, and the road was not again opened till the late election took place, when an offer to open the gates during the polling day (only) was made, but not availed of. The section of the voters interested knowing they had been sold in the matter voted against, instead of for Mr. Johnston. The road that Colonel Lambert proposes to open is not the one spoken of, nor desired by nine-tenths of the Makaretu settlers. Of that fact Mr. Johnston should be perfectly aware.—I am, &c.,

ONE WHO KNOWS.

Waipukurau, May 31, 1877.

THE WOOL TRADE.

THE WOOL TRADE.

Str.—A short time since, it was rumored that some of the wool growers of this colony, fearing that a reduction in the price of wool was imminent, were endeavoring to open up a trade with China, and, though I am far from censuring the promoters of the project, must still express an opinion that they would exhibit a better judgment by pursuing a different course of action.

If the time has arrived when we can no longer find a market in Europe for the whole of the wool which the Colonies produce; if the time has come when wool growers must expend money in an attempt to create a market at a considerable distance from these shores; if energy must be directed to secure a commerce that may hereafter prove to be an unprofitable venture, then, assuredly, the establishment of numerous woollen manufactories throughout the colony would be a source of profit to the wool growers, and improvement and stability to the districts in which they may be located.

A trade with China is to be placed in located.

A trade with China is to be placed in the category of uncertainties; there is nothing of a definite character in connection with it to justify the most ardent of wool growers in anything but a hope that it may be successful; and when this is so, why is it that they do not turn their attention to some other means of getting rid of their wool, and, at the same time, ingratiating themselves with the public, who at present look upon them as a selfish class who, to a great extent, keep the country from progressing by retarding the settlement of the people on small homesteads?

homesteads?

Why is it that these wool growers do not recognise that they have been fortunate in having secured the lands of the colony? They are under some obligation to assist in its progress, and to take the initiative in movements which are essentially necessary to give it stability.

Why is it they make no effort to give to others an opportunity of sharing in the property which they themselves enjoy from whence their profits are drawn?

The apswer to these wool growers do not be property.

enjoy from whence their profits are drawn?

The answer to these questions would probably be because the labor in the colony is too dear to work woollen mills at a profit. Whether this is a fact or not is a question which I doubt; but even assuming for a moment that it is true, does it follow that large landholders are justified on that account in refraining from establishing local industries which cause the expenditure of large sums of money among the poorer classes, give confidence to men of property, tend to the advancement of a district as a whole, and, ultimately, by increase of population, and increased business activity must become good paying speculations to the

and, ultimately, by increase of population, and increased business activity must become good paying speculations to the promoters of them.

Even though the profits from a weollen mill might at first not be so large as the gains derived from the disposal of the wool in the other way, still, in consideration of what the country would gain from its establishment, one would think that men actuated by any other than selfish motives would be only too willing to assist in its establishment, more especially as their possessions of large tracts of land preclude the settlement of a numerous class of small farmers who are always to be considered the backbone of a country.

The farmers would not consider these views as embodying sound principles of political economy, albeit the time will come when they will have to make greater sacrifices; so we may turn to the consideration of labor.

That the labor in the colony previous to the construction of the public works was not sufficient for the purpose may readily be admitted, but now that there has been such an influx of laboring persons, that the market has been flooded, and the public works almost completed, can we doubt that there is in the country at the present time more industrious persons than can find employment, and, can we doubt that there is in the country at the present time more industrious persons than can find employment, and, therefore, hands enough to work any number of mills that capitalists would establish. There are at the present time in all the large towns in the colony, numbers of men, women, and children out of employment, and the number will be ever increasing, so that we now have labor enough to develop the resources of the colony if there be a judicious expenditure of capital.

of capital.

That the remuneration for the labor would have to be greater than that given in China is beyond doubt, but let the cost of transit, insurance, agents, and other expenses be considered, and what will the difference be. Again let the wool-growers consider the number of persons who would receive employment at those mills, and consequently become a number of well-to-do taxpayers, who would thereby lessen the necessity for a colonial land and export wool tax, and thus indirectly benefit themselves by creating a class, who could bear some of the burdens which otherwise they would have to bear largely.

It is evident that as an article of export the wool is depreciating in value, while on theother hand, the price which we have to pay for so called woollen goods manufactured out of American cotton is as high as ever, and hence a powerful reason why the wool should be manufactured into clothing in the colony.

A better clad population would grow up around us, as almost every one would find it within the compass of his means to purchase local made clothes, and thus two advantages would be secured, profits to the owners and contentment among the people.

An ill-fed and ill-clad democracy is a of capital.

That the remuneration for the labor to the owners and contentment among the people.

An ill-fed and ill-clad democracy is a dangerous element in a State, and those who bave much to lose, would act wisely by looking into the future.

Some persons have stated that a gentleman now in England is likely to start a woolten manutactory at Hastings, but even if true, that is no reason why a second should not be started; and I am of opinion that an excellent site for a manufactory weuld be the vacant piece of ground en the opposite side of the line from the railway station at Napier. The ground available there is at present almost worthless for any other purpose, and I have no doubt could be purchased at a small figure.

A mill started there would have this advantage, that there would always be a plentiful supply of labor, and doubtless a cheaper one than that which could be obtained in the country, for no matter how poor persons may be they like to live in towns. A water supply is also easly obtainable, and as water in artesian wells will rise to a considerable height, some man of engineering talents might be able to utilise the surplus of a couple of artesian wells, by making it turn a water wheel.

Water falling a height of twenty or artesian wells, by making it turn a water wheel.

Water falling a height of twenty or thirty feet through a three-inch pipe would doubtless be of seme benefit, but whether it would or not, I think a mill could be profitably worked in Napier, and those who are largely concerned in the growth of wool would I think find it to their own interest to utilise some of the surplus labor of the colony in manufacturing their wool, and when they then have a surplus, send it to China.

Some of the Hawke's Bay landowners have conferred advantages on the public; and I know of no man whose action deserves more commendation than does that of Mr. Tiffen, whose disposal of the Homewood estate on deferred payments at low rates of interest, has been the means of giving many industrious settlers at Kaikora and Waipawa, an opportunity of acquiring a life independence, and probably the same gentleman would give the scheme of a wollen factory in Napier some consideration in conjunction with other interested persons.

Viewing the matter politically, there can be no doubt that the true policy of the capitalists is to establish numerous industries, by which a large portion of the population will become dependent on them for support, and thus divide the interests of the democratic party, for assuredly should they by a suicidal policy leave that party wholly independent of them, and thus united by a common interest against wealthy non-employers of labor, they will have cause to regret the short-sightedness of their present action; the fruits of which will be that they will have to bear a heavy burden of taxation, or be forced to dispose of their estates, the people must either be provided with employment or become settled upon the land,—I am, &c., Memnox.

Monday, June 4, 1877.

PINCHING ECONOMY.

SIR.—As we children are never allowed to read the morning paper until our lessons are over, and until papa has seen that there is nothing in it of an objectionable character, we did not know that the bakers had combined to raise the price of bread until just before tea time. We do not get the Telegraph till after six o'clock. Well, at tea time, all sorts of funny odd scraps of bread were put on the table that had been stored up for puddings, and so sixpense the 2lb. loaf was brought practically to our understandings.

At breakfast time, the next morning, we had porridge, but papa, who was watching us narrowly, discovered that we devoured more sugar, more milk, and butter with the mess than would pay for two loaves. This morning we had hot potatoes and bacon; no bread, no porridge, and no butter.

Do, Mr. Editor, try to bring the bakers to reason, and get us back our toast. I am sure though, if nobblers went up to ninepence ereb, papa would not drink one less.—I am, &c.,

Mary S.

Napier, June 4th, 1877.

Napier, June 4th, 1877.

SHORT WEIGHT

Sts,—Can you inform me if there is an Inspector of Weights and Measures in Napier, as I sent on Saturday for two loaves, and for which I paid the sum of 10d, each of the loaves not weighing more than 14th? By giving me the required information you will greatly oblige—

One who wants to know.
Napier, June 4, 1877.
[Major Scully is, we believe, Inspector
Weights and Measures.—Ed. D.T.]

RE SUBSCRIPTION ON BEHALF OF MRS, GODDARD AND OF MRS, FAMILY.

Sin,—Allow me still further to acknow-ledge, per favor of yourself, the sum of £1, being subscription from Messrs Gow and Scringeour, and also £3 15s, being proceeds from raffle of watch, kindly given by Mr Morrison, watch-maker, Hastings-street, on behalf of Mrs

Goddard, and to convey her thanks to these gentlemen. I may still further state that I shall be glad to receive more aid for herself and family either in clothing or other ways, as they are greatly in need of same.—I am, &c.,

ANTHONY G. OLDFIELD.

Napier, June 4, 1877.

MUNICIPAL COUNCIL.

THE Council held its usual fortnightly meeting on Monday.

There were present all the Councillors, with the exception of Mr. H. Williams.

The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and confirmed, the Town Clerk read the PUBLIC WORK'S COMMITTEES REPORT.

Your committe having met pursuant to notice, beg to recommend the Municipal Council to give effect to the following, viz:

1. That the tender of Mr Join Garry, to supply and fixertisn It inch iron gas piping for the sum of £28 10s, be accepted.

2. That none of the tenders for the erection of the wooden fence in Shakespere-road be accepted.

3. That the drains at the foot of the Shakespere-road, near Mr Kennedy's, be repaired.

3. That the drains at the foot of the Shake-pere-road, near Mr Kennedy's, be repaired.

4. That the tender of Mr B. Warnes, for lighterage of the waterworks plant, ex Andrew Reid, for 7s per ton net, be accepted.

5. With reference to the letter from the Town Clerk, Christchurch, the committee beg to submit the same for the consideration of the Council.

6. That Mr R. Burley be appointed to superintend the landing of the waterworks plant, and subsequently the laying of the pipes, at a salary of £10 10s per month.

7. That with reference to Mr E. W. Knowles' application for pecuniary said that the same of £100 be voted by the Council for this purpose.

8. Preference of many actions and institute to the same of £100 be voted by the Council for this purpose.

of ELOO he votes of the posses.

8. Drafts of an Act and petition to his Excellency the Governor, relative to the land adjoining the Town Hall reserve, are submitted for the approval of the Council.

9. That the vouchers for expenditure of the borough fund, waterworks and swamp reelamation accounts for May be passed, and ordered to be paid.

mation accounts for May be passed, and ordered to be paid.

All the first four clauses were agreed to without discussion.

On clause 5 being read; a letter from the Town Clerk of Christchurch was read, proposing that as it was found impossible to obtain an equitable adjustment, with respect to subsidies, from the General Government, that a convention of delegates from the several Municipalities throughout the colony should be held at Wellington, with a view of bringing the matter before the General Assembly.

His Worship said that the Napier Borough having kept religiously to the rules laid down they were not in the same nosition as many other boroughs. The General Government however had deducted £192, and he was attempting to get that money refunded, but as yet without success.

Councillor Lee spoke in strong terms of the manner in which the local bodies were being treated by the Government, and thought the boroughs should be represented at the proposed convention.

After a few remarks from Ceuncillor Neal and other members, the subject dropped.

DESTITUTION IN NAPIER.

The following letter was read from In-

DESTITUTION IN NAPIES

The following letter was read from Inspector Scully:—

The following letter was read from Inspector Scully:—
To His Worship the Mayor,
Sir,—It is with very great regret I have to bring to your Worship's notice the large amount of absolute destitution existing within the Borough of Napier; and towards which, I am, and have been for some time poweriess though want of necessary funds.

In the absence of any notification to the contrary, I have continued as heretofore to issue ratious, and small pecuniary grants to the mest needful applicants, as well as giving orders for the burial of destitute persons; and up to the present date disbursed small sums amounting to about £19, together with holding myself responsible for rations and funeral expenses exceeding £40 more.

It is now with very great pain, (feeling as I do, heartfelt pity for the destitute poor) that I inform your Worship that I will from this date discontinue to dispense charitable aid out of my private funds, but trust that means may be arrived at by which the poor may not entirely suffer from the present state of affairs.—I am &c.

Thomas Sceller,
Inspector Armed Constabulary
A long discussion consued, during which

A long discussion ensued, during which ouncellor Lee stated that the time had councellor Lee stated that the time had come when they would have to look the reatter in the face and make provisions for the poor of the town. He had been told frequently by medical men who had seen these destitute persons that what they needed was not medicine, but absolutely the necessaries of life. He thought the time would soon come when a medical man should be appointed, and the Municipality have a Board of Relief. Councillor Swan stated that Inspector Scully had written to Wellington on the matter, but had got no satisfaction.

TELLUNDAN CERTAIN

Councellor Neal suggested that as it appeared the Corporation had made no demand for aid to the Government from the Hospital and Charitable aid fund, that such a step be now taken, and arrangements made with Inspector Scully to continue distributing charitable aid until a reply was received.

This was agreed upon.

FIRE ENGINE FUND.

A letter was read from Mr. E. W. Knewles asking for a contribution from the Corporation funds to assist in meeting the £321 now owing.

A long discussion cusned, in which nearly all the members took part.

Councillor Lee proposed that instead of £100 being granted, the sum of £200 be given. This proposition was supported by Councillors Tuxford and Neal, and opposed by Councillors Swan, Lyndon, Holder and Vaunter.

The vote for £100 only was carried on a show of hands.

It was agreed that the Bill, to be intro-duced into the Assembly, with regard to including in the borough some land ad-joining the Town Hall Reserve be en-trusted to Mr. Sutton.

A letter was read from Mr. Sainsbury asking for a vote of £10, he being willing to give a similar sum for the repair of the road leading to his residence, which he stated was almost impassable. The request was referred to the Public Works Committee.

ENGINEER'S RECOMMENDATIONS.

ENGINEER'S RECOMMENDATIONS.

The engineer reported that during the month he purposed to construct a close culvert across the foot of the Milton-road, near Clive Square, in order to convey the water away from Tennyson-street. So soon as the requisite metal was in hand he would remetal part of Hastings-street, Carlyle-street, Diekens-street, and Dalton-street. In the meantime the stone rubble purchased from Messrs, Mills and Oxenham would suffice for that end of the borough, inclusive of the Spit, Batteryroad, &c.

The report was adopted.

The report was adopted.

NAPIER POUND. After an explanation from his Worship the Mayor, it was agreed that the place formerly used as a public pound should be the pound for the Municipality. The appointment of a poundkeeper was adjourned until next meeting.

FIRE PREVENTION.

A letter was read from the Fire In-spector as to the foul state of several chimneys within the borough. It was agreed that a regulation to meet the case should be framed and passed.

ACCOUNTS.

The vouchers for the past month were passed without comment.

SEA WALL,

Councillor Swan moved the resolution standing in his name:—"That his Worship the Mayor be requested to communicate with the Government at Wellington in regard to secure prison labor for the formation of a sea wall and road along the beach up to Sale-street."

The motion was seconded by Councillor Tracticed and exprise

Tuxford and carried.
The Council then adjourned.

TERRIBLE CALAMITY.

A Copenhagen correspondent writing on the 1st April says:—The Norwegian papers received to-day brings some details of a terrible calamity which occurred a few days ago in the Norwegian village of Ellingso. It appears that the school-master had called the children of the village together with the object of examining them, using for this purpose the second-floor of a large unfinished log house, to which access was gained through a window by means of a ladder, the stair-case not being finished. Twenty children had assembled, and the examination was nearly concluded, when suddenly the schoolmaster observed smoke, directly followed by flames, eneveloping the room in a moment in fire. Rushing to the window the master observed to his terror that the ladder had disappeared. Seizing a couple of the children he throw them out of the window, and jumped himself, breaking one leg in the fall. All the men in the village were out fishing and the women away; thus no assistance was possible, and sixteen of the children were burnt to death.

PUBLIC SERVANTS INTER-FERENCE WITH PRIVATE PRACTICE.

[From the Canterbury Press.]

It has for some been felt as a grievance among the officials of the Government departments that, while they are expected to live on their salaries, and rigorously prohibited from eking them out by undertaking any little matter of business on their own account, no such restriction was imposed upon their chiefs in office. It seems, on the contrary, to have been quite understood that the chiefs of a department were at liberty to devote as much time as they chose to the claims of private pratice, and there could be no doubt that a yery large, if not a principal, portion of their income was derived from this source. One cannot but sympathise very strongly with the complaint made by their subordinates. And indeed it is by no means to them that the grievance referred to is confined. The public are sufferers in a much greater degree than the service. The complaint of the Civil Service is, not that they are not fairly paid for the work they are engaged to do, but that a rule designed for the good order of the Service generally is allowed to be departed from in the most material cases. The complaint of the public is that while they render, cr are perfectly willing to render, an adequate acknowledgment for such assistance as they may require, they do not get a proper return for their money. It is obvious that this must be so. It any person is paid partly by salary and partly by what he can get added to it by extra work, he may be depended upon to give as hittle time as possible to the carning of the salary, and as much as he possibly can to his extra work. The private practice will be diligently attended to, and the public duty left to shift for itself. It has always been the case, and it always will be allowed. The chief officer, as well as his inferiors, will be expected henceforth to confine himself strictly to the duties of his department, and will not be allowed. The chief officer, as well as his inferiors, will be expected henceforth to confine himself strictly to the duties of his depa

THE LATEST NAVAL MONSTER.

THE LATEST NAVAL MONSTER.

An amazing activity has reigned at the Admiralty during the past few weeks, and drawings are now being prepared in great haste for a vessel of a more tremendous kind than as yet been conceived by even the most ambitious naval constructor. This vessel is to carry several 200-ton guns; it is to be covered with armour three feet in thickness; is to have a speed of 18 knots; and is to cost only a million sterling. So astounding an enterprise has been undertaken, not on account of the Eastern Question, but merely in competition with Italy, which is about to build a vessel to carry Sir William Armstrong's 150-ton guns, to have three feet of armour, and to go 17 knots. Were and when is this insane competition to end! Armour was formerly measured by inches; it is now measured by feet, and soon will be by yards, until it is some day found in practice, as it will, that the whole system is a craze founded upon a delusion.—Vanity Fair.

There is a man in Tennessee with such big feet that, if he gets them wet in December, he doesn't have a cold in his head until February.

It is argued for short-dresses that they give plain girls a chance. What nature has denied to the face she often gives to the understanding.

Hard on Jones.—Jones in a dilemma, said that he was at his wit's end. Smith sarcastically remarked that it would not take him long to return—he had not come far. Sharp in Smith,

Government Notifications.

| | | WateW. | | to a various sell, Waterstein |
|--|---------------------|--|--|--|
| | REMARKS. | | | Tributeress |
| Eemts | Lesess- ments, | 2 2 2 | 9 9 | T. TYLEE, seioner of Grown Land |
| | Sichurhan Courtery. | 48 88 48 8 48 88 88 8 | . 2 035 | J. T. T. |
| CASH. | Sections | * 00 00 N R RR | 9 9 99 | Complete Street Complete Compl |
| | Town | 성 20 0 성 및 20 개 및 40 위 | 0 + 21 | formers's inguismost production of the second of the secon |
| Soun. | Country, | 18 18 88 8 14 00 00 0 14 00 00 0 | B22 1 0 | 180 5 |
| AREA OF LAND SOLD. | Lown, Saburhan. | 4 00 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 | 1 1 6 69 6 6 122 | Promite and profession of the contract of the |
| State of the state | Равтистава, | Barrai Serritor 6, Whatermatepou Town — 27 and 80 Formagainn Series land Friches District Series land Friches District Servicins Produced Joseph Servicins and Technical District Joseph Markovicins Reserved Town Servicins Fricanges in Service Service Service Town Services Reserved Town Services Reserved Town Services Reserved Town Services Lord 1, Nature Services Service Lot 1, Nature Services Services Lot 1, Nature S | TOTAL | RECAPITULATION med Salan |
| Service of the servic | NAME. | Elevated Lyndon Charles Discon William periody E. W. P. Feedde Charles and John Starthias A. A. and J. West A. A. and J. West Law Antoneous Law Antoneous C. E. Tamana Elevate Lamana Elevate Lawson Worksh Johnson Towyood E. Esthamiston Worksh Johnson Towyood E. Esthamiston Towyood E. Esthamiston Towyood E. Esthamiston | er gr erid a final d rad d rad carlo | Crown Lands Office, Napler, June 1st, 1877. |
| Wode of | Sale | Application of the second | 428 | Cross L |
| | Dutte. | Egno . 10 181218 18 1 | | beet builted authors i |

Mr. Fox, alluding to the complaint of the Halcombe immigrants that they are barely able to live on their wages, writes:—" When I was lately in their village, I observed that the largest building in it was a braid new drinking-shop, in the most prominent position of the place. Now, it is certain that suc a shop cannot be kept going, pay rent and interest, and make a living profit on its trade, under a turn-over of at least £2000 to £3000 a year. We are told on good authority that the drink bill at Marton is at least £10,000 a year, and that at Bulls, I have heard put by 'one who knows," at a higher figure. Now, if our friends at Halcombe are really suffering under the shortness of means which they assert, who keeps this drink-shop going? It cannot be the bose fids traveller; he is far to scarce an article in that neighborhood, and it is not, as Marton and Bulls are, a centre of attraction for popular entertainments, volunteer balls, horse races, and other gatherings, which bring grist to the publican's mill."

publican's mill."

The Greytown paper is responsible for the following:—"A traveller from Woodville to Masterton says that the bush is nearly completed. Its metal is at present rough; but in a few months it will be a splendid road. There is a Scandinavian in Greytown who has a penchant for canine flesh. It is suggested that he should be appointed register of dogs, as the animals he did not register needed of the Board Woodward.

ter he could eat."

The medal of the Royal Humane Society has been awarded to Dr C. A. Haines, F.R. G.S., for leaping everboard at the imminent risk of his life from the ship Fernglen, during a gale of wind, off the coast of New Zealand, on April 21, 1878, and saving a man from drowning, who had thrown himself everboard during a fit of insanity. Mr. Haines was previously favorably known as surgeon of H.M.S. Basilisk when on the Australian station.

There is a flerce war between the three Wairaraps papers, a triangular paper pellet duel. The following is the last shot sent from the Standard :—'The Editor of the News Letter, in his last issue gracefully alludes to the Standard as "the dilapidated Greytown Cur." Were we really of the canine order we should be afraid of our contemporary eating us up. Nature always compensates, and in denying our contemporary brains she gave him aremarkable gizzard. Let the pensive pelican of the News Letter office try if he cannot whistle a little more melodiously."

Last Tuesday night, (says the Post), Mr

office try if he cannot whistle a little more melodiously."

Last Tuesday night, (says the Post), Mr T. W. Pileher lost a valuable horse in a singular manner. The horse had been tied up as usual by a headstall, but in some unexplained way appears to have contrived to horak loose. The horse, finding himself so far at liberty, next must have proceeded to do his best to kick down the building, which further abbreviated his natural freedom. From the marks all round it is evident that he distributed his kicks with predigal liberality, and especially on one post. This post seems to have opposed a stubborn resistance, but at length was knocked all to pieces, but the victory proved fatal to the victor, for one large splinter penetrated his body to the depth of fully eight inches, causing death, and in the morning the energetic steed was discovered cold and stiff, with the wooden spear firmly embedded in his body.

"Autolycus" a contribution to the Nelson

embedded in his body,

"Autolycus" a contribution to the Nelson
Times, says:—"I know one or two persons in Nelson who never read the newspapers.
They say so, and I—in duty bound—believe them. But let one of those non-readers arrive by steamer, and his name being Begg, appear in the passenger list as Bugg. Let this happen, and see if that individual, is not down at the paper office an hour after publication, for an explanation and correction."

NATIONAL FIRE AND MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY.

DIVIDEND WARRANTS are now in the hands of Agents for distribution.
Shareholders can have same forwarded to them on sending their address to the nearest Agent of the Company.

F. H. DROWER, Waipukurau
J. J. TYE, Waipawa
J. NICHOLSON, Kaikora
J. C. SPEEDY, Meanee
E. BISSELL, Havelock
S. G. THORNTON, West Clive
R. SOMEKVILLE, Hastings
J. H. SMYTH, Wairoa.
Offices, Tenn's son-street.

Offices, Tenny son-street.
KINKOSS & CO. Agents.

Sales S

Education Board Office,
Napier, June 4, 1877.

Notice is hereby given that the following Education Reserve will be offered for Lease (21 years) by Public Auction at the late Provincial Council Chamber, on TUESDAY, September 4, 1877;—Section 289 B, Town of Napier, 1 rood.

Upset price £20 per annum.

JOSEPH RHODES,
Chairman Education Board.

Chairman Education Board.

FOR SALE,
SECTIONS 9 and 20, sub-divisions of Subnrban Section 33, Woodville, containing \(\frac{1}{2}\) acre
SECTIONS 47, 48, 49, and 50, sub-divisions of Suburban Section 34, Woodville, containing 1 acre
RURAL SECTION No. 63, Woodville, containing 43 acres.
RURAL SECTION No. 65, Woodville, containing 40 acres
RURAL SECTION No. 65, Woodville, containing 63 acres.
TOWN SECTION No. 86, Kaikora, with 4-roomed House erected thereon.
H. MONTEITH,
Commission Agent,
Waipukurau.

FOR SALE,

For SALE,

ATS, Chaff, Grass Seed, Fencing Posts
Firewood, &c., &c.

H. MONT 1TH,

Waipukurau.

NOTICE.

PERSONS desirous of Nominating relatives or friends in Great Britain for passages to New Zealand, are imformed that the Monthly List will be closed on the 18th of June, 1877.

Nominated Immigrants, on arrival in the colony, may join their Friends immediately after inspection, and will not be required to go into Depot.

Full particulars and Forms can be obtained from the Immigration Office, Napier.

G. T. FANNIN,

Immigration Officer.

A U C K L A N D BOOTS, At GENUINE Auckland Prices.

E. W. KNOWLES

HAS received from the best factory in Auckland a supply of Boots, which has been made to order, and will be sold at the LOWEST PRICES, guaranteeing the quality.

The following will give an idea that this

The following will give as Men's Elastic sides, 14s, special make Men's Elastic sides, 14s, special make Men's Elastic sides, 14s, special make Men's Bluechers, 9s 6d, good fitting Men's Army Bluchers, extra quality, 11s Men's Watertights, top quality, 14s Men's Lace Shooting Boots, medium, 16s 6d Men's Lace Shooting Boots, heavy, 16s 6d Men's Oxonians, lace, 7s Men's Oxonians, canvas, 6s
Other kinds equally low.

E. W. KNOWLES.

LEDIARD'S
KNICKERBOCKER SCHNAPPS
Is an absolutely original preparation.

TTS owner claims for it no relative or comparative merits, but that it is septes witro, and the large and increasing demand for it in this colony is a proof that the people understand its virtues, and will continue to use it.

KNICKERBOCKER'S AROMATIC SCHNAPPS. The most Rehable and Safe Drink during hot weather The best stimulant for the coming sea-

The very purest beverage distilled.

A Manoy & Co., agents for Napier; N.
J. Isaacs, sole wholesale agent for New Zealand.

£900 TO LEND in one or moderative.

J. J. BUCHANAN, Hampden.

NEW ZEALAND RAILWAYS.

NAPIER-TAKAPAU.

TIME TABLE.

| | DO | WN. | | | Sun- |
|-----------------------|--------|---------|----------|---------|--------|
| | | | | | DAYS. |
| | A.M. | A.M.t | A.M. | P.M. | P.M. |
| Spit, depart |  | 7.40 | 11.0 | 3,40 | |
| Napier arrive' depart | | 7,50 | 11.10 | 3,50 | |
| Mapier depart | 6.45 | 7,55 | 11,30 | 4.10 | 2,30 |
| Farndon depart | 7.10 | 8,20 | 11,55 | 4.35 | 2,55 |
| | | | p.m. | | |
| Hastings, depart | 7,35 | 8,45 | 12.20 | 5.0 | 3.90 |
| Pak Paki arrive | - | 9,5 | 1000 | 5.18 | Steen. |
| rak raki depart | 7.53 | 9,13 | 2006 | 5.20 | - |
| Te Aute, arrive | 8,32 | 200 | 1000 | - | den. |
| te Aute, depart | 8,35 | 9,55 | - | 6.5 | - |
| Kaikora, depart | 9,15 | 10,35 | Sec. | 6,45 | 2000 |
| Waipawa, depart | 9,35 | 10,35 | 1000 | 7.5 | - man |
| Waipuku- i arrive | 9.55 | 11,15 |  | 7.25 | 200 |
| ran depart | 10,0 | 11,30 | Tribe. | | None |
| | | p.m. | | | |
| Takapan, arrive | 10.50 | | - | **** | - |
| * On Monday a | | | | | |
| † On Tuesday, | Wednes | day, Fr | iday, ar | nd Satu | rday, |

| | U | P | | | |
|--------------------|--------|-------|--------|------|--------|
| | | DAYS | | | BUN- |
| | A.M. | A.M. | P.M. | P.M. | P.M |
| Takapau, depart | 100 | - | 500 | 2.20 | There. |
| Waipukurau, dep. | | 7.10 | 7075 | 3.13 | 100 |
| Waipawa, depart | Trees. | 7.30 | Trent. | 3.35 | 7000 |
| Kaikora, depart | 2000 | 7.30 | - | 8,55 | - |
| To Auto (arrive | | 8,31 | - | - | - |
| To Auto depart | | 8,33 | 700 | 4.35 | - |
| Paki Paki farrive | - | 9.10 | 400 | 0.15 | - |
| Taki Faki depart | - | 9.12 | 900 | 5.22 | - |
| Hastings, depart | - | 9,32 | 1.0 | 5.42 | 5.20 |
| Faradon, depart | - | 9.57 | 1,23 | 6.7 | 5.42 |
| Napier arrive | | 10.22 | 1.50 | 6.32 | 6.16 |
| Napier depart | 7.20 | 10.25 | 8,0 | - | 1000 |
| Splt, arrive | 7.30 | 10.33 | 3.10 | | - |

Passengers are requested not to enter or leave the carriages while in motion, Season Tickets issued to and from all Stations. Apply to the Manager.
To ensure despatch, Parcels should be booked fifteen minutes before the starting of the Train

W. J. MILLER, General Manager, Napier, March 8, 1877.

WAIPAWA COUNTY COUNCIL.

NOTICE is hereby given that the temporary office of the Waipawa County Connecil is at the Court House, Waipawa; and that the days on which it will be open for transaction of business will be on MONDAYS, WEDNESDAYS, and FRIDAYS.

It is further notified for public information that the office hours are from 10 a,m. till 4 p.m., on the days above specified.

A. W. RAMSAY DAVIDSON,
Clerk Waipawa County Council.

Waipawa, May 14, 1877.

Waipawa County Council Office,
Waipawa Kang 4, 1877.

In accordance with a resolution passed by the Waipawa County Council, on THURSDAY, April 19, 1877, and in accordance with Section 88, of "The Public Works Act, 1876," NOTICE is hereby given that all the roads in the County of Waipawa, have been taken over by the Council of that County, and are hereby declared County Roads.

By Order,
A. W. RAMSAY DAVIDSON,
Clerk Waipawa County Council.

H BEUKERS
SHIP CHANDLER, SAIL AND TENTMAKER, &c., PORT NAPIER.

ALWAYS ON HAND,
An assortment of
PATENT BLOCKS
With galvanised Sheaves and Brass Rollers
Also, three-fold (10 ton)
PURCHASE BLOCKS
The above Blocks are for sale or hire.

The above Blocks are for sale or hire.

WHITE LEAD, Red Lead, Green Ship Paint, Chalk, Emery Cloth, Glue, Glass Paper, Putty in bladders, Stockholm Pitch. Amber Resin, Raw Linseed Oil, Boiled do, Lamp Black, Bright Ship Varnish, Black do, Canvas, Europe Bolt, Manilla and N. Z. Ropes, Common and Patent Blocks, from 10 inches downwards, Tents, Tarpaulins, Oilskins, Horse Covers, &c. Herring Nets, Ash Oars, from 20ft downwards, Bunting Flags, &c. (Flags made to order). Connecting Links and Shackles, Oskum, Pitch, Spunyara, Sall Needles, long-handled Tar Brushes, Galvanised Rowlocks, and Rowlock Plates, Copper Nails, Tocks, and Rowlock Plates, Stockholm, and Coal Tar, Net Twine, Cabin Lamps, Stable Lanterns, and Copper Rivers for Belting.

TO ARCHITECTS REQUIRING PRO-FESSIONAL ASSISTANCE.

DESIG'S prepared from rough sketches.
Plans colored or etched in first style
J. SPARROW,
Architect and Eu iding Surveyor,
Waipukurau.

BEWARE OF VILE AMERICAN COUNTERFEITS.

TOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINT tion of the inhabitants of Anthropist Common the inhabitants of Australists to the Moser Heavy, Curran and Co., Wholesale that their Travellers are going all over the trenting sources in the property of the control of th at their Travellers adding spurious In int, which they mak me instances their to freet, London.

The same people are circulating a report that my stainess is about to be formed into a Company thich is cyrrinuty raises.

I most carnestly appeal to that sense of British saides which I feel sure I may venture upon saking y kind country mense in their y kind country mense in their many that country mense in their saides which I would be sense.

my kind countrymen and country women in their distant bounces, to exist me, as far as may lay in their power, in denouncing this shameful Americas Fraud, by cautioning their friends lest they be duped into buying villations compounts styles "Holloway's Pills and Ointment" with any New York label thereon.

thereon,

Each Pot and Box of the Genuine Medicines bee

British Government Stamp, with the wor

HOLL WAY'S PILLS AND ONTMENT, LONDO, engrawed thereon. On the labels is the address, &

Oxford street, London, where alone they are man

factured.

Signed, THOMAS HOLLOWAY

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.
EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a through knowledge of the natural law withen govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provide our breakfast tables with a delicately favoured beverage which may save us many heavy dectors bills It is by the indictions use of such articles of die. that

Sold only in packets (tins for abroad), labelled: JAMES EPPS & Oo., ROMGOPATHIC CHEMISTS,
ROMGOPATHIC CHEMISTS,
RTHREAD-KEDLE STREET, and 170, PICCADILLY, WORKS, EUSTON ROAD and CAMDEN TOWN LONDON.

LONDON.

CAMSON FENCE WIRE.—This is an entirely new article, and is fast supersetting the old style. Five Wires weighten ewt. per mile, and costs in Melbourne £12 10s, versus Seventeen ewt. ordinary wire costing £14 10s, (the relative cost will be the same at the principal ports of Australasia) with the advantage of having Seven ewt less to pay earriage for. Over 1,000 TONS sold by one firm last year, giving unbounded satisfaction. Send for full descriptive circular with innumerable testimonials from leading colonists, and judge for yourselves. M'LEAN BROS, and RIGG, Importers, and General Ironmongers, Melbourne.

Watches! Watches! Watches!

JOHN ROBERTSON,
WATCHMAKER AND JEWELLER,
Napier,
DRAWS special attention to his Magnificent Stock of WATCHES, just received direct from English and American Manufacturers, and made Specially to Order, which, for Excellence and Cheapness, are unequalled in the colony.

All Watches sold at this establishment are thoroughly regulated and put in working condition before leaving the premises, and Guaranteed.

HAWKE'S BAY BOILING DOWN.

WOOL SCOURING by Petrie's Patent Wool Washing Machine will be done at the following rates, viz.;—
Locks and Pieces ... 1d per lb,
Fleece Wool ... 1id per lb,
Wool forwarded to Boiling Down Siding will be attended to.

R. P. WILLIAMS,
Clive, November 1 1876.

WONDER OF MODERN TIMES!

HOLLOWAY'S

SIR SAMUEL BAKER,

Six SAMUEL BAKER, in his work entitled "The Nile Tributaries in Abysainia," says, "I ordered the dragoman Mahomet to inform the "Fakey that I was a Doctor, and that I had the best medicines at the service of the sick, with advice gratis." In a short time I had many applicants, to whom I served out a quantity of Holloway's Pills. These are most useful to an explorer, as possessing unmistakable purgrative properties they create an undeniable effect "upon the patient, which satisfies him of their value."

SIMPLE, SAFE, AND CERTAIN!

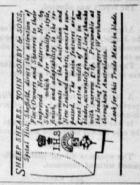

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

aubtuing all inflammations.

Mr. J. T. COOPER,
in his account of his extraordinary travels in China, published in 1871, says—"I had with me a quantity of Holloway's Chitment. I gave some to the people, and mothing could exceed their gratitude; and, in consequence, milk, lowis, butter, and horse-feed poured in upon us, until at last a tes-spoontul of Chitment was worth a toul and any guantity of jess, and the demand became so great that I was obliged to lock up the small remaining stock."

Sold by all Chemists and Medicine Vendors throughout the World.

BEWARE OF ALL COMPOUNDS STYLED HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT With a "New York" Label.

WEEKLY MERCURY AND

Hawke's Bay Advertiser

TERMS OF ADVERTISING AS PER SCALE.

Standing Advertisements for Three, Six or Twelve Months can be arranged for at a Liberal Discount Notice to discontinue advertisements (un less where number of insertions is mentioned on original order) must be for warded, in writing, addressed to the Manager

LIST OF AGENTS

Collede & Craig, Hastings-st
W Denissa, Port Aburiti
MEANEE—J. C. SP. EDV.
TARADALE—J. BARRY.
CLIVE—J. BECR.
HASTINGS—J. SOMERVILLE HAYELOCK—N. STON S.
KAUKORA—J. VI. HOLSON
WAIPAWA E. BIRBY
DUNCAN & CO.
WAIPUKURAU—WESSES, SMITH & CO.
WAIPUKURAU—WESSES, SMITH & CO.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

Per Quarter, if paid in advance — 0 6

'er Quarter, if booked — — 0 7

Per Annum, if paid in advance — 1 6

Per Annum, if booked — — 1 10

Printed and published by EDWARD HENDER-SON GRIDO, for the Proprietors, at the Mercury Office, Tennyson-street, Nazier, Hawke's Bay, Nem Zealand, SATURDAY, JUNE 9, 1877.