"GRAVE DISSERVICE TO THE DOMINION"

Bishop Cherrington's Plan

HON. W. E. BARNARD REPLIES

N.Z. Territory For Japan

By Telegraph-Press Association.

WELLINGTON, July 12. "It is almost incredible that a statement such as that attributed to Bishop Cherrington could have been made by any Englishman, or, indeed, by any person with a knowledge of history—even of modern history," said the president of the New Zealand Five Million Club (the Hon. W. E. Barnard) when invited this evening to comment on the suggestion of the Bishop of Waikato (the Rt. Rev. C. A. Cherrington) that Japan should be offered room for her surplus population in the Dominion.

the Dominion.

"The Bishop suggests that we should offer any waste Iand we have as 'a free gift to the Japanese. In 20 years they might make it a veritable Garden of the Lord," Mr Barnard said. "I would point out to the Bishop that so far the Japanese, where they have penetrated into foreign lands, have usually succeeded in creating a situation which is about as unlike a 'veritable Garden of the Lord' as we can imagine. "Surely the Bishop must know that immigrants into New Zealand can be acceptable from the point of view of those already here only if they can be readily assimilated into the present community of New Zealand. I cannot take his remarks seriously, and hope that members of the Waikato Synod extended wondrous patience to his Lordship.

"Bishop Cherrington's remarks are not only the product of gross ignorance of international conditions, but do a grave dis-service to the Dominion as well as to the Empire.

"May I suggest." Mr Barnard

"May I suggest," Mr Barnard said, "that the Bishop give consideration to the following lines (upon which I express no comment whatever) published in the 'Magazine Digest' of March of this year:—

"Our preference for Northern European stock," he said, "is not with the Harbour Board until this is because we make any distinction against Southern Europeans or the peoples of any other places, but be-cause Northern Europeans can be more readily fitted into the com-munity life of New Zealand and share to a greater extent the outlook and ideals of New Zealanders." *************************************

PORT AHURIRI PETITION

DANGEROUS GOODS AREA

PLAN OPPOSED

Protest by Hardinge Road Residents

A petition to the Mayor of Napier (Mr T. W. Hercock) and councillors of the Borough of Napier is at present being circulated among and signed by residents of Hardinge Road Port Ahuriri, protesting against the proposal of the Napier "'How courteous is the Japanese; Harbour Board to extend the dan-gerous goods area along Hardinge "'He climbs into his neighbour's Road, and requesting the Borough garden "And smiles and says, "I beg your in the presentation of an open fore-Companies' Extensions.

When interviewed by the "Daily Mail" yesterday, Mr J. H. Fieldhouse, secretary of the Port Progressive Association, said that a further extension of the dangerous goods area was necessary to accommodate the projected development of the all companies. The petitioners modate the projected development of the oil companies. The petitioners were resisting the proposal of the Harbour Board to place benzine dumps adjacent to their properties, thus obliterating what was undoubtedly the "finest seascape in the vicinity of Napier."

Despite any arguments to the contrary, they felt, said Mr Fieldhouse, that in addition to other disabilities, their properties would slump in value, as they were all situated along the seafront.

Further Petitions

Requests for a petition for the the whole of Napier, said Mr Field-house, had not been acceded to as yet. From what he could gather there was a very strong public opinion against the proposed site.

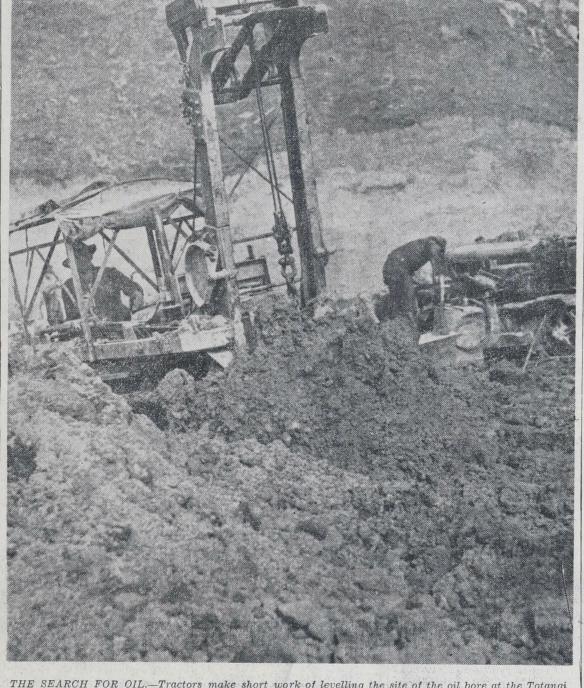

Mr Fieldhouse said that he considered that a suitable site had to be found somewhere, and there was surely a sweet reasonableness about that portion of the petition which requested that the whole area be brought under the town planning legislation. There was no other method whereby the new port could be developed with justice to

FRUIT EXPORT COSTS

WELLINGTON AND NAPIER

THE DIFFERENCE

Information Released by Mr D. S. McLeod

Comparative costs between Napier and Wellington loadings taken out by the New Zealand Fruit Export Control Board were the subject of comment by the Hawke's Bay representative on the New Zealand Fruit Export Control Board (Mr D. S. McLeod) yesterday at Hastings. When Hastings fruit passing through Wellington goes direct from truck to ship, Wellington costs are only ½d per case above direct loading at Napier, he said, and when additional charges are incurred because it is not possible to load direct, there is a difference of about 2d. He mentioned that there had been a belief that the difference in costs in favour of shipping through Napier was 4d.

A letter from the board to Mr Mc Leod, however, pointed out that the main reason for any misunderstand-ing that had taken place concerning the saving at Napier as compared with Wellington, was due to the fact that the Napier Harbour Board base their charges on 25 cases of apples and 29 cases of pears being equal to the ton measurement, while all the charges through Wellington were based on 45 cases to the ton weight. ional Dairy Conference at New Plymouth on June 23 was reaffirmed at the Dominion Conference of the New Zealand Farmers' Union which opened in Wellington to-day. The New Plymouth conference rejected the proposal of the Government to approint a tribunal consisting of a Stuckey.

Defegates to the Electoral Combased on 43 cases to the ton Weight. Mittee Of the New Zealand Meat Producers' Board have been elected as follows:

Auckland: Messrs A. B. Moore, H. W. Wilson and H. E. Worsp.

Gisborne: Messrs T. le C. Powdrell and S. D. Reeves.

Hawke's Bay: Messrs C. R. Edgeton to the Stuckey.

Mr McLeod said that wharfage was not always quite as light as shown in the schedule of harbour board charges. Sometimes it was necessary to unload the trucks, store fruit in the shed, and then convey it to the ship. It was necessary sometimes to convey fruit from one wharf to another. This cost haulage.

Marlborough, Nelson and West-land: Mr H. J. Stace. North and Mid-Canterbury: Messrs G. Fulton, R. J. Mulligan and This represented 1.973d per case. In W. O. Rennie.

Johnstone.

Otago (election required for three): Messrs D. H. Cockburn, W. Doig, J. D. Revie and D. J. Ross.

Southland: Messrs W. J. A. McGregor, E. K. Sim and H. Smith.

This represented 1.973d per case. In the same season 70,434 cases were toaded at Napier. The cost of lighterage and wharfage amounted to £2,051 9/6, which is just a fraction less than 7d a case, the actual figure being 6.988d per case, so that for the fruit actually loaded at Napier the cost per case was: Railage 1.9d. cost per case was: Railage 1.9d wharfages 6.988d., a total of 8.888d Tanganyika has raised £10,000 for a museum at Dar es Salaam as a memorial to King George V. The design was selected after competition by East African architects.

The Wellington costs a case were: Railage 8.9d, wharfage 1.973d., making a total of 10.873d.

The difference in favour of Napier loading therefore, was 1.985d.

2. The NEW Shell Motor Oil is stable, resulting in the absence of carbon and sludge, and

3. The NEW Shell Motor Oil has exceptional oiliness guaranteeing protection against (a) Wear when the engine is running,

This thrilling picture, which is not alone a dramatic sociological document, but a tender romance, co-stars Josephine Hutchinson and George Brent, and was directed by that Brent, and was directed by that acknowledged master of realism, Michael Curtiz.

Miss Hutchinson portrays Ruth Harkins, a young mountaineer girl who has a taste of life and education in the "outside," and returns to her hamlet eager to bring health and education to at least the children of the backwoods. Her one sympathiser and aide in this is Guy Kibbee, a genial old physician.

The story provides material for a fine film.

One of the finest pieces of entertainment to come from the British studios is the Gaumont-British comedy-melodrama, "Seven Sinners," which stars Edmund Lowe and Constance Cummings, and will be the associate feature to-day.

Edmund Lowe is a fine selection for the star part and was well acquainted with Tarzan.

Edmund Lowe is a fine selection for the star part, and was well worth his importation from America. Marmalade is probably the favourite of all preserves and as it is used in so many cook ing recipes besides being in mand at the breakfast table the wise housewife will make a really good supply while oranges and lemons are plentiful. Now is the season for making your marmalade and every cook realises that the earlier in the season that she purchases her fruit the better will be her marmalade. Wither-ed fruit will not jell, so choose

Personal tastes in marmalade vary, as in all things, and for this reason a good variety of well-tested recipes are given below and each reader may make her own choice.

It is advisable to make two boilings of marmalade, one for the table and one for cooking purposes. The oranges and lemons for the table marmalade should be finely sliced with a saw breadknife or very sharp knife and those for cooking marmalade may be put through the mincer to save time. the mincer to save time.

New Fashions in Mackintoshes Help You To Look Your Best On Wet Days

When the weather is wet women's thoughts turn towards their mackintoshes and this is now a much more pleasant thought than in years gone by when every woman's mackintoch was fashioned in the same drab colour and unexciting style. An English writer tells in this article of the lovely new styles and colours which are displayed in London shops. Many of these are already obtainable in our own shops and the others will no doubt be here very shortly. So women, rejoice that rainy days no longer hold terrors for you when you want to look your smartest and best. You can choose a mackintosh that is well up to the standard of your other garments in colour, line and design.

Some capes have long zip-fasteners and fresh white facings that can be opened if the rain stops suddenly.

CARE AND MAKE-UP WILL GIVE YOU BEAUTIFUL EYES

Cleansing, Rest and Exercise Are the Essentials

Beautiful eyes aren't a gift the fairies give or don't give, according to the state of their tempers, when you're born. They can be made beautiful—by care, by make-up.

Eyes respond to care, exercise, and the subtle use of make-up wonderfully. Small eyes become large and wide-open, dull ones sparkle like a frosty night, their colour deepens and before you know where you are, you're a beauty-simply by petting your eyes a little.

Daily care first—because it will make the whites really white and give the eyes sparkle.

An eyebath should be amongst your beauty tools. If you haven't got one, spend a few coppers at the chemist's in a good cause. Buy also a good lotion, so that night and morning you can wash dirt and fog and weariness from your eye

There are excellent eye lotions on the market, but if you prefer to make your own, there's boracic lotion. The "saturated solution" is best; this can be diluted with equal parts of water when required for use.

Cleansing, rest, and exercise—those are three necessities for beautiful eyes, and which come under the heading of daily routine.

Now we'll look into a few special cases. Lines and wrinkles round the eyes are often caused by screwing up the eyes in order to see—guard against these by having them tested for spectacles as soon as you feel yourself straining to read or lent.

Laughter causes lines round the eyes, too—but don't stop laughing. Just give the skin extra nourish-ment in this way. Massage with a muscle oil every night and leave some to soak in whilst you sleep.

You know the best way to mas sage the eyes—with the pad of the middle finger begin at the inner corner, then slide it gently but firmly under the eye, over the lid and so back to the inner corner again. Be careful not to stretch the

The loveliest of eyes lose a lot if the skin beneath them is puffy or discoloured. Small puffs are often the result of too many late nights, and they'll disappear when you catch up with your sleep. Large puffs are often an indication that your kidneys aren't working as well

FROM DANCE

Two young women, one of them married, aged 20 and 22 respectively, were charged at the Hastings Magistrate's Court with the theft of two fur coats at a Fernhill dance. two fur coats at a Fernhill dance. Detective-Sergeant Revell stated that the accused were under the influence of liquor at the time and evidently realised that they had no hope of keeping the coats, as they threw them away about a mile from the dance hall. They were each admitted to probation for twelve months on the recommendation of the probation officer. On admitting them to probation the magistrate suggested that it would be a wise plan to cease associating with each other.

A young married man, whose name was ordered to be suppressed pending trial was remanded until August 2 on a charge of theft. He was ordered to report to the police in Napier once a week.

Collin Tong and Ray Armand were each fined £1 and costs for negligent driving on the night of the municipal elections.

Geddis. Where such a large sum of public money is involved the indictment of the General Labourers' report is something that cannot be summarily dismissed in such a cavalier manner. If Mr Geddis thinks it can, all I can say is that he will probably find that the ratepayers of Hawke's Bay think differently.

In their own interests the ratepayers of Hawke's Bay must demand an immediate inquiry into the to immediate challenge.

It is difficult to understand what bearing such ideas can have upon the matters that, ordinarily, one would imagine, should constitute the charge of a bishop to his assembled synod. There appears to be some doubt in the Bishop's mind as to the coundness of his views because he concludes by saying, "politically speaking, such a procedure"

It is difficult to understand what bearing such ideas can have upon the ruthlessness and utter disregard for human life, as exemplified by Japan's operations in China; when it is known that the Emperor is worshipped and deified by his subjects as a god, how is it at all possible, having regard to all these facts, to do other than abhor the ideas put forward?

That New Zealand needs a greater is consideration.

That New Zealand needs a greater population is undoubted, and the matter is engaging the attention of earnest and ardent thinkers, not the least of whom is the Hon. the member for Napier. Solutions will be found for the difficulties which beset New Zealand, but not in the direction of throwing the doors wide open to the Yellow Peril. There may be differences of opinion relative to the defence of New Zealand, but the Bishop of Waikato is not helpful, and it savours of impertinence to embark upon questions of policy that should have no possible bearing upon the matters that have been entrusted to his charge.

It is to be hoped that a great church will dissociate itself from the perverse and unorthodox views expressed by the Bishop of Waikato. Because of the prominence you have given to the Bishop's extraordinary views, I presuppose he has not been misreported. I am etc.

tion job by the General Labourers' Union. Such an indictment must give rise to feelings of uneasiness in the minds of the people.

I have no doubt it came as a shock to the majority. However, for some time now it has been painfully apparent to the writer that everything in the Napier breakwater garden is not lovely. The board and their officials have taken up the attitude that the trouble is due to the ineficiency of the workmen and there seems to be an orgy of "sackings." The men, on the other hand, claim that the trouble is due to the important of the workmen and there seems to be an orgy of "sackings." The men, on the other hand, claim that the trouble is due to the important of the seminory of the workmen and there is a possible to person per a possible to support the country councillors' sheep-dogs. Some years back a great cry will be a most unjust one for them. These dogs are not pets and are not allowed to wander because of their great value—even of greater value than some of the country councillors' sheep-dogs. Some years back a great cry was raised against the Alsatian, and it went so far that a certain Mr Carrington sponsored a Bill in Parliament for the wholesale destruction of these fine animals unless an outgree of their great value—even of greater value than some of the country councillors' sheep-dogs. One anomaly appears in the fact that the foremen of the job have expressed themselves as being thoroughly satisfied with the work of some of the men who were dismissed as incompetent. A thorough inquiry into the position seems to be necessary, as it is apparent that if necessary, as it is apparent that if the present conditions continue the work, if ever completed, will not be done within the estimates, and the lention to River and Hospital Board affairs. Discussion At Monday's Meeting

"That Japan is justified in her aggressive actions in Asia," was the controversial subject successfully moved by Mr L. C. Mendelssohn at Monday night's well attended meeting of the Napier Debating Society, when he cast doubt on the veracity of many reported Japanese actions of many reported Japanese actions and justified the aggression on the grounds of expediency in view of Japan's absolute necessity for expansion. Mr A. R. Giles ably supported him and demonstrated the beneficent effect of Japanese rule

If some of the members would tell their shepherds to destroy their surplus stock and not give them away to friends to bring to town as pets and then be allowed to run the streets the position would not be so acute and perhaps the said members would be able to pay more attention to River and Hospital Board affairs. I am sure that a reduction in the rates would then be made possible.—I am, etc.,

AN ESSENTIAL SERVICE

The prosperity of any country depends upon the health and well-being of the citizens in it, and this would not be said here were it not for the fact that what may be called adult selfishness precludes many from recognising the importance of child welfare. A good start in life is essential, physically, mentally, and in any other way, if the citizen of the future is to make the best of what comes along, and behind that fact is the further truth that the conditions under which the individual is brought into the world must be the best that can be organised by human skill.

In yesterday's "Daily Mail" there was published a comprehensive summary of the report of the Committee of Inquiry set up by the Government to make investigations into the working of the maternity services of the Dominion. It is upon these services that the country must rely for the provision of that full and necessary chance to achieve, which is the birthright of every child born in a free country. There can be nothing but commendation for the Government in instituting this important inquiry, and little else than praise for the manner in which the investigating committee has carried out its work.

Some salient points in the report are to be praised.

The committee, in consonance with the opinion of the majority of the women of the country, has come down on the side of doctor plus midwife in all maternity cases. Most will agree that in the all-important operation of childbirth, no skill is too great to be employed. The risks, however, of unskilled or partially-skilled treatment are too grave to be regarded lightly.

On the question of relief of pain, the committee-commendably, it will be agreed by most mothers—has kept in step with the latest scientific advances in the subject and has given its approval to those safe means of alleviating suffering that are already in existence. This question of pain is one that has a wide bearing upon the whole subject of the birth rate, and an authoritative pronouncement such as has been issued may go some way towards the solution of a serious national problem.

A further point of importance brought out in the report is that the investigators have recommended "the hospitalisation of maternity cases." Special reference in this connection is made to the relationship between a national maternity scheme and the provision of hospital facilities, but apart from that, the concensus of opinion will be with the committee.

It is necessary not only to have available the highest skill and knowledge of physicians and nurses, but that their services should be given under conditions most likely to achieve the best results. The delicate equipment and scrupulous care necessary in maternity cases are more easily possible in institutions fitted out to deal with such cases. In addition, the detachment from home conditions, the freedom from distractions, interruptions, and household worries, and the peace of mind that comes from the knowledge that expert attention is at a moment's call, must react favourably upon the mother.

It is interesting and gratifying also to observe that the committee has made special mention of the supreme importance of pre-natal care. There again there will be general agreement with its finding that full advantage of the facilities available has not been taken and that their benefits should be more strongly and more widely broadcast.

Although some criticism has been directed at certain other parts of the Dominion, it is good to know that the committee has found that hospital facilities throughout Hawke's Bay are adequate to meet the needs of the people. What is said of transport facilities being readily available may overlook the fact that the best of such facilities are dependent upon the state of the roads that carry them, but on the whole, the women of Hawke's Bay may be assured that the services in this district provide conditions which are more favourable than those to be found in many other parts of

The committee is to be congratulated on the completion of an important and useful inquiry, and its insistence upon the need for the best possible training of midwives and nurses will be regarded as not the least valuable of its recommendations.

The Man Who Was Not Recognised By The Frontier Guards

A man recently arrived at Kufstein, on the former German-Austrian frontier, and wanted to cross the frontier without a passport. Faithful to the demands of their duty the frontier guards barred the passage of this tall, distinguished looking man in a sports suit and with no hat. He appeared to them to be nervous, and therefore worthy of sus-

Humorous reference to the difficulty of hearing speakers from the stage of St. Mary's Hall, New Plymouth, was made by a delegate to the conference of the Dominion Group Herd Testing Association re-"When you people on the stage speak your voices are like good long shandies. Doctors Disagree

Manapouri the Best

Lake Manapouri is the loveliest of New Zealand's lakes, in the opinion of Mrs R. S. Taylor, an Englishwoman, who is at present in Christchurch, after a visit to the Southern Lakes district. "Much is heard of Wanaka and Te Anau," she said, "but for sheer beauty Manapouri stands alone. There is nothing to touch it in the rest of New Zealand."

Doctors Disagree

Recently the council of the New Zealand Amateur Athletic Association wrote to four doctors asking for expressions of opinion about the possibility of injury to schoolboy athletes who competed in a number of events during the one day. Replies were received from three, it was reported at a recent meeting of the council, two of whom said that no harm would result, but the other was of exactly the opposite opinion. The council is now seeking the opinion of four more doctors.

Refrigerators For Farms A suggestion that an enterprising inventor should market a cheaply-run refrigerator for use on farms was made by Mr F. McDonfarms was made by Mr F. McDon-laid at the annual meeting of the Hikurangi Dairy Company. "What we want is a refrigerator for keeping our cream while it is awaiting collection," he said. Mr McDonald's suggestion was supported by a number of supwas supported by a number of supthe end of September.

Sound Advice

A protest by counsel in the Arbitration Court at Dunedin that found it difficult to continue cross-examination of a medical witness because of the long answers given to simple questions drew forth some humorous advice from Mr Justice O'Regan. "When I was in practice," his Honor said, "my policy was to cross-examine medical witnesses as shortly as possible—the shorter the better. I generally found they were too clever for me, but I liked to sit back and revel in it

New Plymouth Trees for Export

Sound Films For Farmers

The use by the Department of Agriculture of sound films for the purposes of agricultural instruction has been the subject of a complimentary letter to the Minister of the New Zealand Farmers' Union. The executive has suggested to the Minister that his department should make a few sound of September.

Ilarge quantities have been exported to England. A prominent New Plymouth firm has had several orders from Italy, South Africa, Tahiti, India, Ireland and Wales. New Zealand trees grow wonder fully well in many parts of the world, particularly in Ireland and the Kew Gardens, London. Export regulations forbidding soil from other countries being taken into America makes the exportation of trees and shrubs to this country very difficult. Plants for export to America have to be grown in storic market.

From Abbey to Back Yard

The back yard of the Invercargill Police Station recently established a link with Westminster Abbey. Connation robes and regalia worn by Their Majesties the King and Queen and Princess Elizabeth and Margaret Rose for the historic ceremony in the Abbey, lay all night in lorries in the Police Station yard because no suitable hall was available for them. Through unforeseen circumstances the exhibit arrived in Invercargill two days early and arrangements could not be made on the spur of the moment for the housing of such valuables. The lorries, specially constructed for the housing of such valuables. The lorries, specially constructed for the housing of their precious freight, were carefully watched by members of the police force; it is seldom that articles to the value of £50,000 lie in a police station yard.

An erring budgerigar and a number or adults formed a rather amusaling stowatch looping down the roadway, followed by a lady calling it sweet lowed by a lady calling it sweet lowed by a lady calling it sweet howed by a lady calling it sweet on the truant, and at one stage almost had it recaptured, but at this magnated to make a still the obvious intention of help-with the obvious intention of he gotten.

The debate on the Address-in-Reply was taken a long step towards its close in the House of Representatives to-day when four Ministers and two front-bench members of the Opposition joined a number of back-benchers in the expression of political views.

Two main speakers addressed the House during the evening, when the Rt. Hon. J. G. Coates criticised the Government and the Minister of Finance (the Hon. W. Nash) replied to points he had raised. For the first time since the early stages of the debate an extension of time was granted to a member, and the result was a speech of an hour in duration

Apparently this course was adopted to give a better balance between the time occupied on the air by the Opposition and the Government speakers, as an extension was not sought by Mr Nash.

The material of speeches during the afternoon and evening was similar to that of previous speeches in the debate, Socialism coming in for both condemnation and defence.

There are not likely to be many speakers in the debate after the Prime Minister has had his say to-morrow evening.

When the House of Representatives met at 2.30 p.m., Dr. D. G. McMillan (Govt., Dunedin West) gave notice that he would ask the Minister of Industries and Commerce (the Hon. D. G. Sullivan) in association with the Minister of Defence (the Hon. F. Jones) if they would investigate the possibility of merce (the Hon. D. G. Sullivan) in association with the Minister of Defence (the Hon. F. Jones) if they would investigate the possibility of establishing a factory to manufacture aeroplanes in New Zealand. He added it was desirable that armament manufacture should be in the hands of the State and that it had been demonstrated that aeroplanes could be manufactured economically in small units. in small units.

He said that the possession of such a plant would be of inestimable value in time of war and the export market could also be developed with the assistance of the British Empire.

mr S. G. Holland (Nat., Christchurch North), gave notice to ask the Minister in Charge of Broadcasting (the Rt. Hon. M. J. Savage) whether any or all of the commercial broadcasting stations were making substantial losses and if a conference of commercial broadcasting managers had been called to discuss and remedy the situation, or had a conference been called to consider political propaganda over the air.

He also asked if the Director of Commercial Broadcasting had left
New Zealand on a tour abroad and if, so was the State paying the whole or part of his expenses and would he continue to draw his salary during his absence from New Zealand.

The Address in Reply Debate was continued by the Minister of Defence (the Hon. F. Jones) who contended that the strength of New Zealand defence forces should not be judged per head of the forces but on the power of the units and their mobility.

Expenditure on defence in the past three years was:—

1935-36 £1,193,175 1937-38 £1,857,646

He admitted that part of the expenditure for the year 1935-36 was made by the previous Government but the subsequent figure showed that the present Government was not unmindful of the defence of this

DEFENCE AND ELECTIONS

The Minister added that he thought people realised that the agitation, regarding land forces especially, was purely electioneering.

In answer to a question by Col. J.
Hargest (Nat., Awarua), the Minister stated that in regard to the number of the land forces he thought it was necessary for New Zealand to have a land force of some with special reserves and 9000. With special reserves and regular forces this would be all that would be required to meet any raid which might be made on the Dominion.

This force could be expanded if the need arose. He considered that with 9000 as a land force, along with the Air Force and the Navy, they would have ample to meet any force which might come here.

He stated it had been said that the Government had been unfair to the Opposition in reference to facilities which had been offered it for ties which had been offered it for broadcasting but he quoted the following figures to support the contention that this was not correct. During 16 days at the end of last session, said Mr Jones, 55 Government members had spoken on 94 occasions, 19 Opposition members had spoken on 83 occasions and six Independents had spoken on 16 oc-

Mr Jones added that he considered it was to the Government's advantage to give Opposition mem-bers opportunities to speak over the vantage to give Opposition members opportunities to speak over the air, for the more they spoke the more votes were gained for the Government.

Mr A. G. Osborne (Govt., Manukau) criticised the methods adopted by the National Party for the dissemination of propaganda, and said that much had been read in the papers about garden parties. The National Party, he considered, was running true to form, and while it conducted garden parties at the present time, it would be safe to predict that if ever again it was in control in New Zealand it would be organising soup kitchens and jumble of the doubtful how the finance and the security for that finance could the security for the disharch excheme.

Mr J. W. The Government's policy of compulsory unionism, he said, was placing people of the country in a strait-jacket. The Government, in his opinion, at the last election had received no mandate to put its doctrine of socialism into effect, and the reaction must come the reaction must come.

Mr Coates said that it was illegal to-day for anyone to produce anything without a licence.
"Oh nonsense" interjected the Hon. D. G. Sullivan.
"It is not nonsense," retorted Mr Coates. "The Hon. Gentleman should read his own Act."
Monopolies by vested interests, he held, were being created under the Industrial Efficiency Act, and as a result of the control by the Labour Administration, imported lines of goods were being given preference by buyers to locally manufactured products.

Mr Coates said he had heard the Prime Minister say time after time he would not interfere with the private ownership of property, but by raising costs it was possible to do this.

MR NASH IN REPLY

The Minister of Finance (the Hon. W. Nash) said that the Forbes Government had supported peace and the League of Nations and the Opposition was criticising the present Government for adhering to the principles set up by that Government.

tioned very seriously whether the compensated price scheme for dairy produce could be put into effect. "Circumstances are somewhat dif-ferent to-day," interjected an Oppo-sition member. There had been a lot of talk to the effect that Mr Hamilton's ad-dress in which he announced the adoption of the compensated price proposals had created a great deal of unsatisfactory feeling amongst the farming community.

"Yes, of course," replied Mr Nash.
"The Government of that day is the Opposition now. (Laughter.)
Mr Coates, continued the Minister, had challenged the Government to mention a single measure brought down by the previous Covernment In the Leader of the Opposition's address at Hamilton he had advocated bringing farming costs down. Mr Lee Martin continued that there was no suggestion that the position of farmers would be bettered under the compensated price scheme, in fact their whole position under the scheme would depend on oversea prices. He asked Mr Hamilton to state definitely if he adhered to the five points laid down by Colonel J. Closey in reference to the compensated price scheme.

The guaranteed price scheme, added Mr Lee Martin, had definitely assisted farmers, and he did not think they desired to change it. The Government had been chided for not restoring the returned soldiers' pensions. Who had cut the returned soldiers' pensions in the first place, he asked. When the question of restoring the returned men's pensions was considered the Government had told them they had remething which they considered something which they considered more urgent at the time, and that was giving pensions to soldiers' widows who had not had pensions

A PROPOSAL FROM MANCHESTER

A PRECEDENT

Suggestion Meeting With Favour

United Press Association-Copyright. LONDON, July 12.

There is a strong advocacy of a Manchester proposal to abandon the Australians' cricket matches against Scotland and Durham in favour of a substitute Test at Manchester on August 4 to 8. It is understood that Lancashire is favourable. It is thought that the counties would willingly release Test players for the sake of the extra pool to the counties.

Advocates point to the precedent of the extra Tests against New Zealand in 1931.

The Australian Associated Press says: "Lancashire officials naturally favour the suggested substituted Test at Manchester, but the idea seems to be principally the product seems to be principally the product of wet weather and boredom and is without solid backing."

The manager of the Australian team, Mr Jeanes, says that the suggestion is good, but he thinks that nothing will come of it.

Sir P. F. Warner cannot see how the fixtures can be rearranged.

It is recalled that New Zealand in 1931 was granted three Tests instead of the one originally arranged, but that scarcely constitutes a precedent for scheduling six Tests instead of five. The financial aspect is the strongest reason for the proposal.

Referring to the recent statement in the House by the Government Member for Palmerston North (Mr J. Hodgens), Sir Alfred Ransom said the latter had not read the letter which he (Ransom) had re-ceived about the Labour members who had taken the oath by declaration in the House.

"To a report of a speech I made at Woodville on the previous evening," replied Sir Alfred Ransom.

The Minister of Lands (the Hon. F. Langstone) refuted the suggestion that taxation was higher to-day than under the past Government. There was a whispering campaign going round the country, said the Minister, that Labour was going to take away the freehold to land, but

LAND POLICIES IN THE PAST

He went on to criticise the land policies of past Governments and outlined huge amounts which had to be written off properties which had been purchased at uneconomic prices. He instanced the case of 304 estates which had been purchased for £5,700,000.

Two millions of this amount had been written off years ago, and he was afraid to think how much more would be written off when the Mortgage Adjustment Commissions had completed their work.

The House adjourned at 10.25

Trenchant Attack On Labour Policy

By Telegraph-Press Association.

WELLINGTON, July 12.

"I still hold the opinion which I expressed in my address to you last year," said Mr W. H. Mulholland, Dominion President of the New Zealand Farmers' Union, in his annual address to the union yesterday, "that it is wiser for us to maintain an attitude entirely apart from party interests, and to criticise or support such measures as we may feel it desirable to do. But notwithstanding this, I hold that the Farmers' Union would be entirely failing in its duty to farmers and to the country generally if, having put forward a policy which is almost unanimously supported by the farmers of the Daminion it did not viscously be because these principles. Mr Mulholland was glad to say that all Ministers of the present Government did not take up that attitude. They recognised the formattitude. They recognised the farm-ers' right to organise as being as inherent to them as to any other section of the community. Indeed, scheme," said Mr Mulholland. "It inherent to them as to any other section of the community. Indeed, they availed themselves quite freely of the assistance of the organisation, which has been as freely given as its criticism.

"One of the most important matters concerning the farmers of this country to-day is the Government's guaranteed price plan. What is the guaranteed price? I have to confess that after its various metamorphoses I find it difficult to say," said Mr Mulholland.

"In my address last year I described the Government's scheme of marketing under the Primary Products Marketing Act as a long range stabilisation plan," he continued. "The means used for attaining the objective, I pointed out, was a com-pulsory pool operated by the Min-ister for Marketing and which had no definite balancing date.

"For the successful operation of the scheme it was of vital import-ance that the Equalisation Fund, ance that the Equalisation Fund, which resulted from the balance from sales overseas in seasons when prices were good, should remain intact in the Dairy Industry Account until required to make up a defi-ciency in low price periods.

"I pointed out that for the six seasons prior to June 30, 1936, it would have required £22,000,000 to have paid out a price on exported butter and cheese equal to the guaranteed price f 1936-37. I also stated that 'while control of the scheme remained in the hands of the Minister, political pressure would make it impossible to build up an adequate Reserve Fund, if indeed it were possible to build up any at all. A guaranteed price would never achieve its object unless the control were restored to the industry where it rightly belonged'."

Mr Mulholland said that he could hardly have anticipated that the cor-rectness of this statement would statement would have been so fully demonstrated in so short a time as had been the case. He explained that the Minis-Marketing at the conference of the National Dairy Association at New Plymouth on June 22 last announced the disbursement of the Equalisation Fund before it had existed for one season. The Minister, said Mr Mulholland, stated that there was an anticipated surplus of a little less than £1,000,000 in the ful year. This was mainly due to Equalisation Fund as the result of the high wool prices and the munithis year's transactions, and that he was going to pay nearly the whole "The production" of that away in an additional payment of ½d per lb. butterfat. The Minister also said: "It has been said that the guaranteed price principle has been abandoned. It is not true.

previous six or seven years, was seriously affected.

"There is some evidence of strain appearing now," Mr Mulholland said, "as is to be seen in the shortening of hands in some factories, the difficulties of manufacturers to maintain their production, and the reduction in sterling balances in London. What will be the position when prices fall seriously?

"The Government says they will insulate New Zealand, and the natural question which arises is: 'How?' But so far it has failed to elicit any But so far it has failed to elicit any very definite answer. The establishment of an equalisation reserve in the Dairy Produce Account did seem to be one concrete measure towards the attempt. Its abandonment leaves nothing but hope and ever-swelling costs," said Mr Mulholland.

THE CAUSE OF DEPRESSIONS

"The Government appears to hold the view that the slump in New Zea-land was caused by the reduction in wage rates," he continued. "This idea ignores the chronological order of events and places the effect be-fore the cause—which is an absurd-ity."

"There does seem to be some hazy idea of meeting the difficulties that the fall in overseas prices will create, when they occur, by still fur-ther raising wages and embarking upon a huge Government spending programme by utilising the public credit—as borrowing is euphemistically called nowadays.

"It is obvious," said Mr Mulholland, "that such a policy would result in accentuating the disequili-"In following this line of action," continued Mr Mulholland, "I have of necessity been strongly critical of Government proposals which were not in accord with our policy, and I suppose it was inevitable that and one-third pence per lb. butter artificial inflation of export prices. It was surely going too far, he said, when the Prime Minister, whose Government has compelled workers in industry to join specific unions without any choice, went round the country insinuating that the Farmers' Union did not represent the farmers and tried to induce farmers to break away from their organisation.

The Primary Products Marketing Act was very admirably designed for the purpose for which it was intended, except for the one very serious flaw which has proved fatal, i.e., Ministerial control was not certain that the scheme would succeed, but I was in company with most farmers, I think wishing the Minister well and hoping for his success.

"A stabilised price undoubtedly has a considerable appeal. But stabilised income is more important really to farmers.

"In the consideration of a stabilised income two essential factors are costs and a reserve fund. Under he guaranteed price scheme serve fund was to have been established by the marketing organisa tion, and from it was to have been paid out in lean years the money required to maintain the price at a reasonable level. It would be just as effective in stabilising the farmer's position, if he himself held his share in the reserve fund.

"In any case," added Mr Mulholland, "the possibility of an effective spending policy as a corrective to depressed conditions has been largely dissipated by the Government's present policy of wild spending in a time of prosperity.

"To a considerable extent the height of the boom determines the depth of the succeeding slump," said the moment, and which is, that if a price is adjusted to average conditions, then far more than half of the farmers must be penalised.

"This humbug and pretence inevitably causes us to think that the only marketing policy is that of keeping the farmers quiet while the State ownership and control of their primary produce is completed.

"Meanwhile, rising costs soar merrily towards the skies. The attempt to question and belittle the increases that have taken place seems to indicate that there is a declining desirate clining desire to implement that part of the Government's policy which promised the farmers that these costs would be counter-bal-anced by higher prices. It is said that against the increases in costs certain reductions should be taken into account, and that is true, but the claims that are made are much exaggerated. Reduction in interest is frequently pointed to, but the fact is that there has been no reduction in interest rates since November 30, 1934, when the banks, in agreement with the then Government, reduced the overdraft rate to 4½ per cent.

"Somewhere round about that time—actually during 1935, I believe—the Mortgage Corporation offered mortgage money at 4s per cent. There has been no reduction in these rates since, but the Govern-ment must be given credit for having taken certain actions which have prevented the rise of interest within the last year or While farmers very much appreciate this action, it does not represent prevented an increase.

"It is sometimes claimed that the Mortgage Adjustment Commissions are reducing farmers' costs by writing off their indebtedness, but this equivalent to claiming that the debtors' expenses are reduced when he is put through the Bankruptcy Court.

"Fertilisers are mentioned frequently as a case in point. Superphosphate has been reduced 3/- per ton, or a total reduction for the standard farm used by the Minister for Marketing in his dairy-farm calculation of about £2 5/- a year. This is welcome, but the increase in prices of other fertilisers far and away outweigh this, and there will be few farms where the increases in local sorb this saving.

N.Z. Farmers' Union President Reviews Government Policy

"I do not know what the Government's policy is with regard to the State ownership and control of the means of production, distribution, and exchange," said Mr W. H. "I do know that the leaders of the Federation of Labour, who claim to have 180,000 members, stand definitely for this policy.

Langstone, as Minister of Lands, I believe, holds an 'all time record' for the small number of settlers for the small number of settlers placed on the land.

Labour's Land Policy.

"The fact is," said Mr Mulholland,
"that the Government had no land policy until the Labour Party Conference found one for it last Easter.
The policy as it affects land settlement, according to the Official Report in the "Standard" reads as follows: "To increase New Zealand's farm population would necessitate the purchase of larger estates, preferably those areas at present served by roads railways markets and ed by roads, railways, markets and social amenities, but:

(a) the price must be right;

(b) the purchase must result in increased farm population; and

"I quote from the Labour Party's Official Organ's report of his speech," said Mr Mulholland, "as follows:-

"'The land of New Zealand has been alienated from the Crown by the policies of past Governments, and the Lands Department turned into a mere leasing authority oc-cupied with endless squabbles with leaseholders... The failure of land settlement in the past had been the granting of titles. Every man who worked on the land wanted a title to a piece of it. A man who worked in a factory did not demand a title to the factory, nor did a railway man expect eventually to own a piece of railway. Yet the land worker "wanted a title to the land." What does he want it for? Past history has shown that he wants it to gamble with — to get away with the plunder. While I am Minister there is going to be no new oppor-tunity given for anyone to do that. Farms under the new type of State development must be planned as self-liquidating assets. The price must be right, the land must remain in State ownership and cultivation nust be preceded by roading and housing.

Minister Contradicted.

"The Prime Minister has seemed to contradict the Minister of Lands statement of policy when he said at Levin recently: 'The Government was supposed to be going to socialist the land, but what on earth could it down the beautiful the said at the land, but what on earth could be supposed to be going to socialist the land, but what on earth could be supposed to be going to socialist the land. it do with the land, if it did socialise it? It would have to put the people now on the land back to work on it, and they would not work as hard for the State as they did for themselves.'

"This should be a definite denial of the Government's intention to embark on the State ownership and control of farms," said Mr Mulholland. "But is it? There is no specific denial. It may seem to be an unworthy suspicion that a Prime Minister would employ such a subterfuge, but I am faced with the fact that the Minister of Lands has said that that policy is now in operation.
"If the Prime Minister's words can be accepted at their face value then the resignation of the Minister of Lands seems to be called for," said Mr Mulholland.

GUARANTEED PRICES

By Telegraph-Press Association.

WELLINGTON, July 12. During the course of his annual address to the New Zealand Farmers' Union yesterday, Mr W. H. Mulholland, Dominion President of the union, explained various aspects of the much-debated Compensated Prices scheme.

This scheme is one of the major planks in the policy evolved by the union as a platform for political action, and it promises to be one of the major issues during the coming election campaign.

"It is not sufficient for the farmers that political parties put the

"One of the most urgently-necessary planks in our platform is that one which states our policy in regard to the relationship of costs and prices," said Mr Mulholland. "As laid down, it reads as follows:—

the Farmers' Union policy is still that the soundest method of closing that the soundest method of closing that the soundest method of closing the gap between farmers' costs and prices is by a reduction of costs, we insist on its complete closing by a reduction of costs, or by an increase in prices. Such adjustment must—

"(b) Allow them reasonable interest on the capital invested in their farms and stock;

"(c) Enable them to meet the increased costs imposed by legislation, including tariffs;

"(d) Allow them a remuneration in the considerations of the Act setting out the considerations to which 'regard shall be had': 'This is more a statement of political attitudes than the establishment of exact legal principles for elsewhere the Act provides that the guaranteed price, as fixed by the Government, cannot be challenged. The courts will, therefore, never be asked to determine what is meant by "usual conditions," "normal circumstances," "efficient producer," "sufficient net return," "reasonable state of comfort." These words express the Prime Minister's intention "to do the fair thing."

"(d) Allow them a remuneration commensurate with the service they render, and with that obtained by other mem-

"Compensated prices are not to be brought about by inflation—meaning by "inflation" an increase in the general price level due to be rendered by inflation.

"It is a frequent question, "What is the compensated price?" Mr Nash says it is the same as the guaranteed price." to be brought about by infla-tion—meaning by 'inflation' an increase in the general price level due to an increase in the amount of money put into circulation.

"This is what has come to be known as the compensated price policy," he added. "It is stated in the form that it is, in our policy, because the people at the last General Election decided against a reduction of costs as a way of correcting the economic position and the ing the economic position, and the Labour Party promised to meet the increased costs which its policy for rectifying the economic position required, with increased prices. It is, therefore, first of all an emphatic demand that the Government carry out their pre-election policy.

FARMERS' UNION VIEW

By Telegraph-Press Association.

WELLINGTON, July 12. "I have been more than pleased," said Mr W. H. particularly in the daily press, both critical of the union's attitude to various matters and supporting it, is also indicative of the amount of notice that is taken of the activities of the union. The more important statements issued from headquarters between the control of the union. ters have received very close attention over a wide area. Many of them have been very favourably received, others perhaps more critically, but with a gratifying amount of attention.

Freedom of the Air

"As instancing the importance attaching to our statements, I might mention the evidence submitted to the Parliamentary Committed to the Parliamentary Com-mittee on the social security schemes which was considered of such importance by the Govern-ment that the Prime Minister thought it necessary in the 7 o'clock wireless broadcast from his department on the evening of the day fol-lowine the delivery of our evidence to broadcast a considerable part of Mr James Roberts's evidence.

"This evidence was a series of eulogiums which were duly responded to by the Prime Minister and other members of the Parliamentary Committee, who, in their turn, congratulated Mr Roberts on his excellent evidence, all of which

Nash says it is the same as the guaranteed price. Perhaps! Mr Fraser at Dunedin says it is an attack on tariffs. Perhaps! Others say that it means a tribunal to fix all farm prices. Well, perhaps! If the Government is going to fix prices, then on the experience of the Primary Products Marketing Act it will never be done satisfac-

"Incidentally, the demand for a tribunal to assess the cost of production of dairy produce was not turned down at New Plymouth, but its functions were defined in somewhat different words than at some striking. Can we wonder that not an officer or board responsible only to Parliament and as independent of the Government as the judiciary.

Question of Principle

For an adjustment of prices, but for an adjustment of price levels. It is a principle that can be implemented in various ways depending upon the policy of the Government in power.

"The twitting of supporters of the compensated price by members of the present Government on the ground that they have no plan is an admission of the Government's at all. But is not a farmer as much policy laid down before the election which was artificially to inflate farmers' prices (all export prices not only dairy produce prices), sufficiently to balance artificially inflated.

Position of the Farmer

"Fleming's survey, already referred to, gives similar results in regard to agricultural farms, so that it would be impossible, at present prices, for farmers to pay comment on the ground that they have no plan is an admission of the Government's at lall. But is not a farmer as much policy laid down before the election which was artificially to inflate farmers' prices (all export prices not only dairy produce prices), sufficiently to balance artificially inflated.

Nature left lying around, and the Nature late of the Year Book as the Yea which was artificially to inflate farmers' prices (all export prices not only dairy produce prices), sufficiently to balance artificially inflated costs which, I agree with Mr Nash, would have put into operation the principles of the compensated price in accordance with the present Government's policy.

"While some show of doing something for dairy produce has been made, although it has been mostly show, there is not even that doubtful attempt to meet the position of the other export industries which provide from two-thirds to threefifths of our exports. The Marketing Act contains no formula for them. The Government neglects their existence entirely, and rarely "Farmers have not got something" their existence entirely, and rarely even mentions them, possibly because the political power of the dairy farmer is at the moment of great importance. He is the axis on which politics turn to-day. But economic forces do not regard political considerations, and will work their correctives in spite of unwise policies.

The Government neglects the farm.

"Farmers have not got something for nothing. They have paid with cash, and sweat, and endurance, for every penny their land is worth, and why should they be the only people denied a reasonable return on their investment," said Mr Multolland emphatically.

Comparison of Conditions

"If policies ignore them, however, like the Gods of old, they will visit their wrath upon us. A man on a tractor inside the farm fence has to be more skilled, has to be more expert with a far wider range of implements and machinery and conditions than the man over the fence on the road driving a grader. Yet the latter is paid £5 for a five-day 40-hour week, while the man on the farm is expected to be content with £3 2/6 per week for a six-day week £3 2/6 per week for a six day week under the present conditions."

REORGANISATION OF THE INDUSTRY

POLL SUGGESTED

Opinions at Hastings Conference

The question as to whether the Government or private enterprise should control the fruit industry was the subject of considerable comment at the annual Hawke's Bay Provincial Fruit Export Conference in Hastings yesterday.

It was decided that a special committee be set up to investigate fully the reorganisation of the industry.
The subject was introduced by Mr A. L. Baumgart, whose motion was adopted. The motion was "That the combined conferences of the Fruit Growers' Federation and the Export Board in Wellington set up a special committee to inquire into the reorganisation of the indicate the indic dustry, more particularly the three issues: (a) That there be a producers' organisation to control the marketing of export and local market fruit; (b) that there be a producers' organisation to control the marketing of local fruit in addition to the present board which to the present board which export fruit; and (c) that the Government take control of the complete marketing of local and export fruit."

Meeting of Hawke's Bay Sheepowners

A meeting of the Hawke's Bay Sheepowners' Union was held in Hastings on Tuesday. Mr F. N. H. Beamish presided over Messrs L. Maclean, H. Gascoyne, N. Campbell, O. C. B. Clarkson, H. M. Glazebrook, J. It was with much regret that this meeting received and accepted the resignation of their popular honorary treasurer, Mr Kinross White. He tendered his resignation with the assurance that the union would always have continued support.

Mr White, who had held this position for a number of years, stated that he felt compelled to relinquish the position to lessen some of his many responsibilities.

Mr Robert Harding, Raukawa, was elected to fill the vacancy.

LONDON'S MILK

SYSTEM EXPLAINED BY LECTURER

COLOSSAL TASK

Address by Dr. Vernon At Dannevirke

Without Results

Of all diseases that affect dairy cattle, mammitis easily takes the heaviest toll. The American expert, Dr. Hucker, was brought to New Zealand to investigate the incidence of the malady in this Dominion.

Dr. Hucker publicly announced that he knew of no cure for the disease.

Dairy farmers would have been more satisfied if Doctor Hucker's conclusions, as a result of his investigations in this Dominion, had been disclosed.

At the weekly lunch of the Danne-virke Rotary Club Dr. Vernon, a member of the Palmerston North Dairy Research Institute, gave an account of the way in which the eight million inhabitants of London receive their daily supply of milk. He explained that the distribution of milk in London was in the hands of large public companies who bought the milk from the farmers. It was received in country depots and brought to London, where it was stored in huge glass-lined tanks. It was then pasteurised and distributed by 4000 men throughout London.

vestigations in this Dominion, had been disclosed.

They would then know more definitely where the dairy industry stands in relation to the disease.

However, according to Mr A.

Linton, a member of the Dairy

Dominion, had the finite the disease of the pasteurisation of milk and illustrated clearly that the process does not in any way injure the milk but rather converts it from a possible disease spreading medium possible disease-spreading medium to a safe valuable food.

Dr. Vernon was introduced to the Rotary Club by the president, Mr E. N. Hogben, and a vote of thanks was proposed by Mr A. W. Soundy.

Mr C. H. Clibborn, secretary of the Lyttelton Harbour Board, will next month have completed 41 years' service. The board last year ex-tended Mr Clibborn's engagement for 12 months over the usual retir-ing period of 40 years. A further extension of his engagement has been made until August of next year.
