Holiday Spirit In City

United Press Association-Copyright. (Received July 19, 9 p.m.)

The whole city developed the holiday spirit to-day.

Paris has not been very gay lately, owing to economic factors, but all troubles have been forgotten with the approach of the visit of their Majesties.

The streets have been filled all day with crowds viewing the decorations, and the police report that 25,000 visitors have arrived in the last 24 hours.

The weather, which has been cold and rainy in the city for the last week, changed suddenly to-day and a heat wave

In the course of the debate, Earl Stanhope, for the Government, said that statements had recently appeared which attributed to the British Government a desire to eliminate Germany from the Danubian and Balkan markets by diverting trade into other channels.

There was no foundation whatever for attributing any such intention to the British Government, he said.

H. E. Avery, from the manager, Mr C. P. Hainsworth, who has just left London.

Mr Hainsworth said the British Government wished to reserve 28,000 sq. ft. of space for a special pavilion. This is a wholly unexpected amount of space and is greatly in excess of what the company had anticipated would be the British share in the exhibition although it does not exhibition, although it does not nearly equal the New Zealand Gov-ernment's reservation of 100,000 sq.

exhibition, although it does not nearly equal the New Zealand Government's reservation of 100,000 sq. ft.

Erection of Large Pavilion.

As it will involve the erection of a large pavilion in the exhibition grounds, probably near the main entrance, it will no doubt require a certain modification of the plans for the gardens and lawns in that portion of the area.

It is highly improbable that if Canada, Australia or South Africa participate they will take as large an area. Their pavilions will probably have to be arranged to halance.

"THOUGHT I WAS HEADED FOR LOS ANGELES"

Amazing Story Told By Aviator

United Press Association-Copyright. (Received July 19, 10 p.m.)

LONDON, July 19. The American airman, Corrigan, arrived at Baldonnel aerodrome after a flight across the Atlantic in his nine-yearsold machine. His time was 281 hours.

He is remaining at Dublin for a few days as the guest of the United States Legation.

Corrigan had only 40 gallons of petrol left out of 320 with which he started. His 'plane cruises at only 80 to 90 miles an hour. His only provisions were half a gallon of water and some chocolate biscuits.

A message from Washington states that air officials of the Air Commerce Bureau said that Corrigan may be put under "gentle discipline" when he returns to the United States. The director denied that he had said the bureau would make every endeavour to keep Corrigan from flying

"Because he has succeeded so well, we must admire his courage—in the judgment of many it was plain foolishness but we earnestly hope that there will not follow in his wake the usual host of aspirants wanting to ride to glory by the same route. Although we cannot say Corrigan has lastingly contributed to the science of aeronautics, we take off our hats to him. We hope he will soon come back to us to help us in the advancement of our long aspirations to make flying safe, pleasurable, and commercially profitable.'

Earlier, Mr Mulligan expressed amazement at Corrigan's contention that he flew the Atlantic by mistake.

Mr Mulligan remarked to the Press: "He must have kissed the Blarney Stone as a boy. It is now certain that only a gentle reprimand awaits

A later message from Washington states that the United States Department of Commerce has cancelled Corrigan's experimental licence in order to prevent him from attempting a return flight.

Big Problem For Land Agents

Despite continued activity in the building trade, Napier is still suffering from a shortage of houses, and inquiries made yesterday by the "Daily Mail" indicated the serious nature of the position.

Land agents are faced with a big problem in supplying houses for prospective tenants. One agent said that he had virtually no houses on his books and as a result several property sales were being held up. There was, he said, a ready market force with the declining the said of the

Another factor to be considered was that during the depression it was a common practice to find two families sharing one house, but now that conditions had improved sevethat conditions had improved several of these families were branching out on their own and were included in the ranks of house-seekers.

Yet another important point to be considered was that if a tenant occupied a house and the owner wished to sell it, the evicted tenant was forced to find another home and in most instances endeavoured to place upon the landlord the onus of providing the dwelling.

To cope with population increases, Napier needed at least 30 new houses a year, and the agent said that as fast as these were erected they would be let.

Builders' Problem.

Builders' Problem. Builders, too, are faced with a problem in that they are unable to secure sufficient carpenters to work secure sufficient carpenters to work on various building jobs. These tradesmen have been in very short supply for some time and few, if any, skilled workers can be found among the unemployed. This is also an offshoot of depression days when, by reason of the scarcity of work, employers were unable to employ apprentices to teach them the trade. As a result, when work again became plentiful, there were not sufficient men to carry out the various jobs. These embryo carpenters are now well past the age when they could be apprenticed to the trade.

By Telegraph-Press Association.

CHRISTCHURCH, July 19.

By the compliance of traders with the wishes of the Department of Industries and Commerce, prosecutions have been avoided in more than 100 cases of alleged profiteering.

This information was given by the Minister of Industries and Commerce (the Hon. D. G. Sullivan) in an interview to-day, when he expressed the definite opinion that the Government's policy of not unduly harassing traders had given gratifying results.

Investigations are being made all the time by the Department into complaints of excessive increases in the price of goods, he said.

Said the Minister. "Investigations are going on continuously. Methods we have adopted to ensure compliance with the terms of the law have and the difficulties in a very

When he introduced the Prevention of Profiteering Act, said the Minister, he had stated that he realised that there would be some degree of failure in the administration if the Government were put in the position of harassing traders by anything in the way of prosecutions, "and we don't look for prosecutions" said the Minister.

Only when there was a defiance of the law after the Department of Industries and Commerce had made its investigations and had pointed out the facts to traders would the department take action.

When mistakes were made, or when the Department found that the law was not being complied with,

Unique Cooling System

First details are now available of the de Havilland Gipsy Twelve engine, four of which are fitted to the Albatross transoceanic airliner, now undergoing Air Ministry tests at Martlesham Heath. The new engine queraders in harmony and has a maximum take-off power of 505/525 h.p. at 2,600 revolutions per minute at sea-level. International rating is 405/420 b.h.p. at 2,400 revoditions in high-speed transport and military services the Gipsy Twelve is geared and supercharged, designed to give it most efficient performance at rated altitude and with a controllable-pitch airscrew of constant speed type. The V arrangement of the cylinders gives a low ratio of frontal area to power output. This design yields a high cruising efficiency and an improved take-off thrust. With modern aircraft commonly exceeding 200 miles an hour, the factors of low frontal area, diameter, and clean entry are of great importance.

Frontal area of symmetrical cowl at the front end of the main air-scoops is 6.4 square feet. The circular cowling adjoins the airscrew spinner, continuing this line to give a bullet-shaped unit.

Unique System of Cooling

Additional clean lines are obtained by a unique air cooling system; ducts, whose apertures are located in the leading edge of the wings, lead air currents past the cylinders. The air flow can be regulated. With this cooling system the air is forced at pressure along ducts to galleries outside the banks of six cylinders. Thence it flows over the cylinder fins and head to the space between the banks, and is exhausted downward and rearward.

In the fully open position for takeoff this gill induces a suction, assisting the slipstream in taking air past the cylinders. In cruising the gill is nearly closed, restricting the airflov to a desired rate and at the same time reducing drag. Thus the en-gine is given a completely streamlined form, devoid of radiators or cooling air scoops. The unit as a whole has been The unit as a whole has been evolved directly from the Gipsy Major and Gipsy Six engines. After exhaustive bench and flying tests and completion of the extremely severe Air Ministry 100-hours' type test, the engine has been found in excellent condition. Puzzle, No. 1958

There's a reason why Lux Toilet Soap is supercreamed—that is, a little of a special softening skin cream blended into each tablet. It's because ordinary toilet soaps dry out the natural oils of the skin . . . leave it dry, unlovely, older-looking every day. By protecting these vital oils, the supercreamed lather helps nature to keep your skin young . . . soft . . . clear . . . altogether adorable.

Take a cake of Lux Toilet Soap and test it against the soap you are using now, or any other. Notice the unmistakably smoother, creamier feel of the supercreamed lather compared with ordinary lather. ERROL FLYNN IN COMEDY

Amusing Story Showing To-day

The story of a perfect specimen of manhood who learned more from Joan Blondell in 25 minutes than he did from grandma in 25 years! Doubtless there are scores of thousands of girls who regard Errol Flynn, the handsome Irish movie star, as "The Perfect Specimen." And it is in a Warner Bros. comedy drama of that appropriate title that Errol is now presenting himself at the Gaiety Theatre, Napier, in an extended season screening. extended season screening

The story of "The Perfect Specimen" was written by Samuel Hopkins Adams, author of "It Happened One Night," and was directed by Michael Curtiz, who guided Flynn through his early triumphs, "Captain Blood" and "The Charge of the Light Brigade."

The film shows Errol as being reared by an eccentric and immensely rich grandmother, who wants him to be perfect in every way—as perfect as scores of tutors can make him. Joan Blondell, curious to get a close-up look at this paragon of whom she has only heard, drives her car through a ight fence on his estate, takes her ook at him, then drives away. His scuriosity aroused by this stunt, Flynn next day gets an old car, drives to where Joan lives in an adjoining village, and runs his machine through her fence and persuades her to take a ride with him.

There are two fights in the show, both of which Fred wits: there is both of which Errol wins; there is a kidnapping scare; there's a goofy poet, played by Hugh Herbert; a whimsical secretary to the old lady, played by Edward Everett Horton a tough truck driver, played by Allen Jenkins; an energetic youth played by Dick Foran, of western movie fame; an attractive young lass played by Beverly Roberts— and no end of other amusing char-

FINE GUEST SEASON PROGRAMME

Comedy, Thrills And Romance

This week's guest season programme, showing to day at the Mayfair Theatre, Napier, with two sessions daily, is grand entertainnent. Guest season prices are: All talls 9d, all circle 1/-.

The first attraction is "Seven Sinners"—packed to the brim with thrills and piquant romance, it stars Edmund Lowe and Constance Cum-Adapted from the famous stage play, "The Wrecker," this picture will hold you from start to finish. Briefly, the story concerns the activities of a gun-funning organisation which wrecks trains, not as a hobby, what as a clock for the identity of the but as a cloak for the identity of th mund Lowe) as representative of a famous American detective agency to unravel the wreckers' crimes.

Claire Trevor, Ralph Bellamy, Warren Hymer, Jane Darwell and Ben Lyon head the cast of the second attraction, "Navy Wife." This picture, adapted from Kathleen Norris's popular "Beauty's Daughter," is a dramatic story, rich in romance and studded with sparkling comedy. Miss Trevor enacts the role of a nurse in the navy. She is embit-tered against marriage because of the failure of that of her parents. Although resolved never to fall in love, she loses her heart to Bellamy, a physician assigned to the hospital in which she is working, and marries him. She soon learns, however, that the memory of a dead wife is almost too much to overcome.

ROMANTIC COMEDY TEAM

"Second Honeymoon" To-day

Tyrone Power and Loretta Young teamed together in a romantic comedy, Twentieth Century-Fox's "Second Honeymoon," continuing to-day with a matinee this afternoon at the State Theatre, Napier, is good news for everyone. The reason is the smart, modern, gay and witty manner that has made them the most exciting sweet hearts of the screen. All the world loves a lover, and all the world has followed these two lovers as they show new ways to romance.

When Tyrone and Loretta meet under the Miami moon for an impulsive kiss their love is news once pulsive kiss, their love is news once more, but this time they mean it with all their hearts. Love at first sight is romantic enough, but love at second sight! "Second Honey moon" is their perfect picture, to-gether as their "Reno'd" honeymoon is renewed in the merriest romance of the year.

Having left Tyrone because he was mad, irresponsible and gave her no sense of security, Loretta finds she wants him back for the same reasons. But a honeymoon renew and is not so easily accomplished as ed is not so easily accomplished as a honeymoon "Reno'd," especially when Loretta's second husband is considered. Played by Lyle Talbot, he is a common garden variety of spouse out-bloomed by the hardy perennial that is Tyrone's and Loretta's love.

Tyrone, so ardent, and Loretta, so gay, were exciting in "Love News" and "Cafe Metropole," l this time they really have their hearts in it! Stuart Erwin, Claire Trevor, Marjorie Weaver, Lyle Talvalue.

WOMEN IN THE COUNTRY

N.Z. Compared with Australia

Mrs J. W. C. Beveridge, State resident of the New South Wales country Women's Association, has written to the editor of the Women's Supplement of the "Sydney Morning Herald" saying that she read with interest a recent interview with Mrs W. Lee Martin, in which the work of the New Zealand Farmers' Union was discussed was discussed.

Mrs Beveridge compares the work of the two associations in the following extracts from her letter:

MARMAL PIKELETS

"It is interesting to note the many points of similarity between the work of the W.D.F.U. and the C.W.A. The exchange table at meetings, mentioned by Mrs Martin, is a popular innovation at many of our branch meetings. Members dispose of various articles and produce, but, whereas the W.D.F.U. members exchange goods amongst themselves, it is usual with our branches to sell the articles and put the revenue into branch funds.

"The care of the sick and needy in the centre of the flour and stir in the milk mixture, mixing to a smooth batter. Drop in dessert-spoonful on a hot greased girdle

"The care of the sick and needy is also a major objective of the Country Women's Association. Fourteen emergency and maternity hospitals have been established in districts where no other hospital facilities are available and the association. ties are available, and the associa-tion has co-operated with the Government in establishing and main-taining 80 baby health centres. Branches also assist in the provision f maternity wards at district hos-

"The Emergency Housekeeping Scheme, which is such a popular and valuable feature of the work of the scheme, which is such a popular and valuable feature of the work of the Women's Division of the New Zealand Farmers' Union, was tried by the C.W.A. in New South Wales many years ago, and was successful for a time, but had to be discontinued owing to the fact that it was impossible to obtain people to undertake this work. However, the work is again being started in the Central Western Group of branches. "In instances where families cannot afford anything for their holidays, the local branch of the C.W.A. provides the necessary amount. The number of letters of sincere gratitude from people from the Far West who get their first taste of sea or mountain air through the auspices of the C.W.A. are ample evidence of the fact that these homes are fulfilling a real need.

of the fact that these homes are fulfilling a real need.

"The 121 rest-rooms, established in country districts, provide an attractive and comfortable place for women and children to rest, and are particularly beneficial during the hot, dry summer months, which are so trying in our inland towns.

"In conclusion I would like to add that visitors from overseas are althat visitors from overseas are al-ways welcome at our meetings. If there are any New Zealanders here in New South Wales, who are interwe would welcome an opportunity of introducing them to the Country Women's Association."

with a little cold water to form a fairly stiff paste. Roll lightly and spread with marmalade and then roll up, pinching the ends together. Bake hour on a well-greased oven slide. Serve with marmalade.

MARMALADE GEMS

Ingredients: 1 large cup flour, 2 ozs. butter, ½ cup sugar, 1 table-spoonful marmalade, ½ cup milk, ½ teaspoonful baking soda, 1 teaspoonful cream of tartar, pinch of salt,

Now that readers have made their marmalade from one of the numerous tested recipes published in the weekly cook-ery section given last Wednes-day, thoughts will turn to the numerous ways in which marmalade can give variety to the foods they serve.

Housewives were advised to make a second boiling of marmalade, using minced fruit so that they would have plenty for cooking purposes. Here we have a wonderful variety of recipes, many of them most unusual, and all equally delicious, each one including marmalade to give additional flavour.

Method: Cream the butter and sugar and add the marmalade, then the well-eaten egg followed by milk, and lastly the flour and rising. Have the gem irons very hot and well-buttered, put a tablespoonful in each and cook & hour.

CORNFLOUR

Ingredients: 3 ozs. cornflour, 4 ozs. flour, 2 ozs. sugar, 4 ozs. butter, 1 egg, 2 tablespoonfuls milk, 1 teaspoonful baking powder, pinch of Method: Mix the flour, cornflour

Method: Mix the flour, cornflour and baking powder and rub the butter in lightly, then rub in the sugar and salt. Add the well-beaten egg yolk, then the milk. Knead it into a light dough, roll into a round piece and fit on a well-greased tin plate or sponge tin. Crimp the edges and prick the centre. Bake in a moderate oven from 20 minutes to half an hour till a golden brown colour. Then spread with marmalade and finish with meringue made from the white of egg and a little sugar well-beaten. Place in a cool oven until the meringue sets.

MANDAALADE

Method: Cream the butter and sugar and add the eggs, then the flour, mixed with the baking powder, and lastly the milk. Grease and flour a basin and put 2 table-spoonfuls of marmalade in the bottom and pour the mixture on top. Boil from 2 to 2½ hours.

Consideration Should be Given to the Work Which Must be Done

Perfect kitchens are made, but never born. That is to say, they grow or evolve from inherited data or workable premises, but perfection must be planned.

That is where the subtlety of selection tells against hap-hazard clustering of units and fittings, and you must know your job before you can say what you want, writes a London The ABC of kitchen planning starts with analysis of the work to be done-food preparation, cooking, washing up, laundry work—and getting these "centres" into happy relationship. Naturally the sink holds a key situation because it is the most frequent port of call. With the sink site settled, com- Posture plays a big part in plan-hot from the oven. (People are taking up the idea of a heatproofed "landing-stage" beside the cooker, as it is immensely helpful).

You can always test if you have allowed enough work or table space by measuring it into square feet and comparing it with the floor area. If it comes out at one-tenth you are not doing so badly, but allow less than that and things get cramped and difficult.

Choose heat- and acid-proofed coverings for tables or bench. There are new versions of the linoleum family that are well worth the outlay. Cutlery drawers are extra site lined up in pale coloured lino, too. Cutlery drawers are extra slick

For the laundry centre you need for the laundry centre you need to arrange things as near the sink as possible. There are many ways of plumbing in and hiding washboilers or machines under a movable draining board, so they are just right for filling from the hot tap with a strip of rubber hose.

There is an ever-present problem of drying linen, so a gas or electric drier is a good investment. Fold flat, ironing boards collapse into cupboards without the least embar-

The Art of Kitchen Re-Planning

Making over existing kitchens is an art with a thrill of its own. A recent contest was held for housewife members of the London Elec-trical Association for Women, to re-plan their home kitchens to the greatest saving of labour and improvement of storage and prepara-tion space. This involved a com-plete "facelift" in most cases, but brought interesting facts to light. Most of the entrants were active housewives who shouldered routine duties and knew what they wanted. They chose flexible cupboard units movable ironing boards, and a "workshop" kitchen rather than a convertible apartment. Light washable backgrounds of paint or half tiling were invariably chosen for walls, and the need for adequate lighting stressed by all.

Of course the detail end of kit-chen planning is never really done, especially with accessories and fit-That's why we all want to the latest trick, because clever improvements are costly if you learn your way mat, but if the sink is too low it needs refitting. The question of toe space arises too. Have you seen white wood

TRADE AGREEMENT TALKS

ANGLO-AUSTRALIAN DISCUSSIONS

END IN SIGHT

Hope For Statement Shortly

United Fress Association-Copyright LONDON, July 18. The Australian Associated Press colitical correspondent says that the end of the Anglo-Australian trade discussions is in sight.

The discussions were accompanied by the last-minute rush of the Minsters who met at the Dominions Office in the morning for nearly hours, adjourning to attend Buckingham Palace garden party where, with their wives, they had afternoon tea with Her Majesty the Queen, resuming at 6 p.m.

It is thought possible that there will be a further meeting to morrow to enable the conclusion of the Ministerial deliberations before the delegates go to France for the unveiling of the Villers Bretonneux Memorial

Dr. Earle Page (Australian Minister of Commerce), hopes to make a comprehensive statement before the week-end, pending which he is tele-graphing drafts to Canberra.

Dr. Page will embark at Glasgow for Canada on July 30.

By Telegraph—Press Association. AUCKLAND, July 19. AUCKLAND, July 19.

"Italy is regarded as Egypt's only potential enemy at the present itime," said Mr J. I. Craig, M.A., financial secretary to the Egyptian Government, who arrived by the Wanganella from Sydney to spend a fortnight in the Dominion before returning home via Australia. He said that Egypt was expanding her defences in the terms of the Anglo-Egyptian Treaty of 1936, which the country was busily executing.

"Egypt is bringing her army to a high state of efficiency with the most modern weapons especially designed for desert warfare. She is also rapidly expanding her air force," he said. "Her problem is one of defence to guard the long frontier and very long coast line."

Economically, the country had been rather hard hit by the fall in cotton prices, but her finances were sound. Britain had an important influence in Egyptian affairs, personal rather than legal.

A MOMENTOUS VISIT

With the tact, courage, and confidence of his ancestors, King George VI. has put his shoulder to an enormous responsibility and, under circumstances of extraordinary delicacy and difficulty, has adhered to the motto which was emblazoned on the escutcheon of his elder brother—"Ich Dien."

"I serve." It is a slogan for kings and commoners alike. The service rendered by his Majesty by his present visit to Paris is up to the highest standards of British traditions, and that something will come of it there can be no doubt.

To look at his Majesty's visit in historical perspective is to see again the progress of his grandfather through the diplomatic halls of Europe and to recall the days when the "Entente Cordiale" was the fulcrum which determined the power of the lever which was weighed down in the cause of peace in Continental Europe.

King Edward VII. was, above everything, a Royal diplomat, and he deserved the title of "Peace-maker," by which he is still remembered. The relationships established with France in his day stood up to the test of a modern war, and it was as allies and friends that the British Empire and France made common cause.

History has a way of repeating itself. To-day a British King is once more on the soil of France as an ambassador of friendship, and his visit to Paris should not be regarded as a mere courtesy call or holiday tour. The deeper significance of the visit is related to the fact that the nations of Europe to-day may be sharply divided into two categories-the aggressive and the non-aggressive.

It requires but little knowledge of international affairs to realise that of the major nations of Europe, France is the least aggressive in her policy, and most akin to Great Britain in her desire to consolidate defences rather than to push forward an offensive policy with an eye to the conquest of other peoples or territories.

The same cannot be said of Germany or of Italy. Recent events have shown that these two countries are psychologically related because of a common desire for dominance. They have pursued similar methods to reach their similar aims, and on some points of policy they have drawn closer to each other.

Hitler in Italy and Mussolini in Germany gave to the world striking examples of carefully stage-managed displays in which the motif was power and the will to conquer. Dictators, closely guarded, paraded in their pomp before dictated adulation, and a competition of comparative strength was staged on behalf of each for the benefit of the other. But, as the French people may well say to-day—using their well-known proverb-"All that is changed." As a friendly visitor to a friendly people the British King will move about in freedom and in peace among the inhabitants of the French capital, and he will be a shrewd observer who will be able to discover anything but a contrast between the sabrerattling demonstrations of fraternising dictators and the visit of the British monarch to the free Republic of France. It is legitimate to surmise that the visit has not been a casually arranged affair of no great international significance. The deep purpose behind it may yet be revealed in the days to come. What Europe and what the world at large needs is the considered and determined consolidation of all the powers that make for peace and serenity. The welcome given in France to George VI. will be carefully noted not only by the two nations most intimately concerned, but by those others-some of them outside of Europe-which will have many valuable lessons to learn from it. In times of turmoil and stress many criticisms have been levelled against France by the British peoples, and there is and will remain a fundamental difference in the mental habits of the two races. The British take the broad view, are willing to compromise, are amenable to argument on the other side of a question. The French are all for details, prepared to argue on sub-clauses to the last ditch, and hard to bring into line with average opinion. Yet both peoples love peace, seek peace, and will pursue it. It may be that the chief motive of France is fear of a powerful neighbour, and it may be that the motive actuating

Britain is the desire to stand between posterity and the horrors of another war.

ROMANCE OF THE FUR-BUYING TRADE

SKINS BY THE MILLION SOLD IN THE BACK STREETS OF LONDON: CASUAL BUT HUGE BIDS

Elegant shoulders the world over have dictated that three times a year buyers from the farthest corners of the earth should gather in London, scarcely a stone's throw from St. Paul's Cathedral, for the great fur sales.

For there, in a few quiet back streets lies the centre of the world's streets lies the centre of the world's fur trade. Millions of fur-skins, worth many hundreds of thousands of pounds change hands. The first consignment owned by the famous Hudson's Bay Company cost them $\frac{1}{2}$ for a curt, "Up," understood by all, To-day they export nearly $\frac{1}{2}$4,000,000 worth every year, and London imports more than $30,000,000 fur-skins annually, to say nothing of twice Husson's Bay Company cost them 1650 in barter and fetched 19,500. To-day they export nearly $4,000,000 worth every year, and London imports more than 30,000,000 fur-skins annually, to say nothing of twice that number of rabbit-skins.

A BABEL OF TONGUES

It is a very mixed company which gathers in the sale room, and it is not uncommon for f100,000 worth of skins to change hands in a few hours. Chinese, dapper and polite Japanese, hard-bitten Germans, Chileans and Czechs jostle one another. A babel of tongues fills the air, but not a skin is to be seen. These keen-eyed bidders always inspect the lots as they lie in the safe goes on with scarcely

Overseas Air Mail

Air mails despatched from London on June 30 and July 3 will arrive at Napier to-day. The mails arrived at Auckland yesterday by the Huddart Parker motor-liner Wanga-nella from Sydney. The Wanganella also carried 781 bags of Australian mail, including 146 for Auckland.

Sale of Stock and Implements

The New Zealand Loan and Mer The New Zealand Loan and Mercantile Agency Co. Ltd. advertise in this issue a clearing sale to be held on the property of Mrs C. Hinds on the Havelock Road. The sale is on Thursday, July 21, and will commence at 12.30 p.m. sharp. The stock is in first-class order and the cows very heavy producers. The implements are also in good shape.

Profits From Football

The gate takings at the Wanganui-King Country Rugby representative match played at Raetihi on Saturday amounted to £72, the second highest total since Raetihi has been a settlement. People travelled more than 70 miles to see the teams play. Two players on the King Country side, the Rev. W. J. Trusttum and Mr C. A. Crossman, had to travel 90 miles.

New Auckland Airport?

The Mayor of Auckland, Sir Ernest Davis, has called a conference of representatives of local authorities for next Friday to consider replies from local bodies to recommendations made at a previous conference in connection with the proposed establishment of an airport for Auckland at the upper end of Manukau Harbour. It was recommended that the metropolitan local bodies should be asked to share the cost of the proposal under an assessment based on the mean of population and valuation.

New Naval Flag

A new high has been added to those which are seen occasionally in New Zealand. It is the official flag of the New Zealand Naval Board and it may be seen fairly frequently in Wellington in the future, when the necessity arises for visiting warships to salute Commodore H. E. Haven presently appeared Chief of ships to salute Commodore H. E. Horan, recently appointed Chief of Naval Staff. The design, which was approved by His Majesty King George VI last year, is as follows: The Admiralty anchor in gold, placed horizontally in the centre of a flag of red and blue, bisected vertically, the red portion being nearest cally, the red portion being nearest the staff. The flag is entitled to a ### salute of 15 guns. No Protection for Fruit

Complaint that growers of pip fruit had received no protection from the Government, whereas the Government was already protecting the market for imported fruits such as bananas and oranges, which competed with local growers, was expressed at the provincial conference of the New Zealand Fruitgrowers' Federation, held at Hastings yesterday. The opinion was expressed that the Internal Marketing Board should do more to protect New Zealand growers. The director of Internal Marketing (Mr Picot) had promised the growers that he would give them some protection, but nothing had been done, t was stated. The trouble had been that at the time he made the promise, Mr Picot did not have the power to bring in the schemes wanted to, said Mr T. C. Brash. Picot had since been provided with the necessary power.

Provision of Fruit Cases

The question of whether it would be better for growers to import cases from overseas rather than rely on New Zealand sawmillers was discussed at the annual conference of the New Zealand Fruitgrowers' Federation, held at Hastings yesterday. Delegates complained that last year there had been a shortage of cases, and it was suggested that some scheme might be introduced to keep the sawmills employed during the winter months. Growers were not able to place orders for cases until they saw what sort of a crop they were going to have, it was stated. It was suggested that the Government might give growers a loan to enable them to place their orders during the winter months, and such loans would be repaid when the crop was sold. Mr A. L. Baumgart said that it had now been arranged that sawmillers would have sufficient cases for one month's supply always on hand. The matter is to be considered further at the Dominion conference.

Stories of men who have tamed

A Sparrow Tamer

Stories of men who have tamed pigeons so that they have fluttered round their heads and perched on their bodies are common enough. There is even a man along the waterfront who, through much patience, has succeeded in having seagulls eat out of Lis hand. But this is the tale of the man who has done the same thing with sparrows.

Parliament spent a busy, if unexciting, day in dealing with the report of the Maternity Services Committee and in discussing various minor Bills introduced by Ministers.

The House generally was agreed upon the findings of the committee, although appropriate opportunities were seized to score any political points offering.

The Bills passed were largely of a non-contentious nature and the House accepted them with very little discussion.

Mr E. J. Howard (Chairman of Committees) complimented both sides of the House on the unanimity shown towards the report.

The Opposition and the Government were agreed that the time had arrived when more attention should arrived when more attention should be concentrated upon improving maternity services throughout the Dominion. Outside the House the cry of "where is the money coming from" had been heard, but Seddon had had to face criticism of that sort 30 years ago, when he brought the St. Helen's Hospital system into being.

being.

Their hospitals had served their day, and excellent work had been done through them, but no one would say that they represented the last word in the provision of comfort for the mothers of the nation.

When the present Government had brought a free maternity service into being it would have reached one of the ideals towards which much of of the ideals towards which much of the splendid work of Seddon had

Mr L. G. Lowry (Govt., Otaki) declared that the working classes and not the salaried classes were responsible for the greater number of births in New Zealand, and he made an appeal for financial assistance on their behalf. Mr H. Atmore (Ind., Nelson) referred to the declining population of Britain and attributed it to inadequate wages and the fear of war.

AN ECONOMIC QUESTION

"This question is an economic one," said Mr Atmore, "but it has a spiritual basis as well."

Mr D. Barnes (Govt., Waitaki) suggested that hostels should be established for domestic helps on a par with those for nurses and a par with those for nurses, and pointed out that if a mother had to be confined in a maternity hospital then it was necessary for help to be JAPANESE secured for her home during her

"I think it is a splendid report. It only remains for somebody to do something with it," said the Prime Minister (the Rt. Hon. M. J. Savage) after congratulating the Minister of Health (the Hon. P. Fraser) and the Committee on their work.

He added that they had had a good many reports in the past and they had ended up in the Minister's office. He was sure that this one would not stay there.

would not stay there.

"ONLY THE BEST"

It seemed to him that only the best was good enough for the mothers of New Zealand and he was satisfied that they were not getting it to-day. Mr Savage added that he was a member of the first New Zealand Parliament to introduce a Bill for the endowment of motherhood, and the present Minister of Health had helped him to draft the Bill. Perhaps that was just a coincidence.

The Government was providing something now that the Labour Party though fifteen years ago, was necessary in the interests of motherhood. That was something instances or just a was necessary in the interests of motherhood. That was something more than just a phrase, or just a few shillings given from time to time, it was putting them on a different basis altogether from what they had been used to.

Mr Mason also moved the Second Reading of the New Zealand Council of Law Reporting Bill, which, he said, met the wishes of the legal profession.

STANDARDISATION IN THE FRUIT INDUSTRY

Some Of The Benefits Outlined HAWKE'S BAY GROWERS HOLD

Discussion Of Problems

CONFERENCE

The increased benefits which the fruitgrowers of New Zealand were enjoying because of the Government's introduction of a system of standardisation were stressed by Mr J. Thorpe, of the Department of Agriculture, at the provincial conference of the New Zealand Fruitgrowers' Federation held at Hastings yesterday. Mr Thorpe said that the growers had been working for years to get some system of standardising fruit. The Government had now brought this about.

The standardisation scheme was only the preliminary stage of a system of orderly marketing.

further by education.

Growers Penalised.

Some of the growers had com-plained that they were being penal-ised for the benefit of the wholesaler and the retailer. To a certain extent that was correct, but the growers had received benefits also.

In the past some of the fruit which had been sold in the markets which had been sold in the markets had been no credit to the growers, but the fruit now being sold was of a higher standard and of a better quality than ever before.

The idea of the regulations was to make the grower give some guarantee of the quality of the fruit he put into the case. In order that the plan should be a success it was necessary to carry it out on systematic lines.

In the past, said Mr Thorpe, there had been some criticism of the growers at standardisation, but it had broken down.

There had been some criticism of the regulation which required growers to place a penny stamp on each case. It had been found that this was the most successful means of the claim. During the last 10 or 15 years, the quality of the fruit produced had been raised, and there was no reason why it should not be raised still ing to place a stamp on the case certainly did cause some irritation said Mr Thorpe, but it was only a small thing for the farmer to do.

It should be an obligation on the part of the grower to put the stamp on, and he did not think that they should object to putting a penny stamp on for the good of their own

The payment had to be universal and he did not think that there was any more successful way of doing this than by the use of a stamp.

During the months of April, May and June, the sum of £3301 had been received from the sale of stamps, which represented 792,000 stamps, which represented 792,000 cases of fruit.

There would also be receipts from about 550,000 cases now in cool storage and on which payment was still to come. Mr Thorpe estimated that in a nine-monthly period, there would be a return of £5500 from stamps fixed to 1,342,000 cases.

In addition, there would be 1,563, 000 cases for export.

The total production for apples and pears would be 3,255,000 cases.

PATANGATA, ELSTHORPE, OMAKERE AND DISTRICTS PLOUGHING CLUB'S CENTENNIAL COURT COSTS DISCUSSED

Waipukurau Borough Council Regards The Rate As Too High

WAIPUKURAU.

The proposed contribution by the Waipukurau borough towards a court at the Centennial Exhibition was discussed by the council on Monday evening, and was considered too heavy. The Mayor and the Town Clerk were appointed a delegation to place the views of the council before a meeting of local bodies to be held at Napier on August 17.

Napier Borough Council was that two-thirds of the total cost of £5000 FAVOURED WAIPUKURAU'S NEW

cil, when it was decided after much discussion to obtain an estimate of the cost of materials, after which a decision will be made regarding the size of the pool and its site.

As directed at the previous meeting, the Town Clerk-Engineer, Mr H. B. Smart, presented a report on the supply of water available for the purpose. It would be impossible to guarantee to supply the baths with water from the town mains during mid-summer, he said, as the pumps were hard-pressed to supply more water was drawn from the reservoir than could be replaced in the same day, the deficiency being made up on Sundays. Consequently, if water were to be supplied to the baths, extra pumps or longer hours of operation would be required.

Wairoa Ladies' Golf.—The draw for the ladies' golf matches to be played this week is the same as last week.

No Option Members agreed that in view of the facts revealed in the report there appeared to be no option but to place the baths near the river and instal an independent pumping plant. This would also enable the plants to be refilled at more frequent. baths to be refilled at more frequent

LADIES' LEAPING COMPETITION.— First prize Challenge Cup presented by Mr H. S. Rathbone, to be won twice in succession or three times at inter-vals (Winners: 1928, H. R. Campbell; 1929, Miss Joan Williams; 1930, J. Lowry; 1931, Mrs J. Hunter; 1932, T. Colquhoun; 1933, Miss B. H. Cook; 1934, A. W. Parsons; 1935, Mrs C. H. Crawford; 1936, A. W. Parsons; 1937, H. S. Rathbone), and £6 cash; second £4, third £2. Riders of placed horses to receive half the prize-money. Entry fee: Members 7/6, non-members 10/~. intervals.

A suggestion was made to the effect that the baths should be made to the standard size of 100 x 50ft, instead of the proposed 75 x 40ft.

As the Education Department is willing to provide £200 for materials in addition to free labour, thus bringing the total sum available for materials to £1050, several members were of the opinion that the larger size of baths would be advisable.

Marathon Session.—A non-stop sitting from 7.30 p.m. until after midnight was the experience of the Waipukurau Borough Council on Monday evening. This probably constitutes a record.

Ping-Pong at Haumoana.—The Haumoana Tennis Club held their weekly ping-pong tournament on OPEN LEAPING COMPETITION (not less than 10 stone up).—First prize Challenge Cup valued at £5 presented by Mrs C. This article stated that Mr G. G. Atkinson, a New Plymouth deerstalker, claimed to have shot a deer stalker, claimed to have shot a deer carrying the greatest head of modern times, and one which had set an all-time New Zealand record.

It was also probable, the article continued, that this remarkable 18-pointer head was the greatest taken since the celebrated Maritzburg head of 1538 and the greatest in existence.

The following information is supplied by Mr Ormond:—

TRIBUTE TO GREAT BRITAIN'S BREEDING POWERS

Controversial Topic Discussed

(BY AGRICOLA)

There can be little doubt that New Zealand requires fresh blood for her pedigree beef and pig herds.

Both for the chilled beef and frozen pork exports there are great oportunities for expansion, and the United Kingdom is, of course, the only possible buyer. Surely it is logical to assume that our pedigree stock requirements be met from

Great Britain is the "Stud Farm of the World," and there are many pedigree herds that have been handed down from father to son for many generations, and where the type is fixed the qualities are prepotent, (i.e., the more prepotent a sire is, the more likely are his offspring to inherit his qualities), to a degree that cannot be the case with a fairly newly founded stud.

This is not intended as any reflection on the excellent New Zealand herds. The object of this article is to enable the owners of herds to have access to their requirements at a reasonable price, as is not the case at present.

of the campaign impossible.

LONDON, July 18.

The main and only obstacle as far as Great Britain's experts are concerned is foot and mouth disease.

Foot-and-mouth is a disease with an incubation period of three to six days, and up to ten days. It is therefore impossible for it to be brought into New Zealand by a live animal from a country four weeks' journey away (unless one is to visualise the impossible situation of an animal in the throes of the disease being allowed to land). The actual facts regarding this fell disease are that its outbreaks in a country hitherto free are caused by infection carried inanimate objects, e.g., straw packing, etc.

The material affected with the foot-and-mouth virus will hold the infection for six months or more The most careful precautions with regard to this are of course taken in respect of the entry of imported materials into this country.

Suggested Precautions.

Before going further, it might be as well to give a short outline of the suggested precautions regarding importations from Great Britain: (1) None whatsoever till Great Britain is free from the disease for

(2) Disinfection before entering the quarantine station in Great Briwhere animals will stay a

(3) Disinfection before going on board ship, bedding, hay and other foodstuffs on the ship to be from New Zealand, and no British materials. rials to be used on the ship at all. (4) Quarantine for a month on an island before being allowed to land, with all the precautions outlined

The properties of the virus of foot-and-mouth have been well worked out, and the above precautions are complete. The matter of the importation of stock from Great Britain is, of course, a matter for the farming community to decide, but the bogie of foot-and-mouth should not, having the above facts in mind, be allowed to influence them, if the need for stock is there.

The other Dominions are allowed yesterday:to import whatever stock they require, and countries like the U.S.A. and Canada are only one week's sail

It must be understood that these importations are allowed only who the country imported from has been free from disease for the necessary

Hydatids Infection Denied

"There is one point in particular that occasions surprise and doubt," writes Sir Louis Barett from Hampemphatic and quite true, that rabbits play no part in the spread of Everyone, every country dweller at any rate, has probably seen cysts or water bladders in the insides of rabbits, especially in the muscles and in the liver.

"It is true that these cysts in the rabbit are also of parasitic origin, but they are not hydatids. They belong to a different family and take no part in the spread of hydatids tape-worms to dogs, or of cysts to human beings and farm animals.

"It is, of course, reasonable to conclude that if these cysts are parasitic in nature they will cause some trouble if eaten, and therefore to be on the safe side human beings should not eat rabbits as food.

"This, too, is an error, because cooking removes all danger of infection, and no one eats raw rab-bit. Even if he did, it could not give him hydatids disease. Stewed rabbit or rabbit pie or rabbit cooked in any good way, can be safely eaten and thoroughly enjoyed."

Heads Winning Sires' List For Sixth

Mr Gaine Carrington's Hurry On Pasta horse Hunting Song is so far ahead of his rivals on the win ning sires' list that the premiership must go to him for the sixth suc-cessive year, during which time his rogeny have won £83,951 in New Zealand while, during the 10 seasons he has had stock racing, over £117,000 has been credited to him in the Demision elements. the Dominion alone.

the Dominion alone.

The Lord Quex representatives have substantially advanced the Lemberg horse on the list. Acre, for the first time since the 1930.31 season, heads off his rival, Chief Ruler, for third place, and Paper Money, as usual, is right up.

Vaals comes to the forefront this season to take sixth ranking, thus being placed second among the colonial-bred sires.

HASTINGS INCIDENT

It was in the Hawke's Bay Steeple-chase in 1919, when the major prize went to the Taranaki jumper Pol-

There were only six starters, including the Derby and Northern winner Bon Reve (12.6), ridden by Jack Deery, and Foeman (11.6), who had the services of Frank Flynn. Both horses were well clear of the had the services of Frank Flynn. Both horses were well clear of the field when they fell at the same fence, and Deery was laid out, while Flynn was badly dazed by the fall. Staggering to his feet, Frank Flynn grabbed at a bridle proferred by a bystander and permitted nimself to be hoisted into the saddle. Sticking on by a miracle, he continued the race to take the lead gain over the last round and be the first home to salute the judge. # COLONIAL-BRED SIRES ARE NOT RECOGNISED

A Short-Sighted Policy

WINTER RACING DISCLOSES THEIR WORTH

The Prospects For Marton

(BY MOTUROA)

Colonial-bred sires have been very prominent on the winning list at the Great Northern and Wellington meetings this winter, and, as usual, they should be in the limelight also at the Grand National meeting next month. Their winners have been in all classes of races and most of the big prizes of the winter have come their way.

At Auckland, Erination won the Northern Hurdles, Cheval de Volee the Cornwall Handicap and Smilin' Thru the Winter Steeplechase, these three important successes being added to by ten more wins and giving the New Zealand and Australian-bred sires the greater proportion of the stake-money with £3725 in first money alone.

This success was continued at Trentham where Erination won the main steeplechase, Full o' Scotch the Trentham Hurdles, and Matoru and Arctic King the two big flat races on the opening day. Later in the meeting Quadroon won the Parliamentary Handicap and All Irish advantage of the July Steeplechase. Five other colonial hand collected the July Steeplechase. Five other colonial-bred gallopers won races during the meeting and the winning prize-money totalled £350, or £7575 for the two big winter fixtures of the year

Indeed, so well have the colonial-bred sires been faring that definite proof is supplied that we have been breeding along the right lines in the past decade, and have now reached the stage where we can cut down largely on our importation of English stallions.

Isabel gelding who won all over the country for Mr Duncan, both on the flat and over hurdles. Hirangi will be a very fit horse for the task,

National Trials.

It is widely admitted that any.
Spender in the Rangitikei Hunt Cup will be having their National trials at Marton this week and neither can be ruled out despite their solid poundage. Spender stripped a very fit horse when he was seen last week and every race is attuning Manawatu for the big event ahead.

It was in the Hawke's Bay Steeple.

colonial-bred horse actually headed the winning sires' list in New Zealand, but the homesters have fared far better in Australia, where Heroic has topped the poll for six consecutive years, and Spearfelt, Windbag, Rivoli and Agrion have all been shining under the spotlight of fame. However, in New Zealand every season finds the stock of colonial sires occupying a high place, and this in spite of the fact that they are given nothing like the same opportunities presented to the more fashionable English-bred sires.

Breeders Have not Failed.

Indeed, when everything is summed up, it is really tantamount to an admission by breeders of fail-sires.

Breeders Have not Failed.
Indeed, when everything is summand the continue to neglect the standard of thoroughbrets when they continue to neglect the standard of the young horses they have bread as obstitutes of the young horses they have bread agond type capable of the thing hardy and good class horses, but they have merely lailed to appreciate their own endeavours.

Family Name.

Ken Duncan will naturally be very keen to land Hirangi home a winner in the Bracelet at Marton on Saturday, for this race bears the name of the Duncan family homestead, "Otairi." and it is also the name of that good Paner Money.

Surprise if this Hunting Song gelding does not develop into a good horse. He is bred from an object to Aiguille, Sabellian being by Threadneedle from Sabine, by Gazeley, and tracing back to Aurifera. This mare's descendants included Husbandman, Golden Vein and Goldleaf. Goldleaf.

Form Not Right.

It may not be wise to condemn Red Witch for her recent failures. Mr G. D. Beatson has this filly looking particularly well just now, but she has been unaccountably fading out in her recent races. She is a racy sort, being by Nigger Minstrel from Enchantment, by Hunting watu, Hymgreat, Salon, Gladium, Night Hero, Ngaitahu, Passion Gallant Fox, Ringing Cheer and Noisy Night, and may stay on later.

ped a very fit horse when he was seen last week and every race is attending Manawatu for the big event ahead.

Straight Will Suit.

Although Regicide looks as if longer races than sprint events will suit him best, the long straight at Marton on Saturday will enhance his prospects in the Glenmore Maiden at Marton this week. This two-year-old is improving steadily and his form on Saturday may shed some light on his prospects for more important races later in the year.

Favoured by Weights.

Winner Last Time Up.

Against stronger company on Saturday, the Marton hunter, Air Shot should be far from disgraced in the Rangitikei Hunt Cup, for he won on the course at the begining of the month in a manner which suggested that the best had not yet been seen of him. That was the first race of the Warplane gelding and he will be all the better for the experience he gained in making his racing debut. Also, the longer distance will be in his favour, for he was staying on when he won three important races later in the year.

Showed a Lot of Pace.

Informer showed a lot of pace at the last furlong to finish sixth. That was his first public appearance and the three-year-old is sure to be found more seasoned this week when the shorter distance will enhance his prospects. Informer is by Intruder, who was bred in 1927, and is by Trespasser from the imported Gay Crusader mare Graciosa, dam of Might, Tutor and Boomerang. Intruder was foaled in New Zealand, though sired in England. Informer is not likely to be at such a long price this week.
