NEW MILITARY AERODROME PLANNED NEAR AUCKLAND?

Extensive Survey is Being Carried Out: Object Kept Secret

"Daily Mail" Special Service.
AUCKLAND, April 21.
 The belief that the Government has plans for a military aerodrome at Whangarei, considerably larger than that at Hohenheim, but in no way intended to replace the existing base at Henderson in the district, as a result of the operations of aeroplanes over an area of some hundreds of square miles, has been confirmed.

Reports in the district, unconfirmed, but persistent, are to the effect that the site is the most suitable of several surveyed in the vicinity of Auckland and that it will ultimately become a service aerodrome to house further defence machines. Property belonging to a dozen or more owners is included in the area surveyed and comprising the whole of several farms and parts of a number of others. The land generally is fat and in the event of the properties being taken over for an aerodrome, the benefit that is usually enjoyed by the landowner is not likely to be lost.

Number of Houses.
 There are, however, a number of houses in the area which are included in the prospective aerodrome, and it is not known how many of these will be retained. It is not yet possible to say the number of houses that will be retained, but it is thought that the number will be small.

It is suggested that the survey was being completed and that it had now been decided to build an aerodrome on the site. It is not known how many of the houses will be retained, but it is thought that the number will be small.

LONDON, April 21.
 Forced to sell some of their property, a Dutch family living in modest circumstances in Paris found out that an old picture in a cupboard is worth 36 inches by 44 inches, which had been in the family's possession for 200 years, and representing Christ with the Twelve, says the Rotterdam correspondent of the London "Daily Telegraph."

The picture was sent to a Dutch expert, Dr. Bredius, who declared it to be a fine specimen of the work of the sixteenth-century painter, Vermeer. Later it was found that Vermeer's signature was covered with black varnish.

Three patriotic Dutchmen have purchased the painting for £62,000 and have presented it to the Rotterdam Museum.

CAPTAIN WHITE-PARSONS IS LAID TO REST AT SEA

Impressive Burial of the Former Harbourmaster of Napier

Several miles out from Napier, the body of Captain H. White-Parsons, Harbourmaster at Napier, was yesterday interred to the sea on which the greater part of his working life had been spent.

The ceremony, which is the second of its kind to be performed at Napier within the last 22 years, was witnessed by a large number of motorcars, the greater number of the kind, which carried the casket. There were also a number of boats.

GERMANY'S ULTIMATE AIMS

THE DOCTRINE OF WORLD ASCENDANCY

FROM DELBRUCK TO HITLER

Now that Austria, to the accompaniment of 600 foreign troops and 10,000 marching invaders, has passed into what Hitler calls "a state of bliss and happy emotion," it is time to consider Germany's ultimate aims. We have a clue in the old Nazi marching song which has been resurrected, and which begins "Today all Germany is ours, to receive the entire world." It goes on, "Who, you to those who oppress us," and ends with a strident cry, "The world is Hitler's!"

This takes us back over the intervening 20 years to the pre-war period. It is the old doctrine of "Deutschland über Alles" once more.

We are reading now where Hitler has been in the German world, how he has evolved, Hitler said recently, "I was nearly eradicated, all traces of the powerful domestic influence of the 19th century the Austrians and the spread the imperialistic development of power days. Through the coming back of the message of the man, August Strindberg, Chamberlain, he reached back to the warms, and through this, in his production in Berlin, Prussia."

These theories produced a type of world ascendancy based on expanding Germany to occupying the space of Europe. In 1918 a group of professors, led by Hitler, published a book very serious volume which was stamped out by statistics the German establishment, but which sphere of influence from the North Sea to the Persian Gulf had been the German aim of German foreign policy for nearly two decades.

This was envisaged by Delbruck led the path. From his perspective here in the Greyhound, the various Transatlantic business Germany that they were the United, the experiment to show the heritage of the world beyond.
