CZECHOSLOVAKIA'S DESTINY

The unique report of a broadcast dialogue published in today's issue of the "Daily Mail" provides a very comprehensive and interesting picture of the situation in the tangled politics of Europe today. Further, it analyzes the position of Great Britain in relation to the situation which will appear to every reader who knows the subtleties of international politics.

It is essential in the analysis reviewed, read the fact—while this might not seem "Daily Mail" work, it is a fact— that Germany is caught in the position of a man with a gun, unable to retreat without admitting to the fact that she has been forced to do so.

Now power has been handed over to the democracies which are regarded as the only guarantors of peace in Europe. The British and France must stand firm as world powers in the present struggle of Germany and Italy.

But the problem goes further than this. Czechoslovakia having been swallowed by Germany, Czechoslovakia alone stands between Germany and the rich lands of southern Europe, beyond which Britain depends still on the Mediterranean. This reverts the old policy of the British—broken through which used to give British possessions rights in the pre-war days.

It is this very real threat to the Empire which has behind a possible German invasion and conquest of Czechoslovakia, and the eastern Mediterranean, and Italy, which dominated the western Mediterranean, the British Empire in the East would be in jeopardy.

THE FARM LABOUR PROBLEM
British Government's Concern
Preventive Plan
A Large-Scale Programme Announced

Farm labour problems are not confined to New Zealand alone. Most of the British Dominions and the Homeland also are suffering from the shortage of farm labour.

For years the Government has sought without any plan for dealing with the question of farm labour. The balance of £200 million has been spent on the improvement of the land, but the result has been that the number of farm labourers has increased.
