SURPRISE AND DISAPPOINTMENT AT HITLER'S SPEECH

Replies To Roosevelt's Message

United Press Association-Copyright. (Received September 27, p.m.)

Newspaper correspondents in Washington who saw Mr. Coughlin, the American Secretary of Defense, at the White House after a two-hour conversation, during which he said President Roosevelt listened to Hitler's speech, commented on the president's unconvincing pronouncement.

It is understood that he and the President were surprised and disappointed at Hitler's failure even to refer to President Roosevelt's message to the Führer.

This feeling of near impotence of the two statesmen is expressed in the content of American foreign news which can be said to have gripped the American people in the same way after listening to Hitler's speech.

Mr. Coughlin had called after the President's message—the New York "Sun" called it the most bitter letter Roosevelt ever wrote—on the subject of the American note and Dr. Brene's acceptance of the president's message.

There was a faint flicker of hope in the President's last paragraph, which was a direct appeal to the American people to stand by the President.

Notable among the replies to the President's message was that of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives, which said the President should, in the future, refer to the American people in a complete and unqualified manner.

Another reply was that of the Senate, which said the President should refer to the American people in a complete and unqualified manner.

It is especially noted that a full-page article appeared in the "New York Times" which was a direct appeal to the American people to stand by the President.

STORM OF PROTEST: VEHEMENT CRITICISM OF HITLER'S SPEECH

FURRERS' "DESPERATION AND FANTASTICAL EXULTATION"

GERMANY'S ULTIMATUM IS MAINTAINED

BRITAIN, FRANCE, AND RUSSIA WILL FIGHT

United Press Association-Copyright. (Received September 28, 12.30 p.m.)

The tone of Herr Hitler's speech has fully convinced British Ministers that any concessions regarding the Führer's frame of mind, namely, desperation and fantastical exultation.

A clue to the future may be found in the threat to "liberate" the Silesians on October 1.

It is impossible to detect any reassuring note, despite the efforts of German officials to explain that the speech should be regarded as conciliatory.

It is felt here that Hitler's speech has characterized the Führer as a man who has got in an intolerably tight corner, and who is unable to see a way out.

The London "Daily Mirror" in a leader, says that it is not surprising to find that Hitler's speech was a desperate appeal, as he has now, as he does now, that he could not make Czechoslovakia without making war against Britain, France, and Russia.

He must have known when he spoke last night that Britain, France, and Russia will fight, they are pledged to do.

The fight will be against terror and against injustice, and will be victorious.

The Paris Press is unanimous that Herr Hitler's speech will set the pathway to peace.

The French are confident that for a general mobilization has been given. This is mingled with mingling concern, the sentiment that will not intervene in the Anglo-German part of Czechoslovakia.

The "Manchester Guardian" in a leader, says that efforts were made to stop the tide of emotion in the streets, but that the tide of emotion was too strong.

France And Russia Will Send Planes

NEW ATTITUDE TO GERMANY

United Press Association-Copyright. (Received September 28, 12.30 p.m.)

The Paris correspondent of the London "Daily Telegraph" says that Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Bonnet, on their arrival from London, expressed satisfaction at the cordiality and mutual confidence of the conversations with the British Cabinet.

Mr. Chamberlain said "French and British solidarity were never closer or more active."

There is reason to believe that hitherto France has never remained passive in the face of German military movements, and that she intends replying to every military move initiated by Germany.

To enable a practical effort to be given to the French guarantee of Czechoslovakia's independence, it will be necessary to announce the Council of the League of Nations to a special session.

It is reported from Prague that the Czechs are sending an appeal to the League immediately an act of aggression is committed.

Official circles in Paris emphasize that the Anglo-French agreement is complete, including the action to be taken by both countries in the event of an armed conflict.

The British Union-French correspondent at Moscow reports that Russia's gratitude at Britain's declaration that she will support France and Russia if Germany marches against Czechoslovakia is expressed.

Earlier statements made in British official circles say: "In German attack is made against Czechoslovakia, the immediate effort must be that France will be bound to come to her assistance, and Britain and Russia will certainly stand by France."

The "Daily Mail" correspondent at Geneva states that "The British have believed that, in the event of approved aggression on Czechoslovakia, Russia will immediately make air force available to France as the first and most effective aid until the territorial situation is clarified."

France has announced that she will do all in her power to assist the Czechs in the event of hostilities.

Emulating Great All-Rounders

LIBERATOR'S GREAT RECORD STILL UNCHALLENGED

But Hastings Horse is Young

(By MOTTOHA)

Padishah probably remarks a remarkable horse in August when he won the Grand National Handicap, one victory counting just seven months after his brilliant success in the Wellington Cup, that the Hastings colic still has some way to go to be classed as the equal of those magnificent all-rounders, Secret and Liberator.

However, the next six weeks will be full of interest for the admiring public in that the Hastings colic, the eight-year-old son of Chief Breeze and the imported English mare, is preparing for the final New Zealand Cup. And that is a race in which many a horse has been known to be the equal of Secret and Liberator.

Secret is the Dominion's chief handicapper cannot be discounted, but Padishah may be regarded as the greatest all-arounder, a horse for his home has won over perhaps the remarkable triple of the Wellington Cup, Grand National, and New Zealand Cup in the same year.

Nikumarua, a dark Derby and Great Northern sired, and the New Zealand Cup winner, other fine all-rounders produced in the early 30's and later succeeded in the W.B.C. National and returned to that racing territory to take the Australian Cup and other important races.

Padishah may not be another Maha, or another Liberator, but he is undoubtedly a high-class horse, and it will be a great honor if Hawk's Bay is his own that breeding has not impaired his brilliance.
