Growing up...
to WHAT?

No! Surely not to a Socialist Dictatorship!

Think of New Zealand's half million children when you go to the polls on October the 15th.

They were born into a British Democracy, with its great heritage of justice, freedom and opportunity for all.

Now they are in danger of being robbed of that heritage, for the Savage Government is pledged to push on "the socialisation of the means of production, distribution, and exchange"—which is only a pleasant way of saying Dictator rule by means of bureaucrats, union secretaries and the like. With Socialism in New Zealand opportunity ceases to exist. Your children can enter a trade, but they will never become their own bosses. They may work on a farm, but they will never be allowed to own it. For socialising "production" means the socialisation of all industries and of farming. This business of Dictatorship has gone far enough! To let it go further would, for one thing, betray the trust of half a million New Zealand children.

Throw out Socialism.
