RIVER WORKS CLOSE: WEEK'S NOTICE

150 Men Will Be Thrown Out of Work Till Dispute is Settled

DECISION OF BOARD

All work will close down in the Hawke's Bay Rivers Board's River diversion and flood-control scheme—one of the largest river board projects ever attempted in New Zealand, and which is being undertaken at a cost of over £500,000—as a result of a dispute between two Hawke's Bay workmen's unions and the board.

One hundred and fifty men employed by the board will, after a week, be thrown out of work until the dispute is settled. The initial case will be heard before the Arbitration Court Friday. Meanwhile, the positions will be placed before the Minister of Public Works (the Hon. H. Stamps) on his visit to Napier today. A special meeting of the Rivers Board will be held to consider the problem.

The dispute arose through alleged interference by the board of the Hawke's Bay Rivers Board (General) Agreement with the General Labourers' Union and the General Workmen's Union. The Rivers Board has refused to employ a certain number of men employed in a strike work of maintenance and failing to provide a certain number of men. A clause in the Rivers Board's contract with the General Labourers' Union and the General Workmen's Union has been interpreted by the board as requiring the board to employ a certain number of men in a strike work of maintenance and failing to provide a certain number of men.

On Thursday night the chairman of the board, Mr. J. H. Stamps, advised that the board will not be able to do more work until the matter is settled. WATERSIDERS NOW BACK AT WORK

Wages Question Still Not Settled, But Gains Resume

DISPUTES COMMITTEE SITS

The stoppage of work on the Napier waterfront ended yesterday, when all gangs returned to work at 1 p.m., but the dispute concerning the payment of wages for Saturday and Wednesday lay has not yet been settled. The National Disputes Committee sat at Napier all day yesterday without reaching a basis of agreement.

The chairman of the Napier Harbour Board (Mr. Trevor M. Geddes) sent the following telegram to the Prime Minister and a copy to the Hon. W. J. Edmund, M.P.:

"The continuation of the waterfront trouble threatens to cause large quantities of exports being diverted to Wellington. Also overseas vessels due to call here are likely to be diverted. The position is really serious, and I would respectfully urge that everything possible be done to restore normal operations on the waterfront without delay."

"Prior to receipt of your telegram, I was consulting with the Minister of Labour on the position, serious consequences of which I fully realize. The Minister has now informed me that the trouble has been settled."

Nazi Minister Cannot Give Undertaking

United Press Association—Copyright. (Received March 11, 9:30 p.m.)

"It is understood that the British Foreign Secretary (Lord Halifax) yesterday asked the German Foreign Secretary (Herr von Ribbentrop), who is visiting Britain, for an undertaking from the German Government that it would not try to influence the Austrian plebiscite, says the diplomatic correspondent of the "Daily Mail."

A similar request was sent to the British Ambassador in Berlin (Sir Neville Henderson) for submission to the German Government.

Herr Ribbentrop replied that he could not give such an undertaking without consulting Herr Hitler, which he would do immediately he returned to Berlin.

It is added that the German Government did not regard the plebiscite as either fair or free, as the limit of 24 years' barred many Nazi sympathizers from voting.

Further reports on the Austrian plebiscite appear on Page 10.

Walt Disney's First Full-length Film

Walt Disney's "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" is the first full-length cartoon ever made. It cost approximately $2,000,000 and was produced in seven years.

The production has proved once again the validity of the method which Disney has used in his other work, which secured the production of such fine cartoons as "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" and "Pinocchio".

John Bush has the starring role in "Night for Your Lady," an early attraction for the Snow White.
