"DAILY MAIL" SPECIAL ANIMAL STUDIES FROM LEADING ZOOS OF THE WORLD.

BRISTOL'S FAMOUS GORILLA—"Aldred" the gorilla of the Bristol Zoo has never claim to fame. He is the only gorilla to have ever lived for as long as eight years in England.

PERHAPS THIS WAS THE ORIGINAL "POP-SY"!—The South African Bush Baby at the London Zoo is very partial to his morning cup of coffee, given him by his keeper. This pretty little Bush Baby's name, by the way, is Wifred, and is very popular with visitors.

ANIMAL KEYSCRAPER—The first giraffe born in Britain for 23 years, now six months old, stands more feet tall. "Roses" takes a biscuit from the mouth of his keeper while "Rose" his mother, roars content.

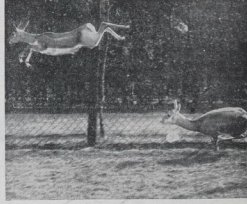

POPULAR ELEPHANT TO RETIRE—The London Zoo will soon be losing Killy, its oldest and largest of—males. She is to retire to another zoo, after giving rides to many thousands of visitors. About forty years old and weighing three tons, Killy is a great favourite and never tired of entertaining children in her hour.

NATURE'S WAY—Caring for her baby in her mouth. The old bear to Wren, the famous brown bear of Whipsnade, photographed when three days old. Many carrying her baby back to her house after going to the pool for a drink.

FOLLOW MY LEADER—A photograph of "follow my leader"—the favourite game on Monkey Hill, of the London Zoo. The monkeys are almost invariably and are new to see life, but they are bright and happy.

SPRING IN THE AIR—Spring in the air when the commotion visited the Edinburgh Zoo. At least that's what the Indian antelope did when they entered their enclosure.

NOT SO DULLY AFTER ALL—Lord Meyer has just arrived back from South America with animals and birds for the London and French Zoos. Among the many interesting specimens is a Brazilian species of giant lizard which fits in to the scene. Although rather ugly in shape, its coat is a beautiful emerald tint and the large scales on the side of the head give the impression of scales. A close-up of the Brazilian species.

YOUNG BOLD INVENTOR—Eight young insectivores are being reared in a small "insectivory" of the London Zoo reptile house. The family were born last September. These babies are being gradually accustomed to human handling. Once tamed, the box is safe to handle for several years, and it is about eight feet long in fact. The babies are now about 25 inches long. It has been said in the hand the baby insectivore will run fast the fingers and begin to show its little teeth around them in this fashion.

FAT CATTLE RISE 15/- AT STORTFORD LODGE

Other Sections Liable: Rain Results in Poor Attendance

A keen fat cattle sale, with a rise in values of 15/- a head, was the main feature of the weekly Stortford Lodge market held yesterday.

Competition in other sections was lively. Steady rain throughout the day, interspersed with sun, was the result in a fair attendance of farmers, among whom these appeared to be the few buyers there that were not cattle men who passed an article, while only very small entries of sheep were forward.

Quality in both fat and store sheep sections was below the average and there was an ensuing in value. Nearly all store sheep were sold in the result of flooded farms.

A special disposal sale of stock made place on May 30, for two hours.

At the present auction held 15-16 head in the opening stages of the sale, but the large sale, though there was a slight increase in the number of buyers, was not so successful as the previous one, many being in need of more time.

Some Cattle Difficulties: The first four cows were sold at 12/6, the next at 12/0, and the last at 11/6. The price for the day was 11/0, and the sale was a success.

At the sale on the 13th of May, 12 cows were sold at 12/6, the next at 12/0, and the last at 11/6. The price for the day was 11/0, and the sale was a success.
