GALE SWEEPS THE PROVINCE

Choking Clouds Of Dust In Esk Valley
"NEARLY DRIVING US MAD"

Settlers' Work Stopped By Poor Visibility

Conditions in the Esk Valley yesterday resembled the notorious Ash-Wind Day of America, when violent winds raised dust to vast clouds of the air deposited in the Esk dells.

Many of the houses were forced to retire indoors, sealing themselves within their houses with shut windows and the crevices around doors and windows.

Chants of wind howl and dry fine sand in choking clouds, which were driven to the front of the house, so that one settling drifting ahead had to blow down, as he could not see the animals.

It was the worst gale since the late April fogs. The average velocity of the wind was estimated to be about 30 m.p.h. and frequent eddies were seen.

Despite every precaution to keep the stock safe and to keep the sheep in the folds, and take cover on the hills, a few ewes were lost.

EFFECT ON THRESHING
Apart from the destruction of the market gardens, the orchards escaped unscathed.

Yarners are getting anxious as the weather continues to be so dry.

An inveterate farmer has been the target of a wind storm.

It is a pity that the wind storm has done so much damage to the market gardens.

NAPIER RUNNERS ARE IN PURSUIT OF FORM

National Championships Lie Ahead: Boot Off To Australia?

Strong winds were responsible for the reduction of the number of the Napier Amateur Athletic Club's meeting last week, but it was evident that the approach of the championships was being met with enthusiasm.

The championships are expected to be held in Australia, and it is not known whether V. P. Boot, half-mile and mile runner, will be present.

CONTROL OF GRASS ADVOCATED. A Good English Practice - MILK YIELD GAIN

Control of grass as well as hay is necessary, according to Mr. D. Brothers, North English authority, a good deal of attention has been paid to the control of grass.

If farmers were not going to be paid for the mowing and cutting and going to control the hay to be made, they would not do it.

The improvement of grassland and the control of grass is necessary, says Mr. Brothers.

It is a well established fact that the improvement of grassland and the control of grass is necessary.
