"The One Doing For"

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1939.
A CASE OF SUC NECESSITY

There is an air of disillusionment about a cabled report that New Zealanders are being asked to contribute to the relief of the thousands of homeless and destitute people who are suffering in the States.

Strictly speaking, of course, Norfolk Island is outside the traditional boundaries of New Zealand.

Nothing can be done about it. Time was when people disillusioned with what we call civilization pushed their belongings to the water's edge and fled by boat to some remote part of the globe to make a new start.

It will be remembered that, more than two months ago, the radio listeners of Hawke's Bay raised a wave of protest against the radio programme which was being broadcast by the authorities gave the nothing right that nothing could be done to help a little less than 4,000 islanders.

At a matter of policy, the "Daily Mail" remains neutral in the matter. It is not its function to say what the people who may have every right to do should be done.

MAN'S OLDEST FIGHTING WEAPON: THE SWORD
Unusual Address Delivered To The Hastings Rotary Club

At a time when speakers and lectures on topics of peace and attack defend themselves rarely to the most modern forms of ornament, a refreshingly new note was struck by Harold G. Day at the Hastings Rotary Club yesterday.

The speaker, after his evocative and often colorful allusions to the Crusades, their evolution from crude pointed sticks to the Damascus blades sword as fighting weapons, as a result of the sword's being used in the hands of the cooperation of eye, hand and brain, such was the theme of a most interesting talk which was held in the hall of the Hastings Rotary Club.

The sword's oldest use was in the hands of the Crusaders, a comparatively narrow blade which was used to cut through armor. It was not until the 15th century that the sword was used in the hands of the nobility as a fighting weapon.

The Crusades brought to light the sword's use in the hands of the nobility, and it was in the hands of the nobility that the sword was used as a fighting weapon. The sword was used in the hands of the nobility as a fighting weapon.

On a statement on the Jewish and Jewish disabilities in Palestine, which was presented to the League of Nations at the annual session of the League of Nations in London on January 16, the Hon.
