United Press Association—Copyright. (Received September 7, 0.15 a.m.)

LONDON, September 7.—The London correspondent of the Associated Press of America says the Athena's death roll of 44 after collision from a wrecking steamer.

Another message says it is understood that 217 passengers and crew of the Athena are still missing. The casualty list shows the Athena's death toll at 44, of whom 1100 were passengers and 315 crew. She sank Sunday evening, a fleet of ambulances at once transported the injured to hospital. The remainder were mostly women and children, the majority scarcely clad and shivering with cold.

The Washington correspondent of the Associated Press says that the Government has begun collecting names of those who were engaged in helping about the Athena. The American Red Cross has received the names of those who viewed the wrecking steamer, about 2000 in all, and the names of those who helped in a submarine.

Miss Jane Good, of the Athena, who helped to guide the wrecking steamer back to the ship, was first of those to be named. She was 190 and was wearing a blue dress. She was rescued by the British coastguard.

She was the only woman who was rescued. All went to the sea, whether by boat or by swimming. She was the only woman who was rescued. She was the only woman who was rescued.

ATTEMPT TO BREAK BARRICADE OF LIES

Britain's Propaganda Air Raid Finds Weak Spot In Nazi Armour

(British Official Wirephoto. Received September 6, 0.25 a.m.)

LONDON, Sept. 6.—The remarkable flights over German territory by Royal Air Force bombers carrying millions of leaflets have led to the imagination to work and has given rise to approving editorial comment in several newspapers.

An example is the "Daily Express," which says: "At the first of them the Allies were sinking after an attack on German Lubeck, the machines of the Royal Air Force carried out a grand propaganda raid in history."

When the leaflets were dropped over Northern and Western Germany, the German people were told that the British were coming to the aid of the German people, to break through the barricade of lies and suppression of the truth and to bring them to the light of the world.

The "News-Chronicle" says: "So far as Britain is concerned, this war has opened in the right way. It is a struggle by all men and women, British and German, who believe in liberty and peace against the intolerable tyranny of the Nazi Government."

"It is a war for principles which know no frontiers."
