Hitler makes A Demand For Poland's Subjection: An uncompromising British note sent in reply

HITLER'S CLAIMS OUTLINED Poland Must Become A German Protectorate

BRITISH CABINET IS ADAMANT Mobilisation Measures in England And France

THE KING RETURNS TO LONDON

It is reliably reported that a German Note was sent to Britain containing a detailed memorandum from Herr Hitler to Mr Chamberlain, setting out Germany's uncompromising position regarding Poland.

Mr Chamberlain has decided to reply in terms of a Cabinet communique, which was not published in German newspapers.

Herr Hitler is reported to have declared that if Poland fought it would mean her partition, but if she chose to settle peacefully, Germany would agree to an arrangement somewhat similar to that in Bohemia and Moravia, namely, that Poland would enjoy autonomy under German protection.

The Associated Press understands that this is the second document in two weeks sent to Mr Chamberlain, the first memorandum being handed to him by a private individual standing close to the Prime Minister and also enjoying the confidence of the highest Nazi circles.

A dramatic new turn to the crisis was given by official confirmation in London of the fact that the British Ambassador at Berlin Sir Neville Henderson is leaving Herr Hitler today. Sir Neville left Berlin by air at 9.20 a.m. for Salzburg, from where he will immediately motor to Berchtesgaden.

It is understood that he is bearing a vital message from Mr Neville Chamberlain.

It is authoritatively stated that the Ambassador will present to Herr Hitler a statement along the lines of the British Cabinet communique.

The French and Polish Governments have advised of the decision.

"The British Government," says the Cabinet statement referred to above, "is of the opinion that there is nothing in the German-Polish difficulties which should involve a European war. The Government is ready to create conditions of confidence."

His Majesty the King is returning to London to-night from Balmoral. The Queen and the Princesses are remaining in Scotland.

SPICE CENTER—The Free City of Danzig, which was established in 1920 under the provisions of the Treaty of Versailles, being approximately the same area as the former German province of West Prussia, and was being ruled as a separate unit, under British and Polish joint administration. Danzig and West Prussia, which was ruled by the League of Nations, were separated from the rest of Poland by the Baltic Sea to the north and the Vistula River to the south.

NEW NAPIER STATION PROPOSAL

PROPOSED NEW RAILWAY.—This map, drawn by a prominent Napier draughtsman and architect, shows the most widely supported scheme for the removal of the existing Napier Railway Station and the line approach from the heart of the residential and business area to a less densely populated locality. The map is self-explanatory.

COMPENSATED VIEW.—A picture taken with telephoto lens showing the old Napier River bridge in the background along the site of which it is proposed that the railway approach should run. The larger inland station is the one foregrounded in the suggested site for a new station. It is 40 or more acres over. The existing lines are seen below the houses in the immediate foreground.

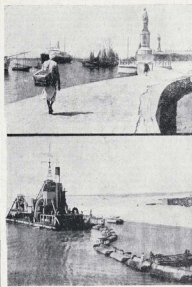

CONGESTED LEVEL CROSSING.—One of the new railways now approaching the water level. Recently level crossings had outside the Napier Railway Station. Services are possible already across of this location where paths have been cut in an approved plan for the railway recommended by the opening of the Kennedy Road extension to Government-owned. The 'Rail' showing operations on the level source of trouble.

KENNEDY ROAD BRIDGE.—A view of the Kennedy Road across over the old Napier River. It is proposed that this bridge should be replaced by a modern one, with a new bridge to be replaced. It is proposed that this bridge should be replaced by a modern one, with a new bridge to be replaced. It is proposed that this bridge should be replaced by a modern one, with a new bridge to be replaced.

COMING THROUGH FAST.—Mr. John, Hastings Park, has set a right-left, attempts to enter in the ball, but a Central player, following up last, however, has a better chance of the ball, which is in the possession of the Hastings Park team.

THE SEED CASES.—Top: The entrance to the road with the engine of St. George's, Hastings, and the engine of the Hastings. Bottom: The entrance to the road with the engine of St. George's, Hastings, and the engine of the Hastings.
