NAZI WAR PLANS UPSET BY TURKISH PACT WITH ALLIES

Powerful Deterrent to Soviet And Italy WAR LIMITED TO A SIEGE OF GERMANY

Check To Russia In The Balkans

United Press Association—Copyright. (Received Oct. 20, 11.15 a.m.) The pact of mutual assistance between Turkey and France, which was signed at Ankara yesterday, is hailed as a diplomatic defeat for Germany. It might have military repercussions. The anti-fascist front in the Balkans, which was formed last year, might gain a further boost. The pact would be a legal impediment to any further German moves in the Balkans. The Turkish government has stated that it is not a powerful deterrent to Russian and Italian involvement in the present war. It also seeks to be confident in an Allied sense of Germany and to a battle of economic resistance instead of a battle of arms. It tends to effect the German coup which means Russian retreat.
