The United Nations (Government Party) has 13 elected and one nominated, one Independent, and one deferred result.

Although the Premier (Mr. M. Duplessis) is elected, it is less than his Cabinet (led by M. Gauthier) will return to the Premiership, as Mr. Duplessis's party has secured a Liberal victory.

The Federal Minister of Justice (Mr. E. Lapointe), in a statement thanked the voters and said that he was remaining at his post.

The outstanding question is the Quebec question, which was provincial autonomy, conscription and Canada's participation in the war.

A special month's campaigning was marked by stings at party meetings and newspapers. The conscription issue (Mr. Duplessis's "Pro-17") was the main issue of the party's platform.

Mr. Duplessis charged the Democrats with attempting, by force and guile, to bring about a coalition with the Liberal Party.

Mr. Duplessis said that he was not a politician, but a man of the people, and that he was not interested in power.
