Labour Party Charged With Making Political Capital Out Of War

TRENCHANT CRITICISM BY HON. A. HAMILTON

Vigorous Reply To Mr Nash On Co-operation

"Mr Nash has for forgotten both the responsibility of his own position and the true facts of the subject he is discussing," said the Hon. A. Hamilton in a vigorous and trenchant criticism of the Hon. Mr. Nash's statement to the "Daily Mail" in reply to Mr. Nash's statement to the effect that the Opposition had no policy of co-operation in war efforts by the continuance of political work.

"Not only was Mr. Nash's statement audacious and untrue, but he made it when he had in his possession for some weeks a letter from me pointing out the falsity of a very similar and equally vicious attack on the Opposition made in the official newspaper of the Government last month," said Mr. Hamilton.

"This subject is one of such national importance, I trust, I owe it to the people of New Zealand to make the truth plain to be added."

"The Opposition offered co-operation in the event of the outbreak of war, but the declaration of war was not made until the 3rd September, and the Opposition had no time to make any arrangements for co-operation with the Government."

"However, within a very few days of the outbreak of war, the Hon. Mr. Nash, in a speech in the House of Representatives, stated that the Opposition had no policy of co-operation with the Government."

"This political manoeuvre is a disgraceful and unwarranted attempt to make capital out of the war, and it is a disgraceful attempt to make capital out of the war, and it is a disgraceful attempt to make capital out of the war."

"Every aspect of the community has been affected by the war, and it is a disgraceful attempt to make capital out of the war, and it is a disgraceful attempt to make capital out of the war."
