United Press Association-Copyright. (Received February 2, 11.10 p.m.)

LONDON, Feb. 2. The "Daily Mail's" Stockholm correspondent says that as a result of the Soviet diplomatist, Mme. Kollontay, disclosing neutral reports on the Suomussalmi disaster, Stalin has discovered that his generals have hoodwinked him regarding the Finnish war.

Many high officers have disappeared after their recall to Leningrad; staff officers have been shot and their staffs arrested. Stalin is now depending on neutral reports.

A Helsingfors message says the Finns carried out extensive air raids on Paldiski and the Russian occupied islands of Oesel and Dagoe, and heavily damaged Soviet air bases in Estonia. The commander of the Paldiski base was long ago recalled to Leningrad and never re turned. The officers of other Estonian air bases also have not returned, and it is believed that they Recommended To Post As have been shot.

The War Minister (the Rt. Hon. liver Stanley) in the House of ommons announced the suspension of two military officers after allegations made in the House that a Colonel at the War Office had recommended a convicted criminal to the Supply Ministry as a financial quiry, which Mr Stanley promised would begin immediately. The Minister of Supply (Dr E. L. Burgin) announced that disciplinary action had been taken against a member of the Ministry. Mr E. Thurtle (Lab.) said that the financier with the second property of the Ministry and the financier with the second property of the manufacture. cier, who was now passing under the name of Charles Kingsley Scott

Referring to the fact that the Admiralty was assuming responsibility for merchant shipbuilding and re-pairs as was done in the last war, the Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain said in the House of Commons that when the ships were built they would be Government property.

By Telegraph—Press Association

NEW PLYMOUTH, Feb. 2. "If New Zealand is to play a united part in this struggle, there must be the same disciplinary control by the Government of its followers, and this sort of talk must not be heard from responsible quarters," said Mr W. J. Polson, M.P., commenting on an article by the Rev. F. L. Frost, M.P., in the magazine "To-morrow."

Mr Polson referred particularly to the following passages: "The war appears to the onlooker as a barefaced and unashamed capitalistic adventure."

"My own view is that all nations are equally guilty." "The peoples of the world would have increased respect for Chamberlain and Hitler if they, together, sought the pardon of the people whose sons they have slain.

Mr Savage did not hesitate to take strong action with Mr Lee, said Mr Polson, and he hoped that he would not regard Mr Frost's outburst as of less importance than Mr Lee's reference to the Prime Minister's health.

"CLOUDS OVER EUROPE"

With Ralph Richardson And Laurence Olivier

Crime detection with the light touch is one of the major preoccupations of motion pictures these days. The great majority of detective films deal with murder and the tracking down of its perpetrators, but usually the killing is of someone who is just as well out of the way as not. The perpetrators are small people, insignificant people, and when the mystery is finally solved to the satisfaction of everyone—with the possible exception of the murderer—civilisation remains the murderer—civilisation remains pretty much the same. No great issue, economic or political, is at stake. There are no political, is at stake. THRILLING DRAMA IN "BLIND ALLEY"

> "Hawaiian Nights" Is Second Feature

A thrillingly dramatic story of a psychiatrist who matched his wits against a murderer's blazing gun, "Blind Alley," which is now at the Cosy Theatre, Hastings, is a virtual bombshell of highly charged realism. Featuring Chester Morris, Ralph Bellamy and Joan Perry, "Blind Alley" is brilliantly directed and splendidly played. "Blind Alley" swings into tense action from its initial scenes when the summer home of a professor of psychology is invaded by an escaped prisoner whose record of killings is formidable. With his seizure of the estate all members of the household and several guests are subjected to a reign of terror. Although his life is in danger, the professor asks questions. The killer answers, and in this verbal attack the dark story of a criminal is bared.

Announced as a glamorous picture of the tropics, with melody, laughter, romance and native dancers in new swing hula routines, Universal's latest musical film "Hawaiian Nights," is the second feat.

The punch-packed story tells how Nolan dares to substitute an actor (Tamiroff) for the murdered dictator of the country (Tamiroff) because he realises that a loan needed to put the country on its feet hangs in the balance. Woven into the timely dramatic aspects of the story are moments of fervent romance involving Patricia Morison and Lloyd Nolan. EWE FAIR ATTRACTS A RECORD ENTRY

48,900 Breeding Sheep Sold At Stortford Lodge

KEEN BIDDING RESULTS

A record yarding of 48,900 breeding ewes found a ready market at the season's first ewe fair at Stortford Lodge yes terday. Spirited bidding forced prices to comparatively high levels, and prices averaged from 3/- to 4/- higher than at the corresponding sale last year.

Practically all classes of sheep found a ready market, few prices ranging below 15/-, and only a very few pens were passed. Private sales of these lots resulted in almost a total clearance at the end of the day.

Sellings were steady in the morning, but in the afternoon they became somewhat erratic. In several instances identical pens realised widely varying prices. Selling was particularly fast, and the smoothness of the organisation which enabled such a yarding to be quickly disposed of reflected credit on the head yardsman (Mr D. I. Thompson) and his good condition of the majority of the offerings. Very few of the en-tries were on the light side, and some drafts were carrying almost too much condition for breeding

Two-tooths realised up to 33/-, four-tooths to 31/3, five-year-olds 27/6 and six-year-old 20/-.

Corresponding with the record encorresponding with the record en-try of sheep, the public attendance was the largest seen at the yards for several years. From the open-ing of the sale at 10 a.m. a large gal-lery of buyers followed the auction-eers, and spirited bidding right up to the whistle occurred in most

Firming Prices For Lambs

DANNEVIRKE SALE

Keen Competition Ruling

BROKERS' REPORTS

stock sale held on Thursday at Dannevirke:-

Dalgety and Co., Ltd.

The sale was held in ideal weather conditions and some 2000 sheep, mostly lambs, were offered. A good attendance of the public was present and a satisfactory clearance was made. Prices for lambs showing a firming tendency and all lots created competition. The best lines of lamb sold at late rates but for medium and small lambs a much better sale can be recorded.

A few small lines of breeding ewes came forward and prices were good, so that good competition can be expected at forthcoming ewe

The following us a summary of prices: Good class Romney wether ambs woolly, 15/3 to 17/1, medium class 12/6 to 14/3; shorn wether lambs, good, 15/7 to 16/9, down cross woolly, 16/- to 18/4, small shorn 9/4 to 12/-: shorn Romney ewe lambs medium quality 16/ to

SPREADS Sheep suffer greater damage from worms than most other animals. Wherever they are kept on more or less permanent pastures infection spreads rapidly, one infected sheep spreading enough eggs to re-infect 100 others. Those in turn re-infect others and so it goes on, causing tremendous losses amounting to thousands of pounds. There are many types of worms which must be treated differently. song hits and some gay music is presented in "MAN ABOUT TOWN" starring Jack Benny, Dorothy Lamour and Matty Malneck and his orchestra.

A story of intrigue and revolution in a South American republic is presented in "THE MAGNIFICENT FRAUD." Akim Tamiroff has the leading role as a fugitive from justice who is hired to act as the dictator's double.

"MAN-PROOF" is a gay romantic comedy-drama of life and love in New York city. Myrna Loy, Franchot Tone, Rosalind Russell, and Walter Pidgeon form the "eternal quadrangle."

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1940.

FEBRUARY 3

There is something which is almost disloyal to the memory of the honoured dead in the crouching attitude (mentally) of many of the people of Hawke's Bay in relation to the tragedy of February 3, 1931, when earthquake and fire wrought havoc in the district. But whatever may be its adverse advertising value, that grim event can never be hushed up. It is history, known to all the world, and its bitter memories are burned into the hearts of those who look on the calendar this morning with a shudder of remembrance

"In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye," homes, properties, and businesses were swept to oblivion, and men, women, and children were carried away by the inscrutable hand of Fate. To those who survived it, it is an unforgettable experience. The frailty of humanity or of human endeavour in the face of the overwhelming powers of Nature was exemplified in a few brief moments of agony.

Yet it was not all tragedy. Some of the noblest qualities of our human kind came to light in the midst of the horror of confusion, destruction, and death. In Napier, the services of the gallant rescuers who risked their own lives again and again to save others, will never be forgotten, and Hastings remembers with gratitude and pride the revelation of selfless service on the part of the citizens. The Veronica's bell is hung in Napier to commemorate the gallant part played by the officers and men who worked night and day to give succour to the distracted people.

In that immediate connection a suggestion may be made that that bell should be rung on one day, and on one day only: that is, to-day. It is not there to recall gloom, terror, wounds, and hardships, but to remind us of that free-flowing milk of human kindness which sustains the suffering and strengthens the weak. That bell is not intended to ring in the New Year, nor should it be used for any purpose but to give a brief reminder, each third day of February, that we are all of us at the mercy of higher and stronger powers than we can understand.

This anniversary recalls not only the magnificent service of those who were at the scene of the disaster, not only the marvellous response which came from all parts of the Dominion and from all over the world in the way of help, but also the almost unbelievable courage of the people who set to immediately to restore, as far as was humanly possible, the things which the earthquake had destroyed.

"I looked. Aside the dust-clouds rolled; The Waster was the Builder too; Uprising from the ruined old, I saw the new."

With dogged determination and indomitable will the people of these parts made that vision a reality. From the ashy waste-heaps arose new and better, stronger and safer buildings which housed a people who would not acknowledge defeat. Here and there in the countryside and in the towns there still remain the scars of the old sores—the weals of the lashings of Destiny—as mute reminders that our best laid schemes may go awry at any moment.

It is on such a day as this that we should remember that earthquakes and wars are akin. Their origins are mysteriesin the one case wrapped in the secrecy of the powers that rule the natural world, and in the other obscured in the deep motives of human plottings and plannings which cannot be

But uppermost in our minds at this time is the memory of many who were loved long since and who have been lost

"They shall not grow old as we who are left grow old. Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn. At the going down of the sun and in the morning, We will remember them."

Amid the multifarious "baas" of the sheep arose a strange shrill bleat, entirely unlike the sound ever uttered by an ordinary ewe. Almost immediately a general laugh arose from the buyers when a tiny black-faced kid emerged from the huddled sheep, raced about the enclosure, and then burrowed its way into the protections flaces.

Debt-Free Money

Sir,-Noticing that the Hastings Borough Council proposes raising another loan of considerable magnitude, may I issue a warning in Messrs. J. W. Taylor, Hastings, D. H. Gordon, Dannevirke, E. F. Stubbs, Takapau, and A. F. C. Herne, Hastings, have been elected new members of the Hawke's Bay A. and P. Society.

Intude, may I issue a warning in your very useful paper? To day we are facing the greatest danger that the Empire has yet faced and no ne as yet can predict the outcome, but all know that of one fact we can be sure and that is that financial are facing the greatest danger that the Empire has yet faced and no one as yet can predict the outcome, but all know that of one fact we can be sure and that is that financial called a fact that is that financial called the sure and the sure collapse of all the major belligerents must follow any prolongation of hostilities and indeed, some thinkers proclaim that High Finance has encouraged this conflict in order has encouraged this conflict in order that the great Powers arrayed against each other and the British Empire in particular may wreck each other so that World Communism may follow, which is now the goal of International Finance, so that they may commence again to rule over what would be virtually a world full of slaves.

Now, sir, unless the Hastings Borough Council can arrange or demand that this money be made available free of interest, which can be done, it is the duty of all rate-payers to stand solidly against the payers to stand solidly against the payers to stand solidly against the stand solidly against the can be done, it is the duty of all rate-payers to stand solidly against the can be done, it is the duty of all rate-payers to stand solidly against the can be done, it is the duty of all rate-payers to stand solidly against the can be done, it is the duty of all rate-payers to stand solidly against the can be done, it is the duty of all rate-payers to stand solidly against the can be done, it is the duty of all rate-payers to stand solidly against the can be done, it is the duty of all rate-payers to stand solidly against the can be done, it is the duty of all rate-payers to stand solidly against the can be done, it is the duty of all rate-payers to stand solidly against the can be done, it is the duty of all rate-payers to stand solidly against the can be done, it is the duty of all rate-payers to stand solidly against the can be done, it is the duty of all rate-payers to stand solidly against the can be done, it is the would have reason why Mr Savage another two vacancies in his Cabinet, caused by the resignations of two of his strong mannet for cannet would have another variety and the would have another variety

Now, sir, unless the Hastings Borough Council can arrange or demand that this money be made available free of interest, which can be done, it is the duty of all ratepayers to stand solidly against the proposed loan, unless they wish to be placed in perpetual bondage. It may be relevant to point out that whereas it takes so much labour, butter, meat, etc., to pay a debt today, it may take two or three times as much of these commodities to repay the new loan when due, hence

Mr Stratford And Conscription

Sir,—In Tuesday morning's "Daily Mail" Mr Stratford was wonderin why conscription was not being im oosed in New Zealand. Surely Mr Stratford must know why. Mr Savage cannot enforce conscription. What would Mr Roberts and his wharfie boy friends think, along with the unions, and what would they do, even though we are at war'

They have given us some idea lately over trivial matters.

Another reason why Mr Savage cannot enforce conscription is this.
He would have two vacancies in his

Haystack on Fire

A vivid red glow in the direction of Mahora last night attracted the statention of a number of Hastings residents. A large haystack on the property of Mr F. F. The cause of the outbreak, although not definitely known, is assumed to be spontaneous combustion.

An Export Council is to be established to assist in the organisation of Britain's export effort in wartime. This was announced by the Prime Minister (the Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain) when speaking in a debate to-day in the House of Commons on the organisation of the national economic resources for war.

The council will consist of leading business men, some of whom will give their full-time services voluntarily to the executive work of organising export trade. The council will also include leading trade unionists.

In addition, Lord Stamp, adviser to the Chancellor of the Exchequer on economic co-ordination, will be a member of the council, on which there will be representatives of the Treasury, the Ministry of Economic Warfare, and the Ministry of Supply. The President of the Board of Trade (Sir Andrew Duncan) will preside over the council.

Mr Chamberlain's announcement the Exchequer was not that recame at the end of an exhaustive quired for questions of economic review of the machinery which has been created for securing co-ordina-

His answer to the arguments of the Opposition speakers who had preceded him was that the creation of a new Minister and a new department could do nothing which would ensure a more intense effort than that already being made through the existing machinery.

Subject to the overruling consideration of the War Cabinet, the responsible Minister who must retain primacy in these questions was the Chancellor, who had to bear constantly in mind two things—the danger of inflation and the danger of exhaustion of the country's reserves of foreign exchange.

Can Look Ahead

It was not possible, he said, to imagine that any other Minister than the Chancellor could have the right, or indeed, the knowledge to make his contribution to the discussion and to point out to other Ministers what the danger might be in either of the two directions.

Mr Chamberlain pointed out the essential part played in the co-operation of departmental policies by the Economic Policy Committee, over which the Chancellor presided, and with which Lord Stamp worked, and by the Central Priority Committee, on which all the departments concerned were represented. He instanced how this committee proceeded in cases where supplies required by the service departments or for other needs, including those of export trade, were in shortage.

proceeded in cases where supplies required by the service departments or for other needs, including those of export trade, were in shortage.

Find Substitutes

It might be, he said, that the Board of Trade put forward demands necessary to maintain or intrease export trade. Every department of the Government was now represented on the committee, including the Treasury, which had to see how the exchange position was affected, and the Foreign Office, which had to see that the treaties with neutral countries were not infringed. It then had to be decided who was to go short, and, if there was a real shortage, it was often possible to find substitute material.

In the Working of Britain's "brains trust" for the direction of the was explained in a written reply from the Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain in the House of Commons.

The system, he said, required rapid executive action, with the maintenance of Cabinet responsibility and control.

The Committee of Imperial Defence was merged at the outbreak of the war with the War Cabinet, to which were now attached most of the peacetime Cabinet committees.

The Government, said Mr Chamberlain, realised the need for increasing the export trade, and no one was more interested in that than the Chancellor of the Exchequer, because it was only by increasing its export that the country could increase its reserves of foreign exchange. To get a programme for the export trade as a whole was a complicated business.

Father O'Reily was a Franciscan, and at his grave to-day was a member of the Order who is attached to the new Franciscan monastery recently established at Auckland.

The Latin inscription on the grave of Father O'Reily records that he was the first pastor of Wellington, a learned and pious man, who was 30 years in the city and who, exhausted by his labours, died aged 80 on July 21, 1880. The monument was erected as a mark of love through the efforts of his friends.

Mr Duncan's Strong Statement To Farmers

UNITED KINGDOM NEEDS

By Telegraph—Press Association WELLINGTON, Feb. 2.

In an interview to-day, Mr T. A. Duncan, chairman of the New Zealand Meat Producers' Board, said that he would like again to stress to the farmers of the Dominion the vital importance of further improving the quality of their lamb. As the mating season was at hand, it was opportune to impress on the farmers the necessity of using the best rams

Mr Duncan said that this had particular reference to the selection of Southdowns.

In the sale of lamb to the British Government, South-down carcases in the North Island obtained a premium over ordinary crossbreds. All Southdown lambs were not, how-ever, eligible for Southdown grade because of poor conformation and breeding.

"The selection of good Southdown sires," said Mr Duncan, "crossed with good types of ewes is, in my opinion, the best way to ensure getting the greatest percentage possible into the Southdown grade.

"This, of course, should be coupled with good feeding. The premium which this Dominion has always secured in the United Kingdom over that obtained by other exporting coun-

The procedure to be followed by essential users of motor vehicles other than public motor vehicles wishing to apply for more than the basic allowance of petrol granted under the petrol rationing scheme was outlined this evening by the Oil Fuel Controller (Mr G. L. Laurenson).

These applications are to be considered by special committees.

"It is realised that in some cases the full amount of the basic ration will not be required, while in other cases more than the basic ration may be essential to enable the owner to carry on his business," said Mr Laurenson.

"To meet these cases, committees consisting of people with good local knowledge have been set up throughout the country to advise local controllers.

'The procedure is that on application, an essential user will be granted his basic ration. If he feels that this amount is inadequate, he should write to the local controller, fully stating his case for additional petrol. His application will then be considered by the advisory committee and any necessary adjustments will be made within a fortnight.'

This affects more than 8000 Maoris. The decision was announced to-day by Princess Te Puea Herangi after a tribal meeting of elders in whose debate she did not participate, and it was stated that the Governor-General, Viscount Galway, had been officially advised of the position.

It is believed by the Waikato peoples that to attend the celebrations when the Government had declined to accede to a petition signed by the leading chiefs throughout the Dominion to exempt King Koroki from the provisions of the Social Security Act would be hypocritical.

In addition, a deeper cause lies behind the decision—the long-standing Waikato confiscation problem, for which it is claimed that successive Governments have promised redress

The Government had it in its power to make a small concession, but had failed to recognise the place held in Maori affection by King Koroki. Under the circumstances their conscience did not permit them to travel north, although they deeply regretted that such action should be necessary.

Princess Te Puea recently returned from Waitangi, where she fulfilled the Waikato people's obligation by handing over the last cance to be completed for the celebrations in accordance with King Koroki's expressed desire. She said that in the matter of the Social Security Act they considered that the Government had displayed a cynical attitude towards the Maori King. Her nephew and she would have been very happy indeed to have participated in any national celebrations in which they could have wholeheartedly joined, but the position had been summed up by one of their leaders when he said, referring to Waitangi: "This is an occasion for rejoicing on the part of the pakehas and those tribes who have not suffered any injustices during the past 100 years."

Mr Langstone said that he was proud to say that £1,500,000 of free money had been spent on land development, paying wages and providing homes for Maoris.

No other country in the world had such a record, yet he regretted to say that many of their Maori brethren did not fully appreciate all that had been done for them.

The past was gone, the present was here, but the future was ever before them, and no one could plough straight forward while looking backward.

Upon the outbreak of war almost all members of the legion who were of military age volunteered for service with the overseas force. Misconception

Members of the legion point out that there is a good deal of misconception in the minds of the public as to the purposes of the organisation. It has no wish to set itself up as a private army, and is quite willing to work under the defence authorities, but claims the right to work together as a body.

Patriotic Society According to the official handbook of the organisation, the frontiers-men are "a voluntary, self-govern-ing, self supporting body, a great patriotic society with no political creed but that of Empire and they are banded together as a brother-hood of men who have striven for and know the Empire, from having seen its vasiness and majesty with their own eyes.

To-day there are frontiersmen in all parts of the world, not militant war-organised and prepared and to strive as far as time and circumstances will permit to keep fit and in touch with their old life."

Native Flora Plantation

The laying down of a plantation of New Zealand native trees, shrubs and other flora at the Tomoana Showgrounds was approved at the meeting. It is proposed to raise the necessary finance, estimated to cost about £50 as the initial outlay by way of public subscription.

Recently a sub-committee investi-gated the proposal, and Mr R. H. Tod reported that the committee favoured a site leading from the produce hall to the old orchard of Waikoko grounds. It was suggested that the plantation take the form of

"It is well within the province of an A. and P. Society to demonstrate the beauty of our New Zealand trees and shrubs," said Mr Tod, amid general approval. Cost of Scheme

Outlining the proposals, Mr Tod said that about 150 trees and shrubs would be planted, the idea being to have the tallest trees in the centre of the plantation. He estimated the preliminary cost at about £4, the planting at £6 and staking about £3; and if the plants were purchased the cost would be between £10 and £12. There would be certain main. tenance work necessary for the first two or three years. Altogether he considered the cost for the first year would be well within £50. He felt, however, that the cost would be

Report On Rates At Market Sale

Messrs Harvey, Fulton and Hill held their weekly market sale in the mart, Russell Street, Hastings, yesterday before a good attendance. The entry of poultry was a large one, but quite a good demand continued throughout the sale, and values obtained must be considered very fair. A good entry of tools, and sundries also came to hand, and these were quickly disposed of to a good competition.

The control room is situated level with the roof of the kiln to allow free passage to the huge loads of dried timber. The various valves controlling the admission of heat and moisture to the kiln below are roloured red for heat valves and blue for moisture. The heart of this intricate design of pipes lies in the two thermostats operated by the rise and fall of the thermometers within the drying chambers. As the heat or humidity within the rhamber varies in the slightest from the ideal of 166 degrees, the thermostats start or stop an air compresser, which, in turn opens or closes the corresponding valves.

Each thermostat has an ingenious arrangement by which an eight-day clock draws two delicate steel pins, one red and the other blue, over a circular graph sheet. The graph is livided into hours of time and demarket rates.

To-day will mark the conclusion f one of the most successful Carniral Weeks yet seen in Wairoa.
Unlike last year, fine weather has

A brief review of the week's activities was given by the chairman of the carnival committee (Mr G. B. Powell) in presenting the large number of trophies won during the carnival, including many new cups provided by the committee for an-nual competition. The efforts of the carnival committee had beer creditable, he said, and its accom plishments were largely due to the liberal support given by the public. To all those who assisted in making the celebrations a success he extended warmest thanks.

The following awards for the carnival committee's window dressing competition competed for by retailers were announced by the judge (Mr R. Waldron) as follows:

It has often been asked why some of our beautiful New Zealand native yoods are not utilised in the manufacture of tobacco-pipes. But it was done half-a-century ago. In 1884 an Auckland firm of tobacconists after years of experimenting produced a variety of pipes fashioned from puriri and other sweet-smelling native woods and which were proudnative woods and which were proudly declared to be "equal to the best imported samples from Europe."
Yet no pipes of this kind are to be had now. But there are no fewer than five brands of New Zealandgrown tobaccos which connoisseurs pronounce equal to anything importand In fact in one most important ed. In fact, in one most important respect these tobaccos are actually superior to the imported because they are practically free from nico-tine—eliminated by toasting—and are thus safe to smoke to any ex-tent, even to excess. In making the presentation the Commissioner of Crown Lands (Mr F. R. Burnley) referred to Mr Webb's long association with the Department and wished him and Mrs Webb Ellen Urquhart (36th place), John health and happiness in the years to come.

Other speakers included the chief surveyor (Mr P. W. Barlow), the draughtsman (Mr J. Pegram), Mr A. C. Anderson and Mr C. B. Hodge, who paid a tribute to Mr Webb's services in the interests of the Public Service Association of which he was a branch chairman.

Mr Webb received his early education in Timaru and at the Tokomairiro District High School before passing on to Christ's College. For some years he was employed in Australia, returning to New Zealand in 1899. He was a member of the party which made the original survey of the East Coast railway route.

At the beginning of the present century he was among those surveyors selected to accompany the Royal Engineer officers to the Gold Coast, West Africa, for the purpose of surveying that country. On his return to New Zealand in 1905, Mr Webb joined the Lands and Survey Department, being stationed in various parts of New Zealand.

Mr Webb, who is well known in musical circles, will in future reside at Taradale.

Victoria Crosses Won The record of New Zealand mem-

The record of New Zealand members during the war was a most distinguished one, but it is sufficient to say that of seven V.C.'s awarded to New Zealanders, five were won by Legionaries.

In view of this splendid record, it is disappointing to find that the Government regards the frontiersmen in the same light as the often inexperienced reservists. Their services in peace-time, though not ac-

ACCEPTANCES FOR GISBORNE

HAWKE'S BAY owners and trainers are reminded that acceptances for all events on the first day at the Poverty Bay Turf Club's summer meet-Bay Turf Club's summer meeting on the Makaraka course on February 10 and 12 close with the secretary at 8 o'clock on Monday night (February 5). The secretary, Mr "Dick" Sceats, will be at the Wairoa races to-day and acceptances can be made with him there, while arrangements can also be made for stabling and accommodation.

BROUGHTON'S APPEAL LODGED

> To Be Heard Early Next Week

An appeal against the sentence of two months' suspension imposed up-on him on the final day of the recent Wellington meeting has been lodged by W. J. Broughton, and the appeal will be heard by the Wellington Dis will be heard by the Wellington District Committee early next week, either on Monday or Tuesday.
With last week-end's racing concluded, H. N. Wiggins, who has been suspended for two months, had carried his season's tally to 40 points which sets him seven points ahead of Broughton. Broughton in turn is eight points in front of the third horseman on the list, B. H. Morris (25 points). Following Morris are P. Atkins 23 points, W. J. Mudford 18, and G. R. Tattersall, P. Burgess and R. McTavish 17 points each.

Boldstep went down scratchily in his preliminary for the Wairoa Cup and he was never going right at any stage, pulling up distinctly. It will be bad luck for his connections if he has to miss the Poverty Bay meeting as his Trentham form was good.

Not Out, who was so impressive at the Wellington summer meeting, will be having his last race in hack company at Riccarton when he contests the Post Handicap. He has 9.11 in this event, but it is likely that an apprentice allowance will be claimed for him

HASTINGS GELDING IN GREAT ORDER

Again WAIROA PROSPECTS

To-day's Fields Under Review

(By Moturoa) The favourites did not enjoy a very large measure of fortune at Wairoa on Thursday, but the form shown then should prove a good guide to patrons of the meeting, which concludes to-day. Splendid acceptances have been received for to-day, and the fixture, which saw a substantial increase in the total-isator turnover the first day, should be in every way successful.

There will be a special train to the meeting to-day, leaving Hastings at 7.20, and this service promises to be very popular.

To-day's racing opens with the 12.45-WAIKAREMOANA HACK HANDICAP, Of £100, 6 furlongs.

Proclamation 9 0 Royal Spades 7
Native Chief 8 5 Perfect Lady 7
Plenteous 7 12 Dainty Dell 7
Chandlery 7 10 Chandlery 7 10

Proclamation disappointed on Thursday, but the shorter distance here will be more in his favour. Native Chief is sure to improve with his race the first day and he now meets Plenteous on 7ib. better terms. Chandlery may improve, while Royal Spades is another likely to be dangerous, though Dainty Dell finished well on Thursday. In the absence of Proclamation the favourites should be

NATIVE CHIEF PLENTEOUS.

Red Cockade 7 7

The extra distance may not suit Diana Tetrix and it should enable Opoho to turn the tables on the mare. He finished very fast on Thursday. Red Hunting may improve, but Red Cockade finished fast the first day and he may be all the better for his race. Bold Bruce has a rough chance, but the form horses are horses are OPOHO

Happy Landing ran a wonderful race in the Cup and if that outing has not "knocked" him, it looks as if he will again be hard to beat. Small Boy would need to improve, but Le Toquet is very well just now and has only 8½lb. more to carry to-day. That should not stop him. Morning Flight and Opoho appear to be just a bit beyond their class and form favours the chances of Queen Ila Po Atarau won well on Thursday and, being such a smart beginner, is always a danger on a turning track. There will be support for the Hunting Dawn-Jungle King bracket, while it is reasonable to expect Kintyre to be improved by his race the first day. River Tide must be given a chance, and so must Queen Ila, who was last away on the first day and then finished just behind the placed horses. The favourites should be

Hunting Moments is racing very consistently, while it would not surprise to see Flying Comedy improve a lot with her race on Thursday. Mother-in-Law is well, while Arabic scored decisively at hile Arabic scored decisively at Pahiatua in his last start. Charles Edward is not without chances, but, n the absence of Mother-in-Law, the

> WANGANUI ENDS Black Thread May Win

By Moturoa Siegmund won the Wanganui Cup on Thursday in a very solid manner but the shorter distance of the Earl Stakes to-day will not improve his chances. As well, he has an extra ! bs. to carry. Notium could not see out the mile and a half in the Cup. but he will be more at home over this distance.

The main danger, however, apocars likely to be that good mare Homily, who had a pipe-opener in he sprint on Thursday. Play On won this race last year, but he will need to improve a lot on 'Thursday' running when he threw in the towe as soon as the pressure was applied Classform led to the last 100 yards in the Cup and must be accounted angerous, while Gay Mimic, wh

HAUMOANA PADDY'S MARKET The Takings Announced

BOATING DISPLAY TO-MORROW

Beach Society's Appeal

A highly successful report, which showed that the recent Paddy's Market and dance held by the Hau-Market and dance held by the Haumonan Beach Improvement Society had realised over £100, was presented at a meeting of the society in the Haumonan Hall on Thursday night. The market made £80 11s 8d, and the profit realised from the dance was £19 14/-, making a total of £100 5s 8d for the day.

The deputy-chairman of the soci ety (Mr T. A. Smith) congratulated the stall-holders on the splendic work they had done and paid tri bute to the generous response made to their efforts by the townspeople and local residents. Without their support, he added, such excellent re sults could not have been achieve

Boating Display.

The Haumoana Boating Club reported to the meeting that arrangements had been completed for the display of life-saving, speed-boating, canoes and rowing boats to be held to morrow. It was anticipated that, granted fine weather, the programme to be presented to the public should prove an attractive

The committee of the society have also made an appeal to parents that they should restrain their children from the practice of throwing stones on to the roofs of the boating sheds and jetty. It is emphasised that considerable damage has been done in this way and that it is a matter of some concern to the committee to find the improvements they have made at the beach for the public benefit, destroyed by thoughtless vandalism.

Brahman, who won the two-year-old event at Wanganui on Saturday is a full-brother to the disappointing In-dian Sun and a half-brother to Solar-lum. By Bulandshar, the Hawera colt is bred from Sunbar.

An Australian cable states that the New Zealand three-year-old Beaulivre has developed muscle soreness. He will not make the trip to Melbourne for the Newmarket Handlcap, and Futurity Stakes, but an attempt will be made to prepare him for the A.J.C. autumn meeting.

The Wanganui Cup on Thursday was run at a muddling pace, but the last six furlongs were cut out in 1.14 1.5 and Slegmund must have run half a second better than that. Classform ran into the lead at the home turn, but Slegmund caught her at the distance and won going away.
