age, while the present generation, ignorant of neither the dangers nor the sacrifices, had entered the present conflict even more united and determined.

Discussing the reasons for that outstanding unity of purpose, Mr Stanley recalled that throughout the centuries Europe had not consisted of a few great Powers, but was made up of nations of various strength and size—small Powers

Recalling that exactly five months had elapsed since the outbreak of the war, the War Minister (the Rt. Hon. Oliver Stanley) in a speech at Newcastle contrasted the difference of public behaviour then and at the outbreak of the Great War. That generation, said Mr Stanley, had never known a European war and entered the 1914 struggle determined but yet able to clothe the war with the romanticism of a bygone

Swift Vengeance Inflicted Upon Nazi Air Raiders

THREE BOMBERS CRASH OFF BRITISH COAST

Savage Attacks On Ships Were Being Made

> United Press Association-Copyright. (Received February 4, 11.30 p.m.) LONDON, Feb. 3.

German air raids yesterday covered 400 miles of the British coast. It is estimated that 20 Heinkels participated, operating from the Firth of Tay to the Norfolk coast. Fighters patrolled the Firth from dawn to afternoon, when enemy 'planes were reported out at sea, but the combats were confined to the sea coast further south.

A Heinkel which was seriously damaged was supprised

A Heinkel, which was seriously damaged, was surprised when bombing merchant ships near the Farne Islands. It made no attempt to engage its pursuers and endeavoured to dis-

In addition to shooting down two 'planes on the east coast, the R.A.F. put out of action the starboard engine of a third, sent a fourth scurrying homeward, and so damaged a fifth that it probably did not reach Germany. It was last seen losing height and speed and belching smoke, and one wing was tilted. The gunner was silenced and the pilot is believed to have been hit.

The German High Command admitted that three 'planes failed to return from yesterday's raids. It adds: "Reconnaissance 'planes over the North Sea sank a mine-sweeper, four patrol ships, and nine merchantmen in convoy, and seriously damaged many other armed merchantmen." The British Admiralty did not comment on these claims.

The Royal Air Force inflicted swift punishment on German pombers which raided various points on the east and north-east coast of England yesterday, shooting down wo and very seriously damaging a third, which is believed to have rashed into the sea.

One bomber was shot down off he Tyne at 11 a.m. by the R.A.F. Fighter Command. A patrol ship went to the rescue of the crew; wo were dead and two were taken to hospital. The other bomber trashed a few miles from a Yorkshire town after an encounter with hree British fighters. This is the lirst enemy 'plane to crash on English soil since the outbreak, a previous crash occurring in Scotland.

Down In Flames Correspondents say that the Hein tel, which came down in flames on he Yorkshire moors, narrowly nissed the chimney of a cottage.

The crew were extricated and four were dead and one injured.

People earlier heard firing at sea and then saw a Heinkel cross the coastline, endeavouring to escape

Another 'plane, reportedly almost indistinguishable from the sea, machine-gunned a small vessel lying close to the Norfolk coast and then raked a lightship with its fore and aft guns. A British bomber quickly appeared, circled the vessel and went in pursuit of the Nazis.

A British Official Wireless message states that a third engagement took place off the Northumberland coast a few minutes before that off the Yorkshire coast. In this case another fighter patrol attacked two Heinkels which were dropping bombs on merchant ships near the Farne Islands. The bombers, without returning the fire, raced for home, climbing steeply into the shelter of clouds, but the Hurricanes had already poured machine-gun bullets into one of the raiders, which disappeared with one engine out of action.

The Lord Mayor of Manchester sent a telegram to the Minister of Mines saying that the situation is desperate and urging the utmost efforts to send coal immediately. The Minister replied that the railways were making superhuman efforts under most difficult conditions.

LONDON, Feb. 4. Discreet announcements of the Balkan Entente delibera-tions at Belgrade indicate at least a temporary triumph for the German-Italian efforts to keep the Balkans politically disunited, but signs are not lacking that greater co-operation will develop, beginning with trade collaboration. Bey Saracoglu (Turkey) made the most significant declaration, that Bulgaria must not raise revisionist claims during the present complicated situation.

Observers forecast the cession not only of the Rumanian Cardilatef territory, but a Turkish-Greek arrangement fulfilling the Bulgarian desire for access to the Aegean Sea.

made up of nations of various strength and size—small Powers developing their own national culture had become a natural prey of stronger neighbours. The Nazis, however, had introduced the high-sounding doctrine of "lebensraum," which merely meant: "Anything your neighbour has is yours if you are strong enough to take it." This was shown in instance after instance culminating in the march on Prague. It had often been said, and had been reiterated by General Hertzog in a recent speech, that all the trouble comes from the Versailles Treaty. While not denying its imperfections and mistakes, the War Minister said that on the whole the treaty was inspired by a single idea—to release people of other nationalities from German rule, allowing them to rule their own countries If without laughter or liberty were likely to think Hitler's intentions good or his actions only a little inconsiderate? CALCUTTA, Feb. 3.

The "Star of India" says that the Viceroy, when he meets Mahatma Gandhi on Monday will offer Dominion status after the war, Britain retaining defence control for thirty years.

A statutory committee will be suggested for each province to safeguard minorities.

Britain's condition is that the Congress governments which have resigned shall return to office immediately and co-operate in the war effort.

"When in the past few months we have seen what German rule means, can anybody say that we were wrong and that the idea was ignoble?" he asked.

"According to General Hertzog, all Hitler has done in the past years has been to put right grieval pances, although in doing so he may have been a little inconsiderate, hasty and brusque, but always with good intentions. How true this is that distance lends enchantment to the view," Mr. Stanley commented. "Let us call as a witness not people a little nearer the scene," and he asked whether the Czechs, Poles and Austrians, with their over-run countries, dead students, silent workers and Victory Certain

victory Certain

Victory Certain

An Allied victory, he continued, was certain, but there must be no illusions as to the difficulties and sacrifices to be faced. There could be no victory without tears.

Turning to the question of trade, which Mr. Stanley said had been his chief concern until a few days ago, he pointed out that exports were a vital element in the war effort, in which worker, manufacturer, merchant and the public must take part. Although at the beginning of the war export trade had suffered a sharp decline, the recovery had been rapid and the December figures actually exceeded the pre-war monthly average. The War Minister dealt with the initial difficulties of raising and equipping a large army in a limited time, but said that much already had been accomplished. The Expeditionary, Force had been built into a formidable army, some units of which already had had the opportunity of showing their customary skill and the dash of the British soldier in contact with the enemy.

Not only was the British manpower available, he said, but there was already a magnificent Canadian Division in England, while Australia and New Zealand had announced their intention of sending contingents.

Public Works Request To Borough

MEETING OF COUNCIL

"Daily Mail" Special Service.
WAIPUKURAU.

Attending the first meeting of the Waipukurau County Council in the new year, presided over by the chairman (Mr A. C. Russell), were the following councillors: L. M. Monckton, H. T. Wright, P. F. Wall, H. S. Hooper, A. W. Elliott, W. Matthews. The engineer, Mr R. B. Price, was also in attendance. Councillor Matthews was welcomed back after an illness.

cillor Matthews was welcomed back after an illness.

The council declined the offer extended by the Waipukurau District Centennial committee to send a representative to their meeting on February 14, as most of the councillors were farmers, it would be difficult to attend meetings at this period of the year. In either case, it is probable that the borough will be calling for assistance later.

it is probable that the borough will be calling for assistance later.

An inquiry was made by the Pub-lic Works Department in regard to areas that were subject to flooding by the Tuki Tuki River, also to ad-vise which properties would derive the most benefit from a river pro-tection scheme.

"CLOUDS OVER EUROPE"

With Ralph Richardson And Laurence Olivier

Crime detection with the light ouch is one of the major preoccu-ations of motion pictures these pations of motion pictures these days. The great majority of detective films deal with murder and the tracking down of its perpetrators, but usually the killing is of someone who is just as well out of the way as not. The perpetrators are small people, insignificant people, and when the mystery is finally solved to the satisfaction of everyone—with the possible exception of the murderer—civilisation remains pretty much the same.

No great issue, economic or

No great issue, economic or litical, is at stake. There are no orld-shaking implications, and mour in direction and acting is licated by the story content. hen, however, it is a matter of inrnational espionage, with men's es and War Office secrets at stake light touch in detection becomes

That is what it is in Columbia's Inat is what it is in Columbia's Clouds Over Europe," now showing at the Regent Theatre, Hastings, directed by Tim Whelan in co-starring Laurence Olivier in Ralph Richardson.

The story is one of the tragic, industryly mysterious disappear.

The story is one of the tragic, and utterly mysterious disappearances of a number of British bomber 'planes on their maiden voyages. Inevitably, an enemy nation is suspected, and a man from Scotland Yard is put on the trail of the mystery. The implications of these 'plane disappearances indicate a certain cautious approach in the solving of the puzzle. But scenarist Ian Dalrymple, Director Whelan and Ralph Richardson, who plays Major Hammond of Scotland Yard, managed it otherwise. The part of the Major was written, directed and plaved as a high comedy role.

The redoubtable Major wields an ever-present umbrella which becomes a clever prop. in the picture. The umbrella becomes, in his hands, the symbol of heavy matters lightly deals with The weappealle is interit tions and the humour of young

The umbrella becomes, in his hands, the symbol of heavy matters lightly dealt with. The umbrella is inevitably a part of Major Hammond, and it becomes apparent that without this weapon his mental mechanism would be seriously handicapped.

This film is so good that early booking will be essential.

COLOURFUL STORY OF the millionaire's nurse THE OLD SOUTH

Bobby Breen's Latest Triumph

Bringing to the screen with abundant colour a segment of life in the old South little known to present pen at the State Theatre, Napier o-morrow.

The story is richly endowed with entertainment value. Beloved old spiritual and traditional songs of the pre-Civil War era combine with the staging of traditional dance festivals to make the picture a melodic tri-umph. Its plot carries much human interest with its tale of a lad whose songs, under the direction of Bernard Vorhaus, he demonstrates also that he is becoming an increasingly

The supporting cast includes many favourite film personalities. Alan Mowbray has an amusing role as the proprietor of a New Orleans inn and Ralph Morgan, as Bob's father, gives another of his fine characterisations. Steffi Duna has the role of a seductive French actress, while Sally Blane appears as Mowbray's sympathetic wife. Clarence Muse is the faithful old servant, "Uncle Caton," and other performers include Charles Diddleton, Robert Greig and Stymie Beard.

The show should be one of the events of Centennial Week, and will be well worth a visit from those who may have only a casual interest in flowers and gardens.

Tracy, in the title role, is a suave, fast-talking showman who acts as buffer between the circus and the outside world and fixes any troubles that arise. Eleven-year-old Virginia Weidler is featured and plays the young daughter of a tight-rope

> SUMMER BEAUTY ADVICE

Generally speaking, the less you do to your face on a holiday the better it will be, always assuming that you protect your skin against sun and wind.

Use no heavy creams. Instead, rely almost entirely on a cleansing milk, using a light cream once or twice a week or every other day. Only by experimenting can you tell how much cream your skin needs during hot weather.

Bob Stone, and one of his pals, Micky Turner, were inspecting their cricket bats, out for an airing after the winter. As they swung them and ran their hands over the willow, Bill sniggered.

"I bet they're thinking of all the centuries they're gonig to get this season. The pair of them get on my nerves," he sneered.

"Can't you take Bob Stone down a peg or two?" asked Dick.

"I wonder if he could get himself out of a pickle," mused Bill.
Dick snapped his fingers. "The very thing. We'll give him the scare of his life. Listen to this."

Whistling and thinking of nothing

Whistling and thinking of nothing in particular, Bob passed along the ledge that ran beside the deserted beach for half-a-mile or more on his way to the post office with sev-eral letters from the headmaster who wanted them posted by the

He was dragged to where two posts stood upright in the sand and was soon made prisoner.

"Let me go, you idiots," he roared, as they lashed his hands to the posts. "The tide will come in and I'll be drowned. What will you . "

PAM'S LETTER

Though we follow the lives and occupations of our own two little Princesses, we sometimes forget that there are other important little people in the world to-day. It may be of interest to you to read something about Royalty in other parts of Europe.

Ten years ago Rumania had a King who was sometimes smacked by his English governess for sliding down the bannisters in the long, rambling palace on the Chelsee. From the age of five to eight he reigned as King Michael I; then, in 1930 his father made a surprising return from exile, little Michael becoming Crown Prince.

Since then the Crown Prince has grown from a "roly-poly" youngster with a shock of fair hair and mischief in his eyes to a six-foot youth of 17. On his sixteenth birthday his father made him a sub-lieutenant in the Royal Guards, though like most boys he likes machinery and would rather have a commission in a mechanised artillery regiment or the Air Force.

To give him an understanding of the lives of working people, he and fifteen other pupils with whom he is being schooled, were told in the summer of 1937 that they must undergo a period of industrial training, and along with two of his school-fellows he chose motor mechanics. On three afternoons a week he spent two hours in over-alls working at a bench in the Ford assembly plant in Bucharest. Heavy tours of inspection in the provinces and a stiff course of schooling in Bucharest now leave little time for his old pranks.

Next week you will hear about Crown Prince Baudouin of Belgium and his brother and sister, who are pictured in our page

DIVIDED COUNSELS

There need be no special pleading in defending Mr W. J. Polson, M.P., in his direct and simple remarks anent the statements appearing in the magazine "To-morrow," written by the Rev. F. L. Frost, M.P. Looked at from the broadest point of view, here are two of our elected representatives, the legislators of the Dominion, who are diametrically opposed in their views on the question of the present war.

It is easily understandable that party questions should cause acute cleavages in the ranks of our Parliamentarians, but it is infinitely to be regretted that at a time when New Zealand is definitely at war, disunity on the main issue should make its appearance. It does not seem to be understood by many in the ranks of the Government party that there is very little difference of opinion anywhere as to the desirability or undesirability of war as such. It is recognised on all hands to connote horrors and sufferings and unspeakable hardships. But it is here. It is now. We have committed ourselves. The Government is in it and so also are the people.

That being so, it is intolerable that any member of Parliament should be allowed to say, as Mr Frost does, that the war "appears to the onlooker to be a barefaced and unashamed capitalistic adventure." He believes that "all nations are equally guilty." (We may presume that New Zealand is included, led by the Government, in this barefaced capitalistic adventure.) He would like to see Hitler and Chamberlain on their knees to ask the pardon of the people whose sons they have slain. Such a coupling of names is little short of effrontery; and Mr Frost's utterances as a whole should be the immediate subject of inquiry.

As Mr Polson pointed out, Mr Savage had no hesitation in applying the most strict disciplinary action to Mr Lee because of his personal criticisms: but here is a much more serious case in which a member of the Prime Minister's own party points the finger of accusation at the Government for taking part in the war against Nazism.

The forces of the law have already, on more than one occasion, dealt decisively with the subversive utterances of civilians in various parts of the country. Will the Government stand passively by while one of the members of the House rants in this uncontrolled fashion against the vital interests of the Dominion, which are at the moment identified with the rigorous and immediate prosecution of the war?

The Prime Minister's broadcast speech just over a week ago was repeated over the air last night, so many were the requests received that that should be done. But of what earthly use is it for Mr Savage to broadcast recruiting speeches without seeing to it that their full effect is not sabotaged by the utterances of his followers? Does Mr Frost recognise Mr Savage's leadership on the recruiting question? Does Mr Savage condone Mr Frost's views on the subject?

The people of the country are wide awake to the real facts of the situation and are recognising more clearly every day that the Labour Party is a house divided against itself. In war time of all times a unified command is necessary. On the home front in New Zealand it does not exist. Important issues are being hedged and shelved in the pious hope that the men of the country themselves, by their voluntary action, will come forward to solve the problem of conscription which the Government is not game to tackle.

Surely Mr Savage has some reply to make to Mr Frost when he says that "the financial interests of the nations at war are each mostly concerned with trade advantages over their opponents." Has New Zealand entered the war for that purpose? Are trade advantages all that we are concerned about? Have men gone to possible death for that? Mr Savage is the first man in the Dominion who should stand forward to deny his association with a capitalistic venture.

It contains one of the biggest and best block cuttings that has, I should say, ever been put in by station teams and men, and is a credit, and a monument to the men who completed this fine piece of engineering.

Although most private car owners the comment of a motorist who looked up yesterday at the telephone wires strung along the road a normal number of vehicles on Hawke's Bay roads during the weekend. This is easily explained. Anticipating the imposition of the restrictions, the majority of motorists filled their tanks or laid aside small quantities, sufficient to suffice for in the strong sun. BRILLIANT SCENES AS THE LONG PROCESSION WOUND ITS WAY THROUGH THE CITY STREETS

By Telegraph—Press Association

WELLINGTON, Feb. 4.

One of the greatest assemblages of people in the history of Wellington witnessed the closing scenes of the New Zealand National Eucharistic Congress this afternoon, when there was a procession of the Blessed Sacrament through the city streets so extensive that it took 45 minutes to pass a given point to the congress grounds for the solemn Pontifical benediction and the giving of the Papal blessing by the Papal Legate, Archbishop Panico.

Expert estimates of the crowd in the grounds and in the vicinity while the benediction service was proceeding gave the number at between 40,000 and 50,000. The procession numbered at least 10,000.

The weather was perfect, and the grandeur of the closing ceremony was a glorious conclusion and the crowning beauty and dignity of a week's celebrations.

Scheme To Begin Operation This Morning

IMPORTANT UNDERTAKING

The inauguration to-day of the Government control of fruit marketing comes after 18 months of discussion, and a certain amount of controversy, among fruitgrowers in the Dominion. From eight o'clock this morning all pip fruit other than that supplied to canning factories or sold direct to the consumer becomes State property when it is delivered at the assembly shed at Hastings, or any three of the subsidiary assembly points.

Advance payments will be made at the rate of 4/- a bushel case and 2/- a half-case. It is intended that the final payments will be made as early as possible after harvesting is completed. Prices decided on for half-cases are as follows: Group 1.—Extra fancy: Apples 3/2. Fancy: Apples 2/11, pears 3/-. Commercial: Apples 2/5, pears 2/6.

Group 2.—Extra fancy: Apples 2/11. Fancy: Apples 2/8, pears 2/8. Commercial: Apples 2/2, pears 2/2.
Group 3 (apples only).—Extra fancy 2/9, fancy 2/6. commercial 2/-.

According to information given by the district assembly officer for Hawke's Bay and Poverty Bay (Mr. Because of the brief period which has elapsed since the department

Mr. Wilkinson has stressed that Mr. Whitson has stressed that the three assembly points, C. H. Slater and Co., Produce Distributors Ltd., and G. O. McCutcheon and Co. Ltd., will be open only to growers who normally pack and supply through these firms.

Effects On Hawkers

Hawke's Bay and Poverty Bay (Mr. C. G. Wilkinson), the Hastings assembly shed will open for the receipt of fruit at eight o'clock this morning, and will remain open until 4 p.m. With the exception of Saturday and Sunday, these hours will be observed each day. For the convenience of growers, arrangements have been made for the shed to remain open continuously through each working day. At the three assembly points the same hours will be observed.

Mr. Wilkinson has stressed that After picking his fruit, the grower will grade and pack it in accordance with the Local Market Regulations issued by the Department of Agriculture. A "submit note" in triplicate will be needed with each consignment of fruit dispatched to the assembly point.

Despite the protests of Hawke's Bay growers, the department has decided to pursue its plan for the use of stickers on cases. According to the regulations, each case or

RAIN AFFECTS PLAY IN NAPIER AND HASTINGS

Bad Light And Slow Grounds Hold Up Scoring In All Games

For the first time during the season rain seriously affected play at both Napier and Hastings on Saturday afternoon. At Cornwall Park, Hastings, matches could not begin until between 3.45 and 4 p.m. At Napier, play was spasmodic throughout the afternoon.

While wickets were easy and slow, the light was extremely bad and a slow outfield made fast scoring difficult to a deep-set field. In spite of this, Hastings in their match with N.H.S.O.B. at Nelson Park, Napier, put on 242 for eight wickets before stumps were drawn. At Cornwall Park, Hastings, Rugby, with 152 for six at stumps, are in a position to give Technical a close game. In their match with United, H.H.S.O.B. failed badly and, with a team of only nine men, were dismissed for 116 runs. United had scored 57 runs for the loss of two wickets when stumps were drawn.

MR RAINBOW'S APPEAL

Indications of the Maori celebrations which were to be arranged for Maori Day—the opening day of the Hastings Centennial Week—were given by the Deputy-Mayor of Hastings (Mr A. I. Rainbow) at a meeting of Maoris of the district at Bridge Pa on Saturday night.

A full day's programme had been planned, he said, the full details of which would be explained at a meeting of the combined pakeha and Maori committees on Tuesday night.

mr Rainbow stated that it was proposed that the commanding of ficer of the Maori Battalion (Colonel Dittner) should be requested to grant special leave to Hawke's Bay officers and men to enable them to take part in the celebrations. These men, he understood, had reached a high efficiency in the performance of hakas and Maori marching songs, and it was expected that they would present these on the opening day. Mr Rainbow stated that it was the forefathers of the Maori people

Admitted to Wellington Public Hospital on Saturday evening suffering from lacerated wounds to the scalp and concussion, Claude Lealand, engine-driver, employed by the New Zealand Railways, died in hospital at 1.45 p.m. to-day.

His wife died about three months are a line of the surrounding pas will and it was expected that they would present these on the opening day.

The Maoris had also agreed to set the opening day.

The Maoris had also agreed to set the methods used in cooking with hot stones. Competitions would be staged among different pas for action songs, poi dances and hakas. The famous Maori choir and other well-known Maori performers were also to be invited. Last, but not least among the ceremonies, would be the massed hakas of welcome, "Pou-

ARABIC WINS WELL

GOING into the lead half a mile from home in the Huramua Hack Cup, Arabic won with consummate ease, bearing out the impression gained at Pahiatua that he had at last come right. He gave nothing else a look-in over the last two furlongs and was going well within himself at the finish.

Minnow, Mother-in-Law, Arabic, Hunting Moments, Royal Spades and Lindrum were handy early, and Minnow led down the back stretch from Hunting Moments, Mother-in-Law, Arabic, Lindrum and Charles Edward. Arabic then went into the lead and he came into the straight nicely clear of Hunting Moments, Lindrum and Charles Edward.

It was left to Charles Edward to challenge Arabic after Lindrum had run fairly wide, but the Greenmeadows maiden was no match for his better seasoned rival. However, he was a good second from Lindrum, the latter being clear of Hunting Moments, Minnow, Morning Flight (finishing on), and Mother-in-Law.

The last-named ran a bad race and was beaten half a mile from home.

REVERSALS OF FORM AT WAIROA

Small Boy And Native Song BIG IMPROVEMENT ON THE

Arabic Wins The Hack Cup Well

FIRST DAY

(By MOTUROA.)

As is often the case with a small field, the three starters for the Carroll Memorial Handicap provided a thrilling finish, Small Boy improving out of all knowledge on his first day's running to prevail by the narrowest of margins, after every one of the trio was called a winner in the last 100 yards. Small Boy owed his success very largely to the vigorous horsemanship of G. R. Tattersall in the last few strides.

Le Toquet was left to make the running almost from the offset and he bowled along two lengths clear of Small Boy at the six furlongs, with Happy Landing going well a similar distance back. Small Boy joined the pacemaker three furlongs from home and they rounded the turn together, Small Boy having, if anything, a slight advantage as they straightened up.

Le Toquet was not done with, however, and he was battling on gamely on the inner at the distance when Happy Landing swept up on the outer. From that stage the race developed into a great struggle, but, though Happy Landing was doing slightly better in the last few strides, he could not quite reach Small Boy, while Le Toquet was only half a neck further back.

The shorter distance favoured Small Boy, but Happy Landing would probably have won had his rider made his run a little sooner. A stride past the post he was a decisive winner and some of the crowd thought he had got up in time. The judge, however, gave a very fair verdict.

The judge, however, gave a very fair verdict.

BACKED as a certainty for the Waikaremoana Handicap Native Chief was the first horse beaten and it is obvious that his race the first day knocked him. Apparently he has not yet recovered from his bad cold. After breaking through the tapes a couple of times, Plenteous got away well and quickly took over the running from Dainty Dell. The favourite ran up to them at the end of a furlong, but he dropped back suddenly at the half mile and was tailed off as they made the bend. Dainty Dell ran a bit wide and that gave Chandlery a chance to come through in the middle. She finished very strongly, but Plenteous had gained a winning advantage to the straight and she could not quite bridge the gap though she was only a head away at the post.

Dainty Dell, who was improved with her race the first day, was a fair third, well clear of Native Chief.

IMPROVED WITH HIS RACE

The COCKADE rea tweet he is not a certain part of the collared Modern Way in a few strides. Over the last hundred yards it looked as if Proclamation had the race in safe keeping, but Goulsbro came down the outside fence on Diana Tetrix and the Wairoa mare was going away at the finish to win by the best part of a length, Modern Way being a similar distance behind Proclamation.

They were well clear of Red Hunting and Po Atarau.

Details Of Saturday's Racing

IMPROVED WITH HIS RACE

RED COCKADE ran true to his promising effort the first day when he won the Wairoa Carnival Handicap. On this occasion Callahan got him away well and he was never headed, eventually winning as he liked. He was turned out in great order by Arthur Lord, who thus secured his first success as a trainer.

Red Cockade's nearest attendants to the home turn were Ace Willonyx Diana Tetrix, Red Hunting, Opoho, Bold Bruce and Colenso. Opoho appeared to suffer a check about two furlongs from home and that cost him any chance he had of success, with the result that the pacemaker shook off Diana Tetrix soon after they straightened up, winning by a couple of lengths. For the first time since 1921 the Wairoa Racing Club had the satisfaction of having a totalisator turnover of over £20,000 for the two days, the machine handling £11,350 on Saturday, making a total for the meeting of £20,446 compared with £19,885 last year, an increase for the meeting of £561.

However, the Club was unfortunate in that heavy rain was experienced after the third race and there were several showers later. This, together with the fact that there were only three starters in the Carroll Memorial and four in the President's Handicap, meant fully £1500 less through the machine on Saturday than would have been the case under more favourable circumstances.

The attendance was one of the largest ever seen at the meeting and the excursion train run from Hastings was full on arriving at Wairoa. straightened up, winning by a couple of lengths.

Diana Tetrix ran another very solid race for second and is obviously a greatly improved mare. Opoho made up a lot of ground in the last furlong for third, being clear of Red Hunting. Following them were Bold Bruce, Colenso and Te Tahinga.

SHOWING appreciation for the easier track conditions as the result of the heavy rain before the Tairawhiti Plate the big Kincardine three-year-old Kintyre won very decisively. He was always going better than on the opening day and he had the race

Kintyre's job was made easier, however, by the fact that Hunting Dawn carried Queen Ila off the track as they swung into the straight. That allowed Po Atarau, Kintyre and Tide, who had been in the second bunch, to come through on the rails. Po Atarau did not last much longer and Kintyre had assumed control before the distance was reached.

Tide came home fairly well to take second money, but there is no doubt that Queen Ila was unlucky. She must have lost half a dozen lengths, yet she finished less than half a length away from Tide.

GREAT, CENTENNIAL

IS NOW "IN FULL SWING"

THE SUMMER IS OVER FOR US-BUT ONLY JUST STARTING FOR YOU.

LOOK AHEAD! BUY PLENTY! SAVE PLENTY!

An Appeal to Your Intelligence

regarding that Light Car you intend to buy

With petrol rationing again in operation, you will naturally buy an Eight h.p. or Ten h.p. car, because cars of this horse-power go farthest on the least petrol.

You know that all makes of cars of the same h.p. rating give approximately the same petrol mileage.

You know that Austin cars are world-famous for their economy—quality—high resale value.

But do you know that:-

- 1. The new Austin Eight h.p. car is as big and roomy as most Ten h.p. cars?
- 2. The new Austin Ten h.p. car is the biggest and roomiest Ten h.p. car on the market today?
- 3. No other cars of the same h.p. have anything like the same spacious luggage space?

Whatever your inclination, circumstances make it advisable for you to buy a light car. So now is the time to remember that truism of the motor world: "You buy a car, but you INVEST in an Austin."
