AMBULANCE BOMBED

Russian Division Routed Near Kitela

STAFF CORPS SHOT DOWN

United Press Association-Copyright. (Received Feb. 6, 11.45 p.m.)

HELSINGFORS, Feb. 6. The Finns claim to have shot down nine Russian 'planes. Widespread raids destroyed a church at Ivalo, Lapland, scattered a Swedish ambulance and killed a few civilians.

Russian 'planes up to February 3 had dropped 6800 bombs, killing 145 and wounding 179 civilians.

A hospital ship at an unnamed port was bombed by Russians. The patients and members of the crew fled to the Victory has again crowned Finland's banners with the rout of the 18th Russian Division near Kitela. The defeat is attributable to Finnish patrols, which worked round the division and closed in through the snow-clad forests of Pitkaranta. The Russians attempted to retreat along a lakeside road, but the Mantisinaari batteries plastered them with shells, while larger bodies of Finns, armed with machine-guns, aided in the disintegration of the fugitives and other units advancing to the rescue in response to wireless appeals.

The majority of the 285 tanks at tached to the 13th Russian Army were destroyed.

The 18th Division has ceased to exist as a division. Between 15,000 and 20,000 were killed, died of cold or hunger, or were taken prisoner.

Staff Surprised Ski patrols surprised the entire staff as they were retreating to-wards Ounas down a snow track through the pine forest. Marksmen picked their targets, and the cars smashed into the trees as the drivers slumped dead over their steering wheels. Machine-guns killed those escaping from the wreckage. The patrols secured vital papers. The Russians are now 28 miles from Wiipuri, at the north of the Karelian Isthmus, which is a slight success due to their repeated attacks preventing the Finns from laying mines between assaults. The total losses suffered by the Russians in the four days since their attack in this area began are estimated at 7000 killed and many wounded. The Finnish losses also wounded. The are heavy.

The Finns captured several 15-centimetre field guns and 15-centimetre howitzers, which they are effectively using in the Muola I.R.A. outrages.

President Says Nation Is Not "Going Bust"

United Press Association-Copyright. (Received February 6, 11.15 p.m.) NEW YORK, Feb. 6.

A canvass of Democratic national committeemen revealed that 90 per cent. favour President Roosevelt for a third term.

The committee selected Chicago as the scene of Mr. Roosevelt's nomination for the 1940 national convention tion.

President Roosevelt, at a Press conference, dared his critics to prove charges that the United States was "going bust." He said that, while the total indebtedness of the Federal, State and local Governments had not increased since 1932, the national income had increased from 40,089,000,000 dollars to over seventy billion. When it hit eighty billion, as he was confident it would, the Budget could be more than balthe Budget could be more than bal-

He added that since 1932 there had been a 71 per cent. increase in the national income, 62 per cent. in workers' weekly payrolls, 55 per cent. in dividends, 82 per cent. in farm incomes and 97 per cent. in

A Hyde Park message states that President Roosevelt earlier declared that he was wearv of speculation whether he would seek a third term, and would disclose his personal political plans at a time of his own choosing.

CAN NEW ZEALAND FOLLOW THE EXAMPLE OF CANADA?

Move For A General Election To Decide The Issue Of Conscription

By Telegraph-Press Association DUNEDIN, Feb. 6.

"This council respectfully suggests that New Zealand should follow the example of the senior member of the British Commonwealth of Nations (Canada) and hold an early general election, to be fought upon the issue of war legislation, including conscription.'

This was the text of a motion carried at a meeting of the Bruce County Council to-day.

A second motion was also carried expressing wholehearted approval of the principle of compulsory national service.

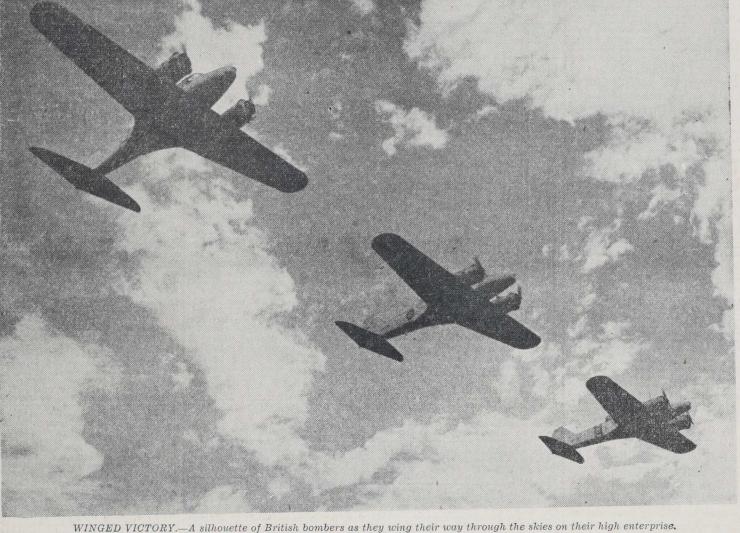

The topics were brought up by the receipt of a letter from the New Zealand Defence League asking the council to voice its opinion on the issue of national compulsory service, "whereby all citizens may be allotted tasks to which they are

The British Admiralty's silence regarding the successes claimed by Germany in Saturday's "tip-andrun" raids on British shipping causrun" raids on British shipping causes no surprise in informed London circles, where it is recognised that the German claims include the usual exaggerations made in the hope that specific contradictions will reveal much-desired information.

It is pointed out that, unlike submarines, aeroplanes have no opportunity of staying in the vicinity and verifying the damage inflicted, and at best pilots' reports can only give impressions obtained in a very short space of time.

This disability is probably accentuated in the case of the German bombers, whose crews wisely show no inclination to await the arrival of British fighters.

The return to port of some and news of continuation of the voyage of others of the ships attacked is, meanwhile, offering convincing evidence of the gross exaggeration of the German claims to have sunk 14 ships.

this boom is being experienced, too, by the plants, now quite numerous, which are turning out the tiny motors for "gas model" 'planes.

A survey carried out recently by the Air Youth Committee showed that there are upwards of 1,500,000 Americans—mostly boys—now making the building and flying of model airplanes their hobby, A great many of them are looking forward to graduating from elastic-powered models to the gas model type—perhaps with radio control as their distant objective. 7.0 a.m.: Breakfast session. 10.0: Weather report. 10.10: Devotional service. 10.25: Recordings. 10.45: Talk to women. 12.0: Lunch music. 1.0 p.m.: Weather report.

For several years now, the high pitched drone of the little one-fifth to one-tenth horsepower, one-cylinder motors has been heard over local airports in Philadelphia and other particularly air-conscious communities, as groups have conducted gas model meets at regular intervals. Enthusiasts from Pennsylvania, ew Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, ew York and Massachusetts, gath

New York and Massachusetts, gathered this year for the Third Invitation Gas Model Meet held at the Northeast Airport in Philadelphia. Interest in the models is so great that some 5000 spectators were on hand. Special features of the meet were radio control of the model 'planes and "pick-a-back" models carrying a smaller 'plane into the air and launching it while in flight. The building and operation of carrying a smaller 'plane into the air and launching it while in flight. The building and operation of these gas models is recognised as giving thousands of young Americans a thorough grasp of aeronautical principles and practice as well as providing excellent sport in the endurance, climbing, and other competitions regularly staged by local clubs.

This would be for competition among young pipers who have never before won a first prize at a piping and dancing association meeting, and would be awarded for the highand would be awarded for the highest points in the march and strathspey and reel.

The cup is to remain the property of the Hawke's Bay centre of the Piping and Dancing Association of New Zealand and is to be competed for annually. Mr Campbell hoped that this cup would be the means of encouraging young pipers to come forward. It will be on show at Hastings and Napier in the near future. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mr Campbell for his gift.

That is what it is in Columbia's "Clouds Over Europe," now showing at the Regent Theatre, Hastings, directed by Tim Whelan and co-starring Laurence Olivier and Ralph Richardson.

The story is one of the tragic, and utterly mysterious disappearances of a number of British bomber 'planes on their maiden voyages. Inevitably, an enemy nation is suspected, and a man from Scotland Yard is put on the trail of the mystery. The implications of these 'plane disappearances indicate a cerery. The implications of these plane disappearances indicate a cerain cautious approach in the solving of the puzzle. But scenarist Ian Dalrymple, Director Whelan and Ralph Richardson, who plays Major Hammond of Scotland Yard, managed it otherwise. The part of the Major was written, directed and played as a high comedy role.

The redoubtable Major wields an ever-present umbrella which becomes a clever prop. in the picture. The umbrella becomes, in his hands, omes a clever prop. in the picture. The umbrella becomes, in his hands, he symbol of heavy matters lightly lealt with. The disqualification of two of the competitors in the junior boys' breaststroke event was regrettable, but the officials had no alternative than to take action as they did.

The surprise of the night was the success of Technical Ö.B. in the Footballers' relay. Although consistent, this team has met with little success in the past. The results are as follows:-

Frocks Of Turquoise

Masses of deep blue and pink the altar and chancel steps of St. Matthew's Church, Hastings, on Friday, when Edith Amelia, eldest daughter of Mr E. R. Dampney, "Eland," Napier, was married to Alan Samuel, second son of Mr and Mrs Wilfrid Turner, "Glenore," Puketitiri.

The Rev. W. T. Drake officiated at the ceremony.

Entering the church with her father, the bride was a charming picture in her lovely wedding gown of very fine French stiffened lace and silk net mounted on magnolia satin. Her veil of billowy magnolia tulle was held in place with a coronet of orange blossom, and she carried a bouquet of deep cream roses and maidenhair fern. The two attendant bridesmaids were Miss Phyllis Dampney, sister of the bride and Miss Barbara Gray-

of the bride and Miss Barbara Gray-Young, Wellington.

Both were dressed alike in lovely frocks of turquoise chiffon. The softly pleated bodices had heart-shaped necklines and corslette waists. The long full skirts were slightly trained and finished with silver lame belts. They wore top-knots of shot pink roses in their hair, and carried bouquets of carnations, shot pink roses and fern.

The duties of best man were carried out by Mr Ross Falls and Dr Ken Archer acted as groomsman.

Cheery Reception Held Cheery Reception Held

Following the ceremony a very bright and happy reception was held at the Women's Service Club in Has-tings, where many toasts were honoured and the young couple received the congratulations of their friends.

Miss M. Whealen, who has been spending her vacation with her parents in Wairoa has left to resume work at the Teachers' Training College.

The guest were received by Mr and Mrs Dampney, assisted by Mr and Mrs Turner.

Mrs Dampney was wearing a charming model frock of black cloche made with a fringed bodice and worn with a pratching fringed bodice. and worn with a matching fringed coatee. She carried a bouquet of scarlet flowers.

Mrs Turner chose a handsome gown of burgundy French lace, mart burgundy hat and matching

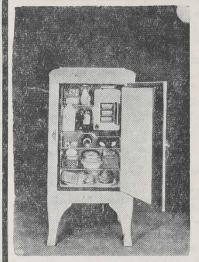

Exhibition Trips For All Reduced Fares By Rail

New Zealanders, if any of you miss seeing the great Centennial Exhibition, you will not be able to blame the Railways Department. During the whole of February fares for trips to Wellington are reduced by an axerage of 20 per cent., according to length of journey. These concession tickets are available for a fortnight from date of issue by any train except the North Island Main Trunk "Limited." A separate concession is for parties of not fewer than six persons travelling together. They can buy second class tickets at three-quarters of the ordinary second class return fare.

To obtain suitable private accommodation in Wellington, the best course is to communicate with the Exhibition Company's Official Accommodation Bureau, 157 Featherston Street, Wellington, which will promptly make satisfactory arrangements for board.

AN EMBARRASSING FRIEND

It is impossible to suppress a feeling of heartfelt sympathy for Mr Barnard, who was in the chair at a meeting addressed by Dr A. Reifer, a one-time Pole, in Napier on Monday. Britain and the Empire went to war in defence of Polish independence. According to this ex-Pole, there was no independence in Poland to fight for and therefore the whole thing has been a ghastly mistake. In Poland, he declared, there was Hitlerism before Hitler and a most reprehensible Government.

Evidently one of Dr Reifer's main objections to the Polish system of Government is that it was "capitalistic." He said: "As long as the old Polish Government was in power there was no chance of democracy, and the removal of those people may have been a step to progress." One suspects the existence of a personal bias against the Government under which the doctor once lived, and a willingness to believe that anything is better than capitalism. He referred also to "propaganda from Moscow, Berlin and London," putting the three together just like that.

It is difficult to believe that the British Government, led by Mr Chamberlain, was wrong and that this self-confessed "man of no country" is right, and it is not easy to accept the views of such a man as to the qualities of British propaganda. It was also difficult to find in his speech made at Napier any of the ordinary references to his own country which might have been expected of a man born in it. There was the familiar tinge of Communism in his thesis that the idea behind the present world crisis was an ultimate agreement between Germany and the Western Powers to combine to smash Russia.

In a kind of self-contradictory way he went on to say that "to some minds the present war is not a war of democracy against dictatorships, but a war of reaction against progress." This is hard doctrine, coming from a man who has nothing good to say even of his own country. Russia, he said, represented progress.

The old question of freedom of speech here raises its stubborn head again, and once more it may be asked if, at a time when men of grit and stamina are prepared to risk everything for the principles of freedom in which they believe, an alien should be allowed to expound his macabre doctrines to the people of New Zealand-doctrines which are designed to cut the ground from beneath the national effort.

Despite what some of the cheap-jack critics have to say on the subject, there is nothing savouring of Nazism in the contention that when the country is at war, some things ought not to be said. There is nothing Nazi about the system in this country, in peace time, which declares that no one shall steal or do deliberate hurt to his neighbour by slander or other means. We recognise our freedom as being conditioned by its own safeguards. And so there is nothing dictatorial in the attitude that verbal sabotage of good motives should be suppressed without hesitation.

We can well do without such people as Dr Reifer, who has come all this way from nowhere to tell us that the Empire is fighting for a crew of skallywags (for that is just about what his speech amounts to). Many of the things he had to say about the pre-war internal condition of Poland may be true, and here and there some items of truth may be recognised. But the whole outburst is speckled with sharp and nasty points of special pleading, and the man responsible for it should be asked to keep silent while he takes shelter in this Dominion.

Without asking the Government to copy the methods of the Gestapo, it is the right of every citizen to ask it to save our people from the confusions and perplexities which serve merely to cloud the issue at a time when the utmost effort is needed to see this country and the Empire through their

LETTERS to the EDITOR HAWKE'S BAY

Sir,-The above mentioned sub Sir,—The above mentioned subject is a matter which concerns everyone in the country and should be treated as one of the greatest import, for are we not in a death struggle with an unscrupulous bunch of tyrants who will stop at nothing to enslave mankind like the Caesars of old? We are told that "Thrice is he armed who hath his quarrel just."

This is very true as a man who is quarrel just."

This is very true as a man who is not molested or his freedom threatened has no cause to fight. It takes two to make a quarrel — for instance if the enterprising burglar can get into a house without interference from the inmates, of course there will not be any trouble and there will not be any trouble and the outlaw takes the booty away without further ado. But if the inmates happen to be of the contrary sort and raise an objection with the aid of a bar of iron or a gun, the free-booter may hesitate and beat a hasty retreat so much for justi hasty retreat — so much for justication on the part of the householder to protect his property.

Now, Sir, as to whether a man should be forced to go to war or whether he should willingly go—that is the burning question. There is an old and true saying that one is a local problem.

Perhaps the objectors could do the same as the Quakers did in Nelson's time. When the Press Gang was rounding up men for the Napoleonic wars the Quaker strongly objected to fight as it was against his religious belief. When asked if he would defend the ship he was on he would defend the ship he was on, he consented to defend the ship, but would go no further. So when the British ships which the Quaker was on got alongside the French ship, a Frenchman was about to board the British ship and the Quaker picked

Magnificent Pageantry At Waitangi Celebrations Yesterday

UNFORGETTABLE

By Telegraph-Press Association

WAITANGI, Feb. 6.

With the sun's rays breaking through grey covering clouds and lighting to sparkling splendour the wavelets of the Bay of Islands, New Zealand began the celebration of its hundredth birthday.

One hundred years ago Governor Hobson landed on the beach at Waitangi, and with his arrival New Zealand became a British possession. During intervening years the country has seen the passing of perhaps the most momentous period in the history of civilisation, and as mankind has advanced so has advanced our own country.

To-day, at Waitangi, however, hundreds of people from all over the Dominion had an opportunity of witnessing the re-enactment of scenes which must have stirred the feelings of the colonists one hundred years ago.

History Repeats Itself In New Zealand

A STRIKING SPECTACLE

The Signing Of The Treaty Is Re-enacted

OLD DAYS REVIVED

By Telegraph—Press Association

WAITANGI, Feb. 6.

If the landing of Governor Hobson as the first event in the signing of the Treaty of Waitangi carried the stamp of realism, the scene on the square in front of the Treaty House where the enactment of the actual signing of the treaty was carried out was even more realistic.

There, on a spot which is literally the birthplace of New Zealand's story, the past lived again.

Under a dais made from canvas were seated the men responsible for bringing the young country under the sovereignty of Great Britain—there were Governor Hobson, Captain Nias, Felton Mathew, the first surveyor, General Henry Williams, Richard Taylor, William Colenso and other missionaries, Bishop Pompalier and

In front of them, seated in a rough semi-circle on the grass were Maori chiefs and their followers clad in mats, the men's faces moko'd in ancient style, grasping their taihias and other weapons. They, more than those on the dais, made the scene dramatic and even inspiring.

To the thousands watching the historic scene it seemed a propitious omen that just as the speechmaking preparatory to the treaty signing was about to commence the sun should break through to reflect in gold from the uniform buttons, in silver from the sword hilts and scabbards and turn to molten silver the waters of the inland sea immediately below.

In measured tones Governor Hobson explained the treaty and explained the impending depart, use of their Excellencies for Home on the conclusion of their texm of office in the Dominion. Mr. Paikea extended to them a welcome to the sacred courtyard of Waitangi and stressed the fact that while the Maoris had grievances which ought to be redressed, they stood solidly behind the Mother Country in the struggle for freedom in which she was now engaged.

Mr. Ratana drew attention to the treaty in the struggle for freedom in which she was now engaged.

son explained the treaty and explained also its significance to the Maori people. A responsive mur. plained also its significance to the Maori people. A responsive murmur ran through the entire assemblage when he said "The people of Great Britain are, thank God, free," for the presence of numerous khaki clad figures of members of the Clad figures of members of the Mr. Tirikatene made an appeal to Maori Battalion seemed, with added Maori and Pakeha to balance the force, to signify another fight for conditions of the treaty presented to freedom, the beginnings of which the gathering that morning. the treaty alone made possible.

Chief after Chief arose to speak with gesture and voice, either for or against the Treaty. Te Kamara (a Maori Chief) would have nothing "Where are we sire Apirona North Maori Chief) would have nothing of the Treaty. Rewa (a chief), supported him, and then there was some general argument as to the rights and wrongs of the Maori case.

Kawhiti arose, strongly antagonistic. Hone Heke, dignity and good breeding obvious both in his words and manner, supported Kawhiti, with whom afterwards he was to fight against the Pakeha.

With Maori land gone, chiefs humbled and culture scattered, what remained of it all to my people? What remains for them to celebrate to-day?"

First there was the advantage of

In the course of his speech at the opening of Whare Rununga, a carved Maori meeting house, during the ved Maori meeting house, during the early afternoon, Lord Willingdon said that never previously in his public life had he been so much interested as in the wonderful scene re-enacted that morning. Never before, too, had he heard so many speeches in a given time. He had been sent to New Zealand at the invitation of the New Zealand Government, for which he was extremely ment, for which he was extremely grateful, to join with New Zealanders in their delightful Centennial

He voiced his deep gratitude for the extraordinarily warm reception given to his wife and himself. Figering to the heavy European war clouds, he said that recently in Britain he had seen pakehas training for ain he had seen pakenas training for the great struggle. To-day he had been gratified and delighted to see a guard of honour of the Maori Bat-talion, ready, willing and eager to fight in the great cause; the right-eousness of which was recognised by both races. Greetings From Australia

Congratulations on New Zealand's attainment of one hundred years of British citizenship was extended on behalf of the Government and people of Australia by Senator Mc-Bride. Paying a tribute to those taking part in the pageant, he said that they did so not only ably but enthusiastically, showing that the terms and spirit of the treaty had been well carried out. Mr. Ratana drew attention to the Governor-General's Address

"We are assembled for the writing of the last words of a page of history," said the Governor-General (Lord Galway).

It was a far cry to the times and conditions 100 years ago, and it was hardly to be expected that perfection would be reached in a moment, and undoubtedly there were injustices which they were doing their best to remedy. It was to be hoped that in the next hundred years they would be completely obliterated.

Sir Apirana Ngata had said that where injustices were overcome the tribes looked forward instead of brothers. When the war was over the Maoris came back strengthened and heartened. Since then the race had never looked back. They were increasing in numbers and there was before them an era of great prosperity. Now another compact was being made and another Maori battalion was being raised.

Message

His Excellency then read the fol-owing message from the King:— "It gives me great pleasure to send my cordial greetings to my people in New Zealand who are now celebrating the conclusion in 1840 of the Treaty of Waitangi between the pioneer British settlers in New Zealand and representatives of the Maoris. In the hundred years Maoris. In the hundred years which have since elapsed, they have established a vigorous and progressive community on the basis of mutual understanding. I entertain the happiest recollections of my visit to New Zea-land some twelve years ago, and her continued progress has always been the source of deepest satisfaction to me.

"The generous and valuable contribution which the Domin-ion is making to the war effort of the British Empire will mark a great page in her history and the spirit of my people in New Zealand and elsewhere is a sure guarantee that the difficulties which at present lie before us will be successfully overcome.

"I congratulate New Zealand on her past achievements and send her my heartfelt wishes for her future prosperity."

February 6 is New Zealand's centennial, on which the King's subjects throughout the world will exclaim:

"God bless her!"

He hopes that the corporate sense of nationhood signalised by the nationalisation of the Waitangi Estate, which he and his wife effected in 1933, will be permanently and indissolubly cemented, because on this largely depends New Zealand's mana.

He adds that the ambitious programme of social advancement has coal from Australia.

This opinion was expressed this evening by Mr C. C. Davis, chair man of the Grey Valley Colleries which operates the Dobson Mine.

He said that he understood that his views were fully supported by the Brunner Colleries, which controlled the Wallsend Mine.

"This strike has merely brought matters to a climax, for both the companies affected have for some time been working at a loss," said Mr Davis, referring to the stoppages at the Dobson and Wallsend Mines.

He adds that the ambitious programme of social advancement has tended in the past three years to evoke an acute difference of outlook and some doubts about the Dominiand William Stability.

"So-Called Pacifist Meetings" Prohibited

HARMFUL PROPAGANDA

By Telegraph—Press Association

WELLINGTON, Feb. 6.

The activities of a certain group of people in New Zealand who, he declared, were carrying on subversive propaganda under the guise of so-called pacifist meetings, were castigated by the Mayor (Mr T. C. A. Hislop) speaking in the Town Hall to-day at the first of the new series of recruiting rallies in the form of community sings.

The Mayor said that he would do all in his power to prevent those people from conducting public meetings in Wellington and added that during the depression some of the people who were active to-day in the group he referred to had spread propaganda as direct emissaries of Soviet Russia.

'Efforts are being made to-day in certain quarters to hinder the national effort. I have seen them in actual reality, and I know what their real object is.

"Only a few weeks ago I closed this Town Hall," continued Mr. His-lop, "as I will close it again if an effort is made to use it on behalf of a body of people who want to advocate that New Zealand should drop out of this war, that she should desert her comrades in arms," (Applause.)

arms." (Applause.)

"Those people pretended that they were going to discuss only the principles of peace, and when it became known that I had refused to permit the hall to be made available, I was telephoned by one of the body I have referred to, who expressed surprise at my action. I told him that the best thing for him to do was to get into the front line and not shelter behind the bodies of people better than himself.

PEOPLE'S DAY TO-DAY

Record entries in the sheep section and the dairy produce division were accorded the Dannevirke Agricultural and Pastoral Association's Centennial Show, which opened in fine weather yesterday. Entries in the home industries section showed an increase on last year, and the quality of the exhibits was outstanding.

The show maintained its reputation for the quality and numbers of entries in the Jersey cattle section. Exhibitors from Taranaki, Wairarapa, Manawatu and Hawke's Bay were represented in this division.

Dog trial preliminaries and horse competitions in the oval entertained the public during the afternoon. "Sideshow Alley" was populated with the usual number of entertainments of this nature, and did a brisk business throughout the day. Trade exhibits of a wide variety also attracted considerable attention.

Led by the association president (Mr H. B. Stuckey) and the secretary (Mr H. S. M. Quigley) the committee and officials were responsible for splendid organisation of the Miss M. P. Wall's Jorrocks and another Miss C. Cuthric's Digger and show. An innovation was the control of grounds by the Junior Members' Committee. This move, a suggestion made by Mr Quigley, proved most successful, and bore testimony to the foresight which promoted its inception.

A record attendance is expected to-day, which will be People's Day. No stone has been left unturned by the energetic organisers to ensure the success of the fixture. Results of yesterday's judging were as follows:

ROTARY ADDRESS

Description Of The Administration

An insight into the present organisation of the Health Camp movement in New Zealand, and an account of its administration, were given to members of the Hastings Rotary Club yesterday by Mr C. Meachan, secretary of the Otaki Health Camp.

Mr Meachan stressed that there was still a very urgent need for health camps, and that they still needed funds to carry on and extend their activities.

Movement's History

In a brief outline of the way in which the movement came into existence, Mr Meachan said that as a result of the active efforts of the School Medical Service and a num ber of similar bodies interested in Pork pig up to 110lb live weight; ease. The first Otaki camp opened on November 16, 1929, said Mr Mea-chan. Considerable impetus was given the movement by the Post and Telegraph Department's move in initiating the sale of Health

Funds Contributed

Since 1932, when 3500 children had been cared for, the costs of administration had amounted to £20,000, and this had been made up from voluntary contributions, grants and the sale of Health Stamps. In addition a method of obtaining contributions from school children had been instituted, and this, in the Wellington district alone this, in the Wellington district alone brought in as much as £95 to £100 every month.

In an outline of the purposes to which had been put the King George V Memorial Fund, Mr Meachan said it had been made clear when the fund was opened that it would be applied to establish additional health camps. The response totalled £88.000, which carried a £1 for £1 feath camps. The response totalled f88,000, which carried a £1 for £1 subsidy from the Government, so that in all approximately £176,000 had been made available for this work. The fund was vested in a board which was responsible for its administration.

Extension Work

This money, Mr Meachan remarked, was for capital expenditure only, and the need for raising funds still existed. The advisory board had already approved the establishment of compact the destablishment ment of camps at Auckland, Christ-church and Dunedin, with secondary camps at Gisborne and Nelson on account of the inaccessibility of these two towns. The sum of £8000 had been approved for additions and improvements nprovements.

Commitments made to date had reached £105,000, and to this was to be added £9000 for the provision of adequate staff quarters.

The establishment of the National Federation of Health Camps had preserved the voluntary nature of the work, said Mr Meachan. The object was primarily to provide delicate and debilitated children with an open-air life. Charts of each child's progress were kept to record the advances shown.

Education at Camp

Education at Camp

The education system was the same as that at an ordinary school, there being three specially selected that the package contained the same as the same teachers provided by the Education Department. Negotiations were in progress to secure the services of a physical training instructor. Discipline at the camp was not arbitrary, there being no corporal ounishment. In extreme cases a child might be returned home for serious misbehaviour. Concluding with a further reference to the voluntary nature of the organisation, Mr Meachan said that was felt they were carrying out a pioneering work in a manner which the Government could not. The elasticity of their organisation

SUBJECT OF CRITICISM

Experience Of The Last War Recalled By Napier Resident

The method of censoring mail matter sent overseas from New Zealand has been the subject of much adverse comment in Hawke's Bay during the past few days. More than one complaint has been received by the "Daily Mail" concerning what is considered quite unwarranted interference with

Most of the complaints refer to the censor's action in deleting references to political matters, even when these have no relation to the war or the Government's war effort.

One man who is well-known in the public life of Napier recalled having written a letter to his daughter in England, in which he stated that "the country is prosperous, but the Government is bankrupt." The last part of this sentence had been deleted, as well as further comments on the political situation. His letter of about six pages had been mutilated and reduced to about two and a-half pages.

Delays in the transmission of letters also came in for much criticism. Instances were quoted by residents in which mails had reached London two and three weeks later than was usual. Even air mail matter was often delayed for long periods.

A Napier returned soldier recalled the censorship difficulties of the last war, and related a number of "rules" which he had found to be effective in avoiding the blue pencil and which had been published in serio-comic manner by his regimental magazine.

The most important points, active to a hard a a-half pages.

The censor will probably be "fed up" long before he reaches the end of the letter.

morning of Sunday, December 10, Commin.

Rota Karena, a Maori, in evidence said he had booked in at the hotel the previous night. He had ordered a dozen bottles of beer for himself and a friend named Hamilton, for consumption on the road home; he had paid for the beer, but did not find out until next morning what had become of it. John Hamilton, the friend named, in corroborating this, added that the iquor had been put on the floor of his car while he was sitting in the driving seat waiting for Karena. An account of their visit to the hotel later on, when they had interviewed the accused Gordon and Harris without obtaining any explanation, was given by Constables R. W. Goodson and R. T. Bradley.

Another Purchaser

For the defendants, Mr. E. J. W. Hallett mentioned that the licensee, Mr. Connop, was in bed at the time after an all-day visit to Woodville, and knew nothing of the transaction until the next morning.

The facts of the case were that a boarder at the hotel, Hourigan by name, had met Karena, with whom he had previously been acquainted, and had purchased the beer for both, as they were going to visit a mutual friend. Hourigan, said Mr. Hallett, had left instructions with the night porter to take the beer to a car outside. The porter, however, did not know that it was a Maori's car in which he had placed the liquor.

Mr. Hallett remarked that Karena could have only a hazy memory next morning of the events on the night before. He further contended that the case was not an offence in regard to licensed premises, so that the licensee's liability was not involved.

Evidence confirming these statements was given by each of the three defendants. In addition, John Hourigan, a labourer, stated that he had purchased the beer himself and had had it charged to his account. On finding that both the car and the had purchased the beer himself and had had it charged to his account. On finding that both the car and the beer had disappeared he had made no effort to find out the reason, but Dr. Wilson; lettuce, Dr. Wright. had gone to bed.

Highest in History

"The sales of gas for the year ended December 31, 1939, were 129 million cubic feet, being an increase of 3½ million feet over the year, 1938, and equivalent to approximately 3 per cent.

"The total revenue from the sale of gas at £50,264, is £2315 higher than the preceding year, and the sale of residuals-coke and tar, have been well maintained. It will be noted that the receipts from rents, interest, etc., at £1419, are £558 lower than for the preceding year. This is due to the loss of instock, the remainder of this stock loss of profit on the sale of coal for the importation of Australian coal being conditional on the coal received being used only by the company itself for gas production. Company Taxation "Full provision has been made to meet the increase of 15 per cent. in the income tax, also for the additional social security tax. SHOWED A GREAT IMPROVEMENT

ALGERIAN cost his admirers a parcel of money at Trent-ham last month, but he rehab-ilitated himself in no uncertain manner at Wanganui where his double success was achieved in solid fashion. Algerian will be tried over a longer distance at Hawera to-morrow where he appears in the 81 furlongs Waipapa Handicap. As he is a half-brother by Beau Pere to the Derby winner Lowenberg, Algerian should manage the distance easily, and his form should indicate his Nolan Hack Cup prospects on Saturday.

GAY MIMIC'S CHANCE IN WAIKATO HANDICAPS THE EGMONT CUP

Value Of Wanganui Form

TO-MORROW'S BIG RACES ANALYSED

Claims Of Hawke's Bay Horses

The strength of the provincial representation will assure plenty of interest in Hawke's Bay in the Egmont Cup to-morrow and, with Gay Mimic, Hunting Cat, Royal Star II and Le Toquet to do the honours for the 'Bay, success in this event is more than just a possibility for the campaigners.

Form, of course, points to Gay Mimic as being the pick of the visitors, for there was much merit in his win in the Earle Stakes at Wanganui on Saturday, following his good double at Pahiatua and really solid fourth in the Wanganui Cup. This is a distance which really suits Gay Mimic and he appears to be far from badly treated in being asked to carry only 5lbs more than he won with last week.

Gay Mimic is in form and it does not seem as if the best has yet been seen of him.

Since his fourth in the Manawatu Cup the form of Hunting Cat has been anything but impressive and he should be held safe by Royal Star II, who, while he has lost his early brilliance, is standing up to his racing well. He is sure to be suited by the longer distance. Royal Star II is on an attractive mark and what beats him to-morrow should be well in the firing line.

Of course, after his decisive win in the Wairoa Cup, Le Toquet, the stable-mate of Royal Star II will have a following if reserved for this event, but he reads as a much better proposition in the Whareroa Handicap later in the afternoon.

GAILOPER OF MOODS

NED CUTTLE is capable of winning this race if he would run up to his best form for he comes in very nicely on the 7.11 mark. However, he is a galloper of moods and he would have to improve on his third in the Ashhurst Cup, even though he did come from a long way back in that race.

Ecstatic has a show, but more appeal is made by Lickem, who won over this distance here last summer. He will be more forward now than he was at the New Year.

Rollicker has not raced since he won the sprint at New Plymouth in December, but he can run out a good seven, while Gaily's best form would give her a great show.
