British Official Wireless, (Received April 5, 8.30 p.m.) RUGBY, April 5.

It was stated in the House of Commons that the income of the unemployment insurance fund for the year ended December 31 exceeded expenditure by £16,601,578, and ed expenditure by £16,601,578, and that there was a net balance of £57,555,222 at the end of the year. Although the state of the fund was very much better than the Unemployment Insurance Fund Statutory Committee anticipated, the debt of the fund was just over £77,000,000 at the same date.

In the committee's view it was very probable that there would be severe unemployment after the war, and it recommends that £3,700,000 of the balance be allocated for the repayment of the debt, thereby freeing from the fund £1,100,000 yearly while preserving the borrow-

RUGBY, April 3.

A proposal that the staffs of State Departments should agree to work a number of hours overtime without payment to compile the Social Security register, from which a register of man-power will be prepared for war purposes, is being considered in the Public Service. The scheme, it is understood, was submitted to the various departments for their views by the Public Service Association. It was explained to-day by an officer of one of the larger departments that the work of compiling the register from information already in the records of the Social Security Department would require the services of 200 public servants working full time for six months. As such a body of employees could not be conveniently released from regular duties, the suggestion was that the task be undertaken as a contribution to the war effort by officers prepared to work overtime without remuneration.

On this basis, it was estimated that the work could be completed within six months if 600 officers in various departments agreed to give up to about 10 hours a week of leisure time.

The proposal was placed before a meeting of the staff of one of the departments last night by the department's delegates to the Public Service Association. It was stated subsequently by one who attended that the scheme was fully discussed, and received a mixed re

NAZI BOMBERS ROUTED

VICTORY

SIX JUNKERS

Spectacular Battle Over North Sea

United Press Association—Copyright. (Received April 5, 12.15 p.m.) LONDON, April 4. The Air Ministry announced today that a Coastal Command flyingboat encountered six Nazi bombers of the Junkers type over the North Sea yesterday afternoon and shot down one, which was seen to fall into the sea. The others broke off the engagement.

It is learned that the British 'plane was a Sunderland flying-boat, which returned with some of its controls shot away. Two of its officers were shot away. Two of its officers were injured.

The battle is stated to have been one of the most spectacular yet fought over the North Sea. It was the first time a Sunderland flying-boat has been in combat.

The Sunderland earlier found an enemy 'plane shadowing a convoy, and engaged the German, which made off.

An hour later, four Junkers bomb-

An hour later, four Junkers bombers appeared. The ship's gunfire frustrated attempts at bombing, and the Germans made off.

Germans Driven Off

The Ministry of Laboupr announced: "There was a very substantial improvement in employment between February 12 and March 11, when the number of unemployed persons on the registers of employment exchanges in Britain fell by 382,887. Compared with March, 1939, this was a reduction of 605,716. "A large part of the increase in employment is due to an improvement in weather conditions, but in addition there has been a general increase in industrial activity from other causes. Between the same dates there was a fall in the numbers of unemployed in practically the Germans made off.

Germans Driven Off

Then six Junkers appeared. Two attacked the Sunderland, whose guns blazed and drove off the Germans. The other four Junkers came in and sent a hail of bullets past the Sunderland, whose tail gunner held his fire until the Junkers was 100 yards distant. Then he fired with all four guns. The leading Junkers spun down to the sea in flames. Another swerved away and later landed in Norway. A third fruitlessly bombed the Sunderland. Soon the rest withdrew.

A Nazi bomber attacked British trawlers fishing in the North Sea yesterday. The crew of the Aberdeen trawler Gorspen took to their lifeboat when a bomb fell nearby, apparently damaging the ship, and were later picked up. One fisherman was injured. The Gorspen was still afloat when last seen. No other vessel was damaged.

The bombers which attacked the Gorspen also bombed the trawlers Cerennie and Delila. They dropped two bombs and seven aerial torpedoes, all of which missed. The trawlers fired on the raiders, and members of the crew believe that one was hit. The raiders made off when a British fighter approached. The Grimsby trawler Russell hauled up a mine while trawling. It exploded and slightly damaged the vessel.

RUGBY, April 4. It is learnt from informative quarters that on March 3, after a little more than six months' warfare, there were 257 Nazi combatant prisoners of war in Britain. Of these there were 23 U-boat officers, 195 ratings, 12 air force officers, and

During the last month the list of Nazi prisoners has considerably grown, though no comparable detailed information is yet available.

When one realises the small chances of survival for the personnel of destroyed U-boats, the fact that over 200 are now prisoners in Britain gives some idea of the total depletion in the number of trained Nazi U-boat personnel, for many times this number must have perished with their vessels.

Gloria Jean In "The Under-Pup"

First visitor and also the last visitor to the set of 11-year-old Gloria Jean's first picture, "The Under-Pup," which opens to-day at the Regent Theatre, Hastings, was not only one of Hollywood's most illus-trious personages, but an example and a good-luck omen for Gloria Jean as well.

The visitor's name is Deanna

Durbin.
Three years before, Deanna, then an unknown, began her first picture, "Three Smart Girls." The history of that hit and four that followed is well known. Now Gloria's embryonic career closely parallels that of Deanna.

game but life — the father who lost and found a son.

Offering the finest portrayals of their careers, the splendid cast also includes Roland Young, Gladys George, Katharine Aldridge, Russell Gleason, George Zucco, Edward Norris and Henry Kolker.

Roy Del Ruth, responsible for most of Sonja Henie's screen successes, directed "Here I Am A Stranger," the screen play which Milton Sperling and Sam Hellman based on a story by Gordon Malherbe Hillman. Harry Joe Brown served as associate producer.

The story opens with Clara Allen's leaving her irresponsible husband, Duke, because he cannot care for their infant son, David, in the manner in which she hopes to rear him. She manages to marry a wealthy man who gives her son security and a fine education. How David grows to young manhood in this opulent environment not rightfully his, rediscovers his father and helps rehabilitate him, falls in love outside of his new circle — is unfolded with real dramatic punch, yet threaded throughout with comedy and gaiety.

LATEST FRANK CAPRA PRODUCTION

Triumph, "Mr Smith Goes To Washington"

To improve upon perfection might seem an impossibility, but Frank Capra has been doing just that for so long the fact is no longer news. Director of "It Happened One Night," "Mr Deeds Goes to Town," "Lost Horizon," and "You Can't Take it with You," Capra now brings to the Regent Theatre what has been hailed as the ultimate in screen entertainment, his stirring romantic comedy, "Mr Smith Goes to Washington," which opens today.

Critics and cinema-goers who have seen this timely new drama enjoyed it more than "You Can't Take it with You," and that film, it will be recalled, won the Academy Award as the best picture of 1938. James Stewart plays the title role n "Mr Smith Goes to Washing-on," and the youthful charm, earnestness and idealism with which he invests the part contribute greatly to the picture's appeal. Unusual Story

Comment On The Films

Gloria Jean, entrancing new little singing star, makes her debut in "THE UNDERPUP," a sparkling story of life among the members of a girls' club. A fine cast is featured in support.

Hilarity runs high in "STOP, LOOK AND LOVE," with June Lang as a girl whose parents continually interfere with her romances.

Setting a high standard of gripping entertainment, "HERE I AM A STRANGER" stars Richard Greene in an unusual story of a college youth who grows up in an environment not rightfully his.

The successive steps in the history of Reno, Nevada, are vividly illustrated in the colourful "RENO," with Richard Dix playing a lawyer who "grows up" with the town.

Hilarity runs high in "STOP.

How a country man goes to Washington and sets about cleaning up a political intrigue is told in delightful manner in "MR. SMITH GOES TO WASHINGTON," a comedy in the inimitable Frank Capra style.

When the unconsidered drab daughter of the household suddenly becomes the gay one, the fun in "JANE STEPS OUT" becomes hilarious. Diana Churchill and Peter Hill have leading roles in this gay comedy.

Lionel Barrymore and Bobs Watson in "On Borrowed Time," comedy-

"The Proud Valley" touches on the unemployment question in the Rhondda Valley, but does not stress its political angle, as does "THE STARS LOOK DOWN." It has a Welsh background which has been so authentically presented that when the film was tried out in Wales itself it was hailed by an important Welsh paper, as a film attaining a pinnacle rarely achieved by Hollywood.

Ben Turpin, Chester Conklin and those inimitable Keystone Cops cavort again in slapstick, custard-pie comedy. Al Jolson sings again "Kod Nidre," the song with which he electrified the world in "The Jazz Singer," the first talking picture are made.

Alice Faye is more beautiful and effective than ever in her technicolour debut, and also her first straight dramatic role. "Hollywood Cavalcade" is a positive "must see,"

When Jonathan Swift sent his hero, Lemuel Gulliver, travelling all the known trade routes, and then veering off those that were known, into the realm of imagination, even the imaginative Swift did not do as much for Lemuel as the modern movies have done. The movies have sent Gulliver travelling through all the colours of the spectrum.

By the time Gulliver finally com-pleted his film adventure, he had battled all the fury of the elements and outdone all the threats of man and beast in eight reels and 600 hues of Technicolour.

No animated picture that was pro-uced before "GULLIVER'S TRAV ELS" ever attained quite the colour impressiveness of Gulliver's film ad-ventures, for the two-fold reason that previous animated pictures did not have Technicolour in its present stage of perfection, and no other animated film ever had so many men—3000 artists, inkers, animators, colour experts, camera, sound and colour technicians—working for as long a time—eighteen months—as Gulliver had.

"MISSED THE BUS"

It is not often that the British Prime Minister indulges in the familiar argot of the street-corners. He must have been in a particularly jubilant mood when he declared to the annual meeting of the Conservative Party that Hitler had "missed the bus" and that he (Mr Chamberlain) was ten times more confident of victory than he was at the beginning

While a statement such as this is acceptable as good reading, one cannot resist a delayed shrug of apprehension when it is said that the Prime Minister's previous confidence was only a tenth of what it is now. Mr Chamberlain made the rather debatable point that Germany was so well prepared at the beginning that she had no reserves of preparation to call upon, whereas Britain has been preparing more and more all along, and has not yet attained her full strength.

What such statements ought to suggest is that the sooner full strength is reached, the better. We know enough and have learned enough, and we may yet learn more, of Germany's ingenuity to understand that she does not travel in buses all the time. She may miss the bus and get on to the train or the aeroplane.

Any ordinary observer knows that the casualty figures during the course of the present war until now bear no proportion to the corresponding figures in the last war and that the essential, determining struggle has not even begun. Confidence of ultimate victory is a good quality, but it must be confidence based upon actual facts and not the mere wishful parent to a thought. No one ever won a fight who took his opponent too cheaply or who thought that it was all over before the numbers went up.

The Empire is facing the greatest menace which has ever confronted it in the course of its history. The resourcefulness of the German people must never be under-rated. It is not good doctrine to say that the Nazi forces were at the saturation point of their strength before the war began and that while we have been developing, they have been presumably standing still. That is just too much to believe.

Although the present reshuffling of the British Cabinet has not caused a great deal of comment, but has been regarded as the normal readjustment of portfolios to meet the exigencies of events, the suspicion remains that the changes were made because of the slow rate of the actual progress which was being achieved. That blithe and lively spirit which dwells in the heart of Mr Winston Churchill has been given more room to spread its wings, and that change was not made without good reason. Mr Churchill is Germany's "Public Enemy No. 1" and the more of his calibre who can be found to fill the high offices of State in the Old Country, the better it will be for us all.

It is altogether too early to subscribe to the belief that any bus has been missed. One has to wait until the bus starts, at least, and this one has not moved an inch on the Western Front, which is its main and only route if its destination is to be reached. Confidence in victory can be based only upon the national and Imperial consciousness of actual strength and not upon any opinion as to the enemy's weakness. We are up against a strong foe, and nothing can be gained by even the most jaunty and defiant whistling of patriotic airs.

Only two things are possible in the present struggle. Either the economic war will succeed without bloodshed on the fields of battle, or such an Armageddon as the world has never known will drench Europe with that red rain which produces the harvest of tears and suffering. Jingoism, even in its most modern form, will not succeed in settling the problem either way: only preparedness will.

THE GLEN AFTON MINE N.Z. PORKER NEW PRIME MINISTER DISASTER

Report Of Royal Commission Released

HUMAN ELEMENT FAILED

By Telegraph—Press Association WELLINGTON, April 5.

The report of the Royal Commission which inquired into he colliery accident at Glen Afton mine on September 24 last year was released this afternoon. The Commission consisted of Messrs S. L. Paterson, J. C.

Brown, J. Dowgray, T. O. Bishop, and A. McLagan.
In the course of its finding the Commission states that on Saturday, September 23, the day preceding the disaster, the mine work was in charge of William Wilcox, underviewer, who was one of the 11 men who lost their lives.

Robinson went for a can of water and Jackson doused sufficient stone dust on to the flames to extinguish them.

The latter then got a stick and scraped all the charred embers off the timber. He also went for a can of water which he knew to be handy. On his way he met James Harlock and Wilcox, and all three returned to the scene of the fire and proceeded to extinguish it.

The four men appeared to have been satisfied that the fire was thoroughly extinguished, but when leaving, Wilcox instructed Harlock to visit the scene of the fire at intervals up to his time of leaving the mine, to make sure that it did not revive.

Harlock states that he made two such subsequent visits, the last being at 12.30 p.m., and that he was satisfied that the fire was completely out.

The report then goes on to outline the evidence describing what hap pened on the Sunday, when two deputies and two mine electricians entered the mine at approximately 8 a.m., the deputies to make their usual Sunday examination, and the electricians to search for an electrical fault which had occurred on the previous afternoon.

BRITISH MOVE

Statement By The Minister

By Telegraph—Press Association.
WELLINGTON, April 5.
Britain's removal of the restriction on the importation of New Zealand porkers was announced to-day by the Hon. W. Lee Martin.
He said that it should now be possible for pig raisers in the Dominion to dispose of all this season's pigs to the best advantage.

It was haped that it would not

It was hoped that it would no be necessary to restrict the exports of pork and bacon next season, and every endeavour would be made to obtain the consent of the Ministry of Food in this connection.

"During the preliminary negotiations it was intimated that the United Kingdom Government required baconers only, the weights to be restricted to 120-180lbs," said Mr Martin. "The New Zealand Government appreciated the serious effect of this arrangement and made every endeavour to have the restriction removed.

"Following our representations, the United Kingdom Government lowered the minimum requirement to 1011b for baconer carcases and later agreed to porkers of 60-1001b being included in our exports, with a proviso that 75 per cent. by weight of the total pigs shipped should be baconers of 101-1081b.

Interesting Sidelights On The Voting

OVERWHELMING MAJORITY

By Telegraph--Press Association

WELLINGTON, April 5.

The Prime Minister (Mr Fraser) to-day was the recipient of a large sheaf of congratulatory telegrams and cablegrams on his elevation to his new office.

Reports on the voting on the leadership issue show how overwhelming was the new Prime Minister's majority.

It was agreed that the voting should be on a show of hands on a preferential basis, candidates' names being submitted to the vote in alphabetical order.

The first nominee, Mr Clyde Carr, who was proposed by the Hon. W. E. Barnard, received three votes.

Mr Fraser, who was nominated by the Hon. D. G. Sullivan, polled 33 votes.

Dr. D. G. McMillan, proposed by the Rev. Mr Nordmeyer, received nine votes.

With such an absolute majority in Mr Fraser's favour, there was no need to operate the preferential system.

With the death of Mr Savage and the expulsion from the party of Mr J. A. Lee, the caucus strength was reduced from 53 to 51. In addition, there were three absentees yesterday—the Hon. F. Langstone, Mr H. T. Ratana, who were indisposed, and Mr W. J. Lyon, who is on service overseas.

As the three candidates did not vote, the full voting strength of the caucus is accounted for in the above figures. It was agreed that the whole question of the Cabinet should be reviewed at the end of this year. By that time all members of the original Labour Cabinet appointed by Mr Savage will have had five years of office, and possibly some of them may feel disposed to make way for other members of the party.

The report of the inquiry into the loss of the British submarine Thetish has been issued. It recounts the train of persistent ill-fortune that dogged the vessel. Mr Justice Bucknill, who presided over the inquiry, tabulates six facts which, acting in sequence, produced the full extent of the disaster.

First, the complete blocking of the test-cock, in the rear door of No. 5 torpedo tube with bitumasticenamel.

Fourth, the failure of those aboard

The report concludes: "The absence of so many who, if alive, might explain the reasons for the disaster, leaves much that is doubtful and obscure. There is nothing doubtful about the way all aboard behaved.' Assistance from Outside.

Dealing with the fifth point—namely, the failure of assistance from outside—the report says that such failure was contributed to by the fact that observers in the tug Grebecock had no sufficient reason for thinking that there had been serious accident, and because, whe

"Whatever reason Hitler had for making no immediate endeavour to overwhelm us, one thing is certain—he has missed the bus, and these seven months have enabled us to remove weaknesses and so enormously add to our fighting strength that the future can be faced with a calm and steady mind," declared the Prime Minister (Mr. Chamberlain) in a speech to the annual meeting of the Conservative Party to-day.

Mr. Chamberlain proceeded: "The neutrals know all the difference between what we have done and the brutal, callous, wicked proceedings of Germany, which has sunk neutral ships without warning and exposed their crews to danger and hardships. There has been a growth of sentiment among the neutrals for us. The fact is that Germany has not a friend in the world, although many are dominated by fear of her military power.

"Although we are anxious to keep all the rules, it cannot be expected that Germany will be allowed indefinitely to profit from our scrupulousness and draw aid from those neutrals who are not free agents, and who know that our victory spells freedom for them and that our defeat would doom them to slavery.

HAWKE'S BAY MAN'S EXPERIENCES

MR F. S. CANDY

Saw Ships Shooting At Mines

To have witnessed a ship shooting at a mine and to have seen wrecked steamers in the Thames was the memorable experience of Mr F. S. Candy, who has just returned to Hawke's Bay from a visit of 10 months in Great Britain.

"While the war continues there are plenty of opportunities for one to travel abroad," he told a "Daily Mail" reporter last night, "but the majority of people lack the courage." The result was that at present more than half the passenger accommodation on most ships other than those of neutral countries was always vacant.

A watersider's fall into the hold of a ship at Napier some two years ago was the subject of a claim heard in the Compensation Court at Napier.

The plaintiff, Charles Nelson, aged 60 years, was represented by Mr V. J. Langley, and the defendants, the Union Steam Ship Company of N.Z., Ltd., by Mr L. W. Willis. Mr Justice O'Regan presided.

The defendant company admitted liability for compensation in respect of injuries resulting from the fall, but differed from the plaintiff.

The increasing use of the British convoy system is revealed in figures from the Government departments concerned. During March alone, 1140 neutral ships sailed in convoy. while from September 3 to February 29 only 1075 had used this protection.

The reason for this vastly increased use of the convoy is not far to seek when it is remembered that whereas 161 unconvoyed neutral ships have been sunk with the loss of more than 1200 lives, of those escorted by the Allied Navy only three fell victim to enemy action, with a total loss of five lives.

A. And P. Society Reduces Loss On This Year's Event: Meeting Yesterday

"I think the society is to be congratulated on the way it got out of the autumn show," remarked the president (Mr C. K. White) at a meeting yesterday of the committee of the Hawke's Bay Agricultural and Pastoral Society. It had not been a pleasant thing to look forward to for some time, but had nevertheless gone off in a marvellous way.

Commenting upon the appearance of the Centennial procession at the show, Mr White said that the gate takings were in a large measure helped by this addition to the programme. The man working a team of dogs had also been an attraction.

A decrease of only £4 in the gate receipts, from £203 14/-last year to £199 10/9, was recorded. Actually, owing to lighter expenditure in many directions, the loss on the whole show had been reduced by an estimated £48 10/3, from £213 11/8 last year to £165 1/5 this year, which was considered most satisfactory in view of the difficult conditions under which the event was organised.

Cash prizes, which totalled £398 15/9, were reduced by £115 7/6 this year. Total expenditure was £791 0/10, which was £173 2/10 less than last year.

MANAWATU SIRES' PRODUCE STAKES LOOK OPEN

Hunting Lore For The Hurdles

(By MOTUROA).

The Manawatu Racing Club's autumn meeting will conclude at Awapuni to-day, and the Hawke's Bay horses have a chance to retrieve the reputations they muddied on Thursday.

Most interest will be taken in the Manawatu Sires' Produce Stakes, and the Okawa-bred Lambourn has a chance to show that his form at Ellerslie was all wrong. However, this appears to be a very open race, and Chary (winner of the C.J.C. Champagne Stakes), Sir Cameron, Phaleron, Cetewayo and Khurja will find solid support. This should be one of the most interesting two-year-old races of the season.

The other fields have filled well and prospects for the meeting look very bright.

RICH TOMB FOUND IN EGYPT

"KING'S RANSOM"

Profusion Of Jewels In Vault

A king's ransom in gold and jewels-hidden for 3000 years in what historians class as one of the most important tombs to be discovered-is being examined by archaeologists who hope thereby to add new chapters to the record of ancient Egypt.

The tomb of Psou Sennes, second King of the 21st Dynasty of Egypt, has crowned 10 years of toil by the French Egyptologist, Pierre Montet. Working for Strasbourg University, Professor Montet grubbed patiently for a decade in the sands of San el Hagar, west of the Nile as a holiday

In the Tomb

There under the great temple built by Rameses, Professor Montet found the tomb entrance, a shaft four feet deep, which led to an ante-room. A short passage led the explorer to the burial chamber, 22 feet long, nine feet wide and nine feet high, with walls of rose granite.

Inside the huge sarcophagus, also of rose granite and carved with symbolic figures of the dead King and the god Osiris, lay the mummy of the ruler of an empire which was old when Homer sang of Troy the head encased in a mask of pure

The inner sarcophagus is in the form of a statue of the King carved in silver. Adorned with the gold crowns of upper and lower Egypt, one hand holds a golden sceptre, the other a flail. The royal face is that of a young man, leading archaeologists to believe that the likeness was cast before the Pharaoh's passing. Thrasos 8 3 Pearl 7 7

Jewellery in Plenty The second and third sarcophagi are of black granite and gold. The outer sarcophagus fills half the tomb—11 feet long, seven feet wide and four feet deep.

The profusion of jewellery found in the tomb includes 21 golden bracelets, 10 found on the right arm and 11 on the left. These are most

STUDENTS SERVE FREE CHINA

COLLEGE GRADUATES UNDER ORDERS

WAR MISSION

Government Directs All Activities

Chinese students in Shanghal have now been given their chance to serve Free China. An order from the Ministry of Education at Chungking directs that all college gradu ates when notified must concentrate at Yunnanfu, with travelling expenses and "livelihood fees" paid by the National Government—and if they want to receive graduation certificates, they must go (says a correspondent of the "Christian Science Monitor").

Payment for travelling expenses is made to applicants at Shanghai, Hong Kong, and Yunnanfu. After the graduates reach Yunnanfu they receive "livelihood fees" from the Yunnan Provincial Government Department of Education until they are placed in work by the Govern-

A War Mission

This instruction applies to graduates of private institutions as to ates of private institutions as to those from Government colleges and universities. It is emphasised, however, that this is a war mission and the lads must obey orders strictly and go only to places and employment designated by the Government. The plan is being carried through by Chen Li-fu, Minister of Education, and it has General Chiang Kaishek's personal endorsement. Full instructions are understood to have shek's personal endorsement. Full instructions are understood to have been sent to school authorities.

Enthusiastic Reception Shanghai youth is said to be re ceiving the scheme with the greatest enthusiasm. There had been many requests from the schools for the setting up of some sort of machinery by which students behind the Japanese lines might be enabled to take their place in Free China, and the Education Minister's response to a petition to Chungking.

College graduates in Free China, especially those in technical courses, have had no trouble in finding constructive employment as rapidly as their training was completed. It is expected that the new plan will meet criticism that the National Government was not fully utilising the character of the complete trained with the second complete the c from all over the country.
