"Germany is practically self-sufficient if the Nazis use their plentiful foodstuffs to feed the people, not the guns. "It has been a real and painful choice for the German people," he said. "It may become more painful yet, but it is the Nazi Government which has made the choice, and will have to unmake it. It is they, not we, who starve the German women and children. After saying that no immediate German collapse was to be expected, the Minister said there were good, solid signs already that the economic campaign was beginning to take effect. "An example in Germany to-day is the use of railway engines being restricted owing to the shortage of lubricating grease. Even their fighting aircraft lubricating oil now is used many hours longer than we consider safe. Cross said it was the business of the Ministry to prevent the enemy from obtaining a supply of those things necessary to keep the German fighting forces properly clothed, fed and armed.

To effect this object there were now three lines of attack. First, contraband control, whereby Germany was prevented from obtaining from overseas those goods which many was prevented from obtaining from overseas those goods which tended to increase her military strength.

Secondly, a stoppage of enemy seaborne exports, which action was a reprisal for the ruthless sinking traband control. BRITAIN'S MINISTRY OF FOOD

LARGE STAFF

Complicated Purchasing Arrangements

Comments on the size of the staff at the Ministry of Food drew a re-ply from Mr Lennox-Boyd, Parlia-mentary Secretary to the Ministry, at a conference with representatives of the Press (says "The Times"). If criticism of the size of the De-If criticism of the size of the Department, he said, was to be linked with the sort of question, "Why cannot it be left to the ordinary trade channels to deliver the goods as before?" the reply was that purchases of food overseas in the circumstances of to-day could not be left to individual traders. There were wide national considerations that had to be borne in mind. There was the question of helping the Empire. Who were in this struggle with pire, who were in this struggle with us, consideration of friendly coun-tries, the need from time to time to nake pre-empted purchases.

No Individual Competition

Individuals could not be allowed to compete for shipping, use up ex-change, and make purchases in countries where it was undesirable countries where it was undesirable to trade because of exchange considerations, or make competitive purchases in markets already disturbed by the war. For these reasons it was decided that the Department should become sole buyer over a great range of commodities. Some idea of the magnitude of the task could be gained from the fact that our food imports last year totalled £400,000,000. An organisation of that kind could not be run without an adequate staff. The experts and advisers were from the perts and advisers were from the trades concerned and a large number of them were unpaid. But they would all normally have been engaged in trade if there had been no gaged in trade if there had been no war. Having turned the Department into the biggest buying organisation in the world, it could not be dissociated from the distribution of the food it bought, and here again a large part of the staff used for this purpose was drawn from the trade. There were 45,500,000 people to feed, and to operate the rationing of food involved some 120,000,000 counterfoils which had to be sorted and distributed.

and distributed.

Fair Allocations

Discussing the allocation of butter, bacon, and sugar, Mr Lennox-Boyd said the Ministry was doing its utmost, following upon registration, to see that this was being more fairly carried out. In some districts it had been difficult to get the usual amount of the ration. When the rationing of butter and bacon came into operation on January 8 that would mean in some parts of the country a scaling-up of supply. With regard to butter, and also sugar, of which the Minister had asked the public voluntarily to ration themselves to 1lb. a week a head, circulars had been sent to retailers informing them that in futailers informing them that in fu-ture they would receive allocations based on their registration, not mathematically equalling so much a head, but generally in proportion. This had been called unofficial rationing, but it was not so, first, because, although it was hoped that individuals would keep to one retailer that was not compulsory at present and there were soldiers, sailors, and

"The Real Glory," With Gary Cooper

Samuel Goldwyn's latest production, "The Real Glory," is reported to be the best action picture produced since "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer." Six-foot Gary Cooper and the lovely dark-tressed Andrea Leeds provide the romantic interest in this stiming story of the Philip.

Leeds provide the romantic interest in this stirring story of the Philippines. Henry Hathaway, who directed Gary Cooper in "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer," also directs in "The Real Glory," which is now at the State Theatre, Hastings.

The picture unfolds a thrilling and exciting tale of adventure and romance with a series of most exciting scenes filled with swift action and tense suspense. Gary Cooper plays the type of heroic outdoor role which has made him the prime favourite with motion-picture lovers, portraying a doctor who has prime favourite with motion-picture lovers, portraying a doctor who has joined the constabulary in the Philippine Island. The story of "The Real Glory" was transferred to the screen from the novel by Charles L. Clifford, and dramatises the bold era of adventure and turmoil which reigned in the Philippines following the Spanish-American war after the American army was evacuated and the islands were overrun by religious native terrorverrun by religious native terror tts. Andrea Leeds is the heroine ists. Andrea Leeds is the heroine. Goldwyn has put top speed and spectacular action into every aspect of the production, which is "unconditionally guaranteed to build up the blood-pressure." David Niven, who recently gave magnificent performances in "Bachelor Mother" and "Wuthering Heights," plays an important and amusing role as Cooper's rival for the heroine. Niven is now becoming almost as popular as Cooper in the heroine. Niven is now becoming almost as popular as Cooper in comantic and heroic roles. Reginald Owen, Broderick Crawford and Kay Johnson are also in the cast. "The Real Glory" is one of Goldwyn's finest production triumphs. He built panorama after panorama of thrills in the lavish Goldwyn manner, culminating in a breathlesselimax of the speciacular dynamitclimax of the spectacular dynamit-ing of a dam that saves thousands from death by thirst and pestilence.

DYNAMIC DRAMA OF "THE OUTSIDER"

> Triumph For Noted British Stars

Mary Maguire and George Sanders touch heights of dramatic power rarely achieved on the screen in "The Outsider," now at the Cosy Theatre, Hastings. Miss Maguire portrays the crippled daughter of a Harley Street surgeon, Mr Sanders the unorthodox practitioner who treats her against her father's wishes.

Enmity with the medical profession, love for the patient who is already affianced, an honest belief in the efficacy of his healing methods are some of the cross currents that throw up a tempestuous sea on Sanders' side of the drama. Alternate doubt and hope as to her ultimate cure, her quarrel with her father and the growing realisation of the estrangement of her fiance are the emotional stress on Mary are the emotional stress on Mary Maguire's side.

All these conflicting elements build up a tremendous climax when the girl is to try to walk again and falls to the ground. Her subsequent efforts when her father and clauders are conveniing eterminates. Sanders are quarrelling stormily i one of the most breathless moment ever seen on the screen. Three million miles have been flown by the machines of the Coastal Command in maintaining their supervision of the seas. During that time they have sighted 102 submarines and have attacked 53. No estimate could be given of the number of submarines which had been sunk by aeroplanes, but unofficial figures suggest that the number is considerable. The problem of search are solved mathematically. The actual range of observation depends upon the weather and upon the object searched for. A search requiring four aeroplanes in good visibility may need five times that number in poor visibility. The conning tower of a submarine may be spotted at four miles, whereas the periscope, or the feather of water it causes, may not be visible at 1000 causes, may not be visible at 1000

Care of Herring Fleet One of the duties of the Coastal Command is to look after the her-

ing fleet, and the machines which undertake this duty have been nick-named the "kipper kites." I learnt also that some of the slower and more ancient machines are known as the Coastal Command's "secret weapon." And although the name is given them in derision they have certainly caused the Ger man submarine commanders a good deal of anxiety and the Ger-man fleet considerable losses. More of the patrol work is done at fairly low heights, and operations are directed from a control room similar to those used for fighter purposes.

'GOLDEN BOY" A FINE DRAMA

A Clifford Odets Stage Success

In preparation and production for more than a year and a half, Columbia's "Golden Boy" comes to the Regent Theatre to-morrow with a record of critical acclaim rarely achieved by any modern pic ture. With Barbara Stanwyck Adolphe Menjou and William Holder starred, the sensational screen ver sion of Clifford Odet's stirring stage success has been hailed as one of the greatest emotional experiences even offered by Hollywood.

"Golden Boy" is the stirring drama of a youth with the sensitive soul of a great musician, and the mauling fists of a champion prizemauling fists of a champion prize-fighter. Tired of working toward artistic triumphs in some nebulous future, the boy abandons his art to win for himself a quick success as a prize-ring killer. "Golden Boy" is the thrilling, tender story of that decision; but, more important, it is the screen portrayal of the tremendous conflict which rages when the youth attempts to force both himself and his family to believe that his decision is the right one.

In his swift climb to pugilistic stardom, he ruthlessly trample upon the hopes of his music-lovin father, ignores the cryings-out of his own conscience. He becomes brutalised by his new environment until his love for a disillusioned young woman—the only person who really understands the tremendous conflict raging within him—causes him to give up the ring and return to the forgiveness of his family. Current Attraction.

Infant charm, hilarious comedy and romantic intrigue are combined n a most effective manner in Un in a most effective manner in Universal's "Unexpected Father," which is now showing at the Regent Theatre. Verschaffelt And Wardell-Johnson

A quiet but very pretty wedding was solemnised in Napier on Wednesday afternoon at five o'clock when Enid Lilian, youngest daughter of Mr and Mrs H. Wardell-Johnson, Ormond Road, Napier, was married to Paul Nestor, only son of Mr P. D. M. Verschaffelt, of

The bride, who was given away by her father, made a charming picture in her lovely Viennese model wedding gown of briar rose soft French crepe. The short skirt was fully flared, and the neckline of the bodice was finished with a multi-coloured buckle. Her shoulder-length veil held in place with a topknot of natural flowers was of briar rose tulle and she carried a sheaf of gladioli to tone with her en-

Mrs. H. Wardell-Johnson (bride's mother) was wearing a handsome model gown of black French crepe, with pin stripes in red and white. She wore a large black hat and a shoulder spray of red flowers.

Mrs. J. H. Sinclair (sister of the bride) chose a dainty frock of floral printed chiffon and black picture hat.

Miss Margery Wardell-Johnson (sister of the bride) looked smart in a frock of black sheer worn with a necklace of natural flowers, and a small black hat. When leaving for the honeymoon tour, the bride was wearing a smart ensemble of petunia georgette with a hat, shoes and handbag to tone.

YOUR FILE-AND THE SHAPE OF YOUR NAILS

When you file your nails you should always study the shape of the nail itself. If it is oval file it to a slight natural point at the centre, so that the oval shape is made more pronounced. Then, when you apply your polish, take it almost to the tip of the finger, so that just a fine white line is left.

If the nail is square-shaped, file more into the corners than is usually he case, and when you apply your olish allow a narrow strip on each ide to remain unpolished. This will detract from the width of the nail, and if the moons and the

HOW MUCH DO MEN

How much do men know about women? It is an interesting speculation.

If they read one-tenth of all the literature published on the fascinating subject they ought, theoretically, to know everything. Fortunately they don't; it would be most uncomfortable for women.

Actually, there is no subject upon which the average man is more profoundly ignorant. The suburban husband who can put a new washer on the tap, decarbonise the car, or grow prize-winning roses is frankly helpless where his wife is

RECORD KILLINGS AT WAIROA MEAT WORKS

Prospects For Dairy And Sheep Farmer Held To Be Bright

"Daily Mail" Special Service

WAIROA

With killing operations well under way at the works of Swift (N.Z.) Co., Ltd., Wairoa, more than 10,000 head of stock have been killed to date over returns for the same period last year. This advice was given by Mr T. leC. Powdrell, a well-known Wairoa district sheepfarmer and a representative of the area on the New Zealand Meat Board, to the "Daily Mail" at Wairoa yesterday.

It has to date been a record killing season so far as Swift's are concerned at Wairoa, said Mr Powdrell. The outlook for both the quantity and quality of lambs and sheep was particularly bright. Cattle, too, were now coming forward in good condition following the recent rain.

The introduction of the cartage of lime and superphosphate by the railway service is held by Mr Powdrell as having a salient bearing on improving production generally in the Wairoa district. What is more, the Government's agreement to provide a subsidy for scrub cutting on second-class hill country, ranging from 50 to 75 per cent. of the total cost was a further inducement for farmers to open up new land, and thereby run increased lots of sheep and cattle.

**Dairy Industry's Future.**

Belief that the outlook for the darks of the darcases there is no possibility of there being a shortage of space.

As a result of the telescoping of the carcases there is no possibility of there being a shortage of space at the works and a move is being made by Mr Powdrell. Prospects for the production of beef for export appeared very poor at the beginning of the season in view of the severe winter, poor spring growth and the low condition of the cattle. However, the favourable conditions

THIS FREEDOM

It is natural that at the completion of a century of development the Dominion should rejoice in the remarkable achievements which have been accomplished in that brief space of time. Possibly the first idea that strikes the visitor to this country is that so much has been done so soon.

In many ways the Dominion has given the lead to the rest of the world in matters of social reform, and it is with justifiable pride that we rejoice in the accomplishments which have been realised. We are proud of our freedom, and the majority of our people are fond of referring to it. This question of freedom, however, is a most interesting one, and is worth some examination.

There is a popular misunderstanding as to the root meaning of the word. It may be that in the next hundred years of our development the word will be found to have gathered to itself a new connotation.

Freedom never means licence to do as you please. It is always strictly bounded by law. There is a subtle kind of argument here which is the cause of many misunderstandings. Let us say that a man owns his own business and works his own hours. He is free to work as and when he pleases. A law is passed making it imperative for him to open and close, start and stop at certain hours. He is by this means given freedom to enjoy leisure hours. Where is the true freedom as between the two.

This can be put in another way. We are free to walk about the streets as citizens of the country, going about our lawful business. But that freedom, which was in the early days of the Dominion's history unfettered, is now determined by certain regulations as to what may or may not be done on the highways. The question is, are we more free under jurisdiction than without it?

The answer lies somewhere in the middle of the dilemma. The quality of our freedom depends upon the balance as between licence and regimentation. Too much licence leads to unregulated conduct and the consequent interference with the liberties of other people. Too much regimentation leads to the loss of even our own personal liberty.

The positive proposition may be stated somewhat after this fashion: We should be free to do what we ought. Nothing should be allowed to come between us and our duty as we see it. To be precluded from acting in legitimate ways is to be the victim of tyranny. The democratic system means freedom of the right kind—a freedom regulated by self-imposed rules. Dictatorships are the death of freedom.

If this argument may be pursued—and it is not really so abstruse as it may seem-it will be observed by many that even in a democratic State a certain type of bureaucracy is apt to creep in which is as nearly akin to dictatorship that it makes no difference. When some kinds of people put "the powers that be" out of office and take over office themselves, they are apt to become like the beggar on horseback who not only rides himself but rides everyone else to the devil. Looking back on the developments of the past few decades, there are few New Zealanders who will fail to see that interference with the liberty of the individual has increased steadily. More and more, the individual's initiative has been sapped, and more and more there has been a tendency to act in accordance with the growing multitude of State decrees.

Each year we are being compelled to do this and that, and being ordered to do things affecting our own affairs and businesses which we think we could do better for ourselves. No one in business wants a highwayman's licence to rob right and left, but at least there should be some scope given for the development of free enterprise. Are we, to-day, more free than our fathers were a hundred years ago?

Sir,—"Consistency" is all innocent surprise at being taken to task for vilifying his neighbour. He calls it the expression of his own opinion, and repeats it. And with edifying smugness he declares that he would never actually kill his victim, nor starve his family. He would merely dishapens him.

Much allowance may be made for those to whom physical violence or death appears as the worst of all evils. They are temperamentally death appears as the worst of all evils. They are temperamentally unable to be anything but the fly on the wheel—all buzz and no push. And it is probably useless to attempt to penetrate the armour of complacency in which your correspondent is wrapped. He cannot even see that the question at issue is not his virtues and the Archbishop's vileness, but the best way of reach. rileness, but the best way of reachriconsistency's" literal mind bears too heavily upon a figure of speech. I admit he is not alone in his errors. Since Lenin first began it, a wave of materialistic pacifism has been the prelude to chaos in many lands. And of late it has disguised itself as an angel of light. The tactics are always the same. Vilify the responsible leaders in Church and State. Never argue the point at issue. Reiterate irrelevant half-truths until you distract and hypnoifse your hearers.

However, you can't fool everyone always. The pacifist technique grows out-of-date. It presupposes a world of simpletons or fanatics. It teaches you to be blind to the duty of "providing for your own" and "laying down your life for your "ONCE LABOUR."

The Government, he added, was tolerant and would remain tolerant of all legitimate comment or criticism on public affairs, but it would not be tolerant of utterances or counsellings that were designed to distract, divide, or disturb the people in their prosecution of the stern task to which they had set them-

Specific examples of subversive propaganda were given

"I have recently been examining pertain newspaper and magazine articles, pamphlets and reports of speeches that have been submitted to me by responsible officers who regard them as subversive or seditious in character," said Mr Mason. "I have no hesitation in saying that In my opinion some of the matter so submitted justifies the charge made against it.

"The years that have passed since the outbreak of the Great War have admittedly been full of occasion to controversy. The social and political changes, not to say upheavals, of the last 25 years have everywhere quickened interest in the business of government and the conduct of affairs in a manner unknown in any affairs in a manner unknown in any previous age.

"It is impossible that such discussion could be conducted without either revealing or creating conflicting loyalties often passionately held. I need hardly cite instances of divisions of thought and of faith that the world-shaking events of the past quarter-century have disclosed among the free peoples of the earth, but I may observe that throughout the British Commonwealth in particular these divisions have led to conflicting views of what our foreign policy ought to be.

Fight, Or Not?

Fight, Or Not? "Thus, to come down to recent times, some were for conciliating or appeasing Hitler's Germany; others for resisting it. Some thought we should fight for Czechoslovakia and others were for keeping the peace. Finally, some in New Zealand, as no doubt elsewhere in the Empire, have seen in the history of the present seen in the history of the present British Government, nothing but a record of blunders, while others are convinced that the picture is one of at least honest and mainly competent handling of a series of diffi-cult and dangerous situations. "It all depended on point of view then.

"With many of these differences still fresh and still unreconciled, we find ourselves once more at war. It is inevitable that many among us should ask why this thing should be how it is that after so great and how it is that after so great and costly a victory which is still fresh in our minds we should once again be fighting for our lives.

"The point to which I am leading is this: The Government felt it was hardly to be expected that the national machine could get into top war gear in a moment; it believed that not instantaneously could everyone realise that, whatever view we might have held in the past about British policy, there was now only one thing for loyal men to do—stand shoulder to shoulder in defence of the Commonwealth.

New Realities.

New Realities.

"The Government knew that this realisation would come without forcing it. It relied on the good sense and strong instinct of solidarity of our people to consolidate opinion in support of a truly worthy war effort, but the Government is now convinced that ample time for the adjustment of reasonable and loval minds to new realities has loyal minds to new realities has been allowed.

"We are entitled to demand, and we do demand, that they abstain from propaganda that is hostile to the national cause.

Subversive Propaganda

To suggest that men like the Prime Minister of Great Britain have led the British Empire into war upon inadequate consideration or for the protection of sectional interests is a specific example of subversive propaganda. It consists in good part of hard ened and toughened colonial units drawn from British and French gar risons in Northern Africa and Inrisons in Northern Africa and India—men who are professional fighters of the most rugged sort. It is being well equipped for as fast movement as transportation facilities in that area permit and for modern mechanised warfare.

Turkish Co-operation

It would operate in conjunction with the Turkish Army, whose regular forces of about 160,000 can be increased by its reserves to a war strength of 700,000, and with the British and French naval forces in the Mediterranean whose present disposition is kept secret.

pian Seas to the frontiers of Turkey and Iran, formerly called Persia. This is the great oil pool of Russia, of incalculable value to the Soviet in wartime. Within 100 or 200 miles of the Turkish and Iranian frontiers are the most important of these oilfields as well as the pipeline from Baku to Batum, through which much of Russia's petroleum flows.

This area is as vulnerable to destructive air attack as Germany's steel empire in the Ruhr Valley, and more vulnerable to actual invasion. British troops occupied the steel empire in the Ruhr Valley, and more vulnerable to actual invasion. British troops occupied the region for a period in the last war. Meanwhile, to the south of the Caucasus and east of Turkey lies Iran, with its own rich oilfields, which are chief supplies of the British and French. Allied pipelines run south to the Persian Gulf and west to Haifa in Palestine and Tripoli in Syria. Those in turn are under the shadow of Soviet bombardment. And Russia for some time has been exerting pressure on Iran in every way possible, seeking to threaten the Allied oil supplies and to make of that country a military counterpoise to Turkey, and, more lately, to the Syrian forces.

These are the local issues. Larger equestions of the Near East revolve around the degree of support which the Allies can give, or are willing to give, in the event of a German or Russian or joint move into the Balkans.

The question of whether Turkey, the Allied navies and forces in Syria and elsewhere would seek to make a stand in the Balkans is so uncertain at this time as to remain in lively doubt. Very likely the difficulties involved and the fact that the armies are still in the stage of

Decisive Factors

In the opinion of military and diplomatic observers in Washington, a substantial show of Allied force on the south-eastern front might prove to be one of the decisive factors in the outcome of the war. Turkey has cast its lot tentatively with Britain and France.

In fact, as it is recalled in Washington, it was the failure of the Allies to send troops in force to the landing in a field with its undercaranding in a field with its undercar riage retracted.' "
The location of the engagement is not stated.

Man's Honesty

Anonymous Finder Discovers Friend's Address

An Auckland girl who arrived in fapier yesterday afternoon had ause to be grateful for the honesty a Napier man whose identity unknown, and but for whom she would have been faced with a serious loss of cash and jewellery.

The girl arrived at Napier at 4 p.m. yesterday by the rail-car from Wairoa and went into a telephone box on the station to communicate with a friend. Shortly afterwards she remembered that she had left she remembered that she had left her purse, containing money, valu-able jewellery and train tickets in the 'phone booth, but on returning found that it had disappeared. The stationmaster and the police were informed of the loss, but it was a worried young visitor who left the railway station that after-noon.

Happy Sequel

The sequel came last evening when she met a girl acquaintance who handed over the purse and its contents to the astonished lady.

It was learned that the purse had here found by a very man who are to its ownership, and he had taken it home with him.

Later he noticed that it contained a letter from one of the girls to the other, and from this he learned the telephone number of the Napier lady, with whom he communicated immediately and arranged to return the valuables letic and Cycling Club was well up to the usual standard.

The track was rather soft, but in spite of this handicap the times recorded were particularly good in the najority of events.

AUCKLAND, Jan. 26.

Drawn from all parts of the province of Auckland, members of the Main Body of the Maori Battalion travelled south to-night to go into camp at Palmerston North. The total number of al lranks was 432.

To connect with trains in the far north, in the Bay of Plenty and Rotorua districts to-day, a number of men had spent the previous day in travelling, some over roads impassable to motor traffic. Relatives and friends gathered with them at various stations and, amid singing and cheering, laughter and tears, the men were warmly farewelled.

The largest group, of 203 men, came from North Auckland. In the early morning they assembled at Kaitaia, Kaikohe, Whangarei, Dargaville and other centres and travelled by service cars and motor buses to the most suitable stations in order to catch the express from Conya to Auckland. Delayed by a in order to catch the express from Opua to Auckland. Delayed by a minor derailment at Swanson, the express did not reach Auckland until 6.48, over 13 hours late. The special train had been kept waiting and, in order to adhere to schedules, the quick transfer of the men was necessary.

Amid the crowds that were assembled for the departure of the Limited express, the troops were marched in single file through the station concourse, taken into the restation concourse, taken into the restation concourse, taken into the restation of the station concourse, taken into the restation concourse, taken into the restation of the station concourse, taken into the rebeen found by a young man who entered the telephone booth after the

To Scotland, remarked Dr Inkster, Burns stressed the value of work and of virtue. These two were to be cultivated and captured. On the other hand, he pointed out the danger of luxury and ease.

months-old thoroughbred foal and the serious condition of the brood mare Wee Pat, both owned by the Onehunga sportsman, Mr A. Kemp, are being investigated by detectives. Some days ago a filly foal by the imported horse Dink was found to be ill at Mr Kemp's home. The filly died and was buried on Saturday morning. Later Wee Pat was found to be in a bad way, her mouth showing signs which it is thought might be due to burning by acid.

Both the mare and her foal had been feeding from the same bin. It is thought possible that some miscreant had interfered with the feed in the bin and added acid.

Wee Pat is still in a bad way, but is receiving veterinary attention from Dr. Ring. Wee Pat was the surprise winner of the Great Northern Hurdles at Ellerslie in 1934. She is by Kilbroney out of a mare by Merriwee, and is nine years old.

FLOCK ROMNEYS IN FAIR DEMAND

Unexpected Prices Realised In Sale At Tomoana

MARKET'S SUBSEQUENT FALL

After opening well in the morning, with some unexpected prices being reached, bidding slumped badly during the afternoon at the ram fair held at Tomoana Showgrounds yesterday by the Hawke's Bay Associated Auctioneers. Selling during the day was erratic, uniform sorts bringing most inconsistent prices, but the market was much better than has generally been expected.

The yarding was about 700 below that of last year, and the attendance was less. The sale will continue to-day.

Excellent types of the Romney breed in some instances brought prices little short of the 20-guinea mark, but generally returns were much lower than this. The day's top price was 31 guineas, paid by Mr J. Collins, Otane, for a pen of seven one-shear, offered by Mr A. M. Henderson, Mt. Stewart, Feilding. Many pens of inferior sorts brought about three guineas.

The market began to weaken early in the afternoon, and sellers had difficulty in obtaining anything like reasonable prices for good quality rams.

The respective brokers made realisations at five guineas and over as follows:

Esteemed Resident

A well-known and highlyesteemed resident of Napier, Miss ago owing to ill-health, but of late

They were roughly the same as those which had faced President Wilson during the 1914-1918 war, when, he believed, the President would have caused civil war in the United States had he joined the Allies sooner. They were a consequence of the great non-Anglo-Saxon population resident in America.

This European population was Born at Lyttelton, Miss Puflett was the third daughter of the late Mr and Mrs Robert Puflett of Napier, and formerly of Christchurch, where Mr Puflett had been manager of the Union Steamship Co. of New Zealand, before he was transformed in a similar canacity to National Steamship Co. ferred in a similar capacity to Na-

Headmistress

Miss Puffett was educated at the Port Ahuriri School and the Napier Girls' High School, and it was a coincidence that at the age of 13 she took over a teaching position at the former school, where she had received her early education. Miss Puffett soon became one of the Hawke's Bay Education Board's most capable teachers, and later she was appointed to the Nelson Park School as headmistress, a position which she found it necessary to resign three or four years ago. In the intervening period she had been teaching at the Westshore, Hastings Street, Gisborne, Temuka (South Island) and Nelson Park schools; her earlier appointment on the staff of the latter school had been at the time the school was first opened.

ENGLISH SPEAKING UNION BY

BROADER OUTLOOK URGED ON

POSITION IS COMPLICATED A strong appeal that the English Speaking Union should broaden the basis of its outlook so that the society should include within its influence not only the English speaking countries, but all those peoples who were one in Christ, was made by the Rev. Dr. J. G. Inkster, of Toronto, Canada, in an address to the Hastings branch of the English Speaking

Jesus Christ, he said, had aimed at the same understanding and sense of brotherhood with everyone as had the union with the Anglo-Saxon races. Only by following His comprehensiveness did Dr. Inkster consider the ideals of the union could be realised with the maximum effect.

Union at the Hawke's Bay Farmers' tearooms yesterday

From its inception the English Speaking Union had expressed a great and hopeful ideal, he said. An ideal which Lord Balfour, Walter Page and General Smuts had found worthy of praise. Since the outworthy of praise. Since the out-break of war the ideal had not break of war the ideal had not have dared her present changed, but only half the union seemed prepared to fight for it. The president of the Canadian Union (Vincent Price) had described the present situation as a challenge to the society. What was to be done, then, by members of the Union in New Zealand? Dr Inkster suggested three aims—a wholehearted support of the Government, the deterwhole the Government, the deterwhole the support of the Government, the determinant of the support of the Government of the support of the Government, the determinant of the support of the Government, the determinant of the support of the Government, the determinant of the support of the Government of th port of the Government, the determination that democracy and freedom should not perish on this earth, with its complement that force, aggression and barbarism should not democracy and freedom should not perish on this earth, with its complement that force, aggression and barbarism should not deminate.

American Difficulties.

This European population was greater now than during the last war. In his own city of Toronto, for example, there were large numbers of Hungarians, Ukranians, Finns and Bulgarians, all with their own particular opinions and preju-

In explanation of his opinion that the English Speaking Union should broaden the basis of its outlook, Dr Inkster said that the great sin of the world to-day was disobedience—especially to the law of God. This, which was manifest in children, mend retired to the same which and nations, was the same which in an earlier age had meant expulsion from Eden, that had turned the age of conscience to that of corruption, the age of human government to that of anarchy, the age of promise to the age of disillusionment.

Now we were living in what theologians called the age of grace. It Finns and Bulgarians, all with their own particular opinions and prejudices about the present situation.

Founders' Error.

There were two further considerations affecting the attitude of Americans at the present time. From the point of view of the English Speaking Union, the founders had not expected another war. This was a mistake, for human nature was not changed, even by a war. It meant that the society was faced with a proposition which it was hardly prepared to meet and the

The opinion that the replies received from Ministers of the Crown concerning the request for special railway concessions to enable children from the Wairoa district to visit Wellington for the Centennial Exhibition were disappointing was expressed at a recent meeting of the Wairoa Parents' League.

The Minister replied that no concession beyond the ordinary advertised railway excursion fares could be granted. The meeting expressed the view that as those fares would not carry the matter any further.

PAHIATUA MEETING OPENS TO-DAY

FIELDS REVIEWED

An Analysis Of Recent Form

(By MOTUROA). Good fields are carded for the Pahiatua Racing Club's annual meeting, which opens to-day and, as the course is greatly benefited by the soaking rain last week-end, rac-ing should be keen.

Patrons will have plenty of recent form to guide them in their deliberations, and the running at Trentham and at Ashhurst will have to be taken into consideration. Single pool betting will be in operation and the programme opens with the Master Solway had a rough passage at Ashhurst and then ran a close third to Piastre. Daregain is very well at present, while Miss Leighton was finishing on at Ashhurst. Kinkajou has been working attractively at Hastings and Golden Melody will find this class less difficult than at Trentham, but Don Quex ran well there and he will ap-Quex ran well there and he will appreciate the distance of this race. Moradabad had a very poor run in her one start at Trentham, and she is capable of showing a big improvement. This is a very open race, but most faith may be placed in White Rajah was impressive in winning at Ashhurst, and the Opaki gedding seems to be thriving on his diet of hard racing. Sky Limit's Trentham success will attract much attention to his chances here as he seems to be improving with every race. Small Boy's bad barrier manners will not improve his chances here and Golden Ridge has been racing poorly. However, he has winning form to his credit on this track and he may improve. Gay Mimic ran good races at Trentham, while Corroboree seems to be on the upgrade. Granvale and Le Toquet are both likely to make things interesting, but, in a very open race, it seems if the best form has been shown. is if the best form has been shown Addition 7 13 Cicada 7 7 This is the smallest field of the day. Lancelot is a likely-looking colt and should be all the better for his race at Trentham, while Army Girl is reported to be speedy. Addition is an unknown quantity, but Nationalist showed a lot of pace at Marton and has trained on satisfactorily since then. He is a very promising colt. Lady Govern ran third at Tauherenikau, while Cicada showed some pace at that meeting.

Dainty Sheila 7 11 White Rajah hung on very well to win at Ashhurst on Monday, and he will have a big following if he is reserved for this event. On Monday Trench Law ran an excellent second to The Ring at Trentham. Acrobatic won well at Tauhereni-kau and made a good showing at Trentham, while Dainty, Sheila is BEAU VITE proved himself to be a colt of exceptional calibre when he ran Old Bill to a neck in the Wellington Cup. He had 21lbs. the worse of the weights under the w.f.a. scale.

TRENTHAM

Old Bill's Success Was Most Lucrative

Fifty-one owners participated in ne £15,125 distributed in prize toney at the Wellington Centennial neeting, the most successful being Messrs H. H. Pharazyn and M. Greenwood, who own the Wellington Cup winner Old Bill in partnership, though the horse actually races the name only of Mr Pharazyn ld Bill's win was worth £2300, in old bill's will was worth £2500, in-cluding the trophy valued at £200, and it set his owners well ahead of Mr R. Stewart, the owner of Beau Vite, who earned £1300 for his secand in the Cup and win on the final lay.

The most successful owners were:

RACING FIXTURES

Feb. 22, 24—Dunedin J.C. Feb. 24, 26—Westland R.C. Feb. 24, 26—Te Aroha J.C. Feb. 24, 26-Woodville District J.C.

When Opoho opened his winning account at Wairoa last season it looked as if he was going to soon run through the hack classes. However, minor placings alone have been his lot since, though there is no doubt he could have been placed to better advantage at times. The big Defoe geldin may possibly have a liking for his home track and there may be a race for him there next week.

for him there next week, Hunting Moments was feeling the effects of her hard racing at Trentham when she failed at Ashhurst, but this consistent mare will be nicely freshened up for the East Coast circuit and she should make things very interesting for the middle-distance hacks at the Wairoa meeting.

A smart beginner like Royal Consort should be in her element around the turns at the River City and the Marton filly looks like playing a prominent part in the decision of the Springvale Juvenile at Wanganui. Royal Consort failed at Trentham, but this company is less difficult and the two-year-old daughter of Laughing Prince will find a big following.

Biver Tide van two wesful fourths.

River Tide ran two useful fourths at the Hawke's Bay summer meeting and the half-sister to Hunter's Eve left the impression that she would be all the better for her racing. The class this Tidal filly is meeting in the Maiden Stakes at the Wairoa fixture is not very strong and she should give a very good account of herself on her home track.

capable of an improvement on her form at Ashhurst, where Joe Louis and Trilitha ran fair races. How-ever, the form horses are WHITE RAJAH, MAKURI HACK HANDICAP, Of £110, 6 furlongs 55 yards. Of £110, 6 furlongs 55 yards.

Punarua 9 0 De Bretts
Te Ore 8 7 Earl's Court
Kehua 8 1 Whakarara
Great Legion 8 1 Black Frost
Dunmanway 8 1 Rose Mimetic
Stella Lux 8 0 Master Solway
Newbury Gay Artist
Queen 7 12 Gaelic Song
Titter 7 12 Fitmark

Punarua covered a lot of unnecessary ground at Ashhurst and is liable to improve a lot. Te Ore ran well at Trentham, while Kehua is smart. Great Legion is pacy and is smart. Great Legion is pacy and Dunmanway's fine second at Awapuni at Christmas will attract attention to his chances. Stella Lux and Newbury Queen should be heard of during the meeting, while De Bretts ran fourth in the Trial Plate at Trentham. Earl's Court is on the Trentham. Earl's Court is on the upgrade, while Gay Artist may surprise. However, backers are likely to show a preference for DE BRETTS, DUNMANWAY, PUNARUA.

Royal Star II has plenty of weight liable to improve still further. Lord but he won well at Ashhurst and is Cavendish will find this company easier than that he struck at Trent easier than that he struck at Trentham, while Life Guard must be respected on the two very fine races he ran at Ashhurst. Solaria can run out a solid six and a half, while Sporting Gift's finish in the final race at Ashhurst left the impression that he will be adding to his winning account before the Pahiatua meeting is over. Jeanne has a chance at the weights, but most appeal is made by

WINNING OWNERS AT | Sir Crusoe Is A Smart Horse

WEIGHT CARRIER

Bred From Old Karamu Family

(By Moturoa) Two hacks that stood out far bove the opposition at Trentham last week were Sir Crusoe Lady Tinkle, though Not Hearth, Millament, Pearl of Gold Dale, Arcas, Meadow, Military Maid and Sky Limit appeal as being well above the average and worthy of consideration at coming meetings of consideration at coming meetings. Sir Crusoe, who has forged through almost to open ranks in the past few months, left the impression that he was most unlucky in that he did not conclude his racing in hack ranks with the rich Douro Cup. He failed by half a length in that race after meeting with a little interference at a critical stage and there is no doubt that he was "fluked" by Lord Puck, who had a pull of 32lb. in the weights.

Sir Crusoe still has to win £15 before being forced to do his racing in open company, but he appears to have a very bright future and his connections were probably wise to turn down the substantial offer they received for him from J. T. Jamieson. They have a horse who should be capable of winning any country handicap this autumn, and who might rise to the best handicap classes next season.

Winning Family

Sir Crusoe comes from a very successful family and this Defoe three-year-old is a half-brother to that good miler Meamea, being bred from Hine Wehi, who was by the Sunstar horse Arausio from Te Aupaki (dam of that high-class horse Toxeuma, who won the Winter Cup with 115) by Merry Moment from with 11.5), by Merry Moment from

ACCEPTANCES FOR WAIROA

HAWKE'S BAY horses comprise a big proportion of the fields at the Wairoa Racing Club's annual two-day meeting at Wairoa next week and the at Wairoa next week and the provincial contingent is a very strong one. Local owners and trainers are given a final reminder that acceptances for all events on the first day (February 1) close at 8 o'clock to-night (Friday) with the secretary, Mr. H. L. Harker, Wairoa.

while this term he has been a model of consistency, his seven starts being for three wins, three seconds and a fourth, his stakes earnings to date being £740. He first attracted notice last

He first attracted notice last Easter when he ran Globe Trotter to a neck at Tauherenikau and chased Pen home on the second day. He wound up the season by chasing Kaiwaka home at the Rangitikei Hunt meeting.

Royal Sign beat him at the beginning of the current term, but, in his next start he was second to the speedy Wings of Song in the Trial Plate at Trentham and he finished fast into fourth place behind Duncannon in the Spring Novice. His first success came at Bulls, when he gave 4lb. and a substantial beating to Night Eruption, and he was not produced again until the last day of the Manawatu summer meeting, when he won the Christ. last day of the Manawatu summer meeting, when he won the Christmas Handicap. This was followed up by his impressive win in the Ruapehu Handicap at Trentham last week and his unlucky defeat in the Douro Cup.
