Mr Winston Churchill, in a message to M. Reynaud, says: "Within the last few days fresh British forces have landed in France to join those already engaged in the common struggle. Further extensive reinforcements are being rapidly organised and will shortly be available."

It is authoritatively stated that the situation is one of obviously increasing difficulty. British troops are in some of the heaviest fighting and are playing their full part on the left of the French.

The Germans are making three main thrusts, the first above Rouen, the second south from Soissons, and the third and new attack on both sides of Rethel. The first thrust is the most serious and has made most progress, reaching the

The French artillery at two o'clock in the morning and again at three opened the heaviest bombardments hitherto made against the German positions at the Swiss end of the front. Huge columns of smoke could be seen from the vicinity of Basle, where the windows rattle from the gunfire.

Each bombardment lasted 20 minutes. Everyone at Basle was awakened and watched the flashes from the Maginot Line forts. Fresh German divisions are reported to be moving into the Black Forest, where the forces are now estimated at 20 divisions.

While no precise information is available, it is reasonable to assume that the explanation of the French bombardment from the Maginot Line is due to the concentration of German

The French day communique is east of Rethel. The Germans very brief and states: "The battle from the sea to the Argonne continues to be more and more violent."

The Germans' most violent attacks was in the Champagne sector, but the French lines there are still holding. The Germans also launched fierce onslaughts in the region southwards of Aumale and Montdidier, which are in the centre of the front. A series if extremely severe attacks and counter-attacks developed in the region of Soissons.

has ever known, the Germans are throwing all available men against the Allied positions in a violent attack along the whole front from the sea to the Argonne.

Sunday's advice is that reconnaissance units of German armoured units have reached the outskirts of Rouen, on the lower Seine, on the Allied left flank, and that they are trying to cross the Seine. These attempts have so far been frustrated. The French military spokesman

The French military spokesman states that, though the position is serious, it is not desperate. "Loss of territory," he says, "is not important if we are wearing down the enemy. A GREAT MUSICAL COMEDY

"Shipyard Sally" With Gracie Fields

Hearty comedy, glorious singing of old favourites and new hits by he one-and-only Gracie Fields, and a strong story, combine to make Shipyard Sally," which will open o-morrow at the State Theatre, Hastings, among the most satisfying entertainments the screen has offered in many a season. It is the best Gracie Fields film to date.

Clydeside, where the story opens, clydeside, where the story opens, is seen as a period of prosperity closes and poverty and despair settle over the workers. Gracie Fields appears as Sally, a music-hall artist who finds that to keep her errant father, the "Major," in order to be beginning almost a full time ich becoming almost a full-time job. The "Major" is played by Gracie's co-star, Sydney Howard. He buys a Clydeside 'pub" with Gracie's savings and looks thirstily forward to drinking the profits. There are no profits, however, for the men can no legger afford to pay for their bear longer afford to pay for their beer. Gracie proves a friend to the work ers, dispensing beer and encourage-ment without hope of reward beyond their profound gratitude and friend-ship. A commission is appointed in ondon to report on the situation at lydebank, and Sally is sent to Lon don to plead a resumption of work Lord Randall (Morton Selten) head of the commission, is both busy and elusive. When orthodox methods fail to bring Sally an interview, sh sany an interview, she uses her voice and her ingenity. She poses as an American blues singer and becomes the hit of a party at Randall's house; she impersonates a young man of Mayfair and passes through the portals of Lord Randall's very conservative Lord Randall's very conservative—and all male—club; she continues her impersonation of the singer at a country house-party and at last her efforts are rewarded with success. Gracie sings other songs, too, a list of old favourites and specially written hits including: "Wish Me Luck," "In Pernambuco," "I Got the Jitterbugs," "Grandfather's Bag-"Annie Laurie" and "Danny Hornung, "Raffles" dramatises the story of a suave and dapper gentleman crook who moves in the highest society and is known as a champion cricketer. cricketer.

OTTO KRUGER AT HIS BEST

of "Housemaster," the Associated British screen version of Ian Hay's long-running play, which comes to the Cosy Theatre, Hastings, to-day. "Housemaster" is a bright and breezy comedy with a sympathetic and human note underlying its humour, the action of which takes place almost entirely within the walls of a large English public school.

Otto, as the housemaster, a dry-numoured bachelor devoted to his boys, has three devastatingly pretty wards descend upon his school. These three lovelies—played by Diana Churchill, Rene Ray and fifteen year-old Rosamond Barnes—cause a sensation at the school and unwittingly help to incite a revolu-tion among the boys against the new headmaster's drastic reforms. Phillips Holmes plays a shy young chemistry master who falls in love with Diana. P. Remarkable Film From The Holy Land

In a world torn with war and In a world form with war and tyranny, religion has come to the fore with a new significance, and, although it is many years since a picture with a sacred theme has been shown, a film depicting the life of Christ, from Annunciation to Resurrection, is to be shown at the Pagant Theatre, Nanier commen-

Resurrection, is to be shown at the Regent Theatre, Napier, commencing to-morrow.

"From Manger to Cross" was made in the Holy Land several years ago before the British engineers reconstructed the roads into modern highways, and before any of the modern edifices now such a feature of the towns, were built. Thus the real atmosphere of the days in which Christ lived is captured, but, it must be understood, without any of the so-called "glamour" which a modern American production would tend to bestow on it. All the players are anonymous, and though their tend to bestow on it. An Interesting Maori Wedding

TEPAIRI-TAREHA

Ceremony At The Bay Of Plenty

GUESTS FROM H.B.

A wedding of considerable importance to the Urewera and Ngatikahungunu tribes was celebrated in Waimana, Bay of Plenty, recently, when Wikitoria Tahutahu Tareha, grandchild of the chief Teroera Tareha, of Waiohiki, was married to Hopa Tepairiterangi, grandchild of the chief Tepairi, of Waimana.

The ancient ceremony of Pakuha, involving the acquiescence of chiefs to the marriage, was an interesting feature of the wedding. The chiefs Hori Tupaea, of Te Hauke, and Tareha, of Waiohiki, represented the Ngati-kahungunu, and Tewhenuanui, of Ruatahuna, Takurua, of Ruatoki, and Tepairi, of Waimana, were representatives of the Ureweras, while Tekani Te Ua, as a tribal relative of both bride and bridegroom, represented the tribes from the Gisborne district.

The festivities included almost a week's entertainment of a large number of visitors by the hosts, the Ureweras.

The marriage ceremony was con-beauty conscious and can make the very most of her appearance by accentuating her good points.

Maybe you have beautiful hair, lovely skin, or attractive hands. Well, then, what better way to improve your appearance than by taking special care of whichever you have and at the same time working unceasingly to improve the others. If your hair is lovely try an attractive new set, if it is unattractive and lifeless, improve it with massage and treatments. If you have lovely skin make sure your make-up is quite right and best for your own colouring. Should your skin be unattractive, try some special facial massage or beauty treatment. Beautiful finger nails are improved with nail polish to tone with your make-up scheme—if they are poor they will be all the better for a manicure.

Lillian Stanley, Hastings: What a very pleasant thought of yours, Lillian, to welcome the new Pam. I did like your letter so much and your story and will look forward to hearing from you every week.

"Busy Bee," Hastings: You've chosen a very good name, "Busy Bee" and you seem to be a busy little person with all your knitting, both for yourself and the soldiers. Well done. Thank you for your riddles and the poem. Chicken-pox are nasty but you won't have them

Roy Nicholas, Wairoa: very interested in the Playtime Club and wish to join it. I will be 11 on July 11. I would like a pen friend who is interested in stamps."

(We welcome you, Roy, to our club and I hope some of our Playmates will write to you. Stamp collecting is a grand idea.—Pam).

"Inspector Scott," Hastings: What an exciting new pen name to choose. I was interested to hear all about your garden had and how you have covered the iron roof with soil and branches so that it can't be seen. That's what we call camouflaging it—rather a difficult word, but exciting. See if you can learn it.

Dorothy Austin, Hastings: I have passed your letter on to your old Pam so that she shall have all your good wishes. I was glad to hear that you are knitting for the soldiers. Every little bit helps tremendously. Yes, I love Georgette Heyer's books and so will you, but don't forget to spend lots of time on your Latin. too. on your Latin, too.

PAM'S LETTER

Dear Boys and Girls,

I have so enjoyed my first week as your new Pam and have been so pleased to receive several letters of welcome.

Of course, it will take me just a little while to get to know you all, so I do hope that each one of you will write to me and tell me all about yourselves.

I shall want you to address your letters to me at the Hastings office and sometime soon I shall have a visiting day and you will all be able to come in and we will get to know each other properly.

This week I have given you a very simple design for knitting mittens, so I hope that lots and lots of you will try to make them for our soldiers. When I have my visiting day you will all be able to bring in your mittens and then we can send them all together as a gift from the "Daily Mail" Playmates.

You will see that one of your Playmates has sent me a recipe which I hope lots of you will try and then write to me and tell me

And now lots of letters with jokes and riddles and anything to interest other Playmates are to be sent to me this week so that I will be kept ever so busy.

Jimmie not to think of the robbery at the shop, and so it was with a whoop of joy that the lad leapt from the car when it stopped in the spacious parking area at one end of the elevated recreation ground ex-tending the full length of the beach and overlooking the picturesque bay, the numerous rock pools, the promenade, gardens, scattered cottages, and the Swallow Bay shopping centre. He and Bill were soon running down one of several glittering shell-grit pathways leading to the beach. Everything was fresh and clean after the recent rain—the lawns and trees and gardens, the concrete promenade and the golden sand—and millions of sunsprites were dancing on the calm bay.

"This is great!" exclaimed Jimmie later, when he and Bill were lying half-buried in the sand after having spent an hour or more in the surf, which was gradually filling with happy holiday-makers all bent on proving themselves and obtaining

"Glad you're liking it so much," said Bill. "Perhaps we'd better go up to the car now. It must be lunchtime. Uncle said he'd have the hamper unpacked and lunch all ready for us when we got back."

"Wait, Bill," Jimmie said quietly. "Want to tell you something..." You're being jolly decent to me, and I know you are wondering about Sam Pepper, the fellow I tried to follow yesterday afternoon, Well, a couple of months ago Sam came to live at our lodging-house. He had a big room on the floor above us, and soon became friendly with Dad and Mum. A month later he said he was leaving, and had bought a suite of furniture—a bedroom suite of furniture—

He said he'd been away for a day or two and did not know that anyone had been at his house to give Dad the suite. He'd arrived home that morning and missed the suite and was making inquiries from his neighbours when Dad came along. He said he'd not put the matter into the hands of the police if Dad brought the suite back."

"Golly!" ejaculated Bill.

Blenheim, Nelson, Westport, Grey-The speech delivered on Saturday by the member for Hawke's Bay (Mr E. L. Cullen) was a straight-out soldier's utterance. Mr Cullen, who was himself decorated for gallantry in the field during the last war, and who is possibly as proud of his M.M. as he is of his M.P., was particularly interesting because of the fact that he gave some hint of his reactions to the deliberations of the secret session of Parliament recently held. It is particularly interesting to note that Mr Cullen is reported to have said that if he had been Minister of Defence, we would have had a measure of conscription in this country before now.

As to the Government's intention in regard to compulsory national military service, Mr Cullen described it as taking the form of "a class of conscription," or as what he went on to describe as "conscription by selection." The latter phrase he did not define, so that we are left once more, at a desperately critical time in the history of the Empire, with a vague phraseology that may mean almost anything. That, as we know, is no fault of Mr Cullen's.

When it comes to the surge and thunder of expert phrasemaking, we have to turn to the Hon. R. Semple, who, almost simultaneously, said: "Let us put our backs to the wall, our faces to the sun, and with brave hearts and unconquerable souls, make this vow before God and man that there can be no compromise with a gang of international murderers and burglars, and that there can be no surrender." Mr Semple went so far as to say in effect that he would die on the Wellington hills rather than yield to the Nazi conqueror. Brave words, these, and altogether admirable.

But the country needs more than words. Not even Mr Semple, with his almost enviable command of descriptive terms applicable to those with whom he disagrees, can sidetrack the people of the country from what they regard as the main issue in the present struggle. That issue refers to the speedy and sufficient and efficient supply of man power to aid in the fight.

Anyone can see the difference in the mental attitude of the old soldier and that of the man who has never known what it is to fight in a war for the defence of his country.

The menace, Mr Semple may as well know, was as great in 1914 as it is to-day, only we happened to "win," as the saying goes. That is to say, the fighting stopped and people went on trying to live. The international murderers and burglars were just as real in his day as they are in the days of the men who are now fit to fight. Even Mr Semple has found that it is not so easy to get into the Army in this country as he supposed. We remember his famous offer to serve as a pioneer (in the Army sense of the term), but have heard no more since.

This war, in other words, needs soldiers-men with the minds and the instincts of soldiers, who cut the talk and get on with the job. They are men of action and not merely men of words. Such men as Mr Cullen know that while we sit in solemn conclave to discuss this and that, the enemy may steal a march on us and get away with the booty.

There is no need to make any pretence about this business of war. New Zealand at this moment has not the kind of leadership it deserves, and will not be put off much longer by the plausible platitudes of platform politicians. No one will need to die on the hills of Wellington if this and the other Dominions stand in and do their duty. We may take Mr Cullen's word for it that he was impressed by the efforts made by the country, as revealed in the secret session. But cannot the people be let into some of the secret? Or can they not be trusted? Or is the Government afraid of repercussions from certain sections? Let us have the truth. We Rochfort, engineer to the Hawke's Bay Rivers Board, reported yesterday that the mouth of the Ngaruroro River had shown signs of closing during the month. An attempt was made to re-establish the mouth at the groyne, but unfortunately there was not sufficient water to maintain the opening and it closed up. It would be necessary to consider what work should be done to keep the two river mouths. "There undoubtedly an English way of holiness, just as typical as the French, the Irish and the Italian," said the Rev. Father Walsh, in his Commemoration Day address at St. Bede's College, Christchurch. "There is a sobriety, a common sense, a turn for the practical, a passion for ritual, dignified, stately and austere, which is found in done to keep the two river mouths, Ngaruroro and Tutaekuri, from coming together. and austere, which is found in nearly all the holy men of England. The Waikino Murder Case

MINE WORKER CHARGED

Efficient And Thorough Work By The Police

SOME STARTLING EVIDENCE

By Telegraph-Press Association WAIHI, June 10.

Arrested at Waihi at the beginning of May in connection with the Waikino tragedy of the night of April 2, Douglas Herbert Cartman, single, aged 22, previously employed as a trucker in the Martha Gold Mine, and who had been several times remanded, appeared before Mr W. H. Freeman, S.M., in the Waihi Magistrate's Court this morning charged with the murder at Waikino on April 2 of Elizabeth Agnes Hamilton, a married woman, aged 27, whose body was found next morning in scrub by the wayside on the Waikino-Waitewheta road, three miles away from where that of Lloyd Moran, aged 15, son of the then proprietor of the Waikino-Hotel, Mr J. J. Moran, now of Auckland, was found. Young Moran and Mrs Hamilton, who was a cook employed by his father, had gone for a stroll in the evening. The arrest was made by Detective-Sergeants J. No fewer than 28 witnesses have been subpoenaed, and it is expected that the hearing will last at least two full days.

The first witness was Stanley Eric Anderson, a Public Works Departnent engineer, of Paeroa, who surveyed the Paeroa-Waihi highway tragedy.

Road, Walni, and after daybreak the witness and other searchers, after clearing the scrub at that spot, unearthed the missing skirt of Mrs Hamilton. Later on the same day the witness found a black leather shoe at the accused's home identical in every way with the shoes worn by Lloyd Moran on the night of the tragedy. two full days.

The first witness was Stanley Eric Anderson, a Public Works Department engineer, of Paeroa, who surveyed the Paeroa-Waihi highway from 15 chains on the Paeroa side of the Waikino Hotel. He detailed the measurements taken, including one of 150 feet where a car-tyre track left the roadway to where it rejoined the road. Two skid-marks, one of 77ft. and another of 21ft., were observed, together with a mark six feet in length beginning at the end of the former mark. Other marks appeared to have been made by an object having been dragged over consolidated clay.

Witness also produced plans show-

Witness also produced plans showing where both bodies were found, and detailed the position of numerous bloodstains in the intermediate vicinity of where the body was found at a point 16 feet below the road from whence bloodstains led. Sergeant T. Dunn detailed where a tyre lever and woman's clothing had been found near Mrs Hamilton's body.

Following the luncheon adjournment, Marie Elizabeth Owen Phillip, domestic, gave evidence that on the evening of the tragedy she saw Mrs Hamilton and Lloyd Moran leave the hotel and cross the road and walk in the direction of the Owharoa bridge.

Robert Archibald Lindsay and Trevor Charles Marshall, employees of the Ohinemuri County Council, Paeroa, deposed to finding the body of Mrs Hamilton in the course of a bridge survey. The body was devoid of almost all clothing.

Constable William Harper, Waihi, gave evidence that with Sergeant T. G Dunn he inspected the position of Lloyd Moran's body. On the roadway above he noticed that a good deal of blood was spattered.

The boy's body was fully clothed, but was covered with blood and dirt. The witness stated that in addition pressed the stored to be considered. The witness stated that in addition to the finding of the glass of the lenses of a pair of spectacles, he found fourteen pieces of headlamp glass of a motor-car about 300 yards from the Waikino Hotel.

THE PRIME MINISTER PAYS TRIBUTE TO "COBBER" KAIN

AUCKLAND HOMESTEAD Daring Exploits True To Highest Traditions Of The Royal Air Force

> By Telegraph—Press Association WELLINGTON, June 10.

The Prime Minister (the Hon. P. Fraser), paying a tribute to the late "Cobber" Kain, said: "I am sure that the death of the young New Zealand flying-officer, Edgar James Kain, D.F.C., has caused the deepest sorrow throughout the length and breadth of this Dominion, and that universal, heartfelt sympathy will be extended to his bereaved parents and other relatives.

"That sympathy, too, will be offered in full measure to the parents and relatives of all our brave men who have made the supreme sacrifice. We have all followed 'Cobber' Kain's brilliant and daring exploits in the Royal Air Force with intense pride, and his record against the enemy ranks with the best individual achievements of the R.A.F.

"This young New Zealander has indeed set a record which will inspire his fellow-countrymen now in the Air Force and all those who are waiting to go to the battlefront to take their places beside our lads who are already there. They are heroes, every one of them, fighting with all the dash, vigour, and endurance which has made the R.A.F. the finest air force in the world to-day.

"New Zealanders will unite in paying heartfelt tribute to the memory of 'Cobber' Kain and to those other brave young men who have fought and died that their Homeland may survive and, in full security, resume its ways of peace when the final victory has been achieved."

JOINT APPEAL STRENGTH AND WEAKNESS OF DEFENCES IN ITALY

"Navy Is Good, But Air Force Is Out Of Date," Says A Noted Journalist

"The Italian navy is good, but the army is badly equipped, the air force is out of date, there is no air raid precaution system, and war resources are lacking

Thus Mr G. Ward Price, the noted British journalist, sums up Italian defences in an article in the "Daily Mail," London. Mr Price has had many contacts with Mussolini, and has travelled widely in Italy.

"Apparently," he writes, "Mussolini is contemplating the most dangerous gamble by a European statesman since Napoleon the Third challenged Prussia in 1870 and lost. "Why does one of the shrewdest politiciars in the world consider taking such a risk? Because he believes Hitler will win a first-round knockout and wants to share the spoils of victory."

of victory."

Mr Price recalls that Il Duce did not conceal Italy's unpreparedness from Hitler when the Rome-Berlin Axis became an alliance in 1939, but he stipulated that his pledge of support would not be effective for three years. three years.

Formidable Arm

However, if Mussolini entered the war his navy would be a very for-midable arm as far as Britain was concerned, because the narrow mid-Mediterranean waters—only 300 miles across, with naval bases on both sides and the fortified island of Pantellaria in the middle—would be

She has between 110 and 125 submarines and flotillas of mases (surface craft, capable of 40 miles an hour, in which the Italians have specialised). Mr Price recalls that 90 submarines took part in a naval review in 1938. They manoeuvred skilfully, submerged simultaneously, altered their course 90 degrees and rose simultaneously between advancing warships containing Mussolini and his guests.

"With its fast torpedo boats, its score of cruisers, and its two new 35,000-ton battleships, the Italian Navy must not be underrated. It is more anti-Allies than the Army, because the Italian sailors remember the British naval demonstration in the Meditamencal divise the set in the motor-car raffle, and

Lack Of Machinery On Rivers Board Works

MINISTER'S EXPLANATION

Member For Napier Blamed

"A PRIVATE QUARREL"

Described by one member as "apparently a private quarrel between Mr Semple and Mr Barnard," the question of the use of machinery on the Hawke's Bay Rivers Board's projects was again a subject of discussion at the monthly meeting of the board in Napier yesterday.

A letter from the Hon. R. Semple, Minister of Public Works, exonerated the board for the lack of machinery on the work, and said that the blame should be placed on the Hon. W. E. Barnard, M.P. for Napier.

The Minister stated that during his illness and absence in Australia Mr Barnard had made representations to the Government, as a result of which the scheme had reverted to manual labour. Mr Semple said he had been unable previously to make the announcement, but now saw no reason why he should shield the member.

When I came out of hospital Mr Fraser informed me of Mr Barnard's protest against the use of these machines. Being too ill to take up my duties I went to Australia, where I remained for three months recuperating. While I was there the machines were shifted off the job unknown to me, through Mr Barnard's intervention, and when I came back the first thing I had to face in your district was a strike.

The report presented by the engineer (Mr G. Rochfort) showed that to date the sum of £205,209 15/10 had been spent on the scheme.

"The last 12 months have been noted for most excellent weather conditions and consequently work on the Ngaruroro scheme has proceeded apace, and is now completed," stated the chairman's report.

"There have naturally been certain difficulties to overcome and the arrangements for the provision of subsidy moneys have at times occasioned some anxiety. These matters, however, have been satisfactorily adjusted and there has been no hold up of the work "The year commenced with a debit balance of £1487 and finished with a debit balance of £3872. Although at first glance this would appear to be a serious retrogression, two factors must be taken into con-sideration. Firstly, the board en-deavoured to carry on with an absolute minimum increase of rates, but rising costs nullified the effort. "Secondly, it was found necessary

during the year to undertake fur-ther protective work at the Tutae-kuri mouth, not only for the benefit of the board's work, but also to protect the washout bridge approach

Caged Canaries THE PROBLEM OF JEW AND ARAB IN PALESTINE

> History Of Mankind Told In Fifty Feet Of Earth

The amazing story of the development of Palestine in recent years was the subject of an address by Mr J. W. Clapham at yesterday's luncheon of the Napier Rotary Club. Mr Clapham is a missionary with many years' experience of the country, and his views were heard with the keenest interest by members of the club.

It was a miracle that an intellectual people such as the Jews should come back to such a stony, impoverished country as Palestine, he began. It might be said that they went because they had been turned out of Europe, but that was not so. The movement had started long before Hitler came on the scene. It had started centuries ago, and had gathered speed, and Palestine was now a prosperous country.

Mr Clapham described how the Jews had bought up tracts of swamp and waste land from the Arabs and 2000 years, but he was "the world's alarm clock" and his movements at the present time were full of signifi-

The speaker said that the world's structure at the present time was creaking and groaning as if it were going to crack up. He was confident from a study of Biblical prophecy that the outcome would be the set-ting up of Palestine as the world's

CARRIED FITNESS SLIGHT REDUCTION IN THE TOTAL LEVY

Havelock North Town Board's Estimates

A CREDIT EXPECTED

"I feel that if we practise rigid economy, as was done last year, we can come through the period with a small credit balance," commented the chairman (Mr H. R. von Dadelszen) at last night's meeting of the Havelock North Town Board when the estimates for the year came under consideration.

The figures, it was pointed out, provided for a decrease of just under £100 in the total to be levied on the whole district. The estimates are: - General, special and water rates 94d in the £1 on the unimproved rateable value, and a harbour rate of 274-1000d in the £1, as compared with 9 5-16d and 271-1000d in the £1 last year. Gynerium's First Foals Look Good

(By MOTUROA)

Available to breeders at a very reasonable fee is the Richmond Park Stud sire Gynerium (3), whose first crop of foals this season have attracted considerable attention and tracted considerable attention and who appear likely to command good prices at the 1941 National Yearling Sales. These foals show that the andoubted quality of their sire is being faithfully transmitted and Gynerium looks like playing an important part in the bloodstock industry in Hawke's Bay in the next few years.

Eight years old this foaling, Gynerium is bred on almost identical lines with the 1939 Derby winner Blue Peter and another high-class performer in Fairstone. They are bred on the famous Phalaris-Chaucer Cross and while Blue Peter was by Phalaris from a Chaucer mare, Gynerium is by the Polymelus horse from Daniella, a daughter of Chaucer. This highly prized cross has been strengthened by the stoutness of the Son-in-Law blood and there is every reason to believe that this young horse will leave high. there is every reason to believe that this young horse will leave high

From a breeding perspective Gynerium cannot fail to attract attenerium cannot fail to attract attention and his sire, Phalaris, has been one of the most successful horses in recent years and his sons are proving just as successful at the Stud. Among the Phalaris sires who come readily to mind are Fairway, Pharos, Sickle and Pharamond, while Grandsons of Phalaris in Manna and Cameronian are highly regarded by English breeders.

HAWKE'S BAY HURDLES SHOULD BE GOOD

Strong Class Is Engaged

WILL NOT BE AN EASY RACE TO WIN

More Steeplechasers Available

(By MOTUROA).

Saturday's racing at Hastings provided some of the best sport seen in the Bay for some time and left the impression that next Saturday's racing here will be particularly good, especially as the Hawke's Bay Hurdles race is the main event

The Whakatu Hurdles was a great race all the way and showed up the hurdling talent in the Bay this winter as being well above the average of the past few years. A number of comparatively young horses were seen in action and the winner, Opoho, was making his debut over the battens. In view of coming events this hurdling strength is most encouraging and it promises to increase the interest already being shown in the Hawke's Bay Hurdles.

On Saturday next the novices seen out last week will be opposed by such high-class performers as Soho, Curie, and Blue Tiger, while it is possible that Kaiwaka and Du Maurier will also be on hand to test the hurdlers seen in action on the opening day of the meeting. The task of Soho and company is not going to be an easy one by any means, but their class cannot be denied and the presence of such good horses ensures the Hawke's Bay Hurdles of being well up to the standard of past years.

Soho and Curie both showed really good form at the recent Wanganui meeting, Curie beating all but Old Surrey in the Century Hurdles, and Soho running a great third to Hunting Lore, after being a little unlucky in the running. Kaiwaka won in minor classes at that meeting and also just previously at Awapuni, where Blue Tiger brilliantly scored in the Rangatira Hurdles. Du Maurier has been racing well on the flat.

It can thus be seen that the proven brigade, as well as the promising novices seen last week, will be in good heart for their engagement this Saturday. That alone will assure a keen contest and a fine race.

GOOD STAYING MARE.

QUEEN'S DREAM was a little disappointing on Saturday, but the most remarkable feature of her display was the fact that she was handy to the leaders throughout. She does not usually run her races that way and all her successes have been achieved by a late run in the Tide is susceptible to improvement, but her waywardness does not make her a betting proposition. Lovelilt and Son and Heir may not appreciate the extra distance in the Hawke's Bay Hurdles, but a big improvement can be expected from Limbohm, whose rider erred on Saturday by allowing him to drift. That race should serve to sharpen up Limbohm and, as he has been in the last quarter of a mile form that makes him a class above the ordinary steeplechase and now the the ordinary steeplechase and now that he has gained confidence in his jumping, the Gisborne gelding should go on to greater successes, so scored an all-the-way victory on him in the Hunt Cup last July. Weight-Carriers Of The Past

BIG BURDENS CARRIED

Present Champions Are Also Good

The recent big weights opportion d Padishah and Clarion Call have revived the old argument about big poundages under which good horses have won in the past, but it is safe to say Padishah's 12.12 in each of Grandstand and Wanganui Steeplechases shows how high he is regarded by the handicapper, even if he

Descended From Famous Okawa Family

(By MOTUROA).

Vascones, the impressive hack sprint winner at Hastings on Saturday, is one of the hardy sorts for she was one of the most-raced twoyear-olds last season. She took on the best class youngsters, too, so it is really remarkable that she has gone on improving this year and that to-day she is more solid all round than at any other stage of her career. Indeed, this Gascony filly leaves the impression that she will have to be considered in any sprint company at present

CURRENT COMMENT

By MOTUROA

Writing to Mr Alan C. Duff, of Hastings, the prominent Sydney owner and breeder, Mr C. B. Kellow, reports the death of his remarkable sire Heroic, through breaking a leg. Heroic was for seven consecutive years the leading sire in Australia and was a great racehorse in his day. Mr Kellow states that he has several of the stock of the Valais horse in work, the most promising of which is Pure Gold, who has won several good races this season.

Hard to Manage Jean Quex is reported to be a fine jumper in her schooling efforts at Greenmeadows, but she has fenced poorly in her two races to date over the battens. Jean Quex is not an easy mare to manage, but she looks likely to improve with experience and there should be a race for her 'before the season is over."
