United Press Association-Copyright. (Received July 10, 11.45 p.m.)

NEW YORK, July 10. The "New York Times" announces exclusively that Britain suggested to the United States the pooling of British and American, including Western Hemisphere, war material and resources, which would be allocated to various countries, excepting Germany, Italy, and Japan, or countries from which they could reach the totalitarian States.

The Washington correspondent of "The Times" says that the American response was "lukewarm" because it was felt that it would mean the extension of the British blockade to the Western Hemisphere, with all countries in it participating in the blockade, or else it would mean the extension of total war to the hemisphere with the consent or assistance of it.

It is understood that the proposal will be made individually to the Latin American countries and that it will include a proviso to continue an arrangement for the post-war period. The British, Australian, Canadian, and South African representatives met to discuss the allocation between the countries concerned of further supplies of aircraft becoming available to British countries.

Messrs Casey, Clapp, and Shea, of the aircraft construction branch of the Australian Supply Department, represented Australia, and Mr W. S. Robinson advised on aspects of the raw material supply to Australia.

The general problem was discussed for two hours, after which a sub-committee, on which Mr Clapp will represent Australia, began working out details, which will be cabled to the Governments in a few days.

OTHER VESSELS HIT

United Press Association-Copyright. (Received July 11, 0.45 p.m.)

LONDON, July 10.

The Italians admit the loss of one destroyer and one submarine in the battle with a British fleet in the Mediterranean east of Malta yesterday. In addition, they admit that the hit by a British 15-inch shell scored on one of their capital ships killed 29 and wounded 69 Italian sailors. A British communique says that a hit with a torpedo was made on an Italian cruiser by British aircraft.

There were no British casualties.

The torpedoing and sinking of an Italian U-boat by the British submarine Parthian in the Mediterranean on Tuesday is announced in a British Admiralty communique. The Italian U-boat, it says, was sighted on the surface at close range. The Parthian fired torpedoes and hit the Italian boat, the explosion throwing quantities of debris into the air. The bows of the Italian ship rose at an angle of 70 degrees and she sank stern first. stern first.

LOSS TO NAZIS

Norway has been a great disappointment to the Nazi invaders, writes Biarne Braatoy in the "Daily Herald.

They had expected to be received with open arms. Their commanders had not counted on any losses.

Instead and despite treachery within, they were met with resistance. They lost some of their most valuable ships.

The German naval attache at Oslo was heard to reproach a Norwegian bitterly with the sinking of the cruiser Blucher at the entrance to Oslo harbour. He had good reason to be concerned. Among the 1500 men lost on board were the advance us and most useful to the enemy is the secret agent who is able to travel unmolested between England and the Continent. In 1914-18 spies disguised themselves as neutral commercial travellers, soldiers and sailors and even Red Cross nurses. A pretty girl traveller was successful—for a time. She was a dan cer and singer, passing under a French name, and scored a "hit" as an entertainer at soldiers' camps in England. She must have col-lected a vast amount of information, and doubtless she delivered mes sages when she crossed the Channe to perform at camps in France. There a staff officer recognised her as the wife of the German gardener he had employed before the war. An inquiry established the fact that she had betrayed a military secret which had resulted in half a batta-

William Powell And Myrna Loy

That uproarious, mystifying and inimitable screen couple, "Mr and Mrs Thin Man," personified by William Powell and Myrna Loy, are back again in the latest adventures of a series which has taken the entire country by storm and will open at the Regent Theatre, Hastings, tomorrow.

The new picture, titled "Another Thin Man," unfolds an even more novel mystery plot than any of its popular predecessors, with the action even more fast-paced and the dialogue more rib-tickling than even. Powell once again enacts the unperturbed and debonair Nick Charles who takes his sleuthing lightly but proves himself to be as much of a master mind as the greatest of both single popular by the provides joyous, light hearted entertainment. The seventh birthday of the Hastings Townswomen's Guild was celebrated in very happy fashion yesterday afternoon, when the Oddfellows' Hall, Hastings, was filled to capacity with old and new members and visitors.

The stage presented a very gay appearance with lovely flowers arranged most artistically by members of the gardening circle. On the president's table was a cloth beautifully embroidered in shades of apricot, orange, and yellow that matched the bowl of Iceland poppies arranged with nandena foliage.

At one side was a smaller table on which stood the handsome birthday cake beautifully iced in apricot and green and decorated with seven bright candles. Other flowers included a green bowl of mauve and white helibores and huge bowls of lovely pink blossom.

The president of the guild (Mrs A. C. A. Hyde) presided, and with her was the secretary (Mrs Bruce Baumgart).

INQUEST HELD

Death Of Haumoana

A verdict of accidental death was returned at an inquest held in Na-pier yesterday on the death of John Pallesen, aged 23, of Haumoana. The deceased died on June 27 as a result of injuries received when he was crushed by a fall of clay and thrown against a metal scoop while working on his father's property at Haumonne on his latier's property at Hau-moana.

Mr J. Miller, S.M., presided at the inquest. Evidence was given by Peter Pallesen, father of the deceased, Constable G. W. Murray, Dr G. E. Waterworth and Trevor Pallesen, brother of the deceased.

The evidence showed that the ac-cident occurred while the father and

Collection

THE MAIL SERVICE

Alteration Effected At Napier

In future the street mail boxes will be cleared only once daily, at 1 a.m. instead of twice daily as in the past. The measure is directed to effecting an economy in petrol and labour.

The 1 p.m. collection, which has now been deleted, has never been particularly important so far as suburban areas are concerned, and is mainly intended for business people who wish to send mail by the 4.24 p.m. train. Those who wish to use this mail will in future be required to post their letters at the Chief Post Office before 3.30 p.m.

Letters posted at suburban boxes are mostly of a social nature, and it is not considered that a delay of a few hours would be a serious consideration in most cases.

To make a complete collection of the mail in Napier involves a 16-mile journey, and uses about a gallon of petrol. Although the saving is small so far as this town is concerned, when taken as an aggregate over the whole of the Dominion is not inconsiderable.

FRENCH ADMIRAL WHO LOVED HIS WARSHIPS

Darlan Created A Navy, Then Saw It Brought To Destruction

From the sorry story of the French capitulation and the Bordeaux Government's agreement to surrender its navy and air force to the enemy, one at least of France's wartime leaders seems to have emerged with credit

This is Admiral Darlan, Commander-in-Chief of the French Navy, who, according to a well-known American journalist, before he joined the Government issued secret orders to his ships that they must not be allowed to fall into the hands of the Germans or Italians. In issuing such an order he must have known that there was every likelihood that he would suffer for it.

Since then Mr Alexander has recounted how he appealed in vain to Admiral Darlan not to hand over the fleet. The two stories may not be as conflicting as they sound because the journalist who reported the giving of the "no surrender order related that Darlan said that thereafter he would not be free to do as he liked and ordered that future commands, even if signed by him, be disregarded. Mr Alexander's appeal was clearly made after Darlan's order is said to have been

Navy consisted of 178 vessels and Darlan is regarded by the French as their greatest modern naval leader, a man outstanding both as seaman and organiser. So much was this so that he was the first holder of the rank of Admiral of the Fleet since 1870 and when he was so promoted new regulations as to flag, salute and badge had to be made. He is still on the sunny side of 60, in contrast with the advanced age of the men mainly responsible for France's giving in.

the Legion of Honour for his gallantry when fire broke out in the training ship Jeanne d'Arc when he was a member of her instructional staff.

By 1914 Darlan was 33, and, with the British Navy bearing the brunt of the war at sea and French shipyards concentrating on making heavy armaments rather than ships, he was finally given command of a naval artillery unit on the Western Front. This he led till the end of the war. In the German advance of 1918 his division was overrun and for a week Darlan and his mobile naval guns waged a private war on the enemy.

After the armistice he was back on the water, first of all in command of the Rhine flotilla. By 1922 he had attracted the attention of Briand and was marked out for promotion. As commander of the nilots' school, he grew to know the French coasts intimately and enhanced his reputation for daring and fine seamanship. A spell in an administrative post followed, after which he spent two happy years cruising the world in command of his old friend, the training cruiser Jeanne d'Arc.

Men Intensively Trained

later promoted Admiral of the Fleet. In this high post he set himself out to perfect the modern fleet which France had been building for some years and saw to it that his men were intensively trained and efficient.

No other fleet, savs Captain Tuohy in an article on Darlan, spent so much of peace time on manoeuvres, with the crews constantly put to WAIROA.

FRIDAY, JULY 12, 1940. AMERICAN FREEDOM

Astronomical figures had to be used by President Roosevelt when he asked authorisation from Congress to expend 4,848,171,957 dollars for the defence of that freedomloving country.

There is a famous advertisement of two ragamuffins sniffing up the savoury odours of a succulent banquet of food as they stand outside in the cold, and although we are not ragamuffins nor have been left completely out in the cold, the mouth-watering effect of the American appropriations is none the less real.

It is altogether tantalising to read President Roosevelt's statement when he said: "We have seen nation after nation, some weakened by treachery from within, succumb to the force of the aggressor. We see great nations still gallantly fighting against aggression, encouraged by the high hope of ultimate victory." And he went on to say: "We will repel aggression . . . against the United States or the Western Hemisphere."

While we have every reason to be entirely grateful for the substantial material assistance being rendered by the United States to Great Britain, the logical implications of the present situation compel the query: "Is there, in the long run, any final distinction between the possible defence of America in the future and the actual defence of Great Britain at the present time?"

Surely it is a legitimate statement, and not a mere matter of logical quibbling, to say that at this moment Great Britain is defending the United States. If Great Britain succeeds, as we all believe that she will, in driving the invaders from her shores and in destroying once and for all the blonde beasts of Europe, civilisation in general will be saved and America will have nothing to worry about.

Closely following this line of reasoning, it would seem to be a reasonable proposition that if America fears a British defeat-witness the enormous expenditure for her own defence—a speedier and more effective method of ensuring a British victory would be to send every possible ton of material to aid in the achievement of that result.

It may be that the United States sees herself in the role of the ultimate crusader who will restore the situation in a stricken Europe by waging war in her turn on the aggressors, but in the meantime we have had nothing but indications of America's purely defensive measures.

None of the British people on the other side of the Atlantic or of the Pacific will wish anything but success to the most elaborate and costly defensive measures that may be adopted by America, for they know that in the now unlikely chance of a British defeat, the United States would be called upon to fight or go under, with the consequent loss, in the latter alternative, of all that decent men and women have striven for for thousands of years.

America is proud of her freedom, but the freedom enjoyed by any country is exactly parallel to the freedom enjoyed by any individual. The only true freedom is to do the right thing within the limits of the laws governing right dealing. There are higher laws than national policy which govern the possibility and which regulate the existence of national freedom. America, in terms of national policy, is free to stand out of the war, free to say, as President Roose. velt said: "We will not use our arms for a war of aggression: we will not send men to take part in European wars"; but America, in terms of the higher implications of what freedom really means, has no justification for an unqualified statement of any such kind.

During the course of a European war, as the Americans learned last time, anything may happen which may make it imperative to stand to the defence of the country's freedom —for not even American freedom is confined within American

If President Roosevelt, many are feeling, could confine himself to informing the world as to the extent of the preparations that are being made by his great country to avoid any possibility of attack and could at the same time tone down his statements as to the possibility of intervention in European wars (for even he cannot be too sure), there would be a more comfortable feeling in the hearts of those who, together with their kindred all over the world, are taking part in the desperate struggle for the preservation of that kind of liberty which knows no country, race, or creed, but which is the common heritage of all self-respecting men and ister of Finance should seek the cooperation of holders of overseas investments who, he was sure, would be only too pleased to grant it. There were classes of overseas investment that were readily saleable on every he was sure that if anything were

A NEW FUND

Mr Fraser Gives His Blessing

By Telegraph—Press Association. INVERCARGILL, July 11. Appreciation of the spirit of patriotism prompting the suggestion for the opening of subscription lists for the purchase by New Zealand of fighter 'planes for Great Britain has been expressed by the Rt. Hon.

The suggestion was made a short time ago in Southland, and Mr Fraser has now sent the following message to the "Southland Times"

Minister (the Rt. Hon. P. Fraser), moving that select committees of the House should be empowered to sit on nonsitting days, said that it was impossible to forecast the future of the session.

"We may adjourn from time to time," he said, "but it may last this year or beyond this year. There will be no proroguing for a considerable period.

"I think it desirable to keep Parliament in session even if the work of Parliament is exhausted, in case any emergency arises in the international situation."

The splendid spirit of patriotism and generosity shown by the proposal to appeal for funds for the purchase of aeroplanes for presentation to the United Kingdom Government is greatly appreciated by the Government. I trust, however, that it will be realised by you and those associated with you that moneys subscribed for this purpose will not, in fact, have the very desirable result of actually adding to the total air strength, for the reason that the Empire and other factories and ammunition works are already at full capacity.

"Nevertheless, a voluntary contribution of funds will be in itself a still further evidence of the national de ermination to prosecute the war to a successful conclusion and the Government will be pleased to facilitate the making of contributions.

"I would like to point out that, under the patriotic purposes emergency regulations, this is a patriotic purpose and that the only bodies a uthorised to appeal to the public are the National Patriotic Fund Board and various provincial patriotic councils.

Endorsement "I am immediately communicating with the National Patriotic Fund Board and the National Patriotic Council urging them to take up the existing proposals in this direction and, where necessary to co-operate for the purpose of this particular effort."

Almost £1000 were subscribed in Southland to-night since the receipt of Mr Fraser's reply.

Railway Expenditure It had been suggested, said Mr Semple, that railway expenditure could be cut down. The Minister referred to the four main lines now under construction. Before 1936, the amount spent on the Dargaville line was £450,000, and since then the present Government had spent for the four main lines are suggested.

Cullen (Hawke's Bay) said that despite the Opposition criticism the Budget had been well received in the country. Many people had expected worse, including many followers of the National Party, who had been pleased to hear what a moderate Budget the Minister of Finance had to read.

Mr Cullen suggested placing farm workers on small farms of from four acres upwards according to the quality of the land. He estimated the cost at about £450 for land, fencing, housing, etc., and this would mean a rent of about 18/3 a week.

The total expenditure on all these lines to date was £5,832,290, and the extimated amount required to complete them was £1,619,140.

Fourteen German bombers and fighters were brought down, and 23 were so damaged that they would be lucky to reach their bases, during extensive daylight air raids on Britain to-day. The raids lasted all day, and in one area 30 German bombers appeared with a large escort of fighters. A spectacular battle followed.

Altogether, the raid was the most costly, from the German point of view, yet made on Britain, although there were a number of British civilian casualties.

It is officially stated that the raids were part of Germany's attempt to close the Straits of Dover to British shipping by a continual aerial offensive. They were on a vaster scale than any previous daylight attack and were directed against a British convoy, but the successful interception by British fighters scattered them and sent at least 11 down in flames, damaged several others, and chased the remainder homeward.

"For the purposes of the present war, Patriotic Councils have been set up in the various centres under a system of national control. At the outbreak of this war your executive immediately offered its services to the Government, then to the National Patriotic Committee, and we have now received a reply from the Prime Minister, whose letter reads as follows:

"'I very much appreciate the spirit of helpfulness in which the offer is made, and, on behalf of my colleagues and myself, I would like you to convey to your members our sincere thanks. Flying Nell from Masterton is one that instantly appeals; also Rexminda, owned by Mr P. Ratcliffe, of Wellington. This dog ran wonderfully well in the N.Z. Mr Oakley, the Arts Master at the Napier Boys' High School, gave a most interesting address to members of the Napier Round Table Club at their fortnightly luncheon this week, his subject being "The Fine Arts," with more particular reference to painting.

Mr Oakley presented his subject in a way which provided members with a great deal of very interesting matter, traversing as it did the history of art, its earlier forms and the meaning which in pre-historic times was attached to them.

The speaker vividly described the perfection of the Parthenon, an ancient Grecian building supposed by many to be the most perfect building ever designed. Of particular interest was Mr Oakley's description of many of the older paintings and of many of the older paintings and sculptures, and the points to be regarded in assessing their merits. A short history was also presented of some of the better known early Italian painters, together with their

At the conclusion of Mr Oakley's address, the chairman expressed the hope that at a future date the speaker would be able to continue his talk and deal with modern maters and their works, a hope that was heartily endorsed by all present.

Hastings Mayor Appeals For Big Response

VALUABLE WAR EFFORT

An appeal for more land for the scheme of increased production at Hastings was made by the Mayor (Mr G. A. Maddison) at yesterday's meeting of the Hastings Borough Council. "Although I have appealed through the Press several times, the response has been practically nil," he said. "We must have this land, and I appeal to the people to realise the necessity. What a valuable and rich contribution to the war effort, to our national life, and to Britain's national life they can make if they give these sections."

The possibilities of a new and rising out of the scheme were enorvaluable industry in seed production nous, said Mr Maddison. He was sure that Hastings could benefit im measurably if the scheme were developed to the fullest extent.

The position facing New Zealand regarding supplies of sugar-beet, pea, bean and carrot seed was causing the authorities a good deal of concern, continued Mr Maddison. He had learned that there was no mangold seed overseas available for export to this Dominion.

Concentrating on Seed

In view of this, it was decided that Hastings should concentrate on the production of seed both to be used in the Dominion and sent to the Motherland. At least 30 or 40 acres were wanted in the borough for the scheme, said Mr Maddison. He had learned that land in Hastings would produce three to four tons an acre in mangold seed, bringing about £85 a ton. ing about £85 a ton.

Mangolds seedea every second year, consequently it would be necessary to use pitted mangolds in the first year of planting, said Mr Madist year of planting years are said years. dison. This crop would need to be planted this month, consequently it was obvious that other than hand labour would have to be used. The smaller areas would be dug, but the large areas would be dealt with by mechanical implements.

Voluntary Labour

Mr Maddison said that in the later stages of the scheme voluntary lab-our should be invited to assist. In the initial stages properly organised labour would be used five days a week, absorbing large numbers of seasonal workers who were now un-

"When harvesting time comes, of course, we will want and expect to get voluntary labour," said Mr Maddison. "The people will be given the opportunity of coming forward and rendering a very fine service to their country."

Mr A. Lowe, supporting the scheme, said he was well acquainted with the potentialities of Hastings soil, and he was sure that the plan would be most successful.

The council decided to provide finance to meet preliminary costs in connection with the scheme. This will be refunded to the council when the crop is sold.

KENA SURVIVES PROTEST IN PARLIAMENTARY

Fine Finish At Trentham

SLEEVELESS COMPLETES FLAT DOUBLE

Lovelilt Annexes Steeplechase

("Daily Mail" Special Service.)

WELLINGTON, July 11.

A close third last year to Tidewaiter and Lady Montana, the Auckland gelding Kena prevailed in the Parliamentary Handicap to-day as the result of a long-sustained run from the six furlongs. Kena finished with rare determination to snatch a narrow victory from Philemup, who was practically the outsider of the field. It was a wonderful finish, however, for Winsome Lu came home brilliantly on the outside to be only a neck further back, with Sly Fox right up beside them.

Interference by Kena was alleged by the connections of Philemup, but the appeal was dismissed.

Philemup hung on better than in any of his previous races and it looked as if he might have won had his run been delayed a trifle longer. He was sixth into the straight, but he dashed to the front at the false rail and succumbed only in the last couple of strides. Winsome Lu ran her usual consistent race and did well, as she had consthing him to the dashed to the false of the straight around the last couple of strides. had anything but a good run and then had to go right around the bunch as they straightened up. Sly Fox ran his best race for some months. He was well back in the early stages, but he showed up wide out on the track as they made the home turn. He followed Kena through at the false rail and looked dangerous at the distance, but he just weakened at the death he just weakened at the death. Gaelic Song ran a good race, as did Lazybones, who made the running to the false rail with Amigo. The latter stopped to a walk in the last quarter, but Lazybones hung on for sixth from Dark Eagle and Aurora's Star, both of whom had really every chance.

Any chance that Classform had was extinguished at the start. She was squeezed back when the tapes went up and was last to the mile, where she made a bold effort to go up on the outer. She could LOVELILT scored her most important victory to date when she annexed the Matai Steeplechase yesterday. The Gisborne mare narrowly defeated the long-priced Lactose in this £500 race.

British Isles lasted to the sod wall where Tigreterre hit hard, when making a run, and lost his rider. Lactose jumped through fast then to take up the initiative, leading on to the far turn from Small Boy and Dozie Boy who were just clear of Lovelilt, British Isles and Gay Boa. Lovelilt jumped the penultimate fence better than Dozie Boy and ran up to Lactose but Dozie Boy joined them as they randown to the last fence, with Gay Boa also handy.

Once over the last fence Lovelilt and Lactose had the finish to themselves, Lovelilt just holding off Lactose. Dozie Boy was a good third, just clear of Gay Boa. Half a furlong away came Surcoat (who was never dangerous), and Small Boy (who tired badly in the last half mile).

She was squeezed back when the tapes went up and was last to the mile, where she made a bold effort to go up on the outer. She could not sustain the effort, however.

GAELIC SONG was the smartest from Philemup, Dark Bagle, Winson Lu, Aurora's Star, Cherokee, and Amigo, but the last-named was rushed through to take over at the nine full post of the fall of the straight and the relation of the course from the cou

One For Ngatarawa

Poutatau made practically all the running in the Trial Plate and, despite the fact that he was badly drawn at the barrier, he finished full of running and decisively beat Black Majesty and Native Chief, the finish thus being an all-Hawke's Bay result.

Black Majesty appeared to be actually the first to move, but Poutatau had taken up the running to lead on to the course proper from Black Majesty, Deflation, Silver Shekel, Batsham and Vienna. Silver Shekel made a short-lived dab at the false rail, but quickly retired and it was left to Black Majesty and Native Chief (who came on the inner) to make a race of it.

den by the successful Auckland horseman Jack McRae, Tidewaiter, attended the pace-maker, Esperance Bay, throughout and he buried the field for pace in the run home. His win raised H. Dulieu's tally to 49 training successes this season, thus placing him in a position where he may create a fresh Dominion training record.

Very Glad tossed out at the first fence, leaving Bisquit and Esperance Bay to make play to the six furlongs from Tidewaiter, Tide, Monipere, Saccone and Pekoe. Jack Tar, as the result of a faulty jump at the first, was tailed off. Esperance Bay jumped to the front at the six, while Tidewaiter joined Bisquit and Mataroa ran up fast to join Saccone and Monipere. Esperance Bay was still going well across the top, but Mataroa ran through fast and he and Tidewaiter reached the pacemaker at the last fence. They landed on terms, with Jack Tar joining the issue, Tidewaiter however, showed his superiority on the flat and was going away to beat Jack Tar, while Mataroa just worried Esperance Bay out of third money, with Monipere close up. At intervals came Saccone, Pekoe (who was never going right) and Smoke Screen.

Jack Tar had a let of ground to Jack Tar had a lot of ground to make up in the last five furlongs and put up a good performance, while Mataroa who was making his debut as a hurdler, also impressed. Both are likely to go on impressed.

likely to go on improving.

Dulieu Again

"Horrie" Dulieu led in his 50th winner for the season when Noble Fox, at long odds, scored narrowly in a desperate finish in the Seatoun Handicap from the Hawke's Bay trio, Lucullus Boy, Chandlery and Harina. Noble Fox, whose recent races have been over middle distances, was ridden by Percy Atkins, who always had him near the front, to take over the lead at the false rail.

Race Away began well to lead Noble Fox, Military Maid, Migard, Gold Don and Lucullus Boy at the end of a furlong, and there was little change on to the course proper. Lucullus Boy Imade the first dab at Noble Fox when Race Away threw in the towel, while Harina made a vain effort to get through on the fence.

Lucullus Boy looked as if he had the measure of Noble Fox a furlong from home, but the topweight had a little left in reserve and he battled on to win by a neck, while Chandlery flashed up on the outer to run them to a head, cutting Harina out of third money on the post. City Song and Harina were at the head of the others and Viracious was again badly away.

just getting up for third, with White Rajah practically in line.

Aero King and Endorsement jumped away smartly from Sleeveless, Grey Honour and Orate, the last-named running up fast to join Endorsement near the five. They set a torrid pace and were clear across the ton from Alma, Aero King, Grey Honour, Sleeveless, Rebel Mate, Black Thread and White Rajah.

There was practically no change in and White Rajah.

There was practically no change into the straight, but Orate retired at the false rail to leave Endorsement to be hotly challenged on all sides.

Francis Drake, who lost his position early, came from the clouds to be close up in fifth place, ahead of Hunting Royal (who was never prominent), Black Thread, Majority and Red Cat. Aero King and Alma faded badly in the last three furlongs.

Anita Foe Improves

Anita Foe was unlucky in the running on the opening day and to-day she did not have a good passage, but she appreciated the smaller field in the Petone Handicap and shot through from sixth position at the false rail to silence the opposition a furlong from home. She won like a good class filly and is now out of hacks.

Sheeny also came home well for second from Don Quex, who just kept Arabic out of the money. The big disappointment of the race was Kilometre, who was well enough placed all the way. He put no dash into his finishing effort and was well back at the post. Little Robin had too much ground to make up under his big Anita Foe Improves ground to make up under his big weight.

Tolaga began slowly, but he was rushed past the field to take up the lead at the end of a furlong, being two lengths clear at the half mile from War Cloud, Don Quex, Vadanoe, Arabic (moving up fast), Kilometre, Captain Bruce and Sheeny.

Tolaga was still clear around the bend and he led into the straight from Arabic, Don Quex, War Cloud, and Kilometre, with Anita Foe and Sheeny looming up on the outer. The leaders compounded at the false rail and Anita Foe went through to win decisively from Sheeny, while Don Quex and Arabic finished practically on terms.

WELLINGTON, July 11.

The winter meeting of the Wellington Racing Club continued at Trentham today in fine but overcast and cold weather. There was another large attendance and the track was a little drier than on Tuesday, but still heavy and holding.

The totalisator handled £59,979/10/-, against £57,366/10/- on the second day

The totalisator handled £59,979/10/-, against £57,366/10/- on the second day last year, an increase of £2613. The total for the two days is £120,611/10/-, compared with £114,707/10/-, an increase so far of £5904.

T. Green, the rider of Deflation in the Trial Plate, was suspended from race riding for one month for careless riding in causing interference to Boloyna. Mr W. R. Shattock, owner of Philemup (second), entered a protest against Kena (the winner) after the Parliamentary Handicap on the grounds of interference. The protest was dismissed.

Ngatarawa Youngster May Go Further

(By MOTUROA)

Hawke's Bay punters threw in for a good win on Poutatau in the Trial Plate yesterday and they were never in any real danger of defeat; the Colossus gelding led practically from end to end and stalled off all challengers with ease. It was a victory that suggested that Poutatau is likely to run through back company likely to run through hack company before the new season is far advan-ced, and it would not surprise to see him succeed over middle distances later on, for he certainly finished on as well as anything in the Trial

Plate.
Poutatau has been in J. H. Jefferd's care since Easter and his only start from the Ngatarawa stable prior to the Wellington meeting was at Napier Park last month when the youngster made a big maiden field look very cheap. Poutatau is a neat gelding and it will surprise if this 100k Very cheap.
