WELLINGTON, July 15.

Charges of publishing subversive statements at Wellington on May 19 and 26 were denied by Douglas Murdoch Martin, sociologist and clerk, when he stood trial in the Supreme Court, Wellington to-day before the Chief Justice (Sir Michael Myers) and a jury.

You have all done splendidly and those of you who didn't get them all right should have a look at the answers to-day and see just where you made mistakes.

And this week we have a grand number of competitions, several of which have been sent in by Playmates, and I was so pleased to get them. First of all there is the Riddle-me-Ree for you, then a clause competition in which each counter. then a clever competition in which each answer is the name of a kitchen utensil, so you should guess them all. More jumbled names to puzzle you and still another competition where each question is answered by a letter of the alphabet. I am hoping that you will all try every competition because it's such a splendid way to gain lots of marks.

I expect you all had a lovely weekend this time with such beautiful sunny days. When you write I should like to hear just what you did. And don't forget letters to be at my office not later than Saturday and, if possible, on Friday.

"THE BAMBOO ROD"

SUMMARY OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS

George Fortescue, a dealer in Eastern goods, was given a present by a dying friend, who had told him that it was the greatest treasure that he possessed and would bring him wealth and happiness. It was a bamboo rod, and he made Fortescue promise never to part with it.

Due day when Fortescue was out a stranger came into the office and asked to see him. The stranger left his address with Wareton. After he had gone it was found that the bamboo rod was missing. Seeing how distressed his boss was, Wareton decided to go in search of the rod and followed the stranger's address. He found him in a dreadful hovel of a place.

He told Tom Tomlin that he wanted the Rod he had stolen. Tomlin attacked him, bound and gagged him, and, placing the Rod in his own pocket, prepared to go out.

He took Allan to a boat and rowed away. They were chased by a motorboat which came alongside their own. After a ferce struggle Allan and Tomlin were captured by three Chinese and taken by boat to their den at the water's edge, where Tomlin was searched and it was found that the Bamboo Rod had disappeared.

ACTION ADVENTURE AND DRAMA

"Draegerman Courage," "Song Of The Forge"

A thrilling drama of men's courage in facing death to rescue illfated comrades is depicted in "Draegerman Courage," a romance of the goldfields which is now at the Municipal Theatre, Hastings, with Jean Muir and Barton MacLane in the featured roles. In addition to its breath-taking action, the story carries a heart-warming romance in which a young girl battles at the side of her sweetheart through long, dreary days and nights to rescue the victims, one of whom is her father, from a caved-in mine. Included in the cast are Henry O'Neill, Robert Barrat, Addison Richards and Gordon Oliver.

The second attraction, "Song of the Forge," is a stirring drama of life in the English countryside. It is full of music, rollicking songs and choruses, while possessing a strong human story as true as life itself. Stanley Holloway appears in property of the same company.

TEETH INTO IT

Here, if ever there was one, is a rallying place for the determination and the consecrated will of the British peoples all over the earth to "suffer the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune," to fight, to endure and never to yield. That rallying place is the mind of Winston Churchill whose lineage, whose heritage and whose blood makes him to day the very personification of John Bull, who has no apologies for seeking to maintain the decent principles of human living by all means in his power and who has never yet learned how to let go once he has taken hold.

We may well be profoundly thankful for such leadership. The utterances of the British Prime Minister are those of a man who brushes aside the pettifogging political inessentials and who, when he speaks (in Carlyle's phrase) "not only strikes the nail on the head but with crushing force smites it home and buries it." We know where we are with Mr Churchill. So does the enemy. So, later will the world know, when the British people have fulfilled their destiny as the ultimate guardians of the ramparts of civilisation. We have never any need to seek to read between the lines of what Mr Churchill says. He is as clear as daylight, as open as a book. Unlike many of his political confreres in other parts of the Empire, he makes no veiled allusions to petty grievances about this or that. He sees himself as the embodiment of the British will to victory and speaks strongly, emphatically, unequivocally and truly.

For the stiffening of our moral muscle and the hardening of our determination he has just said words that have rung with a clarion note over the seven seas and that have awakened a corresponding response in the heart-strings of all Britons in the world. "We will not seek terms nor tolerate parley. We may show mercy. We will ask for none." How well he speaks the language of British hearts and consciences! Berlin heard that statement. Hitler had his ear glued to the receiver; and he heard this too: "Hitler has not yet been withstood by a great nation with a will and power equal to his

That was a courageous thing to say. From the point of view of international diplomatic relationships it might not be regarded as the acme of tact (for France, for instance, was listening, too). But Mr Churchill said it on the Miltonian principle of "Give Truth her head and let her guide where she will." He said it because it is true and because he knows, as few other lesser men know, that when he so speaks he has the British people solidly behind him.

He made it clear by implication that although the British people have as much love and veneration for the priceless historic treasures of which the metropolis of London is the world's largest storehouse, there will be no repetition of the "walk-in, walk-out" policy adopted in the case of Paris. Great Britain is willing to sacrifice everything she holds most dear on the altar of sacrifice if by so doing she can save the world from the poisoned fangs of the mad beast of Europe. The fight will be to a finish, not because Great Britain is out merely for self-preservation, but that she is determined, whoever may fall by the way or in the dust of the conflict, to do royal battle for the universal principles of justice, truth and freedom.

Great Britain is no rat in a corner, forced by terror to make a last bid for her life. Rather, the old lion is at bay, with her sturdy cubs around her, her eye wary and alert for every move of the enemy, ready and willing not only to defend her own but to sally forth and carry the battle forward into the enemy's territory. Hitler may regard himself as a great man but, it may yet be found that Churchill is a greater. Champions of the bruiser type have been defeated before now, and we may take heart and courage from the inspiring messages so forcefully delivered by the leader of the British people.

The battle is not always to the strong, nor is the race to the swift. Nor is it always true that "God is on the side of the big battalions." The inscrutable watch and ward of Providence is as a protective shield over the spiritual realities of which the bullies of this world know nothing

BE SILENT

Printed up on all the transport trains which carried the troops through France in the last war was this terse notice: "Be silent. The ears of the enemy are listening." That slogan needs to be carried into the minds of all loyal New Zealand

In our case "the enemy" may be those of our own household or they may be friends or casual acquaintances—those people who carelessly hand on inaccurate versions of bits and pieces of news, unconsciously distorting them so that they are eventually, by the passage from one to another, distorted out of all semblance to reality.

When the Prime Minister spoke over the air the other evening he made a special point of mentioning "rumourists," and what he said should be most carefully noted by all sections of the people. "Evil is wrought by want of thought." Our duty is clear, but it must be pointed out again and again.

That duty is to combat with all our power the irresponsible chatter of ignorant, however well-meaning, rumourmongers. The human failing to make a thrilling story out of a half-heard or partly understood item of news is being evidenced every day by people who love to find themselves the centre of attention for the time being, as possessing special information. The more sensational it is the more they revel in their task, and if it is not sensational enough it is never difficult to add a few splashes of colour here and there.

Such loose talk endangers morale. It is un-British and altogether reprehensible. Here is something that each and every one of us can do for our country. We can keep a guard on our tongues and also see to it that restraint is placed upon the foolish and unfounded utterances of others.

No governmental enactment can substitute for the work which must be done by the individuals concerned. This duty is in reality a test of citizenship which should be applied by everyone to himself and to those with whom he is associated or over whom he has influence. To track a scare rumour to its lair and to bring the culprit to book is a social duty which should not at any time be neglected. The present passing on of hearsay gossip and half-digested fantasies is a thing which cuts at the roots of public confidence at the very time that confidence should be most firmly established.

And so, be silent. Carried tales may cost lives.

RESEARCH ORCHARD

Following the explanation offered by the fruit assembly officer, Mr W. Benzies, concerning the deductions on case fruit in which alternate lay ers only were wrapped, the general committee of the Hawke's Bay Fruit growers' Association at its monthl meeting decided that it would be useless to carry the matter any further though it was recognised that the position was most unsatisfactory for growers thus affected. A year-togrowers thus affected. A year-to-year lease of the Havelock North re-search orchard had been approved by the Lands Department at a reduced rental, it was stated. In view of the desirability of continuing the important experiments which are being carried out there this was considered satisfactory.

Assembly Shed Transfer The transfer of the assembly shed, Karamu Road, Hastings, and the lease of the siding serving it, are now in hand and it is anticipated that become legal owners of the shed. It was decided to hold the asso ciation's annual meeting on Saturday, July 27. The report and balance sheet were submitted to the meeting and should be in the hand of all members by the end of the week. The balance sheet revealed a very satisfactory state of affairs, more particularly in view of present conditions. The committee decided to make a substantial contribution to the war effort being sponsored by the Hawke's Bay Provinical Patriotic

Army Fails To Set An Example

"We shan't seek terms or tolerate parley. We may show mercy; we shall ask for none," said the Prime Minister (Mr Winston Churchill) in a broadcast to-night.

He declared that any plan Hitler had two months ago must be entirely recast. "In order to meet our new position," he said, "we must prepare not only for the summer, but for the winter; not only for 1941, but for 1942." Then the war would, he trusted, take a different form from the defensive one in which it had so far been bound.

Britain was fighting by herself alone, but was not fighting for herself alone.

"Here, in this strong city of refuge, which enshrines the title deed of human progress, here, girt about by the seas and oceans, where the Navy reigns, and shielded from above by the staunch devotion of our airmen, we await undismayed the impending assault," he declared.

Mr Churchill said: "During the last fortnight, the British Navy, in addition to blockading what is left of the German Fleet and chasing the Italian Fleet, has had imposed upon it the sad duty of putting effectually out of action for the duration of the war capital ships of the French Navy, which, under the armistice terms, would have been placed within the power of Nazi Germany. The transference of these ships to Hitler would have endangered the security of both Britain and the within the power of Nazi Germany. The transference of these ships to Hitler would have endangered the security of both Britain and the United States. We therefore had no choice but to act as we did, and act forthwith. Our painful task is now completed.

Although the unfinished battle-which he described as preliminary ship Jean Bart still rests in a Moroc-can harbour and there are a number can narroour and there are a number of French warships at Toulon and in various French ports over the world, these are not in a condition or of a character to derange our preponderance of naval power. As long, therefore, as they make no attempt to return to ports controlled by Germany or Italy, we shall not molest them in any way." One Year Ago

Mr Churchill recalled his visit to France a year ago, when he saw the French Army parade down the Champs Elysees.

"No-one," he continued, "could forsee what course the future would bring. Faith is given as a help and comfort when standing in awe before the unfurling scroll of destiny, and I proclaim my faith that some of us will live to see a July 14 when a liberated France will once again rejoice in her greatness and her glory and once again stand forward as a champion of freedom and the fore the unfurling scroll of destiny, and I proclaim my faith that some of us will live to see a July 14 when a liberated France will once again rejoice in her greatness and her glory and once again stand forward as a champion of freedom and the rights of man.

"When that day comes, as come it will, the soul of France will turn with comprehension and kindness to those Frenchmen and French women who, in the darkest hour, did not despair of the republic."

Mr Churchill asked that no time or breath should be wasted in reproaches.

A Friend Smitten Down

"When a friend with whom a tre-mendous struggle has been faced is the unfurling should be a struggle has been faced is the concluded: "This is no war of chieftains, princes, dynasties, and national ambitions. It is a war of peoples and causes. There are vast numbers, not only in this island, but in every land, who will render faithful services, but whose names will never be known and whose deeds will never be recorded. This is a war of unknown warrriors.

"Let us all strive without fail, and the dark curse of Hitler will be lift."

may be necessary to make sure that the weapon fallen from his hands shall not be used by the common enemy, there is no need to bear malice because your friend, in agony and delirium, cries out.

"You must not add to his pain," Mr Churchill said. "You must work for his recovery. The association of interest remains.

"As long as our pathway to victory is not impeded, we are ready to discharge such offices of goodwill towards the French Government as may be possible, and to foster the trade and help in the administration of those parts of the French Empire which are cut off from captive France but maintain their freedom."

Subject to the exigencies of war,

Subject to the exigencies of war, Mr Churchill said, Britain would try to conduct herself so that true French hearts would glow at the way in which the struggle not only of France but of all the oppressed countries in Europe was carried on.

Steps to Liberation

"Every British victory," he said, "is a step towards the liberation of the Continent from thraldom. The war will be long and hard, and it is impossible to tell where it will spread."

It was certain that Furery not be ruled.

It was certain that Europe would not be ruled for long by the Nazi Gestapo; nor would the world yield itself to Hitler's gospel of hatred.

It was decided that in order to economise in this direction, the minutes of all meetings should be to the board instead of being circulated, and that order papers should be printed on both sides.

A similar request was received.

The time had come for Britain to stand alone in the breach and face the worst the tyrant's might and enmity could do, "bearing ourselves humbly before God, but conscious that we serve His unfolding purpose."

Two teams of 22 men equipped with shovels made an enthusiastic beginning on the preparation of land for utilisation under the Hastings Municipal Seed Cropping Committee's scheme yesterday. Four sections were to have received the men's attention, but threatening rain resulted in work being confined to the Justice Department section at the corner of Queen and Hastings Streets, and to the Nelson Park extension.

Despite several breaks caused by showers, the preliminary work in conjunction with clearing the Justice Department section was well advanced by nightfall. The three and a half acres of Nelson Park extension in Caroline Road was clear of tussocks and other obstructions ready for the rotary hoe.

An inspection of further sections offered for cropping was carried out yesterday by the fields committee comprising Messrs. J. W. Palmer, J. G. C. Mackenzie, D. Wilson and J. Wilding. When all sites have been inspected, it will be possible for them to plan the use of the land so as to obtain the maximum benefit. keen demand and recognised as an apprentice of merit.

Harold Young enjoyed a large measure of success while at Fordell and, at the conclusion of his apprenticeship he accepted a retainer from the late Sir George Clifford, president of the Racing Conference. He was later promoted to first horseman for the famous Chokebore Lodge and held that position for seven years, during which period for seven years, during which period he won all the important classics in

In 1916 he received a bad fall at Trentham off Maicara, which for ever left its mark, and in 1921 he was advised to go to Queensland's warmer and dry climate. However, his lung trouble did not improve, so he returned to the Dominion in 1929, He suffered ill-health for some years, this no doubt being accentuated by accidents, wasting and riding in thin silks under all weather conditions. UNIVERSITY INTENTION HAROLD YOUNG WON No Extra Payment Allowed For

Enlisted Members Of The Staff

> By Telegraph-Press Association AUCKLAND, July 15.

A statement that in spite of its previous decision to do so, no financial assistance could be given to staff members of the Auckland University College enlisting for military service was made by the president (Mr W. H. Cocker) at a meeting of the College Council.

He reported that the Government had forbidden the university authorities in New Zealand to make up the military pay of their staff members to salary scale.

"Three professors have enlisted or have signified their intention of enlisting, and other members of the staff are entering on military service," said Mr Cocker. "Several months ago the Government intimated that no university would be allowed to make any addition to the military pay of the members of its staff on active service, but that the colleges would be limited to making superannuation payments.

"Representations were made that in matters of finance, university colleges should be autonomous and therefore free to make arrangements as they think fit. The Government has now intimated that it intends to stand by its original decision, so that this council has no authority to give its members any

WAIROA. WAIROA.

Local golf enthusiasts were fortunate in the weather conditions over the week-end and although the links were soft in places, temperatures were mild. Some good scores resulted in the first qualifying round for the club championships.

A. Gibbs, scratch player, headed the list and for the second time this season handed in a score of 67, two strokes under bogey—a fine performance.

After discussion the following resolution was passed: "That expenditure on Public Works and similar activities be reduced to a minimum until such time as the soldiers return from the war, when accumulated funds could be used for the promotion of employment."

A further resolution stated: "If the expenditure on Public Works and similar activities was reduced at the present time an increased amount would be provided for the purchase of goods from overseas."

Mr Hugh C. Baird urged the conservation of steel for the use of munitions, pointing out that further hydro schemes would absorb large quantities of metal at a time when it could be put to a much more urg-merfield with 70 nett.

A stableford bogey played in conjunction with the qualifying round was won by Mrs Summerfield with 35 points. Other good cards were Mrs G. Mowat 34 points and Miss Shaw 33 points. The second qualifying and L.G.U. Medal round is to be played this week and the draw for Wednesday players stands as announced last week and the draw for Saturday players as under:

Clothes Drive On Saturday

LADY GALWAY GUILD

Relief Of British Refugees

COUNTRY COLLECTION

Very generous assistance has been afforded by the Director-General of the Post and Telegraph Department and his staff throughout the Dominion to an appeal made by her Excellency (Lady Galway) for clothing and materials for the relief of refugees in Great Britain. Her Excellency has stated that the only object of the Guild, which is comprised of voluntary women workers, returned soldiers and others, is to obtain the maximum help for refugees.

others, is to obtain the maximum help for refugees.

On Saturday, July 20, postal officers throughout the Dominion have agreed, at the request of her Excellency, to conduct a clothing drive for the collection of gift parcels for delivery to branches of the Guild. Rural boxholders are also being invited to donate parcels of clothing

Rural boxholders are also being invited to donate parcels of clothing and to leave them at their rural boxes for collection by the rural boxes for collection by the rural mail contractor. The parcels should be marked "Lady Galway Patriotic Guild Appeal." Rural mail contractors are co-operating by collecting parcels from rural boxes in the areas where they operate.

The general arrangement for the afternoon of July 20 is that each postman will cover his walk in company with two or three volunteer helpers. He will call at each house and pick up any gift parcels that the householders may prepare in response to this appeal. Private motorists are invited to co-operate with the Post Office in this work, and for the purpose they are asked to offer their assistance to the nearest Postmaster. To overcome any est Postmaster. To overcome any difficulties regarding petrol supply, each person making his car available for the collection of parcels will be handed a petrol coupon entitled.

The Boy Scouts' organisation throughout the Dominion is co-operating in this effort, and their services will be appreciated both by the householders and by the postal officials in view of the amount of visiting and handling of packages that will be entailed. that will be entailed

"I see from the papers," remarked a veteran clubman, "that they're smoking more cigars in England now than for years past." "They're welcome," said somebody else. "I'd sooner have my old briar than the best cigar going." "Same nere," chipped in the chap with the smart smoking cap, "nothing like a pipe—especially if it's crammed with "toasted"—preferably Navy Cut No. 3." "Tve never sampled "toasted", said the veteran, "something extra special?" "Yes. In fact it's 'toasted' first and other brands amongst the 'also ran'! Give it a go, Major, and as an old smoker, try Cut Plug No. 10 (Bullshead). It's full strength. Oh, and there's another toasted brand for the pipe—Cavendish—the sporting mixture, and two cigarette blends, Rivernead Gold and Desert Gold. You'd say they were imported if you didn't know better." "Well," said the veteran, "since they're all New Zealand grown and manufactured, you say, I suppose I can get them anywhere?" "Of course you can, old "I see from the papers," remarked Play in Your Yard." Needless to say, both were suitably attired for the occasion.

RISING MARKET FOR SHEEP

FIRM SELLING AT FEILDING

Strong Inquiry For Good Quality

At the Feilding stock sale last week lasses of sheep, both store and fat vere in strong demand and the market was very firm, with a rising tendency. Compared with the previous week, however, the quality was improved, and that factor had some bearing on the strong inquiry. In the store sheep section the first few pens soared to high prices, but as the sale proceeded the market settled down to values more in keeping with wn to values more in keeping with the quality.

The limited number of dairy cattle sold particularly well, with values for dairy cows reaching £13/10/- and Holstein heifers to £11/5/-. Boner cows made up to £4/10/-. Only a few pens of store cattle came forward:

Jumping Talent Analysed DID WE SEE THE NATIONAL WINNERS?

Padishah's Prospects Clouded

(By MOTUROA).

Last week's racing at Trentham practically rang down the curtain Last week's racing at Trentham practically rang down the curtain on the 1939-40 racing season, there being only a few minor fixtures to be decided in the next fortnight. However, the meeting increased the interest in the Grand National fixture at Riccarton next month, where the jumpers will be given their final and most exacting tests. The most disquieting feature of the Wellington meeting was the fact that Padishah went slightly amiss in running third in the Wellington Steeplechase and it may be a week or more before his connections can decide whether to take this great jumper to Riccarton or to treat him to a spell. It will be a great loss to the Grand National meeting if Padishah is not on hand to defend his jumping titles and much interest will be taken in the progress of the Hastings golding much interest will be taken in the progress of the Hastings gelding ir the next few days.

ir the next few days.

Clarion Call, who was unlucky to fall when winning the Wellington Steeplechase and who finished brilliantly for third under unfavourable conditions in the Winter Hurdles on Saturday, has proved himself still a really fine jumper. He is a National Steeplechase winner and twice runner-up in the National Hurdles, so he will be the star performer at Riccarton if Padishah does not recover in time.

The Wellington Steeplechase winner Chat is a fine little stayer, but she is not up to weight. However, she will have less to carry in the National Steeplechase than she had in the July Steeples on Saturday and being a stayer, she must be given some consideration if she can manage the stiffer Riccarton obstacles.

Ballybrit was produced only once at Trentham to run second in the Wellington Steeples, but he might do even better at Riccarton if he stands up to the necessary preparation. Wellington form places him miles ahead of Surcoat, Small Boy, Hirangi, Lactose and Gay Boa.

Indeed, on Wellington form, only Clarion Call, Padishah, Chat and Ballybrit can be given any chance in the National Steeples, their greatest danger appearing to be Slayer, who is reckoned to be a better horse all round than when he ran third last year.

BLUE TIGER, who made an exhibition of the July Steeples field by out-jumping and out-staying the opposition, is unfortunately not entered for the Grand National Steeple-chase, but he is in the Grand National Hurdles and, at the weights, the Hastings gelding must be accounted the hardest to beat.

Blue Tiger has been sparingly raced this winter and his gradual rise to the best class steeplechases suggests that the best has not yet been seen of Tiger Gain's half-brother. Indeed, even though El Meynell won the Trentham Hurdles decisively, Blue Tiger might have easily beaten him, but for one or two faulty jumps he made. He should have at least been second and he appeals as being a much better stayer than the Hunting Song gelding.

NATIONAL HURDLES' HOPE

DE FRIEND has not been produced this winter and has been out of the public eye since February, but reports from Gis-borne indicate that the Grand National Hurdles candidate is training on nicely. Last summer De Friend carried 12.0 to win the Ponsonby Hurdles in a canter and he came out on New Year's Day to dead-heat for second with Catalogue, a head away. ond with Catalogue, a head away from Royal Appellant in the twelve furlongs A.R.C. Handi-cap. De Friend is a dashing jumper and, despite his unorthodox preparation, it will not surprise to see him race well at Riccarton.—"Moturoa."

No stranger to Riccarton. Blue No stranger to Riccarton. Blue cliger ran a great race in Cottingmam's Grand National in 1937 when ittle more than a novice hurdler. Since then he has had a course of nunting and, as the result, he is a niles better jumper in every department. Therefore, if the handicapper s not unduly harsh, Blue Tiger hould cut a prominent figure next month.

A LIKELY NEWCOMER TIDEWAITER made his debut as a hurdler at Trentham last week, and, had he fenced with more confidence in the early stages of his race in the Vittoria Hurdles, it is probable that he would have gone close to winning.

Benefited by that experience, Tidewaiter came along in the last half mile of the Corunna Hurdles and won pointlessly from Jack Tar, Mataroa and Esperance Bay. His jumping in that race was uniformly good and it was a great pity that he was not engaged in the Winter Hurdles. However, the Tidal gelding is a Grand National candidate, together with his stable-mates El Meynell and Kaiwaka. Tidewaiter appeals to me as the real type of horse for a Grand National. As winner of the Avondale win and Blue Tiger should have no trouble in mastering the Riccarton fences.-"Moturoa." made history by winning his third Cup twelve months ago. Will his increasing years tell their tale?

Judging by his appearance and by the way he works at Awapuni, Catalogue is still a force to be contended with and he is a great advertisement for the hardiness of the stock of Lord Quex. He has never stripped brighter and it must not be overlooked that he has never yet been beaten over a mile at Riccarton.

Despite the fact that, since the last Winter Cup, Catalogue has won only the Hotham Handicap at Flemington, the veteran will have to expect substantially more than the 10.3 he carried to victory last August. Weight will stop a train and a casual glance through the Winter Cup entry list suggests that the field is stronger this year.

Catalogue's task will he his hardest LADY TINKLE WILL

ALTHOUGH he is not engaged in the Grand National Steeplechase on the opening day of the C.J.C. winter meeting, the Hastings jumper Blue Tiger will probably be given his winding up trial in the Jumpers' Flat. He should strip in great order for the Grand National Hurdles and, all going well, he is to take his place in the £800 Lincoln Steeplechase on the concluding day of the meeting. This is generally a fairly easy race to year.

Catalogue's task will be his hardest to date, and, while it may be beyond him, supporters of this remarkable horse can be assured that he will not go down without a terrific struggle.

IMPROVE

WALLY HUME produced that smart filly Lady Tinkle y once at Trentham last week and the daughter of Defoe might have given Royal Star II a sterner battle had she been better placed in the early stages of the Winter Oats. In this race Lady Tinkle had to make her run half a mile from home and she did well to get up for second. The natural corollory is that she will improve as the that she will improve as the re-sult of that race, for she had had only her outing at Otaki to attune her after a spell since the summer. Lady Tinkle has an undeniable chance in the Winter Cup, especially as she is still on a low mark in the handicaps.—"Moturoa."

REMARKABLE SUCCESS 186 Winners In Seven Years

Trainer

H. Dulieu's success at Trentham with El Meynell, Tidewaiter and Noble Fox at Trentham last week put him in an unassailable position on the winning trainers' list. Dulieu has trained 50 winners to date and, with horses engaged at the Manawatu Hunt meeting this week and a team booked for the Rangitikei Hunt meeting the following week, he would appear to hold bright prospects of creating a new Dominion record to beat T. R. George's tally of 52 in the 1935-36 season.

The Gisborne trainer, I. Tinsley, will have to be content with second place with a fine tally of 46 wins.

Dulieu put out his shingle as a trainer at New Plymouth in the 1933-34 season and at the same time was still holding a jockeys' licence—and still riding good winners. This young mentor had the satisfaction of topping the list in North Taranaki for his first season and since then he has not been headed.

He trained 16 winners in the first season, 20 in 1934-35, 27 in 1935-36,

He trained 16 winners in the first season, 20 in 1934-35, 27 in 1935-36, 23 in 1936-37, 19 in 1937-38, 31 last season and his tally this season brings his training successes up to 186. "Horrie" Dulieu, who served his time with that successful Waikato trainer, the late Frank Loomb, was a successful horseman in his day. He won the Grand National Steeples on Aurora Borealis, the Grand National Hurdles on Mangani, being also associated with the latter in his Wellington Steeplechase success.

THE NORTHERN WINNER

SOUTHERN reports leave the impression that the Great Northern Hurdles winner Streamline has made good progress since his very easy victory in that race with 10.0. Streamline was staying on strongly at the finish and he will come in at about 10.7 or 10.9 for the National.

Streamline is one of the best-bred impress engaged in the National. Hurdles. Not only is he a half-brother to those two great race horses Waterline and Fast Passage, but he is by Day Comet, one of the most successful sires of jumpers in the Dominion in the last quarter of a century.

Day Comet, who was by St. Frusquin. St. Simon's best son, has enriched the jumping blood in New Zealand in recent years. Irish Comet and Aurora Borealis credited him with Northerns; Mangani won the Wellington Steeples; while Wiltshire (twice), Mangani and Aurora Borealis won Nationals for him.

Streamline has been "set" for the Northern-Grand National double and, with the first "leg" completed, there will be a. heavy backing for him at Riccarton. MANAWATU HUNT CUP STEEPLE-CHASE, of £140, about 2½ miles.—Dozie Boy 10.10, Lady Callaghan 10.7, Blue Steel, Ruenzori 10.5, Tigreterre 9.11,
