ENEMY RAIDER'S END

Three Germans Shot Down In Channel

SPECTACULAR AIR BATTLES

(British Official Wireless) (Received July 17, 7.30 p.m.)

RUGBY, July 17.

One Hurricane pilot shot down two Junkers 88 bombers into the English Channel on Tuesday afternoon. At about the same time other Fighter Command pilots patrolling in Spitfires off the north-east coast of Scotland destroyed a Heinkel 111 bomber.

The Hurricane pilot attacked the first Junkers above the clouds. After two bursts of machine-gun bullets he saw the enemy bomber start a 9000ft. death dive and watched it drop out of the cloud-layer into the sea, where it sank at once.

As he climbed again the British pilot saw another
Junkers 88 fly out of the clouds. Again he attacked and the Junkers dived to within 50 feet of the sea and then crashed. Two German airmen from the second Junkers climbed into a rubber boat. Seeing a tug a short distance away, the Hurricane pilot flew backwards and forwards between it and the rubber boat until the Germans were picked up.

Three Spitfires engaged the Heinkel and in an attempt to escape the bomber dived steeply with the Spitfires in pursuit. The Heinkel's rear gunner fought back fiercely and a Spitfire was hit by a bullet in one wing. After the British fighters had fired bursts into the bomber it glided down into the sea. Two of the crew escaped in a rubber boat and were rescued by an R.A.F. launch.

SYDNEY, July 17.

A raider was seen over a town in the south-east area on Tuesday night. Apparently it became aware of the presence of R.A.F. fighters and dropped several bombs, which fell into an area of mud. The bomber was attacked over another town by fighters, one of which fired a burst into its undercarriage. The raider wobbled and appeared to come down in the Channel.

Quickly Routed Five Heinkels attacking a merchant ship off the south-west coast of England were scattered by a Sunderland flying-boat of the Royal Australian Air Force operating with the Coastal Command. Firing only 120 machine-gun bullets, the Sunderland severely damaged one Heinkel and routed the others.

The Heinkels were bombing the ship when the Sunderland captain spotted them several miles away. He climbed into the clouds, and the first the Heinkels saw was the large flying-boat diving at them.

The Sunderland's front gunner put a burst into one Heinkel. Then, as it banked and turned to port, he gave it another burst in the belly. The Heinkel went into the clouds.

Kept Well Away

One of the other Heinkels approached the flying-boat from astern, but remembering the string of four guns there, would not come nearer than 1000 yards.

That was the end of the combat, though two of the Heinkels shadowed the Sunderland for a few minutes.

Valuable Targets Sought Out And Bombed Mercilessly

AIRMEN'S REPORTS

(British Official Wireless) (Received July 17, 7.30 p.m.)

RUGBY, July 17.

Adverse weather conditions greatly hampered British crews in the course of operations on Monday night by the Aircraft Bomber Command. To reach their objectives the British raiders had to fly almost continuously through severe thunderstorms, heavy rain and sleet. Widespread low clouds made detection of the target most difficult and several raiding crews, after coming as low as they could, remained circling over the target areas for an hour or more until a gap in the clouds enabled them to locate the bomb objectives.

Nearly four and a half tons of high-explosives, as well as a large number of incendiary bombs, were dropped on the oil storage installation at Hanover in a series of raids beginning shortly after midnight and lasting about half an hour. Many hits were scored and, in addition to fires started by the incendiary bombs, a big fire followed the explosion of

A large blast furnace at Hamborn was left blazing after two divebombing attacks. In the first attack a direct hit resulted in a violent explosion. A few minutes later the target was again bombed from a low level and this time the bomber's crew saw a great fire break out. An intense red flame capped by a long plume of dense black smoke flared up to a height of nearly 200 feet, clearly illuminating the furnace with its three tall chimneys and clusters of surrounding sheds. and clusters of surrounding sheds.

Labour Difficulty

The main essential cause of the sheepfarming industry suffering four was found by the Commission to be that the reward in sheepfarming compared unfavourably with that of labour in other industries competing

Another blast furnace was at tacked during the night and, though visibility hampered observation of the pasture observation of the results, considerable damage is believed to have been caused.

An aircraft equipment store at Paderborn was raided for the second night in succession, a bomber's crew arriving over the target area during a severe thunderstorm which hid the moon and obscured landmarks.

Dive Attacks

Enemy aerodromes which serve as bases for raids on Britain continued to be harassed both on Monday and during the night. In daylight raids medium bombers successfully attacked the aerodromes of Lisieux and Evereux, in Normandy. The first of a line of heavy bombs burst near the main hangar at Evereux, the remaining explosions continuing for one hundred yards northwards. At Lisieux a large number of in-

United Press Association—Copyright. (Received July 17, 11.10 p.m.) TOKYO, July 17.

The Japanese Foreign Office spokesman (Mr Suma) said to-day that only minor details in the Burma arms route agreement remained and it was expected that they would be settled before the new Japanese Cabinet was installed.

He is at present awaiting the British reply.

No mediation negotiations between China and Japan are at present in

The Japanese Cabinet resigned under pressure from the militarists, who demanded a stronger foreign policy and the establishment of a single unified party which would cooperate with the army.

It is learned in London, however, that it is not expected that the re-signation of the Japanese Govern-ment will have a great effect upon the Anglo-Japanese negotiations. The Tokyo newspaper "Nichi Nichi Shimbun" anticipated a Japanese alliance with Germany and Italy in the reorientation of Japan's foreign policy for the purpose of disposing of the China incident and stabilising East Asia, and a policy of freedom from dependence on Britain and the United States.

The crisis in Tokyo was precipitated when the War Minister (General Hata) informed the Prime Minister (Admiral Yonai) that the army would no longer support Cabinet. After conferring with other members of Cabinet and his advisers, Admiral Yonai tendered his resignation exactly six months after assuming office.

Farmers' Union Debates Proposals

MANY REMITS PASSED

By Yelegraph--Press Association WELLINGTON, July 17.

After a two-day sitting, the 39th annual conference of the New Zealand Farmers' Union concluded in Wellington this evening. About 80 delegates were in attendance and a wide range of remits was discussed.

The majority of the remits dealt with had a bearing on the Dominion's war effort and the main theme of the conference was the necessity of increased production.

It is also learned in London that the British Government reserves the right to resume normal traffic to China on the Burma road at the end of three months if its efforts to secure a wider settlement of Far Eastern issues in the meantime fail.

That uproarious, mystifying and inimitable screen couple, "Mr and Mrs Thin Man," personified by William Powell and Myrna Loy, are back again in the latest adventures of a script which has taken the en of a series which has taken the en-tire country by storm and is now at the Regent Theatre, Hastings. The new picture, titled "Another Thin Man," unfolds an even more novel mystery plot than any of its popular predecessors, with the action even more fast-paced and the dialogue more rib-tickling than ever. Powell once again enacts the unper turbed and debonair Nick Charles who takes his sleuthing lightly but proves himself to be as much of a master mind as the greatest of Scotland Yard. Two murders and mysterious fire are entailed in the latest doings of the "Thin Man" couple and the excitement and susense never let up until the final fade-out.

The story is laid in New York, the scene of the first "Thin Man" triumph, and gives Powell not only a chance to portray Nick Charles as shrewd, suave sleuth, but also vorlds of opportunity for delightful domestic comedy, with Nora Charles, "Asta," the dog, and a brand new character, a Thin Man, Jr.

It is a living monument to the Navy—the men who fight and give their lives for freedom.

This film commences in a news-reel office in London just before Munich. Will Fyffe, as the editor, has the idea of a film re-telling events between the end of the last war and the beginning of this. The picture portrays these actual events, and then the news is received of the River Plate Battle. Here is the very theme this news-reel genius has been waiting for, and so woven into in Berlin it was hissed off the stage! The play has been made into a film, which will open at the State Theatre, Napier, to-morrow, and the story is modernised. A British company, Aldwych Film Productions, has produced "An Englishman's Home," making of it a film that pictures aspects of the contemporary scene with startling accuracy; England's quiet preparations, and the average Englishman pretty well convinced that it can't happen here! "THE INVISIBLE MAN RETURNS"

Thrills And Suspense In New Film

Who said "Impossible"? There's no such word, according to John Fulton, the young man who made the Invisible Man invisible. Fulton did the impossible in 1933, when Universal's "The Invisible Man" startled the world's film audiences. He does it again this year, with newer and more astounding photographic effects in "The Invisible Man Returns," opening to-morrow at the Regent Theatre, Napier. Universal purchased "The Invisible Man" in 1933 from another studio which had given it up as impossible to film. Fulton, studio specal effects expert told Universal executives that "nothing is impossible." Then he proved it.

Widespread success of the earlier film induced the studio to draft another story around the uncanny character of the Invisible Man and to recall Fulton and staff for even more ingenious effects than were contained in the previous shocker. Fulton, who puts Vincent Price. title player, through his paces this ime, tries to disclaim the difficulty of his work.

"Much of the work, while secret, is purely mechanical," he states. Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Nan Grey and John Sutton are others in the new film, which tells the story of a man unjustly sentenced to death for a murder. He escapes after being made invisible by the doctor who holds the secret formula. The Invisible Marks uncorrect to visible Man's uncanny efforts to trap the criminals actually respon-sible for the murder provide the action, while suspense grows from the doctor's desperate attempts to find the antidote to the dread invisibility drug.

Romance, not included in the first picture, is injected into the new film with a love match between Miss Grey and the Invisible Man.

Current Programme Action, romance and drama in liberal quantities await audiences in "I Was a Convict," with Barton Mac-Lane and Beverly Roberts, which is now showing at the Regent Theatre, seance, with the murder weapon's location known only to the audience, are but a few of the exciting elements in "The Thirteenth Chair," which is now showing at the Mayfair Theatre, Napier.

A murder committed by one of 12 people, all of whom are open to suspicion, yet none of whom ever leaves the scene of the crime, provides the basis for the story. A notable cast lends itself to the excellent quality of "The Thirteenth Chair." Dame May Whitty, the famous English star who scored in amous English star who scored in Night Must Fall," plays the occult "Night Must Fall," plays the occult who solves the mystery. Madge Evans and Thomas Beck provide the romantic interest and other outstanding featured players include Lewis Stone as the inspector, Elissa Landi, Henry Daniell, Janet Beecher and Ralph Forbes.

The second attraction is "Pick a Star," a Hal Roach comedy. It is full of music, mirth and merriment from start to finish and features a grand cast of comedians, including

A most successful masquerade ball was held last evening in the Hastings Assembly Hall under the auspices of the E.B.L. Cycling Club, and the hall presented a particularly gay appearance with many dancers in fancy costumes and

INQUIRY FOR STORE SHEEP WELL MAINTAINED

Stortford Lodge Yesterday

With a short yarding of just over 100 head of fat cattle on offer—the smallest penned for some time—the market at the Stortford Lodge stock sale yesterday rose sharply. As a large proportion of the entry was of plain quality the high prices realised gave little indication of what might have been expected under normal circumstances. The demand for all classes of cattle was particularly keen, and although the attendance was rather smaller than usual, competition was well maintained.

The entry of store cattle was confined to four pens, which met a keen demand, although in two instances the prices realised were insufficient.

In spite of the dull weather conditions the store sheep market remained firm, with a steady inquiry for quality hoggets and in-lamb ewes. Competition for the top pens was keen and all classes sold strongly.

EXHAUSTIVE TEST Value To Pigs Well Demonstrated

An interesting trial which, in view of recent appeals for increased baconer production, should be of value to Hawke's Bay farmers, has recently been completed at Puha in the Gisborne district. The value of maize as a finishing food has been convincingly demonstrated, and it would appear that this food could be used to advantage.

AT PUHA

The trial was conducted on Mr G. R. Sefton's farm under an arrangement with Mr H. A. Hopkins, supervisor for the Tairawhiti District Pig Council. Six purebred Berkshire pigs from the same litter were used, the trial covering 99 days, commencing when the pigs were 131 days old and extending until they had reached 230 days.

Weight Ranges

At the time of the test, the pigs ranged in weight from 98 to 112lb., an average of 107lb., the difference between the lightest and heaviest being 14lb. As the trial progressed the weights became more even, and with a range of only 7lb. at the time of the final live-weight weighing. The heaviest pig at the completion of the trial was the lightest at the start, tipping the scales at 197lb., with the weights of the others 194lb., 194lb., 191lb., 190lb., and 190lb. When they were killed, they had an average dressed weight of 134lb., and all pigs were graded prime No. 1.

Up to the date of commencing the trial the pigs had received skim milk with the addition of some meat meal and pollard, and had access to good leafy pasture, access to which was never denied to them throughout their whole life.

ALL QUIET ON WHARF FRONT?

It is perfectly obvious by now that there is a stubborn minority of the watersiders who, having tasted the joys of power related to their key position, are determined to exploit their advantages to the utmost. Latest news indicates that these men are a definite minority and that the work of the Commission is likely to be carried out as planned.

At the beginning of the week the chairman of the Waterfront Control Commission (Mr R. E. Price) did not mince words when he visited Auckland in connection with the difficulty of getting the Monterey away on time and with an adequate cargo. His words were backed by action, inasmuch as non-unionists were used to ensure that the vessel was duly dispatched. Referring to those watersiders who have consistently refused to work extended hours, war or no war, Mr Price said: "Those who fail to recognise their obligations will soon have plenty of time to reflect on their folly. They will not be allowed to bring discredit on their organisations or to frustrate the efforts of those who possess a higher sense of citizenship."

Since then, a report has arrived which says that yesterday four watersiders out of 200 refused to work extended hours on an overseas steamer, and that some of the four may have had a legitimate reason. The report adds, however, that certain of the prominent men among the watersiders who have agitated against such obedience have not yet been

Nothing but gratification will be felt that in the case of the four men who refused to work, they will be called upon to show cause why they should not be excluded from the waterfront. The Commission is doing its work with commendable thoroughness, and the remaining malcontents who have not realised the full implications of the work they are doing, may now be induced to pause and take serious count of the implications of their possible refusal to work extended hours in future. The trouble is clearly not yet over, but it is good to know that a firm hand is being applied to the reins to prevent the more reckless of the watersiders from taking the bit in their teeth.

When these news items are laid aside and one sits back for a few moments of quiet reflection, it becomes obvious that even watersiders of the unruly type must now realise that Governments, whatever their political colour, have to govern. Those who refuse to perform the service asked and expected of them are fighting not on'y against the general war effort, but against their own chosen Government, against their own interests, against the well-being of the Dominion, and against every principle of enlightened citizenship. Their immediate antagonists are the decent people of the country who are in no mood to stand by and see the essential food and other supplies of the fighting forces being held up because of trades union prejudices.

It has to be said, of course, that not all watersiders are saboteurs of the war effort. Some of the heftiest, most husky and willing and even patriotic workers are to be found in the neighbourhood of the bollards to which our shipping is tied. And all honour will be given to these men. They, too, represent the opposite camp so far as shirkers are concerned, and can be depended upon to look after themselves and the work given them to do.

It is to such loyal workers that the people of the Dominion will join in making an earnest appeal. They, better than any others, including any kind of commission, are possessed of the ability and the will to see to it that essential services are not jeopardised by their workmates. That they have already responded splendidly is evident from the reports made by Mr Price, and they are the kind of men who should now be depended upon to carry out their important tasks without special pleading on the subject.

The grave issues confronting the Empire should be sufficient to enable the loyal men to rally the malcontents to the side of fair play and hard work for the common cause, and it is devoutly to be hoped that an end has been reached of the recurrent disturbances on the waterfronts which have so often tended to upset the balance of safety and comfort in this country.

Particular efforts may, in the meantime, be directed to the hitherto "untested" element referred to by Mr Price, and it is up to their workmates to use their influence to avoid the possibility of further trouble, which is not only a cause of embarrassment to the prosecution of the war, but a source of unholy joy to the enemies of the British fight for freedom.

The effect of sales tax on various graphers are likely to find their hobby more expensive this season, as standard roll film has advanced 2d to 1/10. Several brands of film are now difficult to obtain, and it appears that before long one popular make will have a virtual monopoly of this field.

Sensational reports that Germany's airfleet outnumbered the Allied air force by three to one have been causing concern all over the world. These statements, often repeated by experts and would-be experts, are playing most effectively into Hitler's hands. It is one of his foremost efforts to foment fear and demoralise both his actual and his potential enemies. The publicity given to his war machine by his opponents is a decisive part of the Nazis' strength.

Nevertheless, there are clear indications that the German air fleet is not much stronger than the Air Force of the Allies. The number of 'planes available in any country is, indeed, a strict military secret; but sometimes indications come to view.

Of the direct taxation £25,000,000 would come from the people who received more than £400 a year. Their total incomes were £56,000,000. The total incomes of those getting under £400 was £129,000,000, and they would pay £11,000,000. In other words, those over £400 paid 44 per cent.

'WOMEN OF ACTION' SUGGESTED EXTENSION OF ARMED FORCES BY FARMERS

Union's Decision To Send A Deputation To The Prime Minister

By Telegraph—Press Association WELLINGTON, July 17.

The New Zealand Farmers' Union conference decided that a deputation representative of the farming community of both Islands should wait upon the Prime Minister at once to place before the Government in detail their views regarding local defence.

The remit discussed was that the armed forces should be extended to include volunteers not able to conform with all the requirements of the territorial forces or the national military reserve and that the union should offer its services to the Defence Department for the purpose of organising such forces.

The remit was moved by Mr A. C. A. Sexton, Auckland, who said that written representations to both the Minister of Defence and the Prime Minister had brought replies which carried the matter no further.

In the course of the discussion it was emphasised that should such a force as was proposed be organised, it must essentially remain under military discipline and in no sense was it suggested that it should be under separate direction.

The danger of any movement to establish "independent" armed forces was particularly stressed by the president (Mr W. W. Mulholland).

Three Crises

During its period of office, the Government had had to face three crises. The first was in April, 1938, when such large sums were sent out of the Dominion by New Zealanders that the country had difficulty in meeting its commitments.

Then, at the same time, there was a run on the Post Office Savings Bank, when withdrawals exceeded deposits by £9,000,000. Both of these had been overcome, as had the third it had to meet £17,000,000 in loan commitments and could not get the

How a young officer risked his life in rescuing his superior is told in the account of the award of the Military Cross to Second-Lieutenant Dixon, of the Royal Artillery.

Lieutenant Dixon, during the retreat to Dunkirk, was seen at a burning car dump 800 yards to the rear on the Pont aux Corps, the only bridge not blown up on the Bergues Canal. He was seen to be urgently seeking some form of transport re-Nations to transfer its non-political sections to Princeton for the dura-

He was seen to be urgently seeking some form of transport remaining undamaged, and having found a small car, he replied to inquirers that he was going immediately into Hondschoote, about three miles away, to collect his senior officer, whom he knew to be wounded. He was warned that this was seemingly impossible, as there had been a tank engagement there the previous night and the village was in enemy hands. He said he was aware of this but intended to go.

It was obvious that the odds were heavily against his returning at all,

INCREASED EXPENDITURE ON WAR RELIEF WORK

Hawke's Bay Association Notes Need For Conserving Its Funds

Although it is 20 years since the close of the Great War, expenditure in relief for returned soldiers is steadily on the increase, stated the chairman of the Hawke's Bay War Relief Association (Mr J. N. Bowie) at the annual meeting held yesterday at Napier.

While the funds of the association were becoming depleted, the calls were not decreasing, Mr Bowie continued. An unfortunate feature was that a number of men in good positions were finding it necessary to relinquish their work on account of failing health.

"At the present time we are passing through a great crisis," he said, "and we are all very proud of the fine stand taken by the Motherland and the Dominions."

One delegate spoke in favour of the association handing over its assets for administration by the R.S.A. in order to save expense in clerical and similar work.

Other members opposed any such move, pointing out that the secretaries of the various branch committees had a full record of men in their district, and were best capable of administering the funds.

At the present rate of expenditure the liquid assets would be exhausted in three years said the chairman. There were other assets which it might not be possible to realise without some delay, and

In the past, new shallow wells which had been sunk at once affect ted adversely the discharge of old wells in the neighbourhood. So far the new wells have had no similar effect, and there is therefore justi-fication in believing that the supply low tapped is practically inexhaust

Gardening In Hong-Kong Is Interesting

Mrs T. W. Lewis Tells About Her Trials And Pleasures

Splendid Address

Women's Community Club Members Meet In Hastings

The difficulties and trials, as well troller, who will be in attendance at the depot in Tennyson Street, from 12.30 p.m. on Saturday, but the driver will have to provide the the great pleasure, of gardening in Hong-Kong were most entertainingly described to members of the Hastings Women's Community as the great pleasure, of gardening the Hastings Women's Community Club, yesterday afternoon, by Mrs T. W. Lewis, who spent over two and a half years in this part of the world.

Mrs Lewis is a splendid speaker and she kept her listeners most interested in everything she had to tell. She impressed upon them first of all that it was most essential when first living in a tropical country to realise just how different approximations are seen colourered. everything was—even colours and outlines appearing to be quite new, and she found that it took some little time to become quite accus-tomed to this fact.

The speaker vividly described the lovely baskets of flowers which were so cheaply purchased. She said that An appeal is directed to owners of cars of more than 10 horse power to assist in the work, and those willing to help are requested to ring the Automobile Association for particulars of their allotted territory and full instructions.

So cheaply purchased. She said that the baskets were made by the coolie women, being built round various shaped tins which could be filled with water and sticks and the flowers could then be most attractively and delicately arranged in these. Flowers which she admired especially in these baskets were lotus lilies, balsams, clarkia, and lark-spurs.

Mrs Lewis added that the Chinese who arranged the flowers had many dodges, one of the most amusing being to place frangipani flowers on the end of long privet sticks with most effective results.

On the balcony of her flat Mrs Lewis had about two dozen pots of flowers, and for the small sum of 6/3 a month a nearby florist kept these always perfectly fresh with a constant supply of flowering plants.

Two Acres of Garden

The speaker went on to tell about her work in making two acres of ground into an attractive garden. Previously everything had been grown in pots, chrysanthemums, dahlias, cockscomb, cinararias, ger aniums, cosmias and so on. She decided to have a lawn and flower-beds. The lawn proved most successful and with the aid of a roller and a lawn mower to replace the coolie's hand labour, splendid results were achieved. The flowersults were achieved. The flower-beds, also, were a lovely sight until the typhoon came and swept every-thing right out of the beds. She then discovered that the advantage of growing flowers in pots was that one's garden could be put away at night and brought out again next

Mrs Lewis described the tremen-Mrs Lewis described the tremendous swiftness with which plants grew in the humid atmosphere of Hong-Kong. Zinnia seeds, for instance, could be planted out about 14 days after sowing and in a very short time were a mass of blooms. She said that it was most difficult to de things as one would do them. While in Hong-Kong Mrs Lewis took a great deal of interest in the particularly beautiful botanical gardens. Here a great deal of experimental work was done and trees were grown from many parts of the Seeds from the vellow kowin charge were growing most successfully when she left.

The listeners were particularly interested to hear that when the English took over Hong-Kong it was very, very barren and not until about 1880 was a very great effort made to transform the place. Now it was a most beautiful place with many fine trees from all parts of the world, even the New Zealand tree fern finding a place.

Some of the trees which impressed the speaker most of all were the flame of the forest with its gorgeous covering of vivid blossoms, the cotton tree with a heavy W. E. Barnard, and it was decided to congratulate Mr J. A. Lee, the sponsor of the Bill, for the excellent provisions in the Bill which amply safeguard the future welfare of our soldiers serving overseas and their dependants.

Effect of Recruiting

It is the considered opinion of members that if such a Bill had been introduced by the Government when war was first declared, and duly placed on the Statute Book, it would have had a much greater effect in stimulating recruiting than all the speeches made for that purpose.

Several complaints from mem.

pany were considered and suitable action is to be taken to have some of these cases represented to the proper quarter for redress.

The water gradient would therefore appear to be from the desert Nile toward the Nile Valley, not from the Nile toward the west.

GOLF AT NAPIER NEW ZEALAND ARTISTS' DISPLAY AT NAPIER

A Glance Around The Walls Of A Most Interesting Exhibition

Well up to the standard of previous years, the annual display of New Zealand art which was opened in Napier last night featured many interesting examples of the more modernistic style in painting.

A number of Hawke's Bay artists exhibited examples of their work, many of which were of a high standard and compared favourably with work done by other New Zealand artists. The display will continue for a fortnight, and it is hoped that a large number of the public will take the opportunity of visiting the Art Gallery during this period. There are a number of samples of the more modernistic thought in the display, but the problem picture is undoubtedly one entitled "The Tempest," by Bessie Christie.

Speaking at the opening of the Speaking at the opening of the ceremony, Mr M. S. Spence referred to the need in times of crisis to keep esty, J. Beauchamp and R. L. MacDondd, W. T. Harvey and Geo. The rota of New Zealand art was this year well up to standard, and it was hoped that many of the public would avail themselves of the opportunity of witnessing it.

Mr N. Kettle, president of the society, then declared the exhibition open to the public. Several Hawke's Bay artists attracted attention by the quality of the first of the membership of the Hawke's Bay artist of the membership of the need in times of crisis to keep elive the interest in art, and to keen the membership of the Hawke's Bay art standard to the membership of the membership of the membership of the membership of the ceremony, Mr M. their work.

exhibited several attractive landscapes, of which the best was probably "From Te Mata Peak Road." In this picture the effect of warm sun-light on the hills lent a pleasing brightness to the scene, making it convincing study of the Hawke's Bay countryside.

Unusual Picture

Mr W. A. G. Penlington, Hastings, Mr W. A. G. Penlington, Hastings, displayed an unusual and interesting picture entitled "The Dead Tree," a study in crayon and wash on brown paper, giving a sombre tone to the composition, which is nevertheless an attractive one.

Miss Gwen Jones (Napier) showed several attractive pictures. "Lagoon Before Rain," captures the atmosphere of lowering clouds and atmosphere of lowering clouds and impending storm, while "The Olive Grove," a picture individual in its style, seems to give a character to the gnarled old trees which are the central feature of the composition.

"Autumn Flowers," by Bessie Christie, is an effective picture by reason of its brightness of colour, which although striking is never garish. It is apparently applied with a palette knife.

The massive form of the mountains of the South Island is impressively depicted in "The Wairau Valley," by Mr W. H. Allen, A.R.C.A. This artist shows a fine feeling for the beauty of mountain scenery, and the picture has a good recessional quality.

Ida H. Cary's portrait of "Betty" is an impressive piece of work. The artist has a fine sense of colour, the flesh tints being bold without being over-accentuated. This picture is among the best of the portraits on in more than one direction.

A modern interpretation of a well-known story is seen in "Flight Into Egypt" by Miss White. The picture is striking both in theme and treatment, and has a good third-dimensional quality.

"The Shed," by May O. Gilbert, employs a simple subject but treats it in a direct "ashion with an economy of detail that has an instant appeal. Other works by this artist are on display, and all are noteworthy for their decorative quality.

Mr John Oakley (Napier) has contributed some landscapes which are up to his highest standards. The pick of the group is probably "The Aspen, Tauranga" which is noteworthy for its fine colour work and

LAST SATURDAY'S MATCH

THE ARMY GAME

The Army versus Hawke's Bay was the best match seen in Hawke's Bay for some time. Both packs of forwards were very evenly matched in weight, though perhaps the Army were slightly heavier, and provided a great tussle. In the backs Army always looked more dangerous than the 'Bay backline.

Barton, centre for Army, was the outstanding back on the field. His penetration was really impressive, and was entirely due to a very clever change of direction just before he took the ball. His straight running was an admirable feature of a very was an admirable feature of a very smart game.

Armour, perhaps the heaviest man in both packs, played a solid game for Army. He was always in the thick of the toil and was a decidedly useful man in the lineouts, too.

The performance of E. J. Callaghan as hooker in his first game for the Hawke's Bay representative team, was altogether pleasing. Playing a pack of forwards almost of All Black standard, Hawke's Bay, through Callaghan's efforts, were securing easily the most of the ball from the set scrums. Towards the end of the game Hawke's Bay were having a real feast and event eredit having a real feast and every credit must go to the hooker who also proved himself a great worker in Clothier played a superlative game. Time and again he broke away round the scrum and set his backs in action with his dummy passing. He was passing cleanly passing. and fast and gave a fine exhibition of the half-back's game.

Finlay, Army's loose forward, played a crackerjack game. He virtually camped on the ball and displayed great energy in his following up. He also proved himself a very fine kick and goaled 10 of Army's points. Truly a valuable man in any Brownlie, Hawke's Bay side row forward from Wairoa, played his best game so far for the province. Like Finlay for Army, he was always on the ball. He breaks fast, works hard and dribbles well and only missed securing a try early in the game when he tried to gather up the ball before crossing the line. It would have been nice to make it a "hat trick."

Dyer was a better full-back than A final reminder is given of the celebrity concert to be held in the Municipal Theatre, Napier, this Thursday evening.

Mason McDonald was one of the hardest worked in the 'Bay pack Reid was good but rather lacked his usual conspicuous dash. Dalton was better than he has been for some time and McKenzie was good in the lineouts. O'Brien played one of his best games and was almost as effective as Brownlie in the loose rushes.

"Snowy" Bowman caused amuse ment frequently and was often bar racked by the crowd for his flambuoyant efforts to get around the scrum at Clothier or Thomas. He worked hard in the Bowman manner and was at the bottom of every scrum that collapsed.

The inside backs for Hawke's Bay suffered rather from the excellent defence of the Army men Thomas was unable to go through and Reid was very closely watched by Logan and only broke through once or twice, once when he crossed the line. Bligh, centre, was ofter caught by Barton's clever change of direction as he took the ball, but it is unlikely that it would happer again as Bligh was watching the trick in the second spell. trick in the second spell.

The Army backs were impressive. Their handling was crisp and speedy and King served them well. Bradley crossed Army's line for a try. Rhind was another hard-working Army forward, but Jack Lockwood last year a Hastings Club player and Hawke's Bay representative, did not

The veteran smoker had been expatiating at the Club on the merits of toasted tobacco, but his pal didn't seem much impressed. "Honestly," he said, "I can't see how toasting the leaf can make much difference anyway!" The veteran laughed. "If you were to brew a pot of coffee, my dear chap, he said, "from coffee beans which hadn't been toasted (or roasted) before they were ground. roasted) before they were ground, the stuff wouldn't be worth drinking. Thus it becomes comparatively harmless. And, believe me, once you smoke toasted you'll have no time for any other tobacco. On you there are several blends.

A tribute was paid to the excellent work of the chairman during the past year.

It will be recalled that arising to compliants made about the conditions prevailing at the Drill Hall for the sittings of the medical boards examining recruits for active military service, the association's president, Mr P. J. Priest, made temporary arrangements for providing light refreshments for the recruits and generally improving the services available to the examining officers.

His actions were subsequently endorsed and a sub-committee was appointed to go more fully into the Details of the facilities available were supplied, and the committee recommended the purchase of additional crockery, tea-pots and trays.

WINTER CUP PROVIDES FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Catalogue Set Big Task RATED BEST MILER OF ALL TIME

White Rajah Is Handily Placed

(By MOTUROA.)

With Catalogue engaged in the Winter Cup the handicapper, Mr W. P. Russell, had no worries about selecting a topweight. For the third year on end this remarkable Lord Quex gelding has had the honour of carrying the No. 1 saddle cloth, but Mr Russell does not seem to want to see the veteran win his fourth Winter Cup, for he has rated Mrs A. Jamieson's horse as the best galloper ever to line up for the big Riccarton mile.

Toxeuma is credited with having carried the greatest weight to victory, the Karamu gelding shouldering 11.5 when he succeeded in 1930 from Nancy Lee, Havering, Black Duke, Full Feather, and a great field. Still, the minimum weight then was 9.0, so Catalogue's 10.11 is a greater assessment comparatively. Catalogue is rated a 6lb. better horse than Toxeuma, and is also more highly regarded than Kremlin (10.12), Gazique (10.11), and others who carried big weights under the 9.0 minimum.

Catalogue won his first Winter Cup with 8.13; he had 9.10 when he succeeded in 1938, and 10.3 failed to stop him from scoring another very easy victory last August. Mr Russell must have been profoundly impressed by that success, for he has asked the Lord Quex gelding to carry an extra 8lb., despite the fact that he is on a mark where every single pound is felt.

Catalogue's 10.11; 39lb, above the minimum and he is required.

Quex gelding to carry an extra 8lb., despite the fact that he is on a mark where every single pound is felt.

Catalogue's 10.11 is 39lb, above the minimum and he is required to concede 12lb. to the A.R.C. Easter Handicap winner Black Thread and 13lb. to Royal Star II., who won the Whyte and Winter Oats Handicaps at Trentham last week in the easiest possible manner.

Twelve months ago he had raced only four times after his Melbourne Cup success, but on this occasion his only placing since his third Winter Cup victory has been his win in the Hotham Handicap at Flemington. However, it is generally conceded that Catalogue was unlucky to lose the last Melbourne Cup and, while his increasing years must be taking the edge off his brilliance, the old chap is still putting plenty of dash into his work and his penchant for the Riccarton track must make him again the first candidate to be considered.

Grey Honour was finishing on for third in the Members' Handicap at Trentham and should manage the extra furlong, while Wagner, who goes well at Riccarton, finished well concluding day must give her a great short let-up.

Dozie Boy lightened considerably as the result of his racing at Trentham last month and he may be given a short let-up.

chance of success at the Rangitikel Hunt fixture next week. Vascones has performed very consistently this season and she leaves the impression that the best has not yet been seen of her.

Endorsement is being eased off and will not be required until the spring meetings. She ran a great second to Sleeveless in the Members' Handicap and may be a Stewards' Handicap proposition.

and may be a Stewards' Handicap proposition.

Nothing is working better among the unraced division at Hastings than Owner-trainer J. M. Cameron's big Bulandshar-Thornproof gelding, who is rising three years. This juvenile is bred from a good winning family, his dam being a half-sister to the Metropolitan Handicap winner Brambletorn, being by The Ace from Brambletye, by Treadmill from Bonnie Brae, by Clanranald from Golden Crest, an eestress of Form Up, Husbandman, Autumnus, Crenides, Golden Vein and other class performers. It would not take much to attune this young horse for the spring meetings.

Cameron also has a neat filly by Kincardine from White Polly. The youngster, who will race at Loch Moigh, is closely related to Hunting Cry, who carried the colours of the veteran Hastings sportsman with such conspicuous success in a few years back.

MORE SOLID NOW

MORE SOLID NOW

STELLA LUX is very well at present and the Otaki mentor B. McKay was possibly a little unlucky that he did not notch a win at Trentham. However, this Lord Quex mare seems to be more solid all round now and more should be heard of her at the approaching meetings.

to be more solid all round now and more should be heard of her at the approaching meetings.

Tuatara will have to do his future racing in open ranks, but that should prove no bar to success. The Flaxmere-bred Lord Quex gelding has had four wins in his eight outings to date and the manner in which he wore gown Flying Flag in the Woburn Handicap last week suggested that he would have no trouble in winning over a mile next season.

Tuatara is already cheap at the 200gns he made at the 1938 National Yearling Sales. His brother, who was sold to R. S. Bagby last January, shows even better quality than Tuatara. Their dam, a Tuata mare, died in foaling last year, but Mr Frank Donnelly has a fine yearling filly.

The Feilding trainer, P. Holman, has worked a big improvement in the condition of Screen Star this season and the Richmond Park Stud-bred gelding has proved a good moneyspinner for his connections, who race him on lease. Screen Star needs a soft track to show his best form and he should extend his winning account in the next month or two.

On Trentham form he should have
