IRON GUARD AND POLICE IN WILD CLASH

Michael Takes The Throne

(United Press Association-Copyright.) (Received Sept. 7, 0.30 a.m.)

King Carol abdicated at 5 a.m. to-day in favour of Crown Prince Michael, says a Berlin news agency message that is confirmed from Bucharest.

This is reported to have followed the demands of the new Prime Minister, General Antonescu, who told King Carol that there was a general demand for his abdication and demanded that he solve the crisis. General Antonescu announced that there was an armistice with the insurgent

The Bucharest correspondent of the Associated Press of Great Britain says that General Antonescu was closeted with King Carol at the Royal Palace early this morning. He was reported to be demanding King Carol's abdication at the request of the Rumanian leaders who, according to informed sources, threatened an immediate armed rising unless he relinquished the throne.

Confused reports from Bucharest suggest that at least two demonstrations occurred, the first against General Antonescu and the second against King Carol. The police clashed with demonstrators.
Machine-gun and fire like that of artillery was heard.

While those events were occurring in Rumania. the Regent of Hungary (Admiral Horthy) astride a white horse and accompanied by leading officials, led Hungarian troops across the fronticr into Satu-Mare, in the Transylvanian territory ceded by Rumania, on Thursday morning. The new King first ascended the throne 12 years ago at the age of Six. His father had renounced the throne and had gone to live with ed him.

"BATTLE IS FAR FROM OVER"

A GREATER EFFORT STILL NEEDED

Lord Halifax Reviews The Situation

British Official Wireless. (Received September 6, 5.30 p.m.) RUGBY, Sept. 5.

RUGBY, Sept. 5.

Speaking in the House of Lords, Lord Halifax, referring to the German air onslaughts on Britain, said that one of the decisive battles of the world was now being fought out in the air over Britain.

"The primary aim of these attacks is clearly to put down and trounce our air defence, but so far these attempts have failed," he said. "The material damage inflicted has been small in relation to the size of the forces engaged, and at no point have the defences failed to hold the enemy in check.

"But while we may on those grounds feel confident, let us make no mistake; the battle is very far from over. While we have no doubt of the outcome, I also have no doubt that a special and unremitting effort from every quarter of this country continues to be called for. "We have every reason for continued confidence. We can, however, see no reason for complacency. Let us not forget that the whole effort of our people is required to back up the efforts of the R.A.F."

Rumanian Situation

Rumanian Situation Rumanian Situation
Turning to the situation in Rumania, Lord Halifax traced the course of events in that country from the presentation of the ultimatum by Russia which resulted in the return of Bessarabia and the cession of the northern part of Bukovina and the repudiation of the British guarantee.

Bukovina and the repudiation of the British guarantee.

The requital for throwing herself into Germany's arms, Lord Halifax continued, was quick and bitter. He instanced the satisfaction with which the British Government regarded the conversations which had been proceeding between Rumania and Eulgaria, which they hoped would result in a final amicable solution of the question' at issue.

"It equally follows," Lord Halifax, continued, "that the British Government is unable to accept the settlement now announced of the Hungarian-Rumanian dispute over Milestones in the history of mirror making have occurred every few centuries rather than by decades as centuries rather than by decades as in the glass industry itself, the automotive industry and many others. The Romans used highly polished metal mirrors. Not until the 16th century in Venice was a practical method first discovered for causing metals to adhere to glass. In 1835 a German chemist chalked up the second great advance with the discovery of the process which, with minor improvements, is still in use to-day. Development of the Peacock spray process traces back to 1923 when Mr Peacock left the silverware business to launch a business of his own as an independent consultant to the mirror industry.

He established Peacock Laboratories in 1930 which moved into a building of its own early in 1936 From 1930 on Mr Peacock devoted hundreds of hours in his research laboratory to testing of formulas to make the spray process practicable. "THE SAINT TAKES OVER"

George Sanders In Grand Mystery-Adventure

With a thrilling story of mystery and adventure as its basis, RKO Radio's "The Saint Takes Over" reveals itself as the best of the filmic exploits of the noted Leslie Charteris character. It is now at the State Theatre, Hastings.

As in previous offerings, George Sanders plays the suave and debonair "Saint" whose activities baffle both the police and the leading crooks of two continents, while Jonathan Hale again portrays Inspector Fernack of the New York Police Department, and Wendy Barrie a mystery girl.

The plot of the new film, which marks the fifth time The Saint has come to the screen, deals with an ingenious "frame-up" contrived to discredit Fernack and end his embarrassing investigation of a criminal ring, The Saint learns the dentity of the members of the ring, and with Fernack sets about the ifficult task of forcing a confession that will clear the police officer.

Unfortunately, a mysterious killer reaches several of the crooks in turn just before The Saint and Fernack can talk to them. Fearing the others will also be slain before they have a chance to restore Fernack's good name for him, The Saint tries to intercept the killer

How he succeeds, and the dramatic outcome of his efforts, makes "The Saint Takes Over" a thoroughly exciting piece of film fare and one that adds new stature to its principal actors. Sanders himself does brilliantly as the resourceful Robin Hood, and Hale and Miss Papura turn in colonidal posters. Barrie turn in splendid performances, as do Paul Guilfoyle, Morgan Conway, Cyrus W. Kendall, Robert Keane, Pierre Watkin and James Burke.

PAUL ROBESON IN "PROUD VALLEY"

Drama Of A Mining Village

The story of "Proud Valley, now showing at the Regent Theatre, Napier, was specially writen for Paul Robeson, under the personal supervision of Robeson himself, and critics the world over are unanimous in their acclamation that "here, at last," is another real Robeson film, a magnificent, human story delightfully blending the rug-ged, hard life of Welsh mining with the Welshman's and Welshwoman's unfailing courage, warm-hearted-ness, and great love of music.

The story also offers Robeson ample opportunities for the full dis-play of his glorious voice, and in addition to solo numbers, he is supported by famous Welsh community choirs in the Eisteddfod Festival sequences, adding rich harmony to the flawless quality of the music. "The Proud Valley" derives its title from the locale of the story a derelict mining village, and tells a simple yet graphic story of a miner's fight to reopen a pit aban doned after an explosion. After writing the owners without success representatives of the men marc to London, reaching the metropoli on the outbreak of war, and wince the management of story then proceeds to its stirring climax, that is a fitting finale to the unforgettable human drama.

On the other side of the plot is Robeson's magnificent singing. He first comes into the film as a street singer looking for work, but his superb voice captures the admiration of the local community chair.

tion of the local community choir and before long he is leading them preparation for the Eisteddfod The romantic side is catered for by Simon Lack and Janet Johnson, a lovely Australian lass, the former a pit worker, and the latter the daughter of the venomous post-

Keep The Wheels Turning The Public Can Help

In its response to the demands for still more produce, industry places a heavier load upon the Railways. Rapid transport is vitally necessary in order that the Mother Country shall have the fullest benefit from New Zealand's drive for increased production. Help maintain the drive by quickly releasing railway wagons and tarpaulins. They are required elsewhere. Delay in unloading impedes the national war effort.

There'll Always be an England

THE EMPIRE'S HOME FRONT

Everything must now be subordinated to one great task. Our national future—and, indeed, whatever makes life worth living to us—is now called in question. The only answer is Victory! Many of us to-day find it hard to take the same satisfaction out of our work as formerly. We cannot help wishing we could do direct war work, and we sometimes need convincing that we ourselves are playing our part.

We are fighting for freedom, and to win freedom we must voluntarily limit our freedom in various ways. We must maintain a vigilant look-out for waste, inefficiency, carelessness, extravagance, and we must increase our production as required for the war effort. That is our part, in which all can assist on the Home Front.

And we must keep clear in our minds the real nature of this struggle. That is doubly important—important for our morale during the war and important for our sanity when the time comes to make peace.

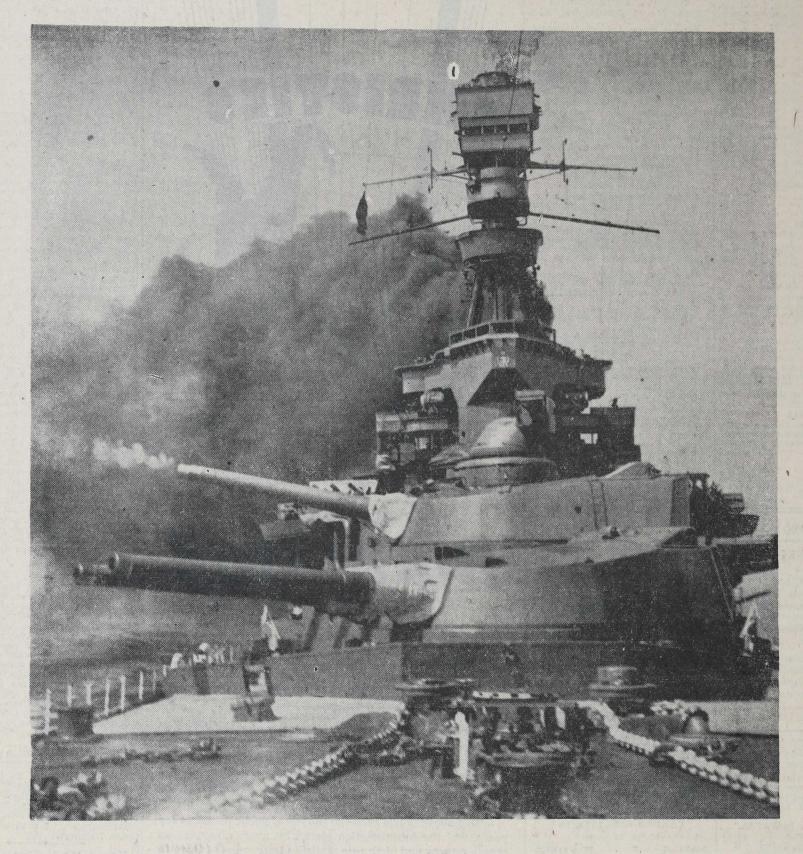

We should, even now, both in mind and heart be preparing for the peace which must come—a lasting peace founded with all the sternness we can command tempered with true British Justice, for no enduring peace can be made by men with hatred.

Germany under Hitler has gone mad with lust for world domination. Civilisation would be lost if they should win. The greatest duty of all is to be calm, courageous, and industrious—unselfishly to seek inspiration in perhaps a drab and workaday world and to inspire others.

Let us all develop more understanding and mutual helpfulness than in peace time and remember that concentration on our respective jobs is the best means of keeping mind and body fit—fit to assist in the work in hand—fit to work for victory.

'Freedom is the possession of those alone who have the courage to defend it'

This is the hour when courage knows her own,
When hearts grow stern that else were gay and warm,
When men and women are themselves the stone
That holds these islands scathless in the storm.
This is the hour when pleasure is no more,
Ease of the lovely field, the tree, the flower,
Only the rocks, the long and valorous shore,
The one unshaken heart. This is the hour.

POPULATION AND PROGRESS

The Dean of the Medical Faculty in the University of Otago, Dr. C. E. Hercus, recently delivered the Wilding Memorial lecture at Christchurch, and gave utterance to some rather alarmist views concerning the low rate of natural increase in the population. In the opinion of Dr. Hercus, the situation is "critical and disquieting."

This question has been the subject of public comment for years, and the interpretation placed by many observers on census returns and birth rate statistics leads some of them to believe that Western civilisation is threatened with extinction through the disinclination of people in the more advanced countries to reproduce their kind. While it is perfectly true that in New Zealand, as in other parts of the British Empire, as well as in certain European countries, small families are the rule, there is really no need to take an unduly gloomy view of the position. Unquestionably, there is room in the Dominion for a larger population, and a substantial increase in numbers would be a source of wealth and strength, but it is only fair to say that few countries have doubled their population since the beginning of the century-and New Zealand is one of them.

The close connection between the birth rate and the standard of living has not escaped the notice of writers on population problems, and they have made the rather obvious discovery that with the spread of knowledge and an advance in the material prosperity of a country, there is always a fall in the rate of natural increase. Where ignorance and poverty are most widespread, there the birth rate is always highest. This point is dealt with in some detail in Professor Carr Saunders's exhaustive work entitled "World Populations," and he finds that it is invariably in those countries where the national economy is based on a peasant agriculture that there is a high birth rate. France, which would like to be regarded as representing the flower of civilisation, only maintains its numbers by large annual migrations from more backward European States.

The inference to be drawn from the available facts is that economic opportunity has as much and more to do with the maintenance of numbers in advanced countries as the birth rate. Great Britain and the Dominions are regarded by the nationals of Southern and Eastern Europe as being very desirable places, and if the door were opened very large numbers of foreigners would rush to get in. Experience has taught us the necessity of adopting a selective policy, but if migrants of Anglo-Saxon origin are not available, we may yet be compelled to adopt a less exclusive attitude.

In the meantime, we should not lose sight of the fact that there is a steady loss of many of the best and brightest of our young people who find that the Dominion does not offer them sufficient scope. Since the colonisation of New Zealand agriculture has been the chief preoccupation of the people, and although it is still the principal source of wealth, it does not provide congenial and regular employment for more than a certain proportion of the young people who leave our schools every year. We are now entering upon a new era of industrial development which, at no distant date, will bring about great changes in our national economy, but the lure of Australia, Great Britain, and the United States is very strong, and thousands of young men who can ill be spared have gone away in recent years. The proportion of Rhodes scholars who return to New Zealand is regrettably low. They seem to have no difficulty in securing responsible and lucrative posts abroad, and play little part in building up the country that produced them.

Those who are seriously concerned about the need for a quicker growth in the population of New Zealand might well think more about fostering manufactures than of subsidising parenthood. Relief from taxation, a baby bonus, and preference in regard to employment are amongst many of the suggestions that have been put forward to encourage larger families, but the temptation to evade excessive parental obligations is very strong, and immigration is the only real alternative to empty cradles. A vigorous policy of encouraging local industry will provide jobs for migrants and keep many New Zealanders at home who would otherwise seek their fortunes overseas.

The committee also decided to close the fifth grade competition, with High School C declared the winners. The schoolboys' competition has been won by Marist, and the presentation of trophies and caps for the boys will take place this morning.

Beer Rationing

The suggestion that a system of liquor rationing" on the same lines as petrol rationing be introduced among Maoris to combat the drink problem was put forward in a humorous fashion by Mr Bob Tutaki, Hastings, at the Anglican Synod this week at Wairoa. The men could be issued with coupons for each month, he said, entitling them to purchase so much liquor. If they gave their coupons away or used them in the first week of the month, like the motorist they would have to suffer. Although the proposal was not quite serious, its possibilities have caused a good deal of discussion among the native people.

A warning that heavier air attack must be expected and that the danger of invasion was not yet past, though Britain was much better prepared to meet both, was given by the Prime Minister (the Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill) in the House of Commons to-day. The Prime Minister revealed also that British naval strength in the Middle East had been more than

"We must expect heavy fighting in the Middle East before very long," he added. "Some ships in the Mediter-ranean have called at Malta and landed supplies for the valiant garrison."

Referring to the air war, Mr Churchill said: "The Germans claimed to have destroyed 1921 British 'planes in July and August. Actually, we lost 558. Our loss of pilots was, happily, very much less.

"If there is to be, as was suggested in a recent oration, a contest of nerves, willpower, and endurance in which the whole of the English and German people are to engage," the Prime Minister declared, "then, be it sharp or long, we will not shrink from it. We believe that the spirit and temperament bred under freedom will prove more enduring and resolute than anything which can be got from the most efficiently."

be, up to the present, far less severe than what we had prepared ourselves to endure, and what we are still ready to endure."

He instanced the fact that over 150,000 beds had stood open in war hospitals for over a year.

Damage as a result of air attack had been far less than estimated by the committee which had considered and decided against the possibility of an insurance scheme against air raid damage to property. He had therefore asked the Chancellor of the Exchequer to consider the best way of making a further review of can be got from the most efficientlyenforced mechanised discipline.

"The great and growing armies of this country, and winter, with its storms, fogs, and darkness, may alter the conditions, but some changes cut both ways. Unrelaxing effort and wise precaution are both necessary to save our lives and serve our cause."

The Prime Minister said that 1075 civilians were killed in air-raids during August in Britain, and that a slightly greater number were seriously injured. About 800 houses had been destroved or damaged beyond

Referring to air-raid casualties, Mr. Churchill said: "Nobody will pretend that these are losses which, even if multiplied three times, would be serious compared with the majes. U.S. Agreement

Referring to the agreement with the United States, Mr. Churchill said: "These memorable transactions between Britain and the United States, which I foreshadowed when I last addressed the House, have now been completed to the general satisfaction of the British and American peoples, and to the encouragement of our friends all over the world.

"It would be a mistake to try to ous departments concerned," he said, "to review the whole position as a matter of urgency."

Mr Churchill, in concluding, said: "No-one must suppose that the dam ger of invasion is past, but I am not giving away any military secret if I say that we are very much better off than we were a few months ago, and that, if the problem of invading Britain was a difficult one in June, it has become a far more difficult and far larger problem in Sep-

American peoples, and to the encouragement of our friends all over the world.

"It would be a mistake to try to read into the official Notes more than the documents bear on their faces," Mr. Churchill added. "The exchanges are simply measures of mutual assistance rendered to one another by two friendly nations in a spirit of confidence, sympathy, and goodwill. These measures are linked together in a formal agreement. They must be accepted or rejected. Only very ignorant persons would suggest that the transfer of the American destroyers to the British flag constitutes the slightest violation of international law or affects in the smallest degree the non-beligere by of the United States.

"No doubt, Hitler will not like this transference of destroyers," Mr. Churchill commented. "I have no doubt he will pay the United States out if ever he gets the chance.

Foreseeing the Danger

lantic Ocean and that this will enable them to take danger by the throat while it is still hundreds of miles away from their homeland.

"The Admiralty tell us also that they are very glad to have these 50 destroyers, and that they will come in most conveniently to bridge the gal which inevitably intervenes before our considerable war programme of new construction comes into service.

into service.
"I suppose the House realises that we are going to be a good deal stronger next year at sea than we are now, though that is quite strong enough for the wik in hand. "There will be no delay in bringing the American destroyers into active service; in fact, British crews are clready meeting them at the various ports where they are being delivered. That is a case of what one might call the long arm of co. caused serious disruption in air one might call the long arm of coincidence."

Turning to the air activity of the last two months, Mr. Churchill said that, though August had been a real fighting month, neiller side had put out its real strength. The Germans had made a very substantial and important effort to gain mastery, and they certainly had put forth a larger proportion of their total air strength than welled found recessary up to the present to employ against them. Their attempts to done at the P.A.F. and the British antice of our successes are three to one in machines and six to one in pilots and crews, which we are assured do not by any means represent the total injury inflicted upon the enemy," said Mr. Churchill.

"We must be prepared for heavier fighting in this month of September. The enemy's need to obtain a decision is very great, and, if he has the numbers with which we have hitherto credited him, he should be able to magnify and multiply his attacks during September."

Firm confidence was expressed in the R.A.F.'s ability to withstand a largely increased scale of attack.

DISCUSSED BY MINISTER

Explanation Of Arrangements For Housing Married Workers

> By Telegraph-Press Association WELLINGTON, Sept. 6.

The problems confronting primary producers and particularly the provision of sufficient farm labour to meet the present requirements were discussed by representatives of the National Council of Primary Production with members of the War Council, the Hons. P. C. Webb and D. Wilson, said the Prime Minister (the Rt. Hon. P. Fraser) in a statement to-day. The meeting also dealt with the position likely to arise when the next contingent of men will be called up in the ballot which is to be drawn shortly for the purpose of bringing the territorial force up to the war establishment and which will bring the force due to enter camp on October 1 for territorial training to about 12,000.

difficulty was being found in getting suitable farm workers to fill the 702 vacancies which were recorded on August 30, and that these numbers would increase as the farming season got under full swing, said Mr Fraser. The Hong-Kong correspondent of the Associated Press of Great Britain says that it is authoritatively stated that the preliminary basis of agreement gives Japan a limited right to land troops and supplies at Haiphong. A Hanoi message says that the threat of invasion appears to have passed. One explanation is that the chief negotiator, Major-General Nishihara, exceeded his authority and modified his attitude under pressure from Tokyo when the French warned that they would offer armed resistance.

The Moscow radio stated that the French authorities in Indo-China have agreed to supply iron, coal, rubber, and other raw materials to Japan conditionally on Japan refraining from war operations in French territory.

"Divide and Reign" was Carol's motto. By 1937 there was only one "Divide and Reign" was Carol's motto. By 1937 there was only one power in Rumania which could stand up to him, the infamous Iron Guard led by Codreanu. As soon as night fell on Bucharest, its gangs of hooligans roamed the streets, robbing citizens, beating up Jews against the palace wall.

The Iron Guard Carol stood the Iron Guard until it became so powerful that no Gov-ernment could keep order. Then he uncorked a piece of brilliant political strategy. Ignoring Codreanu, he called to the Premiership Octavian

In a foreword the Minister states that, foreseeing the danger of a national emergency seriously interrupting the supply of petrol from overseas, the Government set up a committee before the war to invesigate the use of alternative fuels for motor vehicles. It was decided that producer gas offered the most practicable solution of the problem.

Shortly after the start of the war he appointed a committee of representatives of the Transport, Public Works and Scientific and Industrial Research departments to investigate in detail the use of producer gas in motor vehicles.

For 45 days Goga revelled in his pogroms until the country recoiled in horror. On the forty-fifth day Goga left the palace shaking with fury. "Israel is triumphant," Goga cried. He was badly mistaken. Not Israel but Carol had triumphed. The only way order could be restored was by a Carol dictatorship and that was what the country got. The Hong-Kong correspondent of the Associated Press of Great Britain says that it is authoritatively stated that the preliminary basis of agreement gives Japan a limited right to land troops and supplies at Haiphong. A Hanoi message says that the threat of invasion appears to have passed. One explanation is that the chief negotiator, Major-General Nishihara, exceeded his authority and modified his attitude under pressure from Tokyo when the French warned that they would offer armed resistance.

French warned that they would offer armed resistance.

The Moscow radio stated that the French authorities in Indo-China have agreed to supply iron, coal, rubber, and other raw materials to Japan conditionally on Japan refraining from war operations in French territory.

Lord Halifax, in the House of Lords, said that after the receipt of reports of Japan's demands on Indo-China he instructed the British Ambassador at Tokyo to remind the Japanese Government that Britain was interested in the preservation of the status quo in Indo-China.

Progressive Policy In Spite Of Difficult Times

THE COMING SEASON

In spite of the difficulties attendant on wartime conditions, the Napier Retailers' Association has decided to adopt a progressive policy in advertising the town's attractions in the tourist season now approaching.

The executive of the association at a recent meeting expressed the opinion that some decrease in the volume of business was inevitable, due to a variety of causes. Men are leaving the district for overseas, the petrol restrictions have caused unemployment, and increased taxation with corresponding increase in the cost of living has meant that the community in general has less spending power.

Every endeavour is therefore being made to attract people from outside districts who will be spending holidays, making short trips, seeking new health, or planning honeymoons to come to Napier as the ideal holiday or health resort.

LOSS ON CURRENT SEASON

"Gates" Heavily Reduced As Result Of Wartime Conditions

The effect of wartime conditions on sporting activities was shown at last night's meeting of the management committee of the Hawke's Bay Rugby Union, when the financial side of the year's activities was discussed.

It was stated that a loss of some £50 on the year could be expected. The treasurer (Mr J. W. Callaghan) said that the gate takings on all matches this year were approximately £801, against £1305 last year, and from the former figure they would have to deduct about £160, the takings in the Army game, which were devoted to patriotic purposes.

Considerable economies have been effected in the expenses of touring teams this year, and approximately £100 was said to have been saved in this direction. Costs of gatekeepers had also been reduced.

A detailed financial statement is to be produced at a later meeting this month, when a full discussion of the position will be possible.

A judgment which has an important bearing on the question of payment for concrete workers in similar awards has been delivered by Mr Jas A. Gilmour, S.M., who was appointed by the Court of Arbitration to deal with an application from Mr J. Berryman, Inspector of Factories of the Napier Harbour Board Construction Workers' Award.

Mr Gilmour has given it as his opinion that the men employed in handling the concrete when it runs down from the chute after mixing should be paid the additional halfpenny an hour in wages to which abourers employed in handling concrete are entitled under the award. Showgrounds, according to a repot resented at a meeting of the H.B. A. & P. Society yesterday morning by Mr R. H. Tod on behalf of the committee in charge of the planting. In explanation of the work involved, Mr Tod said that an index had been prepared to correspond with the special plan on which the plantthe special plan on which the planting had been carried out. Every tree was shown, with its Latin name, the number of the tree, and its Maori name. No effort had been spared to make the reserve as informative as possible. It was proposed to plant a maize crop this season to give the recurse trees carried trees. young trees some protection. Mr Tod paid a tribute to the interest which the Maori people had taken in botany in the early days which was indicated by the fact that they was indicated by the fact that they had named the many native trees. The chairman, Mr J. A. Macfarlane, said that the society owed a debt of gratitude to Mr Tod for the enthusiasm and interest he had shown in arranging for the exhibit. Mrs F. W. Williams and Mr John Mrs F. W. Williams and Mr John Holt donated a number of titoki trees and tree ferns respectively, which were received with thanks. Cash donations toward the reserve now amount to £60 6/6. Votes of thanks were extended to these donors and also to Messrs Thorburn, Drummund and F. E. Smith.

Protest Entered

A protest against the proposed alteration to the shearing date for Corriedale sheep was contained in a letter from Mr William Rayner, Masterton, in which he stated that he had written to the Corriedale Society. He added, however, that if all breeds of sheep were subject to the same rule, he would not object, but as the present proposal was to single out Corriedales, he considered it most unfair to the breed. The proposed rule stipulates a shearing date of not earlier than September

SALE BY BUTCHERS

Product Is Difficult To Handle

FRESH PREFERRED

It is improbable that butchers in Hawke's Bay will resort to the selling of frozen meat, according to an opinion expressed by a Napier master butcher yesterday. It was stated that advice had been received from the Marketing Department that frozen meat would be available for butchers to supplement local supplies during the period of high prices.

This privilege, however, would not be likely to affect many butchers in Hawke's Bay. "We expect to pay. higher prices for our fat stock during the winter months," the butcher commented, "and, though prices have been above the average peak rates for this time of the year, I think I am speaking for the great Miss Davies beat Mrs. Whyte 5 majority of butchers when I say that we prefer to pay the extra money for fresh produce."

In the cities, he commented, some firms might find it more convenient to draw their supplies from the freezing works, but that did not apply here. Frozen meat was difficult to handle satisfactorily, as it had to be thawed out before use and for this reason alone butchers would prefer the fresh product. Once taken from the freezing chamber frozer meat could not be kept in the but meat could not be kept in the butchers' own coolers.

Although beef prices were still on the high side, mutton rates were easing, and butchers would prefer to wait for cheaper fat stock markets rather than exercise the frozen meat privilege, he conisdered.

Although the difference between frozen meat and fresh meat is, of course, unmistakeable in the carcourse, unmistakeable in the car-cass, it is not so easy to detect when ## the meat is cut up. It is under-stood that there is little difference between the flavours. ALLEGED THEFT

"Sunshine Sally," Tikokino: I'm glad you reminded me about your badge, "Sunshine Sally" and I shall see that you receive it. I don't quite agree with you about the colours. Bright colours do not always suit fair people but because they never wear them and become tired of them they like them all the more. I do hope your brother will soon be well. You have 54 marks.

"Snow White," Hostings, Leibler.

"Snow White," Hastings: I shall be most anxious to hear when your lilac has its first blossoms, "Snow White," because I love them too. I was sorry to hear about your toothache and do hope you have had it fixed. I shall think about a photography competition.

Shirley Hannah, D.S.O., Hastings: I shall, look forward to receiving the jokes next week, Shirley, and also to hearing all about your birthday which I hope will be a happy one.

"Bluebell," Hastings: I was so pleased to hear that you were helpful in the holidays, "Bluebell," and have no doubt that you were too busy to write to me. Thank you for all you sent me this week.

"Moa," Mohaka: I am very pleased indeed to have you for a member of our club, "Moa," but would like you just to send me little drawings and things that you can do all by yourself.

things that you can do all by yourself.

"Kotuku," Mohaka: I shall be most anxious to hear all about your fancy dress ball so you will have to tell me all about it afterwards. I did so enjoy the story of the bird's nests—it was very interesting indeed.

"Garthowen," Hastings: I was very sorry indeed to hear that you had to spend part of the holidays in bed, "Garthowen," and I do hope you are better again. I will see about your badge this week.

"Boss," Mohaka: I shall be very pleased indeed to have you as a member of our Playtime Club, "Boss," and shall look forward to hearing from you often.

Lillian Stanley, D.S.O., Hastings: I am delighted to hear how you spent your five shillings prize, Lillian, you couldn't have done better than buy a good poetry book which will always give you pleasure. Your marks are now 140. I am not quite sure about the certificate you mention but will make some inquiries. You will remember that I gave you no marks for the first instalment of your story. I will allow you five, but will not include it in this week's marks. I have thoroughly enjoyed it.

It was like a picture of Fairyland, for surely some magic wand had made such a place of beauty; surely some nymph's hand had given the colour to the flowers, the music to the stream, and the sigh to the trees. Surely some wood-elf had laid a soft green earnet over the trees. Surely some wood-elf had laid a soft green carpet over the brown earth, and touched with magic fingers the trees and ferns.

But no! There have been no fairy folk here, no nymphs or wool-elves, so who, then, had been here? A lovely lady, slim and youthful, with the freshness of flowers, the youth of dawn and the wisdom of the oldest tree. A lady clad in green, with violet eyes and sunny hair, whose winged feet speed swiftly over the earth, clad in golden sandals of spun sunshine which, as they touch the earth, leave a little of her

Pam's Letter

Dear Girls and Boys,—

At last I really am going to have a visiting day. I'm afraid that I have disappointed you so often that you have all thought that you would never have the opportunity to really come in and see me. I have chosen next Saturday morning, so that you will all know a week ahead and will be able to keep the morning free to come to the "Daily Mail" Hastings Office any time after 10.30 a.m. I shall be looking forward most tremendously to meeting all those who write to me.

Some time very soon I hope also to be able to pay a visit to Mohaka, because I want to know such a lot of Playmates from that part of Hawke's Bay. Don't forget, girls and boys, Saturday, Sep-

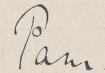

I think you have probably learned by now that the Playtime Page will always be on Saturday morning in future. It will be ever so much better, and isn't it fun that our space has grown?

There is just one other thing that I wanted to mention to you. I have now plenty of badges and all those who have waited so long must write and remind me—that is, all those who have gained 25 marks. Others may have a badge if they pay a shilling.

I hope you will all be looking forward to visiting day as much as I shall.

stiff beak, can do such neat work. But though her nest is well hidden, it is often robbed by mice and snakes, and other birds have learnt snakes, and other birds have learnt to make their nests in safer places.
Each kind of bird has her own way of building her nest and her own way of hiding it. By watching how she comes and goes we may find out her secret, and the more nests we know the more we shall admire the builders and marvel at the work they are able to do. #### The Violet

Down in a green and shady bed, A modest violet grew Its stalk was bent, it hung its head, As if to hide from view. And yet it was a lovely flower, Its colour bright and fair,

Yet thus it was content to bloom,

In modest tints arrayed,
And there diffused a sweet perfume,
Within the silent shade.
Then let me to that valley go,
This pretty flower to see,
That I may also learn to grow,
In sweet humanity. Sent in by "Robin Hood,"

SPRING'S BABIES

The Tale Of The Two Wild Ducks

In amongst the rushes on the edge What a wonderful thing a bird's nest is! When we have seen her carrying pieces of straw or hay or sticks, scraps of moss, odd feathers and so on to her hiding place, it is a great surprise to go there afterwards and find the neat and cosy nursery she has made of them for the chicks.

In amongst the rushes on the edge of a swamp were two ducks. The brightness of their feathers made the grey damp surroundings much gayer as they busily worked. Paradise is the name of the birds—a very fine name which certainly suited them with their blue colouring mingled with a pretty soft brown

In sand or earth by sitting down and moving from side to side. This is the simplest nest of all.

The peewit, which comes to our fields in flocks every spring, makes her nest on the ground in this way. But she lines it with a few straws placed across one another.

The sky-lark also nests on the ground in the open fields, but she takes more care of her eggs than the peewit does. She finds a hollow ready made under the shelter of a tuft of grass and in this she forms a cosy cup of dried grass.

It must be easy for a bird to put one straw across another, but when the was not only weaving or fetching material for the nest, but was guarding her in case enemies were about. At the slightest noise were about. At the slightest noise were about. At the slightest noise were about. If he was satisfied it was only the wind rustling the bushes he would continue to listen for any other signs.

SEASON'S FIRST CLASSIC

WANGANUI GUINEAS TO-DAY

Sir Beau Chosen

By "Moturoa"

The success on Thursday of the Hawke's Bay contingent has increased interest in the Wanganui Jockey Club's meeting at Awapuni to-morrow and, although the 'Bay is may be easy.

Win-and-place betting will be used and the following should appeal to backers:

Improvers' Handicap:—Pegasus Bay, Elite Ray, Diversion.

Belfast Handicap:—Gold Bar, Gold Pot, Jerry Parrish.

Rail mile barrier and smart beginners who are well drawn will have a big advantage.

Nisus and Gunyah did best of the colts in the parade on Thursday, but fillies generally have the advantage at this time of the year and Bayadeer was an impressive winner in the Parade. Greek Step and Golden Moon were the third and fought in Moon were the third and fourth in Moon were the third and fourth in that event.

Tetratina caught the eye in the Parade at the Manawatu Hunt meeting in July and she has trained on satisfactorily since then. I was rather impressed with the appearance of Fleche D'Or, while George New has a likely pair in Columba Bay and Flying Spray, the former being booked to race at Avondale. Stay-at-home backers will be in the dark about post positions, but Tetratina, Bayadeer and Columba Bay should be the pick of the fillies, and Gunyah may prove smarter than Nisus among the colts.

The Guineas Contest

The Guineas Contest

It was disappointing to all that Sir Beau did not take his place in the sprint on Thursday, but no fault can be found with his condition and can be found with his condition and he is the outstanding horse in the Wanganui Guinear. He was the Derby colt among the two-year-olds last season and he should stay better than most of his opponents. However, sight should not be lost of the fact that he is more at home in figure going.

Enrich finished on in the sprint on Thursday after losing his posi-tion early and appears to be well forward. The range will do him good. Rich Blood is well bred, but is still a maiden and may not be as forward as Courting.

Fine weather held until last evening when further rain was falling and the going promises to again be neavy.

The following are the form horses

BEAULIVRE BACKED HEAVILY

BACKED to the extent of £20,000 during the Moore-field meeting at Sydney on August 24, the New Zealand horse Beaulivre is now one of heaviest commitments for the Epsom-Metro-politan double. Indeed, so great was the rush for Beaulivre's scrip that many of the leading operators refused to take any more for the time being. Backing a horse for a double has become exceedingly popular in Australia in recent years, and the ring received two very hard knocks when The Tramp won the Caulfield-Melbourne Cups double. Last spring Rivette re-peated the performance and several Bar Vons were put out of business. However, it should not be overlooked that Beau-livre is liable to a 10lbs. penalty for an Epsom success, and it was that penalty that beat Nightmarch in his valiant attempt a few years back.—

GISBORNE'S POSITION

Racing May Be Reduced To Four Days

The Poverty Bay Turf Club, at a special meeting, authorised the committee to inquire into the advisability of racing on four days in the present season instead of six days as in the past.

The president, Mr F. Tolerton, raid the president, Mr F. Tolerton, and the past.

said the overdraft limit at the bank had been reached. The returns at the club's meeting had been slipping back over recent years, and on top of that petrol restrictions would of that petrol restrictions would play a part in affecting attendances at future meetings. During the past eight years profits had been experienced during only three seasons.

The past year's loss to date was £737, and with depreciation and bad debts the total would reach over £1000. The club could not continue its full programme with the present its full programme with the present trend. It had the support of the public in attendance, but the meeting had not attracted outside owners to any extent, and the totalisator turnover suffered as a result, dropping £10,000 last year.

CURRENT COMMENT

(By Moturoa.)

High Peer fell at the first fence on Thursday, but he has his chance to make amends at Awapuni to-day. The shorter distance will be in King's Mark came home well in his division of the maiden at the Wanganui meeting after drawing a bad marble. He is sure to be all the bet-

Harina ran quite a good race for fourth at Awapuni on Thursday and the race will do her no harm.

Having her first outing since the autumn the Nightmarch mare Night Eruption ran a great race for third on Thursday. She looked like winning a furlong from home, but her condition gave out. She will be harder to beat next up.

Don Quex came home at the right end of his race on Thursday. He is not without chances to-day and he will not be neglected if taken to Avon-Taane Pango, a three-vear-old colt owned and trained by Harry Rama at Trentham, just weakened into fourth place on Thursday. He is a likely sort of maiden.

Larwood's good second to Tolaga at New Plymouth will bear keeping in mind at Awapuni to-day. He is an im-proving jumper.

An Unlucky Mare

It was unfortunate that Stella Lux should have injured herself in the paddock on the eve of the Wanganui meeting for Bruce Mckay had the Lord Quex mare in great heart. Her Trentham form suggested that she would be more than merely useful, but it is likely that she will have to be treated to a fairly lengthy spell.

Booked for Marton
Rehearsal's doubtful leg necessitated allowing him to miss the Wanganui meeting, but the smart Limond gelding appears to be making a good recovery and Walter Rayner will endeavour to get him ready for the Marton spring fixture. But for unsoundness Rehearsal would probably have risen to the best handicap classes.

Fulfilled Expectations

Belle Cane worked impressively on the eve of the Wanganui meeting and came in for heavy backing as the result. She went to the post in great order and gave nothing else a look-in. Belle Cane is bred to win in the best classes as she is by Beau Pere from Duck's Egg, a half sister to the Auckland Cup winner Admiral Drake and to the classic winner Francis Drake. Belle Cane, who is freely engaged in the classics, was bought for the Sydneyite, Mr W. J. Smith for 275gns., but was subsequently passed on to the well-known Wanganui sportsmen, Messrs P.A. and T. J. O'Neill.

That race she had on Thursday will work a big improvement in the Kincardine mare Kotua and she can be marked down for an early success. Kotua notched a brace of wins last season and, as she looks more solid all round now, she should be a good winner for the Morris menage. Although not from a numbered family Kotua is bred from a winning line, her dam, Kahariki, being by Hunting Song from Koko (a half-sister to those good gallopers Koodoo, Eleus, Koesian, Jazz King and Tahoma), by Heather Mixture from Kowerewere, by Kopiri from Puwerewere (a sister to Crackshot and a half sister to St. James), by Nordenfeldt from that good Golden Grape mare Pungawherewhere. Her breeding and race form suggest that Kotua will win over a middle distance later on.

MASSINE, Lang Blan's sire, was a high-class winner in France, and also beat the Derby winner Papyrus in the Ascot Gold Cup. He has twice headed the winning sires' list in France and he introduces a fresh strain of St. Simon blood through that great galloper La Camargo.

FOREST TRACK'S pedigree is well known. Not only is she by that great brood mare sire Tracery, but her third dam is that wonderful mare La Fleche, the third dam of Beau Pere and Gay Shield, two of the most successful sires in New Zealand in modern times.

Raeburn did not jump with any confidence on Thursday. This disappointing horse has usually shown his best form on the tracks. When the money is in he is generally in a piggy mood.
