TERRIFIC BARRAGE PUT UP

(United Press Association-Copyright.) (Received Sept. 17, 9.30 p.m.)

LONDON, Sept. 17. To-night's raid was the fiercest that central London has yet experienced. The Germans came over non-stop flying among the clouds, regularly dropping high-explosive bombs. The anti-aircraft barrage was of terrific intensity, but it did not prevent the raiders from diving to the very limits of the balloon barrage. Thousands during the night indulged in the new nighttime pastime of door hopping to escape flying shrapnel as they scurried homewards. The use of underground stations for shelters has been discouraged, but to-night thousands of people stayed on the platforms when shrapnel made the streets death traps. Many snatched a few hours' sleep despite clattering trains.

The first air raid warning on Tuesday was sounded shortly before 3 a.m. Bombs were dropped in the central London area, where the raiders were concentrated. Intensive gunfire was heard. The all-clear was given after one hour 34 minutes.

Advantage From Reserves The greatest advantage, however, would accrue from the opportunity which the declaration would give for Italy and Germany to convert to their use the vast reserves of French war material, 'planes, ships, guns, and munitions, and to set the French turning out more weapons and growing more food for the German Army.

Reports from neutral observers in France show clearly that Italy and Germany are doing their utmost to bring France into the war, this time on the Italian and German side.
They believe that sooner or later the Axis will succeed in acquiring France as an ally.
German propagandists are working through the French Press and radio, assiduously whipping up French enmity against England. Germany and Italy have no need of French manpower in the fighting line, though they might welcome the services of Fascist-minded naval men, air pilots, mechanics and follows for the wind the Celtic team.

Old Boys backs had difficulty from the kick-off in dealing with the fast-breaking tactics of the Celtic forwards. Coupled with this, the Old Boys forwards were totally unable to heel the ball cleanly, with the result that both Cooke and Holt might be an improvement on Cooke, for this pair were changed at half-time, but the fault lay with the forwards, not the half-back, and Holt had the same difficulty.

Hawea Tomoana turned on a fine game, especially towards the close of the match. He was continually breaking speedily around the Celtic scrum and sending his forwards away. These were good tactics and it was the loose rushes begun by these moves that kept Old Boys so desperately on the defensive. He is a nippy player.

Palmer, Old Boys' first five-eighths, was always on the alert, and it was his smartness off the mark that initiated Old Boys' two tries. He did a lot of useful cover-ing and was the best of the Blues' backs. The second five-eighths was always safe, but owing to Celtic's keenness there were few full backline moves on either side.

Felix Campbell, right winger for Celtic, was one of the brightest of the Celtic backs. His covering work was good and his speed proved very useful in saving his side from Old Boys' rushes. Diack (Southland and Marlborough), M. Dyer (Hawke's Bay and North Island) and E. Bligh (Hawke's Bay). They put on some bright passing movements, and were perhaps unlucky not to have added more points.

Both sides boasted strong packs of forwards, but although they started well the packs faded rather badly towards the close of the game. D. Dalton (Hawke's Bay and New Zealand) showed good form, his defensive play being particularly strong. J. O'Brien (Hawke's Bay) and H. Davidson (Taranaki) were usually prominent in loose rushes.

Among the Southern forwards B. Guise (Wellington, North Auckland and Waikato) was a hard worker, and added some useful points with his accurate place kicking. C. and A. "DEVIL ON WHEELS" RACING DRAMA

"Framed" Is A Tense Crime Story

With fast-talking Pat O'Brien, Ann "Oomph Girl" Sheridan, the exotic Gale Page, heart-breaker John Payne, and comical Frank McHugh in the leading roles, "Devil On Wheels," spine-tingling drama of automobile racing is now at the Cosy Theatre, Hastings.

The story concerns the efforts of Pat O'Brien, champion race driver, to make John Payne, his younger brother, continue with college, and not follow in his own footsteps. But John is bitten by the racing, and his added romantic interest in Ann Sheridan, whom Pat dislikes, causes the brothers to feud, climaxing in a race in which Pat's best friend, Frank McHugh, is killed in a spectacular crash.

The accident breaks Pat. He gives up racing and vanishes. Gale Page, Pat's loyal girl friend, knowing if she is ever to locate Pat it would be at the Memorial Day speed classic at Indianapolis, goes there. She finds him at the tracks, a seedy, finds him at broken figure.

Exposing the methods by which blackmail rings and extortion racketeers prey upon unhappy victims and force them to pay tribute which totals millions of dollars each year, "Framed" is the second feature. THRILLING STORY OF SUBMARINES

Conrad Veidt In "U-Boat 29"

There is a growing demand by Press and public for the broadcasting of Mr Churchill's speeches in the House of Commons.

Worshippers of Parliamentary tradition, however, vigorously oppose the proposal, which is also criticised on the grounds that interruptions and whispered comments might be overheard.

The "News Chronicle" in an editorial, says:

"When Mr Churchill makes his great orations the Empire and the world should hear.

"They make good reading and good hearing, and it is absurd that they should be heard only by members of the House of Commons.

WAIPAWA MORNING WEDDING

At St. Patrick's Church

MISS K. TIERNEY MARRIED

To Mr P. J. Lyons

A very pretty wedding took place one morning recently at St. Patrick's Church, Waipawa, when Kathleen Mary, daughter of Mr and Mrs R. J. Tierney, Haumoana, was married to Patrick James, son of Mr and Mrs T. J. Lyons, 7 Allardice Street, Dannevirke. The officiating minister was the Rev. Father McDermott, and Miss M. Stanley played the wedding music.

The bride, who was escorted by her father, made a charming picture in her lovely wedding gown of white slipper satin, the bodice having a pleated front with wide embroidered corsage helf.

The high shouldered sleeves finished in graceful points at the wrist, while the fully flared skirt had a long scalloped train. The beautiful handworked tulle veil (which was lent by her sister in-law) was held in place with a dainty Juliet cap of pearls and orange blossom. A fragrant bouquet of white sweet peas, freesias, hyacinths, and white trumpet daffodils completed a charming ensemble.

DOCTOR'S REVIEW

"The mild epidemic of measles which has broken out in the Napier district should give no cause for undue alarm," said a Napier doctor to a "Daily Mail" representative last

Although it had been reported that there were something like 50 cases in the district, he did not think the figure excessive for this time of the year, and expressed the opinion that with the approach of warmer weather, the health of sufferers would be restored in a week or 10 days.

"Serious epidemics may follow famine and disorganisation in Europe, but New Zealand is not likely to be involved,"

"Disease is kept under control argely by organisation, which involves such things as quarantine, ontrol of water and milk supplies and immunisation campaigns.

"War is apt to disorganise these neasures, and also to create condiions of dirt, overcrowding, mass movements of refugees and malnutrition which aid the spread of isease.

Tuberculosis Danger If famine swept Europe, he said, uberculosis would undoubtedly increase. After the last war, in certain places it had trebled. Dirt, lack of personal hygiene and overcrowding, inseparable from war, caused the spread of typhus which, after the revolution, killed 3,000,000 people in Russia alone. "Typhus will probably be the greatest danger this time," he said, but it is, of course, a disease which should not cause trouble in New Zealand."

Should not cause trouble in New Zealand."

It was improbable, he added, that the First Echelon, on returning from abroad, would introduce new tropical diseases into New Zealand, although in the last war returning troops spread malaria throughout Europe.

While this war would almost certainly spread disease, it had not yet offered any compensating benefits in extended medical research, such as occurred in the Great War. An in extended medical research, such as occurred in the Great War. An exception would be the probable gain in knowledge concerning the value of blood transfusion.

"A tremendous advance was made in 1914-18 in the technique of immediate surgery," he added, "but that needed some sort of static line, which does not seem to exist in present-day fighting."

The Vicar referred to the loss sustained by the deaths of three valuable church members, Mrs. Oliver, Miss Keith and Major Warren, who were very loyal and generous people. He also referred to the war as it concerned the church, and mentioned that 46 men had enlisted from the Otane district, these men being remembered by name at every service.

FORESTRY IN NEW ZEALAND

Parliament and the public have been so completely preoccupied with the war and problems arising from it, that scant attention is being paid to the ordinary operations of important State departments. Their reports have been presented to Parliament in the ordinary way, and will be duly incorporated in the "Appendices to the Journals of the House of Representatives," where none but the curious or personally interested will ever bother to look at them.

Yet many are well worth studying, and amongst these is the annual report of the Director of Forestry on the operations of the State Forest Service. Afforestation in New Zealand had its origin in the necessity for finding useful employment for inmates of his Majesty's prisons. Early prison reformers cast about for some more reformative treatment of prisoners than stone-breaking in Mount Eden. Something that would be non-competitive with commercial enterprise was required, and it was eventually decided that tree planting would be a healthy and uplifting means of weaning the prisoner from his evil ways. There does not seem to have been much science or method about the operations, which consisted in planting very thickly a few thousand acres with exotic trees, on the assumption that some day they might be useful. The rest was left to Nature.

Years later, under the Massey Government, a Forestry Department was set up, and thanks very largely to the interest and enthusiasm of the late Sir Francis Bell, large-scale planting was entered upon, with a view to the provision of adequate supplies of timber when the indigenous forests became exhausted. Commercial afforestation companies were also incorporated, and for many years tree planting has proceeded upon a scale suggestive of a future demand for soft woods that is quite disproportionate to the growth of the population, or to the probable requirements of the Dominion. One would like to think that all these trees are growing into money. On paper, their potential value would appear to be very great, but it is already clear that the profitable utilisation of millions of rapidly maturing pine trees is about to present problems which can scarcely be solved to the satisfaction of all of those who have invested in forestry "bonds."

The Director of Forestry in his report lays stress on the difficulty of managing State forests which have been planted with what he describes as:-

"A complete disregard of the paramount necessity for the creation of well-distributed age classes. . . . Only by intensive planning and organisation may enormous losses be avoided in the medium age classes which form such a large proportion of the exotic forest resource.'

In plainer language, vast planting operations have been carried out with more zeal than discretion.

The Director of Forestry has some interesting observations to offer on the regeneration of indigenous forests, and the department seems to be carrying out this useful work in an intelligent and scientific manner. One frequently hears lovers of the New Zealand bush deploring the destruction of great areas of natural forest which had to be cleared before the land could be laid down in pasture. Undeserved reflections are sometimes made on the pioneers who could not live on scenery or standing timber for which there was no market in their day, but there still remain millions of acres of primeval forest, and even in areas which have been cut over by sawmillers regeneration is proceeding apace. Under wise management there will be a yield of kauri, rimu, matai, kahakitea, and other valuable native timbers in perpetuity. In forestry, more than in any other productive enterprise, it is necessary to take the long view, and New Zealand is so potentially rich in forest resources that, with reasonably enlightened management and control, our production of timber should be an ever-increasing, instead of a diminishing source

Mock Air Raid

Low-flying aeroplanes of the Royal New Zealand Air Force have become a regular item of interest for people in Wanganui since the First Battalion, Wellington Regi-ment (City of Wellington's Own), took over the camp on the Wanga-nui Racecourse. Recently 'planes "bombed" the camp and enabled the troops there to conform to a mock air raid. Although the machines which did the bombing were a great deal slower than the type used in the "real thing" in the theatres of war, they gave an insight to what could be done sight to what could be done.

Vichy's Orders Disliked In New Caledonia

TROUBLE ABOARD SLOOP

By Telegraph—Press Association AUCKLAND, Sept. 17.

"I am convinced that there will be trouble and revolution in New Caledonia if the present situation persists," was the statement made by one of the passengers who arrived at Auckland on Monday by the American Clipper. "The de Gaulle Committees continue to work actively for unity with Great Britain and for trade with New Zealand and Australia, in which they consider their salvation lies.'

Of the white population of 15,000, he said, 90 per cent. supported General de Gaulle; the remaining 10 per cent., consisting of 20 members of the Conseil-General, which governs the island, and of public officials known as functionaires. aires, who were sent out from France, adhered to the Petain Government. They strongly resented the Administration obeying orders from Vichy, which 90 per cent. regarded as dictated by Germany.

Traders Express Their

Indignation

By Telegraph—Press Association. WELLINGTON, Sept. 17.

One of these orders had been that all nickel production and other merchandise should be sold to Japan and this, of all the orders received, had most inflamed the people. As a result of their actions, one of which was a direct refusal to obey the order, the Acting. Governor (Colonel Denis) had warned the De Gaulle Committees about their behaviour.

The visitor mentioned rumoured insubordination in the French sloop Dumont d'Urville, which Colonel Denis was reported to have denied. The denial was published in the newspaper "La France Australe" last Saturday. It was no use, he said, making such a denial. There had been insubordination by a large number of ratings sympathetic to the De Gaulle Committees. They had interfered with the sloop's engines and some of the natives had already been involved in a struggle between rival factions. A very small religious group had clashed with representatives of the chief religion on the island and seven natives were known to have been killed.

The Government was criticised for the restrictions placed on the motor trade, at the annual conference of trade representatives to-day on the grounds that the restrictions were not entirely for war purposes and that the trade was being asked to do more for sterling conservation than other sections of the community.

Allies Supported said, making such a denial. There than other sections of the community.

Allies Supported
The object of the De Gaulle Committees, he continued, was to support the Allies with manpower or any other means, to secure the island from foreign dictation or interference, and to trade with Britain, Australia and New Zealand.

The blockade by the British Navy of the French coast had completely disrupted the country's important nickel industry and, because neither New Zealand nor Australia had shipping services to the island, there was now no effective resistance to the very real interest and competition of Japan.

To achieve this the committees were fighting for the election of their own Parliament, to appoint their own Governor, to sever all ties with the Petain regime, and to create closer relationships with New Zealand and Australia, who should be vitally interested in the welfare of the island because of its obvious strategic importance, which was never made clearer than by the use of Noumea by Pan-American Airways on their South Pacific route.

TRAMPER'S STORY

By Telegraph—Press Association. AUCKLAND, Sept. 16.

Activity at Ngaruhoe last week is reported by an Aucklander who returned at the week-end from a visit to the Chateau. He said that signs of an eruption had been noticed by several people who visited the mountain on Friday morning.

A smoke cloud was hanging over the crater lake on Thursday night and it was still visible, though considerably smaller, on the following morning. He and several members of the Hutt Valley and Tararua Trampring Clubs decided to make a trip to the mountain. They made their climb from the Chateau side, and during the ascent they noticed that the snow was blackened with dust.

On the north-west side there was dust particles and the air was laden with dust.

On the north-west side there was very little snow, but there were distinct traces of black mud. The ground was steaming in this locality.

The party proceeded to the ridge between the two craters and found clouds of steam being ejected at intervals of about 20 minutes. Apart from this and subterranean rumbling the only other signs of recent activity were the deposits of black mud. Most of that had been carried to the northern side of the mountain mud. Most of that had been carried to the northern side of the mountain by the prevailing southerly wind.

By Telegraph-Press Association

WELLINGTON, Sept. 17. German broadcast announcers have made an attempt to improve on the recent report from Rome announcing a rebellion in Wellington. The Rt. Hon. P. Fraser has been advised by the New Zealand High Commissioner in London (Mr W. J. Jordan) that the latest effort from Berlin takes this form:

"News from Wellington reveals that an alarming revolt has broken out in New Zealand and the Maoris have protested against military service on religious grounds on hearing that they would be sent overseas.

News has just reached London from Wellington that an epidemic has broken out among the troops which will, in any event, make it impossible for them to be sent overseas."

In the course of his reply to Mr Jordan the Prime Minister says: "The baseless and ridiculous report of a revolt among the Maoris of New Zealand will cause as much amusement as the earlier report from Rome that a rebellion had taken place in Wellington. OBSERVERS HAVE AN IMPORTANT TASK

Work In The Air Force

QUALIFIED MEN SELECTED

Disappointment is expressed by many young New Zealanders who have volunteered for the Royal Air Force when, instead of being selected as pilots, they find themselves drafted to train as observers. Actually, it is stated, the observer is the most important man in a modern bomber. Those of the highest educational qualifications are sel-

pilots, and they are equally eligible for commissioned rank.

The role of the observer in a modern bomber is, first, that of navigator. It is his duty to direct craft and crew, perhaps across hundreds of miles of enemy territory, accurately to a predetermined objective. After the action, it is again his job to guide the bomber safely home.

The observer is also exactly what his name implies. He is the man who definitely identifies the target, and who afterwards reports on its condition. In reconnaissance work, it is his expert observations that supplement the camera's mechanical ones. ment the camera's mechanical ones. This is a job calling for a high degree of intelligence and perception.

He Lets Go the Bombs

The observer is the man who drops the bombs. Modern bombing is every bit as complex and technical a problem of mathematics as is the training and firing of a big gun. If accurate and precise navigation was required to bring the 'plane to its goal, accurate and precise calculation is necessary to complete the task by placing the bombs right on the target. Miscalculation may waste the night's endeavours, large quantities of fuel and tons of high explosive, and mean that 'plane and crew have been risked in vain.

When the bomber is attacked the observer becomes a fighting man. He takes his place at his gun and helps to ward off hostile aircraft. He requires, therefore, specialised knowledge of at least four widely-different subjects—gunnery, bombing, observation for military purposes, and navigation. His work includes as much actual fighting, and He Lets Go the Bombs poses, and navigation. His work includes as much actual fighting, and perhaps more responsibility, than that of the pilot. On him, indeed, devolves the success or failure of

The thrill and fascination of controlling the enormously-powerful and fast-flying machines of the present day cannot fail to appeal to him. Publicity has drawn the attention of the whole world to the exploits of the fighter pilots engaged in the defence of Britain. The glamour with which public imagination has invested the pilot has helped to glorify his role at the expense of the observer's. But as Britain increasingly assumes the offensive in the war the importance of the bomber squadrons and their observers will be proportionately enhanced.

A misapprehension frequent among the general public and candidates for enlistment, is that observers stand less chance of promotion than pilots, and that they cannot hold commissioned rank. This is not the case. An observer has the same chances and opportunities for getting on as a pilot or any other specialist in the service.

To some extent, the public is perhaps confused through the use of the title "pilot officers" to designate the lowest commissioned rank in the Air Force. This expression is often thought to imply that the bearer is actually a flying pilot. There are, however, pilot officers who have never flown a 'plane, or flown in a 'plane. The council, stated the letter, held the board responsible for injuries to any persons resulting from the sunken trenches and the cost of restoring the footpaths to normal was regarded as the liability of the board.

Power Board Approves Continuance

LOCAL BODY ISSUES

That local body elections should be held next May, notwithstanding the war, was a recommendation carried by the Hawke's Bay Electric Power Board at the monthly meeting yesterday afternoon. Opinion on the question was sharply divided but the decision was subsequently reached and this will be submitted to the Electric Power Boards' Association as requested.

There were two major points to be taken into consideration, said the chairman (Mr W. Harvey). Elections cost money and he believed such expenditure would be unjustical into the cost manual transfer and transfer tified in war time. For instance the last local body elections cost the Power Board £142 16/-, and there were hundreds of local bodies throughout the Dominion. Actually, the question was one for the Go wernment.

Mr T. E. Crosse agreed that the elections should be postponed.

Ratepayers Considered

"In the interests of the ratepayers it would be unfair to delay the elections," contended Mr C. C. Smith. Indications were that the war would continue for a long war would continue for a long period, and what, therefore, would be the object of 'putting off till tomorrow what you could do to-day?'

Mr Smith moved that the elections be held in May as was originally proposed

"We are not the people to decide whether there should be elections or not," commented Mr S. Ashcroft, in seconding the motion. "Besides, there must be many men on public bodies who have no desire to carry on havend their term."

on beyond their term."

Mr R. Harding also supported the resolution, saying: "The consumers put us here and therefore it is only right that their privilege of voting again next May should not be taken from them."

To hold the elections next May would be disturbing for both the candidates and the ratepayers, in the opinion of Mr J. Nimon, who held that "all our efforts should be concentrated on war work."

Rehabilitation Debated At Napier

SOME DOUBTS FELT

"Will the Social Security Department take this money from the soldier as soon as he is out of the door?" was one of the questions asked by a member of the Napier Patriotic Committee yesterday afternoon, when the question of soldiers' rehabilitation was under discussion.

Mr C. B. Ferguson, in introducing the subject, said he did not wish to anticipate difficulties, but in collecting funds to assist soldiers on their return to civilian life they should have a clear idea what benefits the recipient would derive from them. If they would merely be used to relieve the drain on Social Security funds they would simply be assisting the Government. It was one of the difficulties that followed the

Mr. Menzies instanced the case of a returned soldier with a wife and family who had received £2 a week from the Returned Soldiers' Association when he was taken ill recently. He had no sconer recovered than he received a bill for £6 9/6 from the Social Security Department for refunds of benefits granted him.

MATINEE MEETING AT HASTINGS TO-DAY

Good Sport Is Promised

PEDIGREES OF NEW-COMERS EXAMINED

Some Well-Bred Two-Year-Olds

Fine weather seems assured for the Matinee Meeting to be staged by the Hawke's Bay Jockey Club at Hastings this afternoon, and a most interesting afternoon should be provided patrons, for an open invitation is extended to racing

In the past years these gatherings have shed much light on prospects for the early spring meetings, and owners and trainers know full well that the experience gained by twoyear-olds and young horses at the Matinee Meetings is invaluable. More time can be given to green horses at the barrier under these circumstances than on actual race-day and youngsters thus gain confidence that is a valuable asset when they are set their more serious tasks. At these meetings many of the runners sport silk for the first time and they also make their first acquaintance with race crowds.

To-day there are nice-sized fields in all events. There will be two heats for two-year-olds in which Dannevirke, Greenmeadows, and Ngatarawa stables will be represented to meet the local youngsters. Unraced maidens will be separated from maidens that have had racing experience, while an innovation has been made this year in confining the heats for hacks to apprentice riders. To complete a very enjoyable afternoon, there will be a six furlongs sprint for open class horses and some of the best performers in the district, horses claiming engagements in the big spring handicaps and classic races, will be seen in action.

To cap a day's outing for Hawke's Bay sportsmen, the Hastings jockeys will stage another boxing tournament at the racecourse tea kiosk to-night and the venture should again swell the patriotic funds. Last month's tournament was an outstanding success and further interest is added to to-night's bouts by the fact that some of the well-known Palmerston North jockeys will be matched with the local

The meeting leads the way to the Wellington and N.Z. Cup meetings and so pro-vices a good rehearsal for those major fixtures. FORTUNES The Aga Khan Enjoyed probably "down to his last million."

The Indian magnate has experienced his ups and downs in racing, and his stupendous good fortune and his sudden falling off is one of the greatest examples the turf has ever known.

On seven occasions between 1924 and 1937 he headed the list of winning owners—his best year being 1934, when his horses won stake money amounting in all to £64,897. In 1938 things began to go wrong, and his winnings dropped to a little less than £21,000. The following year they were but half of this sum.

It was in 1921 that the Aga Khan decided to go in for racing in a big way. He commissioned the Hon. George Lambton to act for him at is own stud more than met his re quirements.

His latest piece of bad luck is the fact that his big breeding and racing establishment in France is situated in German-occupied territory and a total loss.

Big Race at Hutt Park

The Sir Thomas Wilford Memorial Handicap, to be run at Hutt Park next Saturday, should provide an exciting contest, for with a good pacer in Horse Power set to concede 60 yards the others will have to be on their best behaviour to keep ahead of him. Horse Power, handicapped on 4min 28sec, is eligible for nomination in the New Zealand Cup, but can well afford to go back 24 yards to be on his correct assessment. Ferry Post made a brilliant effort to win the Harper Memorial at New Brighton, and with the sting out of the ground, he will again have many supporters. The Auckland pacer Parauri, on 24 yards behind, is an improver that has created a favourable impression on his visits to Addington, and there is still a hope that he will yet qualify for the New Zealand Cup. Lady Milne's most recent performances show her to be a real stayer, and, now on 4min 29sec, a win in this race will make her eligible for the big race in November. Acuity, on scratch, did not make any strong impression at New Brighton, but, like Accountant, the going may not have been in his favour. Mongolian will come from Nelson, and will be handled by L. F. Berkett. Cruiser was showing up at the end of the Harper Handicap with a very fast run, and though Ringtrue will have to improve on his most recent showing, a fast track may find him troublesome. The early favourites are Accountant, Lady Milne, and Parauri.
