British Tactics Take Heavy Toll Of Men And Machines

> United Press Association-Copyright. (Received Sept. 20, 10.55 p.m.)

LONDON, Sept. 20. Marshal Graziani boasts that his men have marched and fought with only one litre of water a day. However, despite Graziani's confidence, the Italians are suffering severely from the unceasing bombardment from land, sea and air, which is taking heavy toll of men and machines and playing havoc among the supply convoys. While the Italians are consolidating their supplies they have not attempted to advance from Sidi Barrani, and the bombardment by the three British Services has been intensified. The R.A.F. is now using 'planes of a modern long-range type carrying heavier loads for longdistance bombing. Benghazi saw the first evidence of this new power. It is officially stated that Tuesday's fighting was much heavier than was first reported, and the Italians, pouring into Sidi Barrani too rapidly, made the first blunder of an excellently organised march. Both the R.A.F. and the artillery caught them before they were ready and solidly plastered the congested troop-carriers, supply wagons, and tanks. The wreckage was too drastic yet to be estimated.

Light mechanised patrols simultaneously carried out a manoeuvre in which they must now be the world's experts, namely the cutting in with a series of high-speed, hit-and-run raids. Bren gun-carriers spurting across the desert at 40 miles an hour ploughed a furrow through the long Italian column and then dashed off in clouds of dust.

The R.A.F. chose this moment for its deepest raids on Libya and for the first time made 1000-mile return flights to Benghazi, roasting the aerodrome with high-explosive and incendiary bombs.

The R.A.F. now has targets along the coast from Sidi Barrani to Benghazi and, impartially by the sun and by the moon, is bombarding communications which Marshal Graziani must keep up or fail.

Graziani apparently has as many troops as he can handle in Egypt and he is concentrating on the supply situation, particularly petrol and water, and tank wagons and barrel-laden lorries lumber continually across the dusty

Details of the naval operations against the Italians in East Africa are contained in an Admiralty communique. "An initial report from the Commander-in-Chief in the Mediterranean," it states, "indicates that units of the Royal Navy continue to harry the northern flank of the Italian advance from Libya. On Tuesday night, one of our naval units bombarded the coast road to Sollum served." "An attack was also made on Lavello, Abyssinia. Simultaneously, other units attacked enemy concentrations at Sidi Barrani. The commander-in-Chief in the Mediterranean reports that both these bombardments appear to have had considerable success."

Port Damaged.

"The Italian port of Benghazi, Libya, was attacked by aircraft of the Fleet Air Arm on Monday. The Commander-in-Chief in the Mediterranean reports that, during this attack, one merchant ship was set on fire, one destroyer was probably sunk, and several other ships were damaged. Yesterday's Italian communique admitted that a torpedoboat and a pontoon had been sunk and that a few fires had been started at Benghazi.

and that a few fires had been started at Benghazi.

"Concurrent with these operations off the Libyan coast," the communique adds, "naval operations have been carried out in other areas. In the course of these operations have been carried out in other areas. In the course of these operations no enemy haval forces could tions, no enemy naval forces could be located.

"In the north-eastern Mediterranean, one of our convoys and escor warships were several times unsuc cessfully attacked by aircraft."

Air Attacks An R.A.F. communique issued at Cairo states: "Highly-successful air attacks were launched at enemy bases in the Dodecanese Islands. At hases in the Dodecanese Islands. At Maritiza, in Rhodes, fires were started. Several explosions, which were followed by large fires, were seen at Calato. The night's London raiders met a blaze of searchlights over Kent and the Thames Estuary, but, flying above the clouds, they proceeded north, attempting to come in to the city by a new path over the north-west suburbs.

The clouds baffled the searchlights, which then suddenly went off as the fighters roared up and attempted to seek out the raiders and divert them from their targets.

Some raiders, nevertheless, penetrated the central area, where the anti-aircraft barrage was as heavy as ever. The raiders dive-bombed and glide-bombed from low heights, stirring the anti-aircraft guns into a new frenzy.

A raider brought down by anti-aircraft fire in the southwest of London in the early morning missed a hospital as it crashed to the ground, where it blew up. One of the occupants baled out and was captured.

Blind Bombing

Blind Bombing

An Air Ministry communique reports that the enemy scattered high-explosive bombs blindly over the capital. Some of heavy calibre caused damage in many districts, but small dwellings in London and the suburbs were the main objective of the wanton attacks. Some houses were hit and wholly or partly demolished. Preliminary reports disclose that the casualties were heavy; they are provisionally estimated at 90 killed and 350 seriously injured.

The activity was widespread, but was comparatively slight outside London. A number of towns in Lancashire were raided and houses and commercial buildings hit. A number were killed or injured. Bombs were dropped in towns in Hertfordshire, Essex, Kent, Berkshire, Sussex and the Midlands.

Transport Problem Intensified

United Press Association—Copyright. (Received September 21, 0.5 p.m.) LONDON, Sept. 20.

Morning newspapers draw attention to the growing danger to the transport system by the increasing use of underground stations as shel-

The "Daily Telegraph" says: "The congestion at stations is becoming serious. The news that the authorities are not forbidding the use of Underground platforms as shelters has caused a large increase in the nightly migration and passengers are forced to struggle through lanes of recumbent forms.

"Hundreds take up their positions about 5 p.m. and some 'refugees' enter the stations at 3 p.m."

The "Daily Express" also appeals for reduced use of Underground stations in order to enable workers to travel. This is regarded as a hundredfold more important now that the siege is on.

Dispersal Scheme

"The people's safety will mean nothing if the city's work is allowed to slow down or falter," says the "Express." "One solution would be to disperse children, the aged and the infirm, also everybody whose labour is not essential.

"The Government also faces the problem of shelters in the poorer

"The Government also faces the problem of shelters in the poorer districts. RUGBY, Sept. 20. The problem of the transport of large numbers of workers from the suburbs to central London has been intensified by the indiscriminate German bombing which, not being directed to military objectives, must occasionally fall in roadways and thus affect the tramcar and omnibus routes. An observer who toured the southern districts, where a great deal of senseless havoc of this kind has been done, was impressed by the speed with which the public transport services have adjusted themselves to the new routes and the maintenance of service. During the rush-hour traffic, omnibus and tramway employees unselfishly and cheerfully work at the highest pressure to get the workers to or from their homes, and the success they have achieved is highly appreciated by the public, who are willing to put up with some inconvenience in the same spirit.

Italian Orders To Disarm

UNREST GROWING IN

(United Press Association-Copyright.) (Received Sept. 20, 11.10 p.m.)

Resented

LONDON, Sept. 20. The Cairo correspondent of "The Times" says that more news of unrest comes from the strongholds of France's Syrian Army. The Italian agents' three divisional headquarters have been instructed to make an inventory of French Army equipment. Although this is an obvious prelude to the dismantling and seizure of guns, tanks, ammunition lorries and 'planes, the two senior French delegates on the Armistice Commission consented, but the junior officers and men are resisting. French regulars at the chief training base are taking their rifles to their tents at night time and strangers are ordered from camp. Similar happenings have occurred at the base, where the Italians are trying to secure the modern Glen Martin bombers. Crews of French submarines at Beirut are stubbornly staying aboard and grimly awaiting the moment when they will be asked to come off. Syrian soldiers at the camp of the Camel Corps near Damascus are refusing to give up their camels and ammunition. They are reported to have buried their ammunition in the mountains, setting up a delicate and dangerous problem for the Italian agents who are endeavouring to rot the French Army from within.

The Italians fear resistance as well as sabotage.

The attitude of the French soldier can be summed up as:
"We have the guns. What are you going to do about it?"
while the Syrians say: "France is only a mandatory here. She has no right to hand us over to Italy.'

"THE LIGHT THAT FAILED'

Rudyard Kipling Story Stars Ronald Colman

The motion picture treatment of The motion picture treatment of Rudyard Kipling's greatest novel, "The Light That Failed," starring Ronald Colman, and featuring Walter Huston, Ida Lupino, Muriel Angelus, Dudley Digges and many others, is now showing at the Regent Theatre, Hastings. "The Light That Failed" is a powerful romance which takes place in London and the Sudan during the closing years of the last century. The book has been a best-seller for three generations.

The battles which are a feature of the film are re-enactments of the famous battles between the British famous battles between the British and the Fuzzy-Wuzzies of the Sudan in the campaign of '90's which resulted in the conquest of the Sudan by the British. It was during this campaign that Kipling, as a young man watched the Fuzzy-Wuzzy—a nick-name given the Sudanese troopers by the British—in action and which caused him to write his great tribute to them as fighting men in his immortal poem, "Fuzzy-Wuzzy." He also included some of these battles in his novel, "The Light That Failed," which has now been so successfully brought to the en so successfully brought to the

In the story it is during one of these battles that Dick Heldar, artist-adventurer, meets Torpenhow, war correspondent, and the friend-ship which makes of this novel one ship which makes of this novel one of the strongest ever written in the English tongue, begins. The role of Heldar is played by Colman, and Torpenhow is portrayed by Walter Huston. Others in the big cast include Ida Lupino, Muriel Angelus, one of Paramount's "Golden Circlers," who makes her American film debut in this picture; Dudley Digges and many others.

HILARIOUS COMEDY, ''TURNABOUT''

Gay Successor To The "Topper" Series

Hal Roach, Hollywood's No. : producer of comedies, who produced Thorne Smith's "Topper" series has now filmed this brilliant author's original streamlined com-edy "Turnabout." In this new proedy "Turnabout." In this new production, Carole Landis, a lovely newcomer to the screen, is costarred with John Hubbard, last seen on the screen in "The House-keeper's Daughter." "Turnabout" is now screening at the State Theatre, Hastings. These stars are supported by a brilliant cast of players which includes Adolphe Menjou, William Gargan, Mary Astor, Verree Teasdale, Donald Meek and Margaret Roach. Mary Astor, Verree Teasdale, Donald Meek and Margaret Roach.
"Turnabout" was directed by Hal
Roach personally, and its hilarious plot concerns the high jinks produced when Miss Landis as Mrs Willows and Hubbard as her husband change sexes. The svelte, shapely Miss Landis steps into her husband's oversize shoes and experiments with the problems faced by the male portion of humanity. Six-foot, broad shouldered Hubbard becomes a fashionable society matron and flutters about at cocktail parties while his wife wears the pants—literally After our hero and heroine change places and sexes in "Turnabout", chaos and confusion ensue. Hubbard's partners in the film, Adolphe Menjou and William Gargan, can understand the sudden femininity of their associate who manages to cause all sorts of damage to the prestige of the firm and to lose it most of its valuable clientele. Back home, the same sort of thing happens for the somewhat masculine-looking lady of the house is hardly proficient with the servants and no most the for the correct social life.

He joins up with a rodeo, and when, two years later, he returns to Pine Ridge, he once more seeks to help his father and woos his schoolday.

The fathers of both Gene and Milly are mysteriously killed, and the crime is pinned on Gene. Local radicals, still resentful of the part he played in their cattle var, are about to lynch him, but Gene stages a spectacular jail break and proves in a thrilling manner who are really responsible. A large supporting cast includes Smiley Burnette, Le-Roy Mason, Charles Middleton and Roy Mason, Charles Middleton and Russell Simpson.

"Black Friday," heralded as the newest idea in horror pictures, with 18 Boris Karloff and Bela Lugosi in the starring roles, is the second feature. Said to be different from previous horror films both in story and technique, "Black Friday" finds both the stars and their supporting players appearing without the "weird" make-up effects they have used in the past. A trail of murder unique on the screen is started by Karloff, who as a famous surgeon performs a daring operation by transplanting part of the brain of less killer.

> Attractive Range Of Classes

The schools' section of the Hawke's Bay Spring Show is always one of the most attractive, and the exhibits year after year reach a higher all round standard of merit. The awards are generally well dispersed and show that the high quality specimens come not from a few schools, but from all parts of a few schools, but from all parts of education district, and even beyond this district. The general excellence of the work indeed reflects the greatest credit on teachers and pupils, and it can safely be said that what is essentially the children's section of the show does not suffer by com-parison with any other section. En-tries for the schools' section close

FAVOURITE MELODIES ON THE SCREEN

Story Of "The Great Victor Herbert"

A cast headed by such celebrities as Allan Jones, Mary Martin and Walter Connolly, twenty-eight of the unforgettable melodies written by Victor Herbert, and a rousing comance of the show world of the early 1900's are the ingredients of he new musical drama, "The Great Victor Herbert," now showing at the Regent Theatre, Napier .

The story of this fine film is not so much a biography of Victor Herbert as a drama of the comtor Herbert as a drama of the composer's influence over the glamorous show world of his day. Miss Martin, as the young girl in the story, comes to storied New York with her only assets uncommonly good looks, a fine singing voice and a spirited determination to make a name for herself on Broadway. Her lucky day comes when she meets Herbert's premier star, Jones, who falls in love with her, makes her his wife and later his stage partner. and later his stage partner.

Miss Martin, who now makes her film debut, only needed one role to make her name famous on Broadway—and throughout the entire country for that matter! Her sing-ing of "My Heart Belongs to Dad-dy" in the musical comedy, "Leave It To Me," did the trick. Another newcomer who will be seen for the first time in "The Great Victor Herbert" is Paramount's sensational new singing discovery, fourteenvear-old Susanna Foster.

Some of Victor Herbert's best remembered songs — about two dozen of them—intersperse the story. Among them are such allround favourites as "A Kiss in the Dark," "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," "Kiss Me Again" and "I'm Falling in Love with Someone."

IMMORTAL TUNES IN "SWANEE RIVER"

Melody-Filled Story In Technicolour

The beloved and famous melodies hat are America's only real folk music, and the thrilling story of the man who wrote them, are retold in a magnificent Technicolour motion picture, "Swanee River," the story of Stephen C. Foster, which is now showing at the State Theatre, Na-

The melodies that seem to express the very heart of America — "The Old Folks at Home" (Swanee River), "Old Black Joe," "My Old Wortherly Home" "Pol. Camptown Kentucky Home," "De Camptowi Races," "Jeanie with the Ligh Brown Hair," "Ring, Ring de Banjo and "Oh! Susanna!" are featured in the picture with all their charm.

The romantic drama of Foster's story-life is told in thrilling fash ion. From his early struggles the introduction of his songs by Christy's Minstrels, his meeting and romance with Jane McDowell ("Jeanie with the Light Brown Hair"), and his success, to his dis-illusionment and disappointment, his gradual disintegration and death in a shabby Bowery rooming house, the life of Stephen Foster is made for the screen, with every element that moviegoers have demanded in their entertainment.

Don Ameche plays Foster just as he was—sweet and tender, head-strong, inspired and emotionally un-stable. As Jane, Andrea Leeds is strong, inspired and emotionary timestable. As Jane, Andrea Leeds is a proper inspiration for some of the world's greatest music. Al Jolson puts over the role of Christy, the black face minstrel man, with a humour and vigour unparalleled in his long career.

OUTSTANDING SUCCESS BALL HELD AT CLIVE

Organised By The Members Of Returned Soldiers' Association

The R.S.A. ball which was held in the Clive Hall on Wednesday night was outstandingly successful, visitors being present from the surrounding districts, and a strong committee had arranged a very enjoyable evening.

The hall was decorated with flags of the different nations with the R.S.A. badge in a prominent position.

In the supper room the tables were decorated with streamers of red, white and blue; and a dainty hot savoury supper was served by the ladies' committee.

COAT SPECIALISTS. Cnr. Dalton & Emerson Sts., Central Hotel Bldgs, NAPIER. Heretaunga Street, Grand Hotel Buildings — HASTINGS. RHUBARB JAM

Take 6lb. rhubarb (weight when beeled and cut into cubes), 62lbs. sugar, 1 lemon, 3ozs. preserved gin-

Method: Cut the ginger into very small pieces, and quarter the lemon, removing all pips. Cut the rhubarb into cubes, then place all the ingredients into a basin and steep for 2 days. Then boil for 35 to 40 minutes, remove the lemon and pot in the usual way.

RHUBARB AND PINEAPPLE CONSERVE

Take 2½lbs. rhubarb, 1 medium tin of pineapple (crushed or cut very small), 4lbs. sugar.

Method: Wash and cut the rhubarb into small pieces and put them into a preserving pan with the juice from the tin of pineapple, and simmer gently until the fruit is quite tender. Add the pineapple and the sugar. Stir until it boils, then stir and boil rapidly for 20 minutes or until a little poured on a cold plate will set.

RHUBARB FLUMMERY

One bunch rhubarb, 6oz. sugar, 1 pint water, whites 3 eggs, squeeze lemon juice, 1 tablespoon castor sugar, 2 teaspoon ground ginger.

Wash rhubarb and cut into inch lengths; make a syrup of sugar and water; add rhubarb and cook till quite soft; rub through a sieve, add duite soft; rub through a sieve, add lemon juice and ground ginger and a few drops of carmine to colour pink, if necessary. Have whites of eggs stiffly beaten. Add to them the castor sugar and when rhubarb is quite cold, stir them lightly in. Heap on a glass dish and serve with coult and the rubits of custard made from the yolks of mustard, 6 cloves.

Method: Peel and cut the rhubarb in short lengths; peel the onions and cut up. Put both into a pan with a little of the vinegar, salt, cloves and pepper and boil gently for about an hour. Then pass through a sieve, return the mixture to the pan, add the remains of the vinegar and sugar and bring to the boil. Lastly add the turmeric and mustard mixed with a little vinegar to make a smooth paste. Boil gently about $\frac{1}{4}$ to $1$ hour, until thick. Cook a little, then bottle and cork tightly. Excellent served as a change from tomato sauce with cold meat.

Set with this, add the rhubarb, sugar, grated orange rind, mixed together. Pour the water over. Cover with buttered paper and bake in a moderate oven 40 minutes. When cooked turn out on to serving dish. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Serve with hard sauce: Quarter reduce heat and bake for 20 minutes, then rutes, until rhubarb is tender and custard set. Beat whites stiffly. Add castor sugar gradually and continue to beat till stiff. Pile on top of butterscotch and bake in a cool oven until set and slightly browned.

Rhubarb is one of those much-maligned foods which owe their reputation for dullness to unin-spired cooking. Rich/in vita-mins it is good for young and old, but is often so unappetis-ingly presented that a dislike for it contracted in childhood may last in later years. Actu-may last in later years. Actually there is no reason why it should not take its place among the favourite desserts. the favourite desserts.

It is inexpensive—an important consideration where the family is large—and will very shortly be easily obtained in large quantities.

Rhubarb should be a very welcome change in every house-welcome change in every house-hold so try preparing it in one of these many delicious ways. Remember that rhubarb should never be stewed. Steam it in an enamel basin standing in boiling water. The taste will be better and it will not become

RADIO THRILLERS

The Hawke's Bay Education Board's comment on certain types of "thriller" episodes sent over the air in serial form has been endorsed in other parts of the country. There is a natural anxiety on the part of those who are interested in education that nothing should be done to increase in any way the nervous strain which is already taut enough because of the war situation. When these bodies made their protests they were concerned chiefly with the effects of such broadcasts on the minds of children; but at the same time it may be said that the detrimental results may be even greater in the case of adults, inasmuch as they have a more intelligent, grown-up reaction to the possibilities of the great struggle now being waged. It has been said that the great difference between radio services and all others of a musical, dramatic, or entertainment character is that, while in the case of radio you must take what you get, in the other cases you may choose what you want. It can be said in reply to this, of course, that just as you may refuse to go to an entertainment that does not meet with your taste, so you can snip off the wireless when unwelcome material comes over. But the difference is that there is nothing to pay when you stay home from a concert, whereas the radio licence bill goes on and on.

In many other parts of the world an excellent idea has been adopted of organising a plebiscite of listeners in order to determine the nature of the most popular programmes: and readers of the Daily Mail will recall that about eighteen months ago we organised a questionnaire in Hawke's Bay which brought forth sufficient replies to indicate that the general preference of the people is for light entertainment in the evenings. Plays, talks, and "thrillers" were well down

Since then, the technique of putting over "Detective Scott" stories and similar items has improved to the extent that they are more realistically convincing than ever, and the serial principle has been introduced to ensure that at the crucial moment the story is abruptly cut off at an instant of breathless excitement, with the result that nerves are left tingling and false emotions roused which play havoc with the psychological system—particularly of children.

The precocity of some of our youngsters is already sufficiently far advanced because of the speeding up of modern developments in many ways that lie outside the realm of radio. It would be a pity if our radio services should add to the serious problems confronting those in charge of the education of our growing children. Although parents may exercise due care and discretion in the case of other forms of entertainment, the radio instrument is on the very hearthstone, and even in the absence of parents any intelligent child can twiddle the dial and receive more harm than good. It is only natural that the equivalent of our "Deadwood Dick" days should be repeated in the case of the children of to-day; but it should be remembered that the "thrillers" of to-day are much more sophisticated and much more cunningly planned to arouse the neurotic interest of the impressionable.

Such times as those in which we are living call for calm minds and steady nerves. It is all to the good that on occasion we should indulge in some form of "escapism" so that our minds for the time being may be purged of the cares that infest the day, but our escapes should be into legitimate realms wherein our nerves will not be still more greatly jangled, else we cannot return to normal life and its problems without damage to our poise and balance.

To get down to the root of the matter, it may be said that the future of our civilisation depends upon the most meticulous training of that most delicate organism in creation —the mind of the child. The most sacred work of the world's psychologists is to "let the ape and tiger die." That drawing out of what is best in the child-which we call educationcan be jeopardised by careless, loose talk or by faulty presentation of what is supposed to be entertainment. It cannot be doubted that much of the "thriller" type of presentation is doing a great deal of harm to highly-strung children who, by their very facility to react quickly to sensations, might become our most useful and capable citizens when properly directed and taught.

One word more may be said to the parents and others in control of children. A certain amount of restraint must be exercised at times when children are present and the favourite feature is about to "come over." It would not, in other words, be entirely fair to blame the children for the effects of the wrong impressions they receive, if the fault lies with those in charge of them.

Invitation to Minister

The Hawke's Bay Education Board decided yesterday to invite the Minister of Education and the Director of Education to visit Hawke's Bay in the near future to discuss the question of maintenance grants to school committees. The chairman, Mr G. A. Maddison, said that with costs of wages and materials rising and the departmental allocation being reduced, the position was becoming quite impossible, and some relief would have to be given.

Harbour Works Inspected

An inspection of development works at the Napier breakwater was carried out yesterday morning by the Prime Minister, the Rt. Hon. P. Fraser, accompanied by Mr E. J. Herrick, deputy-chairman of the board; Mr P. F. Higgins, chairman of the works committee; Mr V. E. Sanders, secretary, and Mr C. R. Davis, engineer. The Prime Minister expressed pleasure at the progress being made with the work, and especially the construction of the new wharf. An inspection of development not be tolerated.

High School Hostel

A visit to the new hostel nearing completion at the Napier Girls' High School was paid yesterday by the Rt. Hon. P. Fraser. He was met by the head mistress (Miss E. M. McCarthy) and the chairman of the Secondary Education Board (Mr J. H. Edmundson), and conducted through the building. The Prime Minister remarked that the new hostel was most modern and attractive Former Name Retained tel was most modern and attractive and would prove an asset to the educational facilities of the district.

Wage Question

The question of granting a wage increase to employees of the education service was before the Hawke's Bay Education Board yesterday, and it was decided to refer the subject to the finance committee, with power to act. The Education De-partment wrote stating that as soon as information as to wage increases was available they would advise the board. "No doubt our employees will have to be treated in the same way as other civil servants," said the chairman (Mr G. A. Maddison).

"Bucking Bombingham Palace"

The chairman of a war council which meets every morning on the front seat of an inward-bound Dun edin tramcar was in particularly good form recently, and his hearty approval of the feats of the Royal Air Force was endorsed unani-mously by his fellow councillors in a discussion that lasted for nearly a section. Then, in an address no a section. Then, in an address not untinged by profanity, the chairman launched into a wholehearted condemnation of the Nazis. "I consider" he said, "that the bucking of Bombingham Palace was one of the most dastardly —..." So far he got when his remarks were interrupted by a shout of laupther and it was not shout of laughter and it was not until he conducted a hasty mental review of what he had said that he realised he had perpetrated a spoor erism of the first magnitude.

Dreamt of Invasion

A Putiki resident, after reading the ominous words "invasion of England must be attempted," went to sleep on a recent night with Hit ler's tanks and aeroplanes on his ler's tanks and aeropianes on his mind. In the cold, small hours of the morning he awoke in a sort of half stupor, heard the racing of motors and knew there was considerable activity on the Airport Road. He woke the household with a cry: "Come on, they've come!" The cold restored his senses and perion restored his senses, and peering through the gloom of morn, he saw the motor-cycle platoon of the Wellington Regiment (City of Wellington's Own) moving down the road, with exhausts of their machines wide open. They were on their way to repel an invasion as imaginary to repel an invasion as imaginary as the Putiki man's dream, but he was pleased rather than annoyed at what had happened.

EFFECT ON CHILDREN

Minister Of Broadcasting Replies

BOARD NOT SATISFIED

Both radio and films were under fire from the Hawke's Bay Education Board yesterday, when the effect of these forms of entertainment on the minds of school children was discussed. Disappointment was expressed at a letter received from the Minister of Broadcasting which made a noncommittal reply to a recent protest from the board on the subject of radio serials and "thrillers."

The Minister (the Rt. Hon. P. Fraser) said he appreciated the earnestness with which the board had approached the question, but it would be understood that the matter of censoring broadcast programmes of a nature so universally appreciated as serials of the type referred to was one of great difficulty, and that any drastic action in the way of eliminating entertainment of this type from the programmes would be likely to cause considerable resentment among the listening public

Careful attention was paid by the Broadcasting Service, in the auditioning of serials, to the need for ensuring that vice was not presented in these serials in an attractive form. and that no serious conflict with decent behaviour was allowed to go unpunished; and many otherwise attractive programmes were rejected by the Broadcasting Service on such grounds as these.

MR NASH EXPOUNDS A PROBLEM

Comprehensive Reply To The Users Of Petrol

NEED FOR RESTRICTIONS

By Telegraph-Press Association

WELLINGTON, Sept. 20.

The Hon. W. Nash, reviewing the petrol restrictions. said that since the outbreak of war the Government had given careful attention to the needs of the industry and to the requirements of essential transport services, also to the interests of private motorists. Everything possible had been done to secure an equitable scale of rationing.

"However, vital needs must come first," he said. "We dare not take risks in establishing and maintaining adequate petrol supplies for defence and emergency purposes. If our stocks of petrol got low, we would not be sure of replenishing them at a moment's notice. Oil tankers are not waiting at our beck and call, nor must we forget the risk they run of enemy action at sea.

"The State does not possess vast reservoirs of petrol which could be kept intact for defence purposes. The storage tanks would more likely hold enough for essential requirements if motorists would try to use even less than the ration

"Before the war, we used more petrol per head than the people of any other country except the United States, but that flow cannot be maintained under war hazards."

It would be regretted, continued Mr Nash, that the protests against the restrictions had warmed up to resentment and a sense of injustice. There was no valid reason for anything like that.

"With the same frankness I concede that the points of the argument against the restrictions have been well taken and ir good faith without prejudice to the war effort. It has been shown be yond dispute that the motor industry has been hit heavily, that the services of many workers have been reluctantly dispensed with, and that the Treasury has been deprived of taxation revenue.

"I agree. Who knows better I how much all these facts it to the State? But I also know no Government would be foolish enough in the prevailing circumstances to bring these conditions into force without good reason."

"It is also true," continued Mr Nash, "that the motor industry and many users of petrol honestly believe that they have been harshly treated. I cannot agree. Every restriction placed upon them has been carefully examined and weighed in the balance of national needs. The petrol rationing introduced at the outbreak of the war was for the sole purpose of building adequate reserves. That objective was attained three months later. The Govern-ment then lifted the restrictions to provide petrol for holiday travel, although the British Government advised on September 18 that the cutting down of petrol imports would be a real assistance in the financial field. With this in mind, the New Zealand Government, in close cooperation with the British Ministry decided at the end of January to reintroduce rationing on February 1. The basis of the rationing still left the aggregate consumption at the substantial total of 72,000,000 gallons a year. It was then stated that unless there was a serious deterioration in the international situation. the Government did not intend to reduce the rationing scale."

It was hoped next month to review the whole position of petrol rationing, said the Prime Minister (the Rt. Hon. P. Fraser) in reply to a deputation which waited on him at Napier. It was essential that a minimum reserve of petrol should be held in the country.

The deputation was introduced by the Hon. W. E. Barnard, M.P. for Napier. The speakers, Messrs J. E. Peach and H. Dysart, pointed out the great advantage that would result to the trade if an extra 1,000,000 gallons per month were permitted

Britishers Take The Anzacs To Their Hearts

WARM HOSPITALITY

(From the Special Correspondent with the Second Echelon in England.)

ALDERSHOT, August 20.

Among the ineffaceable memories of the Second Echelon's sojourn in England will be that of the kindness of the people. Partly that is due to our having come so far to share the dangers that are so near, these days, to the Old Country. Partly it is because we are New Zealanders; the fine reputation of the First N.Z.E.F. has not been dimmed by passing years. But mostly it springs from the innate hospitality of the English heart.

The Englishman is reputedly reserved and aloof. In peacetime that may be fair comment; ordinarily a visitor from the Dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominions does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominion does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominion does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominion does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominion does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominion does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominion does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominion does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominion does feel at home sooner in Scotland or from the Dominion does feel at home sooner in Scotland does feel at home sooner in Scotland does feel at home sooner Iroln the Dollmhons does feel at home sooner in Scotland of Ireland than in southern England. Under the testing strain of war, however, reserve has melted. To soldiers of the Empire the Englishman has thrown his heart wide open; and with his heart, in many instances, his home.

with his heart, in many instances, his home.

The hospitality offered New Zealand troops is as varied as the social and economic status of the people offering it. There is no variation in its cordiality. It ranges from invitations to spend the whole of one's leave or convalescence in stately country homes—or in such parts of them as are not given over to hospital or other war work—to quick, eager urgings to take a cup of tea while momentarily halted before a tiny cottage. If you, reader, would appreciate what that means to the giver, try making two ounces of tea per person last a week in your kitchen—and see how little is left over for strangers at the gate. Yet not once or twice, but scores and hundreds of times, this has been the experience of our men on the march here in the South of England. Sometimes, the tea ration probably already exhausted, they are offered coors or coffee; some

Hospitality

A widow who lives in the nearby village has fitted out a big games room, with a full-size billiard table, other table games, cards, darts, and a wireless. She has given a standing invitation for seven or eight patients one evening every week, and four or five of the hospital staff another evening. They are made free of the room, cigarettes and sweets are in plentiful supply, and the hostess is sorely disappointed in everyone who does not take supper before leaving. "Nonsense!" she says in waving aside thanks. "It's nothing to what all of you are doing for us." Another woman is lending a piano, to increase the comfort of staff quarters and common-rooms at the hospital."

IS CONGESTION LIKELY?

Although the storage capacity of the meat works throughout the Dominion is very great, concern is being expressed in certain quarters as to whether it will be adequate during the coming season. Much depends on the refrigerated tonnage available, and no doubt the Meat Producers' Board will make every effort to maintain shipments with sufficient regularity to prevent any congestion in the stores.

Several farmers and business executives were seen by a

"Daily Mail" reporter and asked for their views.

All were unanimous in agreeing that up to the present this season had been particularly favourable and that a bumper year might reasonably be expected, although it was too early yet for definite assessment of the position.

Should storage extension become necessary, he considered that any extra buildings required could be constructed in time to meet this season's need, as in his opinion, ample warning of any such requirements would be given.

A similar opinion was expressed by another executive, who stated that on the whole the storage question ought to be in a good position. The works in which he was interested should be practically, if not quite, empty by the middle of October, in readiness for the commencement of killing early in November.

Prime Minister Present

An enjoyable concert a ranged by Madame Margaret Mercer took place in the Trinity Hall, Clive Square, Napier, admission being a gift suitable for inclusion in the soldier's Christmas parcels, and the public responded well.

During the evening the Prime Minister, the Rt. Hon. P. Fraser, and Mrs Fraser attended and were welcomed by Mrs Dudley Kettle, the president of the Ladies' Patriotic Corps, and Mesdames Fussell and Solomon. Mrs Kettle introduced Mr. Fraser to the assembly, and the Prime Minister thanked the audience for their attendance and for the efforts being made to assist our soldiers. He also spoke of the gallant fight heirs weged eventures by soldiers. He also spoke of the gallant fight being waged overseas by our Army, Navy and Air Force, and urged his hearers to give all the

The programme was an excellent one, and the performers received a very warm reception from the audience. Vocal solos were rendered by Madame Mercer, and Miss Bernice Mooney, songs in costume by Miss Morag McLean, humorous recitation by Miss Valeria Lewis and Mr. S. P. by Miss Valerie Lewis and Mr. S. P. Spiller, operatic and tap dances by Miss Merrie Bowland (Napier). Miss Rachel Schofield and Miss Valerie Cleary were heard to advantage in character songs, and also vocal solos, Miss Cleary also presenting elocutionary items. Miss Naida Cameron created much laughter in her presentation of "Football Fans". All these artists were from Hastings

TASTE FOR MODERN HOMES Many New Flats And State

Houses Should Relieve The Shortage

The housing shortage at Hastings is likely to be alleviated to a certain extent in the near future by the 30 State Housing units nearing completion and two blocks of flats converted from large boarding-houses. Agents and builders approached by the "Daily Mail" yesterday said that people were developing a modernised taste for dwellings, and consequently new or fairly recently built houses were in keen Instances in which people have become dissatisfied with their comparatively badly-convenienced older dwellings after inspecting ultra-modern houses in the past couple of years are fairly common. In some ways the State Housing scheme, which provides for streamlined chromium taps and the most useful, unobtrusive built-in wardrobes and cupboards, has been responsible for this. Many house-owners are anxious to dispose of their property, an inspection of agents' books yesterday revealed.

Jit is safe to say that there are from 50 to 60 more flats in Hastings than a year ago, several factors contributing to the development of this type of dwelling. GROWING OF BARLEY IN THE HAWKE'S BAY AREA

A Complaint By Farmers That The Suggested Price Is Too Low

Barley growing for pig feed was discussed at the monthly meeting of the Hawke's Bay Provincial Executive of the Farmers' Union during the week.

Mr H. J. McKeesick expressed the opinion that the pigfarmers could expect little help from other farmers in growing barley for pig raising. Farmers were in the best position to know what barley cost to produce. The Government's request in this case actually was a demand that farmers should contribute a section of their incomes to the war effort.

KEEN SELLING FOR POULTRY

Hastings Market Rates

READY COMPETITION FOR SUNDRIES

Messrs Harvey, Fulton & Hill re-port that at their weekly market sale in their mart, Russell Street, Hastings, yesterday, there was a large attendance of the public. The entry of poultry was the usual one for this time of the year, and of good quality throughout. The demand was again keen, and the high values ruling for some time past continued.

A very large entry of tools, both gardening and carpentering, went to auction and these as usual met with ready competition. Through an accident, no timber arrived, as advertised, for the sale. Prices may be quoted:

WAIPAWA SCHOOL BALL PROVES GREAT SUCCESS

Colourful Fancy Dresses Add To Jollity Of The Evening

"Daily Mail" Special Service

WAIPAWA. The annual fancy dress ball of the Waipawa District High School, held in the Municipal Theatre last evening, was an outstanding success. Well over 300 children danced to music provided by Lew Munro's orchestra and they were watched by an exceptionally large attendance of parents and the general public.

The scene was one of great jollity and colour, a notice-able feature being the large number of pretty and original fancy dress costumes worn. The children, in the charge of the staff, thoroughly enjoyed their time on the floor doing folk dances and a number of ballroom dances. Two items which were greatly appreciated were the junior and the senior grand march. The senior march, with its intricate figures, was well done and looked particularly fine, as the secondary pupils also were all in fancy dress. As the march finished the pupils formed the letters W.D.H.S. and sang their school song.

In the supper room, which had been tastefully decorated in the school colours by the High School girls, an energetic ladies' committee served a delightful supper to the children. For the adults' part of the evening Mr. N. J. Wiseman acted as M.C. Following is a list of the costumes

SPRING FLOWERS AND HOME INDUSTRIES

High-Quality Exhibits At Otane

RESULTS OF JUDGING

The annual spring flower and home industries show run by the Otane Women's Institute was held in the Otane Town Hall yesterday afternoon. Mrs D. Campbell, president of the Southern Hawke's Bay Federation of Women's Institutes, opened the show, and congratulated the exhibitors on the fine display of flowers and home industries. Although the number of entries was rather smaller than usual, the quality of the blooms left nothing to be desired.

The judges of the various sections expressed pleasure at the fine display and good quality of work and flowers shown. A special feature was the wonderful display of needlework by the St. Hilda's children.

"IT IS FINISHED!"

DR. CHALMERS had been visiting a woman who was anxious and troubled about her soul.

Her constant cry was: "Oh, tell me what can I do! What can I do to be saved?" Again and again, he told of the work of the Lord Jesus Christ, and how He had cried on the Cross—

"IT IS FINISHED!" It seemed, however, to be all in vain, for still the same nest cry fell from her lips: "Oh, tell me, what must I do to be saved?" At length the doctor said: "Then would you like the Lord Jesus to come from heaven again, and to suffer upon the Cross for your sins? He has been there, He has done the work, and He has cried: 'It is finished!'" The spell was broken. The anxious one looked off from herself, and anything she could do, to the Risen Saviour, and to that glorious, all-sufficient work which He had done, and at once entered into rest of soul.

QUICK ACTION CATCHES

THE ESCAPADE OF A FROG, BY SHIRLEY HANNAH

In one of the picturesque ponds in To one of the picturesque points in Cornwall Park I grew up in a community of frogs. Perhaps you have heard us sometimes or even seen us swimming gaily about in the water. We find life very pleasant.

"You don't think you'll spot the periscope of an enemy submarine, do you?" asked David Gray, grinning broadly.

His pal, Tom Whyte, was peering through binoculars at the sea, turbulent and grey, and merging with a stormy sky on the far horizon so that sea and sky seemed one.
"Don't be an ass! Can't I look round a bit?"

"You'd better look at these." Tom handed over the binoculars that had come into hard contact with the ground. "Blame yourself if they're crook."
David snatched at them and examined them anxiously. "They seem all right," he said, relieved. "I say, what do you think that chap was doing? A fellow in gloves doesn't work round beaches and—."
"Go measuring caves with a tape-"

"Don't be an ass: Can't I look round a bit?"
"and do bit?"
"Go measuring caves with a tapemastaken. This is no place for an amateur detective."
Tom did not reply. He was covering the waters and the beach with his glasses, watching an old trawler here and a rowing-boat there.
The boy was spending a few days with David at the week-end cottage of Mr and Mrs Simpson, relatives of David. The house was on colff, and commanded a magnificent view of beach and sea.
"If it wasn't so wet, I'd show you round a bit," said David, coming to the window where Tom was resting his elbows and viewing the land-scape. He jumped as Tom leapt back from the window with sudden excitement.

"Don't say you HAVE seen as look and sea."
"But you can't—not that beach."
"It is any so doing? A fellow in gloves doesn't work round beaches and—"

Dear Girls and Boys,—

I'm sure that many of you who were not able to come in and visit me last Saturday morning would love to hear what happened.

Well, fifteen Playmates visited me, and we all sat in my room and talked together and each Playmate told me all about school. Then they were all shown round the machine-room and were able to see how everything is done from the time when your letters reach me until you see the Playtime Page in your paper.

Everyone was most interested and we had lots of fun getting to know each other, and I had several very nice thank-you letters that I was delighted

Those of you who were not able to come in will have another chance later on when I have another visiting day.

I would like to remind you all again that your letters MUST reach me by Wednesday evening at the very latest. There were quite a number of late letters this week, and this means that though I answer them and give you marks, I cannot include your stories, jokes, riddles, and so on.

Would you all try to write to me at week-ends and post them as soon as you possibly

The Letterbox

"Sunshine Sally," Waipawa: I see you have altered the address at the top of your letter, "Sunshine Sally," so should I do the same. I did enjoy your jokes. I shall be looking forward to this wonderful letter that I am to receive and who knows, I may visit you before you get to Hastings.

Shirley Hannah, D.S.O., Hastings: I haroughly enjoyed your story this Shirley Hannah, D.S.O., Hastings: I thoroughly enjoyed your story this week, Shirley, and was only very sorry that I couldn't have illustrated it with your good little sketch. We may be able to use drawings again later on.

"Garthowen," Hastings: I shall be ever so pleased if you have got a new member for our club—everyone is welcome. Is that your first attempt at a verse, "Garthowen," because it is quite good.

quite good.

"Genevieve," Whakatu: I was glad to hear that some of your plants are up already, "Genevieve." I think it is splendid that you are all so interested in your gardens and how nice for each one to have his own. I hope I shall hear lots more about them. Your poem was splendid.

Tony Austin, Whakatu: Thank you for your competition, Tony, we will have it quite soon and I think that you are a clever boy to write it out. Also I am very pleased to hear all about your garden and I hope everything grows well.

"Daffodil," Hastings: You will receive your membership card this week, "Daffodil," if you have not already done so and will you try to gain 25 marks and earn a badge. I liked hearing about your visit to the Park.

"Ginger," Whakatu: I think you have chosen an excellent pen name, "Ginger," and I am so glad you liked your visit to see me. I hope your music is going along well.

"Professor," Whakatu: I missed you on Saturday, "Professor," but you will be able to come next time. I am sorry the birds took your peas. Could you plant some more and put some little sticks and black cotton over the top of them. I'm glad you are teaching "Cobber" good manners.

Lillian Stanley, D.S.O., Hastings: Your Saturday afternoon was certainly not wasted, Lillian, and I think you filled every moment well. I shall look out for your sewing at the Show next month and do hope you will be successful. I'm going to put in an entry also.

"Bluebell," Hastings: It gave me great pleasure to meet you all on Saturday, "Bluebell," and I'm so glad to hear that you enjoyed yourself. I've enjoyed reading your jokes and ciddles.

"Allies," Mohaka: I think that I will take your advice, "Allies," and visit you when you think it would be best. Perhaps you would tell me when you think it would be a good time but tell me a week or so beforehand. I shall be anxious to hear all about your Fancy Dress Ball and also the tournament

Fancy dress.

Fay Driver, Hastings: I am glad you enjoyed your visit, Fay, and there will certainly be another day soon. The Riddle-me-Ree is excellent and we will use it very soon. You must write and tell me about the fancy dress your mother is making you.

"Bo Peep," Pakowhai: I think that you have chosen an excellent pen name, "Bo Peep," and we will always use it in future.

"Busy Bee," Hastings: Your party did sound successful, "Busy Bee," and I think you must have been tired by the end of the day. I'm sure all your vegetables will grow and I shall be interested to hear all about them.

"Inspector Scott," Hastings: I was sure that you would like seeing over the office, "Inspector Scott," and I am very glad that you could come. And I am anxious to hear all about the vegetables that you grow.

"Alice in Wonderland," Hastings: I am glad that you had a busy afternoon on Saturday, after all, "Alice." Your jokes are very good but as I seem to have tob many this week I think I will keep them for next Saturday.

The Masterton spring meeting, which will be held at Otaki on October 17 and 19, will prove an attraction to Hawke's Bay owners and trainers G. R. Tattersall: Sandy Bay, Sweet tance is that the second day's high-Anne, Siegmund, Stella Lux, Kenweight will be one mile, instead of one weight will be one mile, instead of one and a quarter miles, which is an improvement on a race each day over one and a quarter miles. The Nursery Handicap on the first day will provement on a race each day over one and a quarter miles. The Nursery Handicap on the first day will also be run as fifth race, instead of first, the opening event now being the maiden item. The two open handicaps, the Vallance Memorial, one mile and a quarter, and the Masterton Handicap, one mile, will be worth £160 and £130, respectively, and the Champion Hack Cup, one mile, again carries a stake of £130.

Golden Melody Showing Form

(By MOTUROA.)

This week-end finds spring racing well on its way, and racing enthusiasts will find plenty to occupy their attention. Of greatest interest to Hawke's Bay sportsmen will be the Marton Jockey Club's fixture, at which a number of local horses are likely to be seen in action. At Timaru, the Geraldine Racing Club's annual meeting will be concluded, and, for devotees of the light-harness sport, there will be trotting at Hutt Park.

It is most gratifying to find that big fields are being carded at all meetings, and spring prospects appear brighter all round than earlier indicated. There is a good class of horse in training at present and this augurs well for the approaching metropolitan meetings.

As the result of a week of fine weather, track conditions should be good for all meetings to-day, and the three fixtures will be using the win-and-place betting system.

CONSIDERABLE interest is being evinced in the Hawke's Bay Jockey Club's spring meeting at Hastings on October 3 and 5, and indications at this juncture are that the fix-ture will be in every way very successful. The meeting leads the way to the Wellington and N.Z. Cup meetings and so pro-vides a good rehearsal for those major fixtures. KENTUCKY LUCULLUS BOY

Firstly, I realise that the future position of New Zealand's new car stocks is unpredictable, so I'm buying now and choosing the car that will be a real asset over the next

Secondly, I'm choosing the car that will make the very smallest demand on petrol. This Morris Eight gives up to 50 miles per gallon, and Just now, that's highly Important. With a Morris, too, I'm getting the best in modern transportation. It has room to spare for four big people and that large exterior luggage boot will carry all the gear. In safety, no car can give me more; hydraulic brakes, safety glass and the low centre of gravity guarantee that. And with the 4-speed synchromesh gears and the lively 30 b.h.p. engine, the Morris Eight will foot it with anything. The way she handles in traffic, the way she parks and manoeuvres, is a real joy.

And then, my final reason? Just the name. It strikes me that a car which has consistently outsold all competitors by such tremendous majorities . . . a car which always commands such a high re-sale value, must be the goods. So there you are. For its economy, value, and sheer intrinsic worth, my choice is a Morris Eight.

Make Your choice too a MORRIS 8

CURRENT COMMENT

By "Moturoa." Sweet Anne ran second to Lady Ex at Marton in July and her third at the Wanganui meeting suggests that she is still holding her form.

Foxiana has been schooling well at Awapuni and the full-brother to Old Surrey and Hunting Lore should make good at the game.

Star Zone, who is engaged in the Maiden Race at the Marton meeting ran two splendid races at Awapuni at the beginning of the month. She might improve with the experience. Nigger Boy and Gaelic Song are the stable double at the Marton meeting, and both are being keenly discussed.

LANG BIAN is a particularly handsome horse and closely resembles his famous sire. He was a good winner in the best class races in France.

MASSINE, Lang Bian's sire, was a high-class winner in France, and also beat the Derby winner Papyrus in the Ascot Gold Cup. He has twice headed the winning sires' list in France and he introduces a fresh strain of St. Simon blood through that great galloper La Camargo.

FOREST TRACK'S pedigree is well known. Not only is she by that great brood mare sire Tracery, but her third dam is that wonderful mare La Fleche, the third dam of Beau Pere and Gay Shield, two of the most successful sires in New Zealand in modern times.
