THE DAKAR FIGHT CONTINUES UNDER HEAVY GUNFIRE

British Were Repulsed, Says Vichy

RESISTANCE MADE AGAINST RESIDENTS' WISHES

De Gaulle Confident

(United Press Association-Copyright.) (Received Sept. 25, 10 p.m.) VICHY, Sept. 24.

It is unofficially stated that the British made six attempts to land troops under General de Gaulle in West Africa, but that all were repulsed. The British commander threatened to destroy the fortifications and occupy the city unless the defenders surrendered at 6 a.m. to-day. General Boisson declared: "We will fight to the end."

The British sank the submarine Persee, which holed a British cruiser. Most of the crew were saved. French coastal artillery shot down three British 'planes.

A semi-official announcement says that the British, shelling Dakar all night, killed 100. General Boisson has ample forces to repel a landing, but the British are immensely superior at sea, having two battleships, four cruisers, six destroyers, and six troopships carrying 7000 troops. The French have crippled the Richelieu, but consider that the cruiser Gorges Leygues and three destroyers are not able to be used. Our ships have begun reprisals.

It is announced that 120 French

"planes raided Gibraltar as a reprisal and dropped 100 bombs, which caused extensive fires in petrol dumps and on the arsenal. A Lalinea message states 30 'planes participated in a raid against Gibraltar which lasted 90 minutes. Black smoke from fires enveloped the mock.

Air Keypoint

"The Germans intended to reestablish air lines through Dakar to South America. Dakar is an air keypoint that has an ultra-modern aerodrome at Ouakam, an aerodrome at Hanne, and also one further inland, a military aerodrome at Thynes and two military aerodromes at St. Louis. Moreover, Dakar is a railhead for the railway to Nigeria and is most important from the viewpoint of telegraph communications. Ultimatum Rejected

"Despite the desire of the population the local authorities rejected General de Gaulle's ultimatum and opened hostilities, firing on three ships."

The leader of General de Gaulle's supporters, Professor Saurat, said: "If Dakar is taken and Britain gives the necessary support General de Gaulle will win the war for France. We are sure that Britain has sent RUGBY, Sept. 24. Broadcasting on Tuesday night, a 21-years-old bomber pilot of the R.A.F. described his experiences in the previous night's raids in and around Berlin. He blew up part of a gasworks in the north-east district of the city.

He said: "This was my 25th raid over Germany, and it was about the most successful of the whole 25. Our squadron had been to Berlin before, but I hadn't. They had sent me to Hamm instead, and my crew was a bit fed up about that. show was on, and we knew that it was going to be on a pretty large scale."

It adds that Anglo-American economic pressure is powerless to restrain Japan, who will push her fixed policy with fresh energy.

(United Press Association-Copyright.) (Received Sept. 25, 11 p.m.)

LONDON, Sept. 25.

Bombers concentrated on central London early to-day. A number of people were killed or injured when what is believed to have been an aerial torpedo landed outside a restaurant, demolishing an hotel opposite and also shattering a number of buildings in the neighbourhood. The terrific blast was felt 400 yards away.

The raiders later dropped incendiaries on or near a famous Wren church and then, guided by the light, dropped several high-explosive bombs.

Sixteen incendiaries fell on a north London hospital without causing any casualties. Several fires were quickly put out and little damage was done. Raiders bombed Welsh towns over a wide area.

A dense mist shrouded the Straits of Dover to-night. The sea was calm and there was a cloudless sky, with a light north-westerly wind.

The searchlights operated in full force to-night when the raiders arrived over Central London. Guns fired heavily against a single raider. Another raider dropped an orange flare, after which a high-explosive bomb crashed with a terrific roar in Central London.

Bombs fell early in north, southeast and south-west London.

He and Tansey helped cach other with jobs requiring more than one man. Last Friday they worked to gether docking lambs, and during the general conversation the question of conscription arose. Tansey seemed worried at the likelihood of being called in the first ballot. When witness pointed out that as a farmer working alone he had the right to appeal Tansey said that the deceased had lived alone in a new house on 230 carps acquired from his father about a year before the latter died in January, 1939.

He and Tansey helped cach other with jobs requiring more than one gether docking lambs, and during the general conversation the questions on American patriotism. Friday was the last time he spoke form the saw him in the dis to Tansey but he saw him in the distance on Monday morning going round the sheep.

Finding of Body Mr Allwood then described how he found the body shortly after 8 o'clock on Tuesday morning. He was riding along the boundary, when he saw the body balanced on the fence with the gun gripped in the left hand. One glance was enough to convince him that the man was dead. He called the police, and with them examined the body, which was astride the fence with the right foot interlaced with the two lower wires.

There were no rabbits on either farm, and witness could think of no reason for Tansey to carry a gun. In his opinion his brother-in-law had committed suicide. He had been of a morose disposition and would never go away for a holiday. His financial position was sound. Constable Sutton in evidence said

Energetic Descendants

Descendants of these Orientals, now numbering almost half the population of Hawaii, are soon respected by the tourists as the most energetic people of the islands. The children are to be seen eternally darting to and fro with their school books; the grown-ups darting in and out of the harbour with their blue fishing sampans (the Japanese handle the wholesale fishing industry), or darting back and forth on with their bamboo rakes and garden hose. that Mr Allwood called him by tele-phone at about 8.40 o'clock on Tuesphone at about 8.40 o'clock on Tuesday morning, and said that his brother-in-lew was shot. With Constable W. R. Thomasen, witness went out to the farm and accompanied Mr Allwood to the boundary fence where they found the body. Witness was quite satisfied that the right foot had been deliberately placed between the wires to act as a balance to keep the body from falling. A search of the house revealed no message. There were two empty cartridges in the gun, and the rest of a box of 25, with one exception, were found undischarged in Tansey's pockets and in the house. These ambitious immigrant Orientals met in Hawaii an Occidental civilisation set up by New England missionaries. In embracing Occidental civilism without help to represent dental culture they help to perfect its major accomplishments. These Tansey's pockets and in the house An examination of the body re-accomplishments are apparent to the traveller. Hawaii has one of the Herbert Shattky, Jean Priest and Harold Mayo.

The "Formation Quickstep" was danced by Mary Lyons and Wilfred Hall, Grace Darling and Patrick Sweetapple, Anne Norman and Bob Rolls, Grethel Laurie and Pat Collins, Vera McManus and Charlie McManus, with a solo by Rona Renour and Harold Mayo.

A lovely ballet, "Blue Orchids," was danced by Judith Perry, Yvonne Estaugh, Grace Sampson, Sally McVay, Fay Hall, and a "Slow Fox-trot" was shown by Fox- Value.

The examination of the body revealed no marks of violence. The world noe of the best secondary school and university systems in the world. Nowhere else on earth does the tourist see sugar cane and pine-apple growing more lustily than in Hawaii.

ST. JAMES'S MOTHERS' Annexamination of the body revealed no marks of violence. The wealed no marks of violence.

The gun and cartridges were bought in Waipukurau on Monday morning from a store where decased usually deal*, and the sales-manner at the time.

Constable W. R. Thomasen corroborated what Constable Sutton and Mr Allwood had said. He estimated that death had taken place within five or six hours of the time he saw the body.

The coroner found that death was

"Rewi's Last Stand" Is Thrilling Story

"Rewi's Last Stand," which shows finally to-night at the Cosy Theatre, Hastings, was privately screened in Wellington to an audience which included Mr John Grierson, the Canadian Government film commissioner, who has produced many successful films.

Addressing the audience after the screening, Mr Grierson said that it was more important that New Zealanders should have produced that film than that they should see a hundred films from Hollywood. Not that good films were not made in Hollywood, for they were, but be cause in the film they had just seen the nation had expressed itself. It was a good film, and he was surprised how near to producing a Cecil B. de Mille spectacle Mr Hayward had come with the resources at his disposal. The speaker said he realised the difficulties of creating a number of the scenes in ing a number of the scenes in "Rewi's Last Stand."

The film is based on the Battle of The film is based on the Battle of Orakau, made famous by the reply of the Maori chief to the soldiers' offer of a truce that the Maoris would fight on for ever. A story of love between a half-caste girl and a pakeha has been woven into the authentic historic narrative to give the film a wider appeal than it would otherwise have. The battle is the film's climax.

Geppetto's pets are typical Disney characters. Figaro is a round, mischievous little kitten, and Cleo is a fluttery female goldfish. Although neither talks, both Figaro and Cleo are capable of human reasoning, and show it clearly in their actions.

Stanley Lupino and lovely Phyllis Brooks head a cast that makes this comedy are with a hear. Hilarious fooling head a cast that makes this comedy go with a bang. Hilarious fooling is staged at a country house party where Stanley is forced to spend a week-end which ought to have been his secret honeymoon. Wifey, played by Barbara Blair, goes along as his secretary and has a very disappointing time; her bridegroom is knocked about more than once by an over-chivalrous boxing peer who an over-chivalrous boxing peer who loves rescuing distressed blondes.

As a piquant sauce to an appetis-ng dish of entertainment, there is boxing ballet and a few rounds of the real thing, a bathing dance with Lupino in a coy Victorian bathing dress, a notable song by Gene Sheldon in praise of fish, sung to a guitar, and other numbers that will ingle pleasantly in the ears for lave after the show

Phyllis Brooks, who has been the subject of much interested press comment in connection with Cary comment in connection with Cary Grant, shares top starring honours with Stanley Lupino. This, her first starring role, gives one time to appreciate that here is indeed a superlative beauty from the enormous Hollywood peach basket, and that she sings charmingly.

"Lucky to Me" is an excellent example of the slick, snappy humour found in all the Lupino pictures where catchy songs and polished dancing embellish a story that carries lashings of laughter.

The possibility of such a project has been in men's minds since the beginning of the nineteenth century, when M. Matthieu discussed the matter with Napoleon I, but no action resulted until 1876, when a company was formed in France and another in England with the object of making a beginning. On each side an experimental tunnel was bored for a distance of over 2000 yards, that on the English side being near the Shakespeare Cliff, Dover, and that on the other side being at Sangatte, near Calais. But in 1882 the work came to a standstill and has never been resumed.

In recent years the idea was revived, one of its prime advocates being Baron Emile Beaumont d'Erlanger, of Hythe. He never lost enthusiasm for the scheme. "Methods of warfare have changed," he urged, "making the tunnel more vital than ever from both the military and the commercial view." He became chairman of the Channel Tunnel Com-

Three Charming Little Flowergirls

Wedding Ceremony At St. Matthew's Church Hastings

Happy Reception

Miss Janet Groome And Mr Brian Armstrong Married

Three most attractive flowergirls and an older 'maid in frilled gowns of lotus bud pink organza were a charming retinue for the bride at the wedding, last evening, of Janet Mary, elder daughter of Mr and Mrs Ernest Groome, Te Onepu, Otane, and Brian Douglas, son of Mr and Mrs Frank Armstrong, Akitio, Dannevirke.

Her bouquet was composed of exquisite flowers in white and palest pink, orchids, lily of the valley, tulips, freesias and carnations, with ferns and silver ribbons.

Lotus Bud Pink Organza Gowns

The bride's sister, Miss Tiny Groome, was the bridesmaid and her gown of lotus bud pink organza was mounted on taffeta in the same shade. It was fashioned with a fully flared skirt edged at the hem with several rows of tiny frills and these frills continued up the skirt as a panel in front. The bodice was shaped on to the skirt in a curve and the puffed sleeves were composed entirely of frills. In her hair she wore a spray of pink sweet peas and blue hyacinths and her lovely bouquet was of these flowers with carnations, freesias and ferns.

bouquet was of these flowers with carnations, freesias and ferns.

The three tiny maids were Margaret Holland, Judy Rathbone and Susan Stovell and their dainty frocks were the same as the older 'maid's gown. They were bracelets and hairbands of pink sweet peas and forget-me-nots, and carried Victorian posies of the same flowers.

The best man was Mr R. Humphries and ushers at the church were Messrs Michael Groome (the bride's brother), Colin Barton and Brian Pattison.

Speak about the founder of this society, Sir Truby King.

Mrs Simpson said that Sir Truby King was born in Taranaki in 1858 and when still quite young everyone recognised his exceptionally brilliant mind and keen brain.

When his schooldays were over, he went abroad and graduated in medicine at Edinburgh University, where he won distinctions and scholarships, returning to New Zealand when fully qualified.

The speaker described how his great interest in mothers and babies

Hunting Figures on Wedding Cake

The reception was a very happy one and during the wedding breakfast the three-tiered wedding cake was greatly admired, this being decorated with all kinds of appropriate hunting figures and silver favours

When the bride and 'groom later left for their honeymoon the bride travelled in a frock of haze blue mariette with tucked bodice, finely pleated skirt and short sleeves. THREE DISTINGUISHED NEW ZEALANDERS

Fine Talks Given At Hastings Women's Community Club

Three distinguished New Zealanders, Constance Barnicoat, Lord Rutherford, of Nelson, and Sir Truby King, were the subjects of three very fine talks given by members of the literary circle of the Hastings Women's Community Club at their meeting yesterday afternoon.

By way of introducing the talks, the circle leader, Mrs C. G. Wilkinson, spoke generally about the many great New Zealanders who had distinguished themselves abroad, saying that she considered their achievements especially wonderful when New Zealanders were far from the great seats of learning and from the culture and atmosphere which undoubtedly was such an advantage. In view of this fact she felt that all New Zealanders should be thankful to their forefathers who

EASING DEMAND FOR FAT CATTLE

Store Sheep Market Also Quieter

STORTFORD LODGE SALE

There was a definite easing tendency on yesterday's fat cattle market at Stortford Lodge, when some 200 head came forward. Not far short of half this total was ox beef, and for this in particular the slacker selling was marked. Female pens for the most part lacked quality.

About 750 head of store cattle, including a number of Wairoa drafts, came on to a steady store cattle market which maintained Tuesday's Waipukurau stock sale rates with little change. Selling was well kept up throughout the offering.

Except where quality was especially marked, hoggets, which again comprised the major portion of the store sheep market, met an easier demand yesterday. Passings occurred in a number of instances where vendors' requirements were not met. Ewes with lambs met a ready demand.

at £5/13/-

Small-grown two-year A.A. cross heifers in the Hangaroa draft, light in condition, were passed at £3/10/.

A Tutira line of medium-grown two-year A.A. steers, in good order, made £6/11/-.

STORE SHEEP

Down from the back of Tutira, 38 two and four-tooth wethers, well-grown and carrying good store condition, were passed in at 26/3. These sheep were an attractive offering.

MEASURES AGAINST

A prohibition on the sale of skins of natural enemies of rabbits is to be sought by the South Island rabbit boards, which at their conference heard figures indicating the destruc-tion done to such animals as cats, ferrets, stoats and weasels. One estimate was that since the ban on destrowing these animals was lifted three years ago, more than 120,000 skins had been sold in New Zealand.

Mr C. J. Spain said that when his board, the Manuherikia board, went into the figures it was alarmed into the figures it was alarmed. From figures obtained from one of the merchants at Dunedin, it appeared that the sale of skins of natural enemies of the rabbit totalled about 42,000 a year, or more than 120,000 for the last three years. The prices received for these skins on an average gave little incentive to the destruction of the animals. This destruction of the destruction of the animals.

truction of natural enemies of the rabbit was certainly not consistent with the drive for increased production.
Mr B. N. Murray said that it had been the experience of many farmers that the use of strychnine poison had killed off the natural enemies, and they were returning to pollard poisoning A similar remit was passed by the conference last year, and the secretary, Mr A. H. Goyder, read a letter from the Minister of Agriculture (the Hon. Lee Martin), saying that after thorough consideration, it had been decided not to prohibit the sale been decided not to prohibit the sale

It was decided, after a long discussion in committee, to present the additional evidence collected during the year to the Minister, and ask again for it to be made an offence to offer for sale the skins of ferrets, stoats, cats or weasels.

FIFTH PERIOD IMPORT LICENCES

Any lingering hope that import restrictions would be relaxed will be dispelled by the publication yesterday of the Finance Minister's decision to tighten up the existing embargoes, save in a few relatively unimportant classes. Importers are also warned that any unused fourth period licence authorities will lapse unless they are exercised and the goods are landed before January 1 next. Any such purchases arriving after that date will be deducted from the importers' fifth period licences.

While one can readily sympathise with those whose businesses are being injured by the restrictions, it is only fair to say that the Government really has no alternative but to ration foreign exchange drastically, and to make invidious distinctions between different classes of imports. Although the export income during the coming season should be in excess of last year's, the demands on it will also be greater. Payments in respect of interest on overseas debt, and the repayment of maturing Government and local body loans are a first charge. Then there is the payment of the troops serving overseas, and the purchase of military supplies, munitions, and equipment to be provided for. After these obligations are met, it becomes a problem as to how the balance can be spent to the best advantage, and naturally the things that the Dominion is in greatest need of must be given preference.

The Government inherited the legacy of a pegged exchange from its predecessors. Formerly, regular and extensive borrowings helped to maintain a parity of exchange between New Zealand and London, and admitted of purchases of imported goods that could not have been bought out of the proceeds of the sale of our exports. Now that borrowing in London is no longer possible, and we find it necessary to finance a war and to pay off loans instead of raising them, we are compelled to do without some of the things we formerly bought without much regard as to how and when they

Although we may grumble at the manner in which the Minister has applied the rationing, few would like the responsibility of deciding what goods were to be shut out, and we think that Mr Nash can be given the credit for honesty and impartiality in the discharge of a very onerous public duty.

AN ACTIVE LIFE

The news of the sudden death of Mr Albert Edward Jull, M.P. for Waipawa, was received in the early hours of yesterday morning by the Daily Mail and published immediately with such comment as time allowed. It is now possible to amplify what was said of him and to pay a fuller tribute to a most amazingly active and diligent public servant, whose years lay lightly upon him and whose irrepressible good spirits gained for him many staunch friends.

So far as Hawke's Bay is concerned, Mr Jull will be chiefly remembered for his staunch advocacy of the merits of the Inner Harbour at Napier. His opinions in regard to that project were never finally answered-not even by the Royal Commission of 1926-27. The incontrovertible reply was given by the earthquake of 1931, which settled the issue once and for all. But even after that, Mr Jull, fighting almost a lone hand, represented the value of an opposition policy in public affairs and allowed nothing of the work now being done at the Napier port to be "taken as read."

He was a ready, shrewd and clever debater, and although he sometimes chased the shadowy details of an argument to an undue extent, he was generally to be found at the end of the discussion with one or two minor scalps to his credit.

The many services which he gave with unstinting zeal to various public bodies in the province were referred to yesterday and need not be recapitulated here; but it would be a dereliction of duty to fail to pay a tribute to the services of a capable man who spent his energies in the pursuit of the ends of economic welfare as he saw them.

The late Mr Jull had a flair for figures and a remarkable facility for putting them together in the form of a convincing argument. He could never be side-tracked even in the face of the strongest opposition, and although by nature he was not tractable, his abiding sense of humour kept him reason-

His mind was mercurial, his wit sharp, his comments cogent and courageous. He thought as he spoke and he spoke as he thought. He had strong opinions based on his knowledge of facts, and Hawke's Bay is the poorer by the loss of a conscientious and enthusiastic servant of the public.

Personal

MINISTERIAL

New Classrooms

Authority from the Education Department has been received by the Board of Governors for the construction of two additional class rooms at the Hastings High School. It is proposed to erect the new classrooms on the eastern wing of the present buildings and also to reconstruct the existing manual instruction rooms of the school. At present the temporary rooms are used for the commercial classes but when the new classrooms are ready these temporary rooms will not be required for tuition purposes.

WAR LOAN PLANS ARE COMPLETED

Important Statement By The Finance Minister

TEN MILLIONS NEEDED

By Telegraph—Press Association WELLINGTON, Sept. 25.

The Minister of Finance (the Hon. W. Nash) announced to-night that arrangements had been completed for the issue of a war loan locally and that prospectuses would be available throughout the Dominion by the end of this week. "As has been previously indicated, the war expenditure first been previously indicated, the war expenditure during the present financial year is estimated at about £38,000,000, of which approximately half will be in New Zealand and the other half overseas," said Mr Nash. "Of the amount required to be raised in New Zealand, special taxation is estimated to provide £14,000,000, leaving approximately £5,000,000 to be raised by loan. In addition to this, £5,000,000 is needed for local requirements.

"As pointed out in the Budget, we must endeavour to raise within New Zealand some portion of the amount required to meet expenditure abroad, thus relieving as far as possible the drain upon the resources of the British Govern-

"The present loan issue is estimated to provide a minimum of £8,000,000, but, as set out in the prospectus, persons who have already contributed free-of-interest loans will have the option of converting them into this issue. Persons who have made gifts to the War Expenses Account may reduce their contributions to the loan accordingly.

The prospectus provides for the issue of Government stock which will be non-interest-bearing to October 1, 1943. The principal is repayable and will bear interest at 2½ per cent. per annum. The first interest payment of £1 5/- per cent. will be made on April 1, 1944, and thereafter payments will be made half-yearly.

The income which would be taken into account in this way includes dividends other than those from companies incorporated in New Zealand, interest from tax-free Government stock and from tax-free company debentures, tax-free income derived from abroad and also farming income where the land used had an unimproved value of less than

A new note is struck in a German communique which for the first time on Friday admitted that 'plane losses were greater than the British. Friday's communique stated that only one British machine was brought down whereas three German 'planes failed to return.

Again on Monday the communique admitted the loss of one 'plane while stating that no British machine had been shot down. It would appear that German propagandists, becoming anxious about the lack of credence given even at home to their figures, have taken the opportunity afforded by a lull in operations when the losses on either side are insignificant to try in operations when the losses on either side are insignificant to try in a small way to restore their damaged reputation for veracity. A further motive for this sudden access to modesty, it is suggested here, may be a belated recollection of Hitler's own precepts in "Mein Kampf"—"it was a fundamental mistake to ridicule the wrath of the enemy. Once a German soldier came to realise what a tough enemy he had to fight he felt that he had been deceived by the manufacturers of information given him. He therefore lost heart."

Goebbels has been making precisely the same mistake. Sneers at London defences, making denials of the true figures of German losses and boasts of England's occupation by Germany have

SPORT MUST BE KEPT ALIVE

Cricket Association's Meeting

"We all realise that it is going to be difficult to carry on any sport on a financial basis next season," remarked the chairman (Mr A. D. Mahoney) at the annual meeting last night of the Hastings Cricket Sub-Association. Anyone accepting office on the association must be prepared to work hard to make a success of the season; he said.

The next year, particularly financially, would be a hard one for the association, Mr Mahoney phophesied, as they would probably have to incur expenditure never before necessary. "We must all put our shoulders to the wheel to keep the game alive, so that those who are called up to do their duty overseas shall come back to find the game, if not flourishing, at least still in existence," he said, appealing to the older cricketers in particular, because of their enjoyment from the game in the past, to help in this respect.

Stressing the need for the association to encourage the younger cricketers, Mr Mahoney suggested greater co-operation with the schools to encourage interest in the Saturday competitions, so that chould teams be short they would have material on which to draw. The association might even have to carry on without any financial return. Although this might not come to pass, nevertheless he felt that they should be prepared.

Referring appreciatively in the course of his remarks to the work of the individual clubs during last season, Mr Mahoney said that the way they had carried on the game had made the association's task easier. Younger Players Wanted.

way they had carried on the game had made the association's task easier.

At the opening of last season it had been felt that a loss might be shown on the season's working, but after a conference with the Bor ough Council they had been able to arrive at an adjustment of charges which had enabled the association to come out of the year's working with a profit.

According to a Britsh Air Ministry bulletin, the R.A.F. attacks on Berlin were carefully planned and lasted several hours. Other Berlin targets, mostly power stations and gasworks, received special attention. At the Charlottenburg power station, four big fires were observed from one aircraft as it came away.

The Friedrichsfeld power station was attacked, and the Wilmersdorf power station was left ablaze. At the Danzigerstrasse gasworks, the bombing caused a violent explosion, and the target was left burning furiously. This was one of the night's most satisfying spectacles.

RUGBY, Sept. 24.

How a pilot-officer chose a crash landing involving great risk to himself rather than abandon his machine and so endanger villages in which his aircraft probably would have crashed was told in the award of the D.F.C. to an Australian whose home is Edwardstown, South Australia. During an attack on German bombers this officer, W. H. Millington, damaged a Dornier but found himself engaged by three Messerschmitts. He damaged one of these, shook off the others, and returned to attack the Nazi bombers.

Rewi's Last Stand

Sir,—May I, though the medium of your columns, express my thanks of your columns, express my manks to all concerned in its production, for that very fine film, "Rewi's Last Stand." As a New Zealander I am intensely interested in the early history of my country, and think it should be better known—at any rate its "highlights" should be brought into mercarpromisence. into more prominence.

with much of the survey and roading of the Te Awamutu district.

Many of my people took part in the "midnight flights" when all haste was made to the nearest blockhouse, after warning by the "friendlies" of a coming raid.

I myself was, as a small child, taken by my father over all that old battleground of Orakau, and had all the incidents described so faithfully in the "Last Stand" explained to me. And he always spoke in terms of the greatest admiration of the Maori as a brave and gallant foe. I think he felt, in the words of one of the characters in the film: "What glory is there in shooting such men?" And he, too, being a magnificent horseman, was a dispatch rider. So that seeing the film made all that early history as I had heard it from the lips of those who took actual part in it come alive again. The photography, too, was splendid, particularly the glimpses of the beautiful river that I know so well. So, may I say, "Thanks a lot, Mr Hayward."—I am, etc.,

The deceased lady had been ailing for many years, and in spite of her sufferings which she had borne with great courage, Mrs Butler led an active life. She was noted for her philanthropic works in various organisations in the Dominion and as far afield as China, where she maintained a bed in a Chinese hospital for cripples.

No worthy appeal ever escaped the attention of Mrs Butler and in the attention of Mrs Butter and in her death many men and women who have on various occasions fallen on lean times, will feel the loss of a genuine friend.

Staunch Presbyterian

Mrs Butler was a staunch supporter of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church and the organisations associated with that church. She was a keen amateur gardener and each year reared numerous plants which found their way to the gardens about St. Paul's Church, where they were the admiration of Napier's many vicitors.

"Flat to Let," the sparkling subtle "Flat to Let," the sparkling subtle three-act comedy which is being presented at the Municipal Theatre, Napier, on Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday next by the Napier Repertory Players to assist the funds of the Napier Women's Patriotic Service Corps (for soldiers' comforts) will be the first occasion on which the new scenery of the theatre has been used.

on which the new scenery of the theatre has been used.

The play is undoubtedly the most hilarious the Repertory Players have attempted and they were lucky to have among their members suitable players to cast. The character of Mrs Coney is well filled by Gwen Forbes, perhaps better known by her stage name as Gwen Dalton. Carol, another important part in the play, is ably undertaken by Margaret Cabot (Nutter). Jean Munroe, impression when taking part in Repertory plays, has every opportunity of producing the laughs as "Minna" the maid. Ngaire McKain has surprised even the producer in her excellent interpretation of the part of Susan.

Letters To The APATHY LEADS TO DEATH OF MRS J. S. NEW ZEALANDERS' LIFE IN CAMP IN ENGLAND

Unwelcome Attentions From An Enemy Bombing 'Plane

Some interesting glimpses of the life of the Second Echelon in Britain are given in a letter received from a Napier man serving with the Fifth Infantry Brigade.

Writing on August 5, he reveals that the New Zealanders' camp had then been receiving the attentions of German bombers, and mentions that a bomb fell near his tent, which fortunately was unoccupied at the time.

His final prophecy regarding the commencement of mass air raids has since proved all too accurate.

In the course of the letter he says: "As I am writing the band is playing "As You Pass By," and they are making a good job of it, too. They are playing over the B.B.C. next Sunday, and at a later date we will broadcast on shortwave to New Zealand, so I hope you hear US.

"We play at a dance in London nearly every Friday night. It is a good show, run by the general's wife, Mrs Freyberg. We get a fee of £10 for playing at the dance, and £25 for broadcasting, so if we stay here much longer we will have a few shillings in our funds."

Free Drinks

Popular With Public

The writer says that the New Zealanders are very popular in England, and are given a good time. They get better treatment than the Canadians, whom he describes as "wild and worse than the Australians."

"We get plenty of leave in the will have a few shillings in our funds."

"We hope to get seven days' leave soon, and we are going to thumb!"

WIN-AND-PLACE SYSTEM FOXTON'S SPRING IN THE BOOM

Universal Use Now Urged ADVOCATES CARRIED AWAY

BY SUCCESS

Central Situations Are Vital

(By MOTUROA.)

There is a disposition in some quarters to regard the win-and-place betting system as the panacea for the ills of all struggling racing and trotting clubs, and the recent success of the Marton Jockey Club—a new convert to the system has been given great prominence by the advocates of winand-place betting.

Marton's success is pronounced, but, in urging the general adoption of the system, sight is being lost of the circumstances surrounding the Marton Jockey Club's fortunate switch. Marton is centrally situated in an extensive racing district with Wanganui, Feilding, Palmerston North and other big towns at its back door to assure large attendances at all meetings. Secondly, the club is fortunate that there are eight training centres within 40 miles of Marton to guarantee large

To be a success anywhere the win-and-place betting system calls for reasonably large fields and for a large patronage. The popularity of the system in the Auckland province is actuated by the fact that there is a tremendous week-end racing public. As the result the clubs in that district can offer prizes that dwarf into insignificance those ruling in less well situated districts. Then, Auckland, Takanini Pukekohe, Te Aroha, Rotorua, Paeroa, Te Rapa, Te Awamutu and other large training tracks can provide an inexhaustible supply of horses for racing at all meetings in the district.

The Wanganui and Feilding Jockey Clubs and the Manawatu Racing Club are prevented from trying win-and-place betting, for they are equipped with expensive single-pool electric totalisators which would have to be practically scrapped to enable them to adopt the two-way system. And, unfortunate as they are in this respect, the clubs racing in Hawke's Bay and Poverty Bay are doubly unfortunate.

The East Coast is isolated from circuit racing, a fact that none will deny. The support from outside training centres is infinitesimal and petrol restrictions have seriously curtailed support received from Palmerston North and Wairarapa racegoers in the past. The clubs from Waipukurau northwards have to depend almost solely on local horses and local support. Three-dividend fields would be the exception rather than the rule and the novelty would quickly pall.

Unless the clubs on this side of the Island could obtain some guarantee of larger fields and increased outside support it would be a dangerous experiment to try the win-and-place system just now.

RACING is enjoying a mild boom just at present as the result of additional money being available for internal use and that, to some open six furlongs events, the Flymeasure accounts for the good meetings being staged by clubs using the win-and-place system.

The Kuao and Juvenile Handicaps of the following stages of mendations of a special general meeting, to relieve the club of some of its liabilities, should enable us to carry on without any increased difficulty until the railway reaches Gisborne, and we can draw on outside horses and patronage," said Mr. F. Tolerton, president of the Poverty Bay Turf Club, addressing the annual meeting or Friday.

SUIT HIM

KING'S MARK again let down his party in falling to do better than run third in the maiden event at Marton on Saturday, for he again had every chance, striking the lead from the barrier-rise. He weakened, however, in the run home. The Hall Mark colt is evidently a non-staver, but racing seems to be improving him and the more circular track at Foxton this week should favour him.

cision to enter into negotiation for the transfer of two days' racing had been followed up, and the Te Aroha Club was now to conduct two days' racing for the Poverty Bay Club urtil such time as the present deficit was wiped out and also the debt to the guarantors in connection with the transfer of the Park course. This horses due for a spell being allowed to swell the list of newcomers for the spring racing.

The good track conditions obtaining at present are also conducive to big fields, but the smaller clubs that have shelving bands with themselves. are shaking hands with themselves at present over their adoption of the at present over their adoption of the win-and-place system may not find two-way betting so popular when fields thin out at the summer and early autumn meetings.

It is to be hoped, however, that the present wave of internal prosperity continues to benefit clubs racing in this district. The sport has been through some very lean times in Hawke's Bay and the world war threatens what promised to be an opportunity for our clubs to retrieve ing made at Home to keep the sport going were considered, it seemed that they would be poor sports to let the game down in this country. The clubs had an obligation to keep going, he felt, especially in view of the interest taken by many men now serving abroad with the forces. The president also referred to the spring meeting, which is to be con-

Mr W. G. Sherratt seconded Mr
Tolerton's motion for the adoption of the report and balance sheet.
In reply to Mr V. C. R. Mitford, the chairman said that the transfer The Dominions, however, can do much to assist the blood-stock industry in England. It is pleasing to note that several owners and breeders and at least one racing club have offered to take brood mares and young stock from Eng-land, and to feed and care for them for the duration of the war. These three years would see the obliga-tions liquidated.

The motion was carried unanioffers have been sent on to the English Jockey Club by the New Zealand Racing Conference and it is possible that some high-class ruat-rons and well-bred young stock will later find their way to the Colonies. The bloodstock industry in England needs some protection, especi-ally as the breeding establishments in France and Germany are at a discount as the result of the breaking-up of well-known Continental Studs. MARY ROSE FOALS TO THEIO

YESTERDAY the Arausio-Imperial Rose mare Mary Rose foaled a grey colt to the Flaxmere sire Theio. Mary Rose belongs to the same family as Sasanof, All Red, Indigo, Raceful and Co. By the way, the list of bookings for the Flaxmere sires Theio and Lord Quex appeared in yesterday's paper as apparently being all to Theio. Thirty-three mares have been booked to Theio, while Lord Quex's list totals 21.—"Moturoa."

by MASSINE 12 by Consols 3—Maurl by Ajax 2.

From FOREST TRACK by Tracery 19—Forest Lassle by Isinglass 3—Baroness la Fleche by Ledas 1—La Fleche by St. Simon 11.

LANG BIAN is a particularly handsome horse and closely resembles his famous sire. He was a good winner in the best class races in France.

MASSINE, Lang Blan's sire, was a nigh-class winner in France, and also beat the Derby winner Papyrus in the Ascot Gold Cup. He has twice headed the winning sires' list in France and he introduces a fresh strain of St. Simon blood through that great galloper La Camargo.

FOREST TRACK'S pedigree is well known. Not only is she by that great brood mare sire Tracery, but her third dam is that wonderful mare La Fleche, the third dam of Beau Pere and Gay Shield, two of the most successful sires in New Zealand in modern times.
