WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.

The Secretary of the Navy (Colonel Frank Knox) said to-day that the Japanese-German-Italian alliance was the most serious challenge to the American mode of life in history. The alliance was directed against the United States, which was the largest obstacle in the path of the totalitarian Powers should Britain fail to stem the tide of tyranny.

"International brigands surround the United States, whose destruction would be their greatest victory," said Colonel Knox. "Never understanding us, they suppose that our people can be brought under their iron rule. Both as an our people can be brought under their iron rule. Both as an American and a Navy official I know differently.

"If a fight is forced upon us we are ready. We have never lost a war yet. The acquisition of bases from Britain has moved the Atlantic war-theatre 1000 miles eastward." Colonel Knox declared that hundreds, even thousands, of saboteurs were in the United States and every shipyard, factory, arsenal, and powder plant must be guarded.

The British warship saw dense smoke on the horizon and raced up hoping to attack a Germain raider, and found the lifeboats, from which they embarked survivors.

It is reported that three were killed in the engine-room and four others hurt and taken to hospital.

The passengers included a number of Britishers en route to join the forces in England, also two steward-esses and two women passengers.

The U-boat fired two torpedoes; the first set fire to the ship, which blazed for several hours before sinking. The second narrowly missed the lifeboats, which were manned in seven minutes.

The Highland Patriot in January had a two-hour fight with a U-boat, which fired five torpedoes before being driven off by the ship's guns.

The Japanese Prime Minister (Prince Konoye) on Friday stated: "Should the United States challenge Germany, Italy and Japan, we are ready to accept the challenge and fight to a finish."

(United Press Association-Copyright.) (Received Oct. 6, 8.45 p.m.) LONDON, Oct. 5.

"There is no muddle or crushing defeat behind Sir Cyril Newall's departure to New Zealand as Governor-General. He has spent a lifetime flying and no man has relinquished a command in the fighting force at a moment of greater achievement," says the "Daily Mail."

"The Times" says: "Sir Cyril Newall will take to New Zealand the good wishes of all ranks of the R.A.F., with whom he is exceedingly popular. After his appointment as Chief of the Air Staff in 1937, he worked untiringly to make the R.A.F. the finest air force in the world. He has seen it

Chief of the Air Staff in 1937, he worked untiringly to make the R.A.F. the finest air force in the world. He has seen it grow out of all knowledge both in size and efficiency. He retained command long enough to see his ambition achieved."

"Although I am sorry to leave my present post, I feel tremendously honoured and pleased, particularly as my wife and I have always been interested in New Zealand and hoped for the appendix of visiting it," said Sin Chrill when interested.

for the opportunity of visiting it," said Sir Cyril when interviewed by the United Press. "As for the job here, I am always in favour of changes, especially when I have a successor like Air Vice-Marshal Sir Charles Portal, who is a first-rate fellow."

"I am taking my two daughters, aged 14 and 13, and son aged 10. They are delighted at the prospect. I am looking forward to meeting the people who are making such a noble contribution to defeat the enemy. I am also eager for close association with the defence forces, particularly the Air Force, and desire to study defence problems at first hand.

Forerunner of Air Force
Sir Cyril's wing was the forerunner of the independent air force created in 1918, in which he commanded the eighth brigade.
In 1916 he was awarded the Albert Medal for conspicuous gallantry when fire broke out inside a large R.A.F. bomb store containing 2000 high-explosive bombs. He led a small party which extinguished the flames.

Jarge-scale bombing offensives throughout Germany.

Sir Cyril, who is one of the pioneers of the R.A.F. and the holder of the 144th flying licence issued in England, during a discussion with representatives of the United Press on the general war situation revealed that clear intelligence and profound knowledge of the problems of aerial warfare which enabled him to outlast three Chiefs of the Imperial General Staff and two First Sea Lords during his three years of membership of the Chiefs of Staffs. Three rows of ribbons illuminate the uniform on his left breast on which fading and discoloured wings give some indication of his length of service.

Many luxury imports have already been banned and this, with newsprint rationing, a lower silk import quota and a fall in the consumption of petrol, is estimated to be saving Australia £15,000,000 a year in foreign exchange. Further economies are necessary, probably up to a 25 per cent cut.

Commonwealth authorities point out that offset against these economies are the cost of war materials purchased in the United States, increased petrol spending for military purposes, particularly storage, and the higher prices and freight insur-ance rates for essential commodities which Australia must continue to

Beaulivre Pulled Up When Rider Thought

He Had Gone Amiss Pandect's Derby

Beau Vite Scores Easily In The Colin Stephen Stakes

United Press Association-Copyright. (Received October 6, 8 p.m.) SYDNEY, Oct. 6. New Zealand horses were right in the icture at the opening day of the A.J.C. pring meeting at Randwick. The fixure was held in ideal spring weather on saturday.

An unprecedented incident happened in the Epsom Handicap when Beaulivre, who was one of the most fancied canididates for years was suddenly pulled ip when in a winning position a furong from home. Jockey D. Munro's explanation was that he thought Beauivre had broken down irretrievably. He isyre had broken down irretrievably. He dismounted at the post. However, Beaulivre walked satisfactorily to the enclosure and looked quite well. He was later examined by a veterinary surgeon who reported that "Beaulivre, when he zooled off, disclosed no injury or abnormality." A huge circle of Beaulivre's admirers was chagrined by the untoward happening.

With Beaulivre out of the way the N.Z.-bred High Caste ran on to a well deserved Epsom Handicap victory.

The A.J.C. Derby saw the N.Z.-bred Nightbeam unruly at the post, finally twisting a plate on the near foreleg. He had to be taken back to the saddling paddock, where a plate was adjusted, ausing a delay of eighteen minutes to the start of the Derby, wherein he ran a great race, but faded out in the straight. The N.Z.-bred Reau Vite had an easy.

The N.Z.-bred Beau Vite had an easy West,

The N.Z.-bred Beau Vite had an easy victory in the Colin Stephen Stakes, in which he led over the last mile.

High Caste, who had shown signs of soreness early in the week, stripped thoroughly fit for the Epsom Handicap and left the course quite sound.

The course is in splendid order, if a trifle soft. The attendance was in the vicinity of 65,000. The results are:

FIRST HURDLE RACE. Of £300; about 2 miles. MASTERPIECE, 10.9 (Young) . . . 1 VALHALLA, 11.3 (A. Hynes) . . . 2 FITROL, 9.4 (Windle) 3 2.0: Nine started. Two and a-half lengths; ten lengths. Blackie Miller fell and Mag Mort lost his rider. Time, 3.37 1-5. TRIAL STAKES.

The memorial alleges that "it is imperative that the Government should now declare its future policy for the Highlands, and should guarantee a definite annual sum for a period of at least 10 years." pointing out that the recent grant of £5,000,000 a year for 10 years for the colonies shows that money is still available for non-military purposes.

The Highlands have to bear the ever increasing burden of taxation but are reaping none of the benefits of war industries, and it is feared that the segregation of more than a third of Scotland as a restricted area will have an adverse effect on the tourist trade.

In view of the urgent need for increased food production, the morial suggests, there should be larger agricultural subsidies for bracken eradication, land reclamation and drainage, coupled with guaranteed prices for a term of years for livestock and other farm produce and credit facilities to enable farmers to increase their stocks. Special attention should be given to the needs of crofters and small holders.

Replanting Urged The immediate formulation of a

FEARLESS NOVEL ON THE SCREEN

> The Grapes Of Wrath' Is Human Drama

A deep, stirringly human appeal draws audiences to the very heights of film entertainment in Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "The Grapes of Wrath," John Steinbeck's fearless novel. The film, which at its world premiere achieved the biggest opening attendance in the entire nistory of New York's 22-year-old Rivoli Theatre, is now screening at the State Theatre, Hastings.

Under John Ford's honest direction the Joads come to life with all the warmth, vitality and rugged humour that characterised Steinbeck's widely acclaimed novel. Both the spirit and the letter of the book have been followed with extraordinary exactness by Associate Producer Nunnally Johnson, who wrote the screen play. The many thousands who eagerly awaited this picture will find every iota of drive and will find every iota of drive and power of the original story has been retained in the screen version.

Tom Joad, who is played by Henry Fonda, remains the courageous figure Steinbeck created. Jane Darwell's performance, as Ma Joad, makes it impossible to believe that Steinbeck did not have her in mind when he created this indomitable Oklahoma mother. Jane carries her audience in the palm of her hand while she laughs and cries, scolds her brood and defies the forces which would tear her family apart.

What is by all odds one of the most difficult roles in the picture, that of Casy, the garrulous, crusading preacher, is carried off with great distinction by John Carradine. As Grampa, Charley Grapewin turns in the best performance of a long and distinguished career, while Dorris Bowden actually appears to relive Rosasharn's struggle to bring new life into the world.

JUNGLE ADVENTURE "SAFARI"

Madeleine Carroll And Doug. Fairbanks

A beautiful white woman, alone in the heart of the jungle with two men, is the situation presented in "Safari," thrilling action-romance which concludes to-night at the Regent Theatre, Hastings, with Made-leine Carroll, blonde English star, as the woman, and Douglas Fairpanks jun. and Tullio Carminati as the two men.

"Safari," filmed against the background of an African big-game hunt, tells the story of a girl who sets out to get her man—and winds up pitting two men against each other for her love. Carminati, as a continental millionaire, invites Miss Carmil to accompany him on the Carroll to accompany him on the afari. Fairbanks is the virile young guide for the expedition. To stir Carminati's interest and arouse his jealousy, Madeleine devotes her attention to Fairbanks, with the result that the two men are soon at heart of the jungle, far from civilisvices of that brilliant stellar quartette featured in previous films.

Again Penny Singleton is the enthusiastic and well-meaning Blondie;

The immediate formulation of a policy to ensure that timber will be an ecomonic proposition in the Highlands in peacetime, is also emphasised as a necessity. The memorial urges that replanting should be obligatory, and that unemployed men should be trained, and used wherever possible, Newfoundland labour being reserved for areas where the local man power is insufficient.

Drastic reduction of freights is advocated together with the introduction of the "protected area" to the narrowest dimensions consistent with national interests, Holiday.

Her hat of Tagel straw in a toning shade was swathed in soft veiling and she wore navy shoes. A shoulder spray of lily of the valley and maidenhair fern completed a very pretty outfit.

Mrs H. R. Gilbertson attended the bride as matron-of-honour and was becomingly attimed.

The bride was attended by two bridesmaids—Miss Marjorie Johnson (chief), sister of the bride and Miss Carol Maulder, Waihau, niece of the bridegroom. Their frocks were in shades of blue and green stiffened nation and were respectively and were fashioned alike with dainty bodies and skirts trimmed with tiny frills. COLOURFUL SUITS CHOSEN BY MANY WOMEN

Fashions At The Spring Races Held In Hastings

Women from Hastings and all parts of the district, as well as visitors from further afield, donned their most becoming ensembles for the second day of the Hawke's Bay Jockey Club's Spring Meeting in Hastings on Saturday.

Though the greater part of the day was somewhat dull, the lawns presented a gay appearance with the bright colours of the women's frocks. As always seems evident, the older folk chose mainly black or navy blue, but among the young folk there were many outfits in lovely gay colours, lime greens, vivid blues, soft greys, and clover shades.

Especially noticeable in the new fashions are the very attractive colour contrasts—tarn blue and clover, vivid blue and silvery grey, lime green and primrose. New styles include every variety of suit, but especially very smart and attractive

MAN TO OPPOSE ROOSEVELT

WENDELL L. WILLKIE'S CAMPAIGN

The One Behind His Own Organisation

"Brain-trusters" and "ghost-writers" have in recent years played such a publicised role in American public life that everyone is asking: who is going to be the man behind Wendell L. Willkie's Presidential campaign? Who will guide his plans, suggest his decisions, write his speeches? writes J. Roscoe Drummond in the "Christian Science Monitor."

These are not impertinent questions. They are not unfair questions. They spring naturally from methods which have lately become common to politics and politicians, and it is inevitable that the Republican delibly into the record.

Willkie's Methods

As one who has watched Mr Willkie at close hand for several weeks seeing him test himself with short and then longer extemporaneous orrespondents who have spent a few weeks at his "vacation" head-quarters that in this campaign no polished schemes, no neat programmes are going to be braintrusted for the Republican candidate, tied up in a tidy, thin manuscript for his inside coat pocket and unfurled at the psychological moment.

Can Leave Advice Alone

Mr Willkie encourages advice, welcomes advice, takes advice, but he can also leave it alone. He is very good at leaving it alone. He listens to many. He decides alone. The ideas which will animate his speeches, the plans which will vitalise his campaign will be Mr willkie's.

2. Wendell L. Willkie is his own literary craftsman. Mr Willkie has never had a line written for him in his life and he intends to use no ghost-writers in his campaign. He not only thinks his own speeches but he writes his own speeches, and there are two reasons.

The patriotic match played at Wairoa on Saturday between Athletic and Waikaremoana resulted in a win for the home team by 13 points to nil.

there are two reasons.

One is that he is opposed to the institution of ghost-writing on principle, particularly for men in public life. The other is that he is a skilled and facile writer, is capable of ex-pressing himself in English prose which is at once graceful and lucid and pungent. Those who have read Mr Willkie's acceptance speech recognised that it possessed elements of true literary distinction.

His Own Favourite Author Mr Willkie has the feeling of the terary man towards his writing. Those who write will know it is not unkind to say that he is his own favourite author. He goes over what he has written many times and reads it to others. He likes to try out phrases, paragraphs and whole speeches on his friends. He enjoys writing and writes fluently. For several days he may mull over the ideas and even the phrasing for one of his articles or addresses, but when he begins to dictate it comes

His highly important acceptance speech was prepared in this manner and while he discussed ideas on the long-distance telephone with perlong-distance telephone with personal friends and party leaders in Washington, New York and elsewhere, it was entirely conceived from his own mental resources and with no high-policy formulators haunting his improvised study. When you read a Willkie article or listen to a Willkie speech, you can take it for granted that both the words and the music will be his.

A Cancid Candidate

Mr Willkie's avoidance of the con ventional brain-trust and his aver sion to ghost-writers come not only from his accustomed reliance upon is own abilities. They also sprin com a conviction that synthetic political candidates, for any office, are a danger to democracy and un-cair to the voter. He believes that the public should be in a position to appraise a candidate who is on his own, that a candidate's policies should stand out as expressing his wn ideas and abilities and should e defended by his own intelligence and his own resourcefulness

Mr Willkie says that he wants to be a candid candidate and not a thetic candidate, and that is the synthetic candidate, and that is the kind of Presidential campaign he needs to conduct. He hopes his intends to conduct. He hopponents will do likewise.

SHORT ROUTE MARCH BY TERRITORIALS

High Standard Shown On Parade

CADET BAND PRAISED

"Daily Mail" Special Service DANNEVIRKE.

The first week of camp for the Territorials at the Dannevirke Showgrounds was rounded off on Saturday by a short route march in which all ranks took part, Colonel Jefferd, O.C., marching at the head of the long column. The Dannevirke High School Pipe Band of the Third Company Hawke's Bay Cadets piped the men out of camp and met them again at Mangatera on the return journey. The standard of marching was particularly high and the march on to the battalion parade ground at the conclusion was worthy of soldiers with much longer training.

it is inevitable that the Republican nominee's headquarters should be closely examined to discover who are the influential figures behind the scenes, who leaves the bright ideas in his lap, the telling phrases in his typewriter.

Now Mr Willkie's campaign organisation is very nearly completed, his research staff is functioning, his board of strategy is at work; but before much is written about the men who will aid him in the coming months, there are several observa-

AN APPEAL TO ORCHARDISTS

DELAY IN SPRAYING WITH LEAD

Co-operation With The Beekeepers Wanted An appeal to fruitgrowers to cooperate with bee-keepers by delaying their arsenate of lead spraying essary was made by the secretary of the Hawke's Bay Fruit-growers' Association (Mr A. L. Baumgart) in conversation with the "Daily Mail."

"Daily Mail."

"An early lead spraying cannot always be avoided," said Mr Baumgart. "We do not ask growers to risk their crops by leaving the spraying until too late, but we do ask them to leave it as long as is reasonably possible." He pointed out that in past years lead spraying too early in the season had meant a tremendous mortality among bees, tremendous mortality among bees, with consequent heavy losses to

Growers were often tempted by a fine day to spray earlier than was necessary, just for the sake of finishing the task, he commented, but expressed the hope that this season the beekeeper might receive more consideration.

Last season, it will be remembered, there was a considerable agita-tion from apiarists throughout the district on this subject, their complaint being that some growers were spraying indiscriminately before it was necessary. Heavy losses of bees resulted, it was claimed, and this was to the detriment of the orchardists' crops as well as to the

and then longer extemporaneous speeches, seeing him feel himself out before small crowds and then large ones, seeing him evolve and compose his acceptance speech, and finally watching him put slowly together the campaign staff which will serve him in the struggle ahead, there are several important things about this man and his methods which can be put down authoritatively. They are:

1. Wendell L. Willkie is his own closest adviser. Mr Willkie confers consults, listens, discusses, disagrees, persuades, and is persuaded. He likes to talk and he likes to be talked to. He relishes hearing the various church services.

There were at least some tired soldiers in camp on Friday night. A tent pole broke and in the effect on Saturday or Sunday afternoons. The camp was open to visitors on Sunday afternoon and many took advantage of the fine sun to pay a visit of inspection.

MARKET FOR COPRA DISAPPEARS

New Guinea Problem

POSSIBLE CHANGE IN PRODUCTION

Cocoa And Coffee

Faced with the disappearance of the copra market, New Guinea is likely to change over to the produc-tion of rubber, cocoa and coffee. The Administrator of New Guines (Sir Walter McNicoll), who visited Australia to discuss with the Feder al Government the plight of copra growers in the Mandated territory growers in the Mandated territory, said that New Guinea produced 73,000 tons of copra valued at £75000 a year. Practically all of this was sold in Europe. Because Britain had an adequate supply of oils and fats she was not prepared to take the New Guinea output, since it would create a great strain on available shipping space.

Copra is used in the production of margarine and glycerine and for the manufacture of munitions. If a change-over is made to rubber, cocoa and coffee, development periods varying from five to eight years will be required to establish these industries. ndustries.

Papua and the Mandated Territory of New Guinea have been brought into the Commonwealth defence system. The inclusion of New Guinea in an Eighth Military District, is permitted under the terms of the mandate, which charges Australia, among other things, with the adequate protection of the Mandated

WAR AND THE TIME FACTOR

The commencement of the second year of war finds virtually the whole Continent of Europe regimented under the Nazi warmachine. For the time being the frontiers of nations and of groups of nations have been wiped out, and history in many respects has slipped back to the days when Napoleonic France sprawled across the Continent after a series of victories which had given rise to a legend of French invincibility. And just as in the days of Napoleon, the present conqueror is faced with the problem of disposing of Great Britain before he can stage a world-triumph.

It is here that the time factor enters into the course of events. It is obvious that no one nation can hold down a continent for an indefinite period, while simultaneously it wages a life-and-death struggle with a nation overseas. Unless the dominant Power can strike swiftly and with paralysing intensity at its distant opponent, sooner or later it will be caught between two perils—a resurgence of national spirit in the conquered peoples and a direct attack on the weakest point of its defences by that aloof enemy who has been massing his forces in comparative security while the conqueror has been dissipating his energies in subduing occupied territories. If the command of the sea were a matter of doubt the problem might be settled to suit the conqueror, but Hitler, like Napoleon before him, does not hold the sea, and there are signs already that Germany is gradually slipping back in the race against time.

This does not necessarily mean that the ultimate end of the war can be foreseen now. A sudden flank attack on Great Britain's communications might yet change the whole face of the conflict. But one thing remains: time and the sea are once again fighting on the side

It is inconceivable that nations with a tradition of liberty will rest passively under the lash of Nazi domination. Norway, Holland, Belgium, France-above all, France-will not always remain in the state of dazed submission induced by the ruthlessness of the German onslaught. Sooner or later there will be trouble for Hitler in his

And then there is Italy, which, whatever it may have achieved under Fascism, has not acquired a temperament to withstand a long war of siege. There is a certain pathetic quality about Italy to-day. Mussolini has worked hard to make his country an international bogey, and with the collapse of France, Italians must have seen some justification for the blustering and swaggering that followed the conquest of Abyssinia. It was to be a short, victorious war from which the new Italian Empire would reap a rich harvest from the ruin of the French and British Empires. But here again the time factor came in. Italy has not secured her swift victory; she has found herself faced with a situation such as she had never dreamed of, and the immediate effect may be seen in the agitated scurrying of the Italian Fleet round the Mediterranean and the reluctance of Italian warships to face another action such as that which cost Italy the Bartolomeo Colleoni.

At the moment Italy is the weak point of Germany's war facade. If the war changes from a doubtful siege of Britain by Germany to a complete counter-siege of Europe by the British Empire assisted by the United States, Italy will become a major liability to her Axis

With every week that passes, the conditional "if" becomes more and more unnecessary. October brings the first touch of winter to Europe, and already the first phase of the war is ending. The first winter of war, bitter as it was, was weathered successfully by Germany because her record of victory was untarnished. The tide of conquest was still flooding over Europe, and it did not pause until it swept over France, with the culminating triumph of the fall of Paris, the capture of the Channel ports, and the withdrawal of the British Army from the Continent.

Then came the German claims that the war was virtually over. Everything had been won, and the collapse of England would follow inevitably. Invasion, a triumphal progress through London, summer cruises for Germans to occupied British ports, and all the other flights of the entertaining Goebbels imagination were to come about swiftly and simply

But to-day it is safe to assume that the invasion of Britain will never be attempted.

The inevitable result is that for the first time in his meteoric career Hitler is under the disagreeable necessity of explaining away a failure. He has flung the full weight of modern war-terror against the British people, and with their characteristic ability to turn defeat into victory the British people have defied him with epic courage. The battle is still going on, and there must yet be dark hours ahead, but the tide is turning.

Early in the last century, when the European war map showed some curiously similar features to the map of to-day, the tide turned in the same way. The conqueror found himself attacked.

It has been pointed out that Italy is the weak point in the Axis. It would be a strange historical parallel if the time factor should lead to an Italian collapse, which in turn would leave Germany vulnerable to a British assault based on the Mediterranean.

Put Clock On Too Far

Proceedings at the annual share-holders' meeting of the Canterbury Farmers' Co-operative Association Limited at Timaru recently were going along so placidly that it was rather a shock when a shareholder got up to air an evident grievance. "I want to say something about the date of the annual meeting," he said. "In the past it has always been held on a Friday. Why has it been changed to Saturday . .?" Several voices interrupted him, "But to-day is Friday." The objector was non-plussed for a moment by the Nest Made of Wire Coast railway. One very enthusiastic vendor tried to sell me a Great Dane; it was a beautiful dog. When I told him I got just enough food for myself he said quite earnestly that I would be able to get a ration card for it. Needless to say I did not buy it." That was an experience related by Corporal Howard Frost, formerly of Eltham, and now with the Second Echelon in England, of a visit to the famous Petticoat Lane at London, while on leave recently. He describes the incident in a letter just received by his parents in Eltham.

SOLVING THE PROBLEM OF NIGHT AIR ATTACKS

Reduced Effectiveness Of Nazi Raids On Britain Is Discussed

(United Press Association-Copyright.) (Received Oct. 6, 8.30 p.m.) LONDON, Oct. 5.

A spokesman has stated that the problem of night interception is well on the way to solution. Details could not be released, but they confirmed the impression that the reduced effectiveness of German night bombing this week were due more to the greater practice of anti-aircraft gunners with the new predictor and the consequent increased accuracy, than to such a factor as the weather, fear of which—judging by the demeanour of prisoners—finds no place in the German

The morale of the German Air Force shows no sign of breaking, although the great losses have made them more wary, particularly of the British eight-gun fighters.

The R.A.F. has found the Berlin anti-aircraft defences a tough nut to crack, the gunners being accurate and the fire usually constant.

The spokesman rated the Italian Air Force at 25 per cent. good, 50 per cent. mediocre, and 25 per cent. rubbish. The Italian machines were not as manoeuvrable as ours and were vastly inferior in armament.

FROM CONQUEROR TO HITLER

ATTEMPTED ASSAULTS ON BRITAIN

Germany's Hopes For Success

William the Conqueror was the last enemy successfully to invade Great Britain. He assembled 700 open barges at St. Valery-sur-Somme, waited for a fair wind, and embarked 5000 men, including 2000 mobile armoured units—mounted knights and their squires. Overnight this armada sailed across the Eng-lish Channel, landing at Pevensey the following morning.

William marched immediately to

William marched immediately to Hastings, which he started to fortify. Though forewarned, the British, under King Harold, had been drawn away by another invader on the east coast. This was Tostig of Norway, and he was beaten at Stamford Bridge. Returning hurriedly to the Channel, the lightly-armed Saxon soldiers fell an easy prey to the mounted armoured armed Saxon soldiers fell an easy prey to the mounted armoured Normans. William proceeded leisurely to London, where he was crowned on Christmas Day, 1066. Such was the last effective invasion of England. Three enemies have since seriously threatened Great Britain. The first, Philip II of Spain, built a great armada, but it was wrecked by battle and storm near the British coasts. The second, Napoleon, threatened from Boulogne in 1805, but his inept navy and his elaborate feint to draw the British Navy to the West Indies failed tish Navy to the West Indies failed miserably. The third, Hitler, is already putting out preliminary feelers over England.

Views of Experts.

The military possibilities of Hit-ler's dream are discussed in the American news magazine, "Time." If the attempt were made, experts considered it would be launched from Dutch and Belgian ports, from Norwegian beach heads and perhaps from Eire.

Experts expected landing parties to concentrate on the south-east low-lands of England—Kent, the Thames Valley, Essex, Suffolk, and Norfolk, with diversions in the Scottish low-lands and in Wales, for the invasion's main target would be the munitions-making Midlands.
This plan has been openly recommended by Ewald Banse, professor of military science at Brunswick Technological Institute whose writings have great weight in Nazi war als other than non-ferrous metals. Until that appeal is launched, I would ask that they be stored meanwhile."

Preliminary Nazi bombing in Essex and Yorkshire was possibly to test and spot these defences. German coastal cannon planted at Calais, Cap Griz Nez and Boulogne, might aid in trying to reduce the British bases. Britain's coastal batteries have long range, but are old. Heavy units of the Royal Navy, scarcely daring to contest invading London on Friday experienced the longest daylight warning, single 'planes continuing to circle overhead, mostly over the suburbs, where a number of incendiary bombs were dropped. Important Administrative Changes Announced

NEW TRAINING PLAN

By Telegraph-Press Association WELLINGTON, Oct. 6.

Announcing important administrative changes in the home defence units, the Minister for Defence (the Hon. F. Jones) said that the Army was being placed on a footing both in organisation and training to facilitate a smooth and rapid change-over should mobilisation become necessary.

It will be obvious that an organisation suitable for peace conditions with a Territorial force of 16,000 will not answer the demands which will be placed upon it should an army of 40,000 be required to defend these shores, said the Minister. The Government has, therefore, decided that the commanders of the more important formations and their principal staff officers should hold their appointments in peace in order to enable them to study the various tactical and administrative problems with which they might be faced in war.

The officers concerned are: Colonel P. H. Bell, D.S.O., to command the 1st (Northern) Division, with head-quarters at Auckland; Colonel O. H. Mead, C.B.E., D.S.O., to command the 3rd (Southern) Division, with headquarters at Christchurch; Colonel N. W. McD. Weir to command the 2nd (Central) Division, with headquarters at Wellington. These officers will be granted the temporary rank of brigadier.

The Minister of Information (the Hon. A. Duff-Cooper) stated to-day that an Empire publicity campaign throughout Britain would be inaugurated on October 7. "The first purpose of the campaign," he said, "is to drive home the fact that Britain does not stand alone but is a partner in a world-wide and immensely powerful family of nations which has vast reserves of manpower, industrial equipment, raw materials, and foodstuffs, all of which have now been mobilised to a point at which they must be a vital factor towards victory.

The Minister said there might be suggestions that now, at one of the most intense phases of the war, such a campaign should be postponed.

"I am convinced," he said, "that this view is a mistake, and that this is precisely the time to bring home to our people that England does not stand alone and that she possesses immense reserves of men, material, and goodwill."

Four-Fronted Power Mr Duff-Cooper pointed out that the British Commonwealth was not only a European Power but an American Power, an Asiatic Power, and a Pacific Power as well. All the various parts of the Empire were throwing their whole wight into to fight for the Mother Country," he declared.

German propaganda, said Mr Duff-Cooper, had been both active and successful in many parts of the world, and he instanced America, where, during a recent series of lectures he delivered, he almost always found that the Indian situation was misunderstood. London's share in export trade is not being affected by enemy action. This emerges as the result of a careful inquiry made by the Board of Trade. Hawke's Bay is to give full co-operation in the national campaign by provincial patriotic councils to raise £1,000,000 for relief in the United Kingdom and Empire overseas, for New Zealand troops overseas and within the Dominion, and for the rehabilitation of New Zealand fighting men and their dependents. At a public meeting at Hastings on Saturday night the honorary organiser of the campaign (Mr J. Abel) intimated that the appeal was to open on October 14 and in its first phase it would continue until the end of November.

Although the meeting fully supported the objects of the campaign, it was stressed that these should be more sharply defined and that the people should be given the option of contributing to whichever they desired. On the motion of the Deputy-Mayor of Hastings (Mr A. I. Rainbow) a resolu-

Letters To The MEMORIES OF EARLY FIRES AT HASTINGS

Late Mr William Keith Had Long Association With Brigade Work

The death of Mr William Keith on Saturday after a brief illness severed a link with early Hastings and ended a life of service to the community. Mr Keith was associated with the Hastings Fire Brigade from its inception in 1886 until he retired from the Fire Board last year. For 15 years Mr Keith was superintendent of the brigade and he joined the Fire Board when he retired from active service in 1930.

Fire-fighting was Mr Keith's hobby and chief occupation and his service was given willingly and without thought of remuneration. It is well known that for many years Mr Keith would not leave Hastings on holiday, fearing that he might miss "something big." Similarly, he would never go to work in the country, wanting to be on hand when the strident fire-bell echoed from its place near the Heretaunga Street railway

Mr Keith was born in Dufftown, Scotland, and arrived in Hawke's almost helpless without a supply of water. Bay at the age of 11, travelling by the sailing ship Strathnaver with his mother, brother and sister. Their first home was at Maraekakaho Station owned by the late Sir Donald McLean. Mr Keith began work as a baker at Havelock North, and was later employed as a carpenter at Hastings by the late Mr S. Tong.

Mr Keith was a foundation memory stack.

Institute for the Blind

Sir,—May I through your columns draw the attention of your country readers to the annual general appeal of the New Zealand Institute for the Blind which is being conducted during the next fortnight in the following districts:

Mr Keith was a foundation member of the Hastings Volunteer Fife Brigade. He went to Australia in 1889 and established a fire brigade in Wodonga, Victoria, occupying the post of superintendent to Hastings.

On the resignation of the late Superintendent Bransch in 1915 Mr Keith took control of the Hastings Brigade, retaining the post until he resigned in 1930. Some Early Fires

It is interesting to recall that with the death of Mr Keith, only three of the foundation members of the Hastings Brigade survive.

A manual machine brought from Wellington was the first engine used in Hastings. One of the first big fires in the town occurred in 1887, sweeping both sides of Heretaunga Street from the railway line to the wailing siren on the modern engine and advances in engineering have removed some of the hazards which once made a fireman's occupation fraught with dangers.

The funeral of the late Mr Keith will leave his residence in Charles Street this afternoon for the Hastings Cemetery. The casket will be conveyed on an engine of the Hastings Fire Brigade, the pall-bearers to being three firemen and three members of the Masonic Lodge.

"As you all know, there has been a certain amount of ill-feeling regarding the Mayor's funds and I hope that this discussion will clear the air," said the Mayor of Napier (Mr T. W. Hercock), presiding at a patriotic meeting at Hastings on Saturday night.

The Napier Zone Committee had taken the lead and had paid the whole amount of the Mayor's fund which it held to the provincial council fund, said Mr Hercock. This had initiated a good deal of discussion throughout the province sion throughout the province.

The replacement of horses with petrol engines removed a certain amount of the romance of early firefighting. At the station the horses were stabled directly in front of the engine. The clanging of the fire bell would set them shivering and when they were harnessed to the shafts they would rear madly until the doors were thrown open.

The clanging bell of the old "steamer" has been replaced by the wailing siren on the modern engine and advances in engineering

Lack of water supply was the brigade's chief problem, for it was not until 1911 that the high-pressure system was installed. The sewers supplied the water to extinguish the

NATIVE SONG'S RUSSELL MEMORIAL

An Impressive Performance

NIGGER BOY TOO GOOD FOR THE SPRINTERS

Par Avion Beats Erin's Court

(By MOTUROA.)

Native Song, who was a trifle disappointing the first day, won the Russell Memorial Handicap from end to end and, in doing so, was most impressive. Lady Furst, Lindrum, Master Cyklon, and Aurora's Star were all hammering at him over the final two furlongs, but he drew out in the straight and won full of running by nearly three lengths. Native Song looks more solid than he was last season, and Saturday's success suggests that he is likely to show really good handicap form this season.

Master Cyklon ran true to form and a better run in the straight enabled him to narrowly defeat the hot favourite, Aurora's Star, who could not get clear until half-way down the running. Master Cyklon's form was good and, after his success the first day, he was at a false price.

Aurora's Star was finishing on strongly in the last furlong and might have been harder to beat had she been able to go through earlier. She is improving with every race and her performances at Hastings give promise of an early return to winning form.

Lady Furst, sharpened up by her race on Thursday, looked momentarily dangerous when she loomed up on the outer of Native Song as they swung into the straight, but she lacked the condition to sustain her effort and weakened into fourth place. She will be all the better for her racing and she looks likely to add to her winning account at an early Limbohm and Gay Mimic tailed the field most of the way, but they came home well to take fifth and sixth positions respectively from Lindrum, who was quietly fancied. Lindrum was with Lady Furst most of the way just in behind the leader, but he retired beaten shortly after they straightened up. Hunting Cat again followed the field home.

The honours were all with Native Song, who set a strong pace and then left the opposition standing in the last furlong.

Grand Chase Wins Well

Although he was rather slow off the mark in the Trial Stakes, Grand the mark in the Trial Stakes, Grand Chase made a fast run from the half mile to reach the front with less than half the journey covered. He was never in danger of defeat from that juncture and he bore out the good impression he created the first day by winning full of running. Grand Chase is not only a bold galloper, but he shows quality and should hold his own in much stronger company.

Hugme ran easily her best race to date to take second money. Atkins got her away well and, after being got her away well and, after being fourth early, she followed Grand Chase into the straight. This diminutive filly put in a short-lived challenge, but she stuck on quite well to beat Catanach, who came from a long way back over the last two furlongs. Catanach impresses as being very promising.

Battle Gain did not quite run up to his first day's effort and the race apparently knocked him. He was third or fourth most of the way, but could not improve on fourth, being well clear, however, of Queen IIa

Finished Strongly

Par Avion was backed down to a short price for the Juvenile Handicap, and he duly prevailed as the result of a strong finishing run down the middle of the track. However, his chances looked none too bright when Erin's Court led by half adozen lengths at the distance. The latter, however, stopped badly in the run home and Par Avion got up to win by half a length. Par Avion, who is the sixth two-year-old to win in as many two-year-old races decided this season, cost 320gns. at the National Yearling Sales.

Erin's Court ran right up to his third in the Hastings Stakes and he might have been harder to beat had he been ridden a little quieter.

FINE RACING AT

Totalisator Increase Of £4052

The Hawke's Bay Jockey Club concluded its most successful spring meeting for some years on Satur-day and the totalisator increase of day and the totalisator increase of £4052 for the meeting was most gratifying. The turnover of £14,778 10/- was the best for a spring meeting since 1928, and was £3169 better than the second day of the meeting last year. The total investments for the meeting were £23,433, compared with £19,381 last year an increase with £19,381 last year, an increase

The weather was dull early in the day, but came out warm and fine later and there was a very large attendance. The gates and the sales of books were well up on last year. The track was in wonderful order, being slightly faster than on the opening day.

Hawke's Bay horses showed up to better advantage than on Thursday, Son and Heir, Grand Chase, Morning Flight and Roeon being returned winners. The Gisborne gelding Native Song was never headed in the main handicap, the Russell Memorial, and he was an impressive winner. Par Avion, who is trained at Masterton, finished well to win the two-year-old event, while the Awapuni gelding Nigger Boy, by taking the Final Handicap, was the only double winner at the meeting.

Efficient Starting

As on the opening day, L. G. Morris was seen to advantage at the starting barrier, and the efficiency of his work was freely commented upon. The Hawke's Bay Jockey Club has made a fortunate appoint-ment to this position for patrons had no cause for satisfaction with the starting at meetings in recent years. Indeed, Morris's displays last week were up to the best start-ing seen in the Dominion for a long prominent and when young Parra-more called on him he came around the leaders at the straight entrance and quickly established a winning lead. Paramore's riding was the de-ciding factor in his success. The secretary (Mr A. E. Wishart) and his staff had everything up to the minute and the outstanding suc-Kintyre was made a hot favour-ite, but he looked very unlucky to lose. He was in the middle of the field most of the way and was about fifth into the straight. Whereas Morning Flight went round the leadto their excellent work. The club's custodian (Mr J. McDonnell) had the course and surroundings in wonderful order for the meeting.

The following are the details of the meeting.

Morning Flight went round the leaders, Kintyre was forced to squeeze through on the inner and he could not get clear until the last furlong. Kintyre was simply flying at the finish, but the post came too soon. City Song, who was well up all the way, finished quite a good third an effort which suggests that she is on the upgrade, while Royal Pageant made up some ground to finish fourth. Malacca and Dunmanway were prominent for the first six furlongs, but they faded out in the TOMOANA HURDLES HANDICAP,

From FOREST TRACK by Tracery 19—Forest Lassie by Isinglass 3—
Baroness la Fleche by Ladas 1—La Fleche by St. Simon 11.

LANG BIAN is a particularly handsome horse and closely resembles his famous sire. He was a good winner in the best class races in France.

MASSINE, Lang Blan's sire, was a high-class winner in France, and also beat the Derby winner Papyrus in the Ascot Gold Cup. He has twice headed the winning sires' list in France and he introduces a fresh strain of St. Simon blood through that great galloper La Camargo.

FOREST TRACK'S pedigree is well known. Not only is she by that great brood mare sire Tracery, but her third dam is that wonderful mare La Fleche, the third dam of Beau Pere and Gay Shield, two of the most successful sires in New Zealand in modern times.
