HEROIC BATTLE FOUGHT BY JERVIS BAY

Merchant Cruiser Goes Down With Guns Blazing In Defence Of Convoy

(United Press Association-Copyright.) (Received November 13, 10.15 p.m.) LONDON, Nov. 12.

The Admiralty states that all except nine of the 38 ships in the convoy that was attacked by a surface raider on the night of November 5, escaped. It is possible that some of the ships still missing may be safe.

The escape of nearly three-quarters of this large convoy from a powerful raider is due to the high degree of efficiency shown by the captains of the merchantmen, the fact that they scattered and used smokescreens, and the gallant action of the armed merchant cruiser, Jervis Bay, commanded by acting-Captain E. Inspired Axis comment on M. Molotov's Berlin visit, particularly that emanating from Rome, indicates strong hope that the outcome of the discussions will be to bring Russian influence to bear on Turkish policy in a sense favourable to Axis plans. The Soviet's recent policy does not appear to observers in London to give good grounds for expecting this hope to be realised.

That policy was again proclaimed at a recent great military review by the head of the Red Army as MOLOTOV REACHES being directed by M. Stalin with the consistent purpose of safeguarding the Russian people from

According to the French wireless the German Foreign Office handed to foreign journalists a statement that M. Molotov's visit was a logical outcome of the revolution in the European situction and of the signing of the tripartite pact between the Axis Powers and Japan.

In view of the new situation resulting from the developments of the war and the tripartite alliance, the statement says, it is necessary to define positively and clearly the position of the Soviet Union. M. Molotov's visit has the following aims:—

The plan may have comprised a The plan may have comprised a bulgarian troops, also 300 doctors, holding action in the north and an attack to the south in the Pindus (central) area by an Alpine division with reinforcements of Fascist militia and Bersaglieri, who were to go through Lake Metsovo on the gotherous the Pindus area, the lingual troops, also 300 doctors, have been called up quietly in the last few days.

The Italians are reported to have lost 12 officers, 630 men

Greek military circles consider that the escape of from 4000 to 5000 Italians from the Pindus pocket is not an unmixed evil, because they will return to their bases without weapons, ragged, semi-starved, and with tales of avalanches of rocks

One member of the hunters' association was a German, and he is possibly now fighting with the enemy. He slipped out of Kenya at the outbreak of war with the last Italian ship to sail and was last reported to be at Massawa.

One consolation all could still turn to. She told all present to work hard and continue their flower shows.

The champion rose of the show was a fine bloom of "Earl Haig" and was exhibited by Mrs R. J. Campbell, of Taradale.

The committee of the show wish to thank all exhibitors and helpers and also donors of special prizes, especially those donations which came to hand after the schedule was to be at Massawa.

Ideal Type

Ideal Type

The South African troops have already made the acquaintance of these men of the big game country. One of the hunters said after he had met the troops:—
"One glance, and it can be seen that the South African troops are the ideal type for a campaign here. They are physically strong and possess obvious powers of endurance. They are used to similarly trying country as this and they seem to possess also unusual powers of initiative, improvisation and self-reliance, which are invaluable in the tight corners which are inevitable when campaigning. "They have, in addition, a sense of humour which is more than invaluable. In Use This Season

It was safe to say that the store would be in use in the coming season, stated Mr Nash. Temporary fruit accommodation, which was always very costly, was in use in the Dominion, and the Minister quoted an example at Nelson where a store had been erected as a "rush job" and would not last more than two or three years. In many ways the Hastings campaign to raise £15,000 as the district's contribution to the £1,000,000 patriotic appeal is providing opportunities for the people to make their individual contributions, either by way of cash or goods. Mr Nash produced a rough plan of the Hastings store and said that the Government architect would have a more detailed plan completed this week. Mr Nash was addressing fruitgrowers at Hastings yester-

Mr Nash said that he had cabled the British Government at the be-ginning of the season stating that ginning of the season stating that New Zealand did not propose asking more for her produce. THE BOY AND THE WOLF.

Ever since the outbreak of war the Axis has been producing potential bogeys to frighten its opponents. They have come like rabbits out of a hat to add to the terrors of blitz-krieg and invasion, but as far as the principal enemy of total-itarianism—Great Britain—is concerned, none of them has achieved any degree of success.

For this reason undue importance should not be attached to the visit of the Soviet Prime Minister (M. Molotov) to Berlin. There is no doubt that M. Molotov knows exactly what he wants, and there is equally little doubt that he and the Russian dictator have carefully prepared a plan of campaign which will ensure that in the end Russia will resume her place on the fence while Nazism and Fascism are left to get on with the war get on with the war.

The Axis, and especially the Italian end of it, is hoping for big developments in Berlin. For instance, reports from Rome talk blithely about Russian influence being brought to bear on Turkey "in a sense favourable to the Axis." In plain English this means that Italy is hoping for Russian help in the task of fitting new wheels on the Italian war machine in Greece. Exactly what payment Russia would get for her services is as yet unknown, but control of the Dardanelles and a share in the oil supplies from Iran and Iran—after the British share in the oil supplies from Iran and Iraq—after the British had moved out—are two possibilities.

Then again there is a hint that one of the main objects in getting M. Molotov to Berlin is a plan to bring about some sort of agreement between Russia and Japan. From the Axis point of view this idea is obviously full of possibilities, but it fails to take into account the fact that Russia herself is very ly to undertake any sort of commitment which might bring her into the war on one side or the other.

This policy of neutrality on the part of Russia must inevitably provide the hitch in any scheme for creating a totalitarian bloc stretching across the world. In theory it might be reasonable to expect some sort of pact linking Germany, Italy Spain, Russia, and Japan in a solid alliance against the British Empire and the United States; in practice such a thing is virtually impossible. Stalin and Molotov are much too astute to permit anything of the sort unless they were absolutely convinced that complete victory for the Axis was inevitable. Even then there would be an element of doubt for the simple reason that Russia would be in a precarious position if she were surrounded by victorious "friends."

As far as the immediate situation is concerned a useful guide to the attitude of Russia is to be found in Turkey. If there were any real danger of Russia's throwing in her lot with the Axis, the move would be reflected in a growing coolness in Turkey towards Great Britain. Instead of this, however, the tone of Turkish newspaper comment is steadily becoming more pro-British, more belligerent, and more outspokenly anti-Axis. Referring to Anglo-Turkish friendship, one newspaper says, "Many people are possibly surprised by the deep and sincere friendship between nations which fought each other so stubbornly in the last war. . . Anglo-Turkish friendship is stronger than any Nazi-Fascist combination which exists only in order to break down the European order." That is plain enough, and it could not have been said if the Turkish Government had believed in the bogey of a Russian move in the Near East on the side of the Axis.

It seems that once again Axis propaganda has over-reached itself. It is like the old tale of the boy and the wolf with this difference: the wolf remains elusive to the end.

MR CHURCHILL'S TRIBUTE.

If England should ever produce another Shakespeare, he would find no lack of material for plays, in the style of "Henry V", based on the drama of modern British history. And one of his strongest characters might well be Mr Winston Churchill.

Mr Churchill's tribute to Neville Chamberlain in the House of Commons has a poetic quality which is in keeping with the drama of tragic frustration that was Mr Chamber-

"It fell to Mr Chamberlain," said the Prime Minister, "in one of the supreme crises of the world to be contradicted by events, disappointed in his hopes, and deceived and cheated by a wicked man. . . Hitler protests with frantic words and gestures that he only desired peace. What do these ravings and outpourings count before the silence of Chamberlain's tomb?"

There is a majorty in these lines which gures on the

There is a majesty in those lines which sums up the national regard for the late Prime Minister, whose only fault was that he was too ready to attribute to others his own honourable principles. His greatest political achievement was to stave off the inevitable world-conflict until his country was prepared in some measure to receive the full force of the onslaught, and his greatest political failure—the abandoning of Czechoslovakia—was brought about almost solely by his trusting the word of an opponent who regarded such trust as mere weakness.

Mr Chamberlain's failings were the failings of the British nation. Perhaps "failings" is not the best word, for they consisted largely of an innate love of peace and an unassailable dignity which could be shelved if circumstances compelled such a sacrifice. Mr Chamberlain was a fitting leader in the days of peace, and it was in keeping with his life and character that he should voluntarily have handed on the leadership to such a man as Mr. Churchill.

Defending New Zealand

"The fellow who says 'We cannot defend New Zealand,' lives in a coward's castle," said the Hon. R. Hospital, will be resumed before the Semple, addressing a public meeting at Ashburton. "There is something wrong with him," added the Minister. "Biologically, he is built like a lived at Clive."

As the result of a request received from Mrs C. McBeath, Napier, the Hawke's Bay Patriotic Council has decided sympathetically to consider the establishment of a home for soldiers' children. The children would be admitted to the proposed.

A reminder that the New Zealand Bowling Council had ruled that the term "fours" should replace the word "rinks" as the name for a team of bowlers was given to the Christchurch Bowling Centre by Mr A. Dickson. He pointed out that some clubs had issued invitations to tournaments with "rinks" competitions.

Sandstorm in Desert

Sandstorm in Desert

Letters received from members of the First Echelon in Egypt give vivid accounts of a fierce sandstorm experienced in October. One writer states that it was impossible to see more than 10 yards when the storm was at its height, and that some of the men wore gas goggles and even gas masks in an endeavour to keep out the flying particles. "Even the flies were dazed and silly," he states. "Further up the line they say these sandstorms lative cases for the exclusion of certain workers from the operation of the general order for a five per cent. increase in wages. #### MR NASH REPLIES TO DAIRYMEN'S CHARGES

No Industry Benefited More From Government Policy, Says Minister

No section of the community had benefited more from the policy of the present Government than the dairy farmers of the Dominion, declared the Minister of Marketing (the Hon. W. Nash) in an address at Waipukurau last night

When the Government came into office, said Mr Nash, the industry was in a bad plight. The Government's promise that the industry would be protected from the vagaries of the market had been completely fulfilled by the guaranteed price.

Since the guaranteed price was instituted, said Mr Nash, average payouts for butterfat for butter had risen by 35 per cent. from 1/a pound in 1935-36 to 1/4½ a pound in 1939-40. The present basic price of 15.88d (butterfat) represented an increase of 2.88d or 21 per cent. on the original 1936-37 price of 13.04d. In effect, therefore, the dairy industry had received progressive 10 per cent. increases each season from 1936-37 to 1938-39, when the price was fixed at its prewhen the price was fixed at its pre-sent level.

Referring to the dairy industry account at the Reserve Bank, the Minister said that the result of four years' operations was a debit balance of £2,160,000. In addition to this sum the new procedure had balance of £2,160,000. In addition to this sum the new procedure had effected net savings to the industry aggregating to date more than £800,000. Thus, in terms of actual income received, dairyfarmers were better off to the extent of £3,000,000 than they would have been under the old conditions.

Subsidising Labour

The Minister referred also to the fact that £700,000 had been spent to date on subsidising the labour cost of improvement work on farms and instanced the rural housing scheme and the scheme of special advances for the extension of production as further evidence of the Government's anyiety to affect. Government's anxiety to afford dairyfarmers and other primary producers every reasonable assistance in overcoming existing difficulties

A further major cost which had not increased and had in fact come down in price in the last two years was the cost of fertiliser. The Government had in the cost of the cost o was the cost of fertiliser. The Government had given an assurance, said Mr Nash, that the price of superphosphate would be maintained at the present level. For this purpose provision had been made on this year's Estimates for payment of a subsidy of £630,600. Other Government grants directly benefiting the dairy industry included subsidies in the carriage of fertiliser amounting to £240,000; herd improvement £13,000; and assistance to the pig industry £8000. herd improvement £13,000; and assistance to the pig industry £8000. These grants aggregating £892,000 are equivalent to an additional payment of 5-8d a pound butterfat. In common with other producers, dairyfarmers benefit also from additional subsidies and grants, including particularly rebates in the carriage of lime, noxious weeds eradication and compensation for stock condemned or destroyed, totalling a further £300,000 per annum.

otherwise of the claim for a higher guaranteed price it was necessary to remember that the guranteed price does not represent the actual income received by the dairy industry, since payouts in respect of butterfat for butter had been constantly in excess of the standard payout provided for. Thus for the past two seasons the basic guaranteed price of 14.89d a pound (f.o.b.) was estimated to give a payout of teed price of 14.89d a pound (f.o.b.) was estimated to give a payout of 15.88d a pound butterfat for butter. The actual average payouts for factories throughout the Dominion, however, had been 16.20d or .32d more than the standard allowed for. The actual payout for butterfat for cheese had more nearly approximated the standard. Taking both butter and cheese into account, the amount paid out in excess of the amount paid out in excess of the guaranteed price allowance dur-ing the past four seasons totalled approximately £2,250,000, said Mr

A further compensating factor so far as increased farm costs were concerned was the fact that the return from pigs during the past season would exceed the guaranteed price allowance of 1.54d a pound butterfat by .26d. This a pound butterfat by .26d. This represented the average increase to the dairyfarmer from pig rearing as a result of the increases in the export values for all types of pig products.

The Minister affirmed that the guaranteed price procedure had in no way been abandoned, although the demands of the present war situation rendered impossible in the meantime its full implementation so far as allowance for costs was concerned. This had been made perfectly clear to the industry ever since the Marketing Amendment Act was passed in October, 1939, which expressly stipulated that in fixing the price and to the conditions created there-

Factory Costs

Referring to factory costs, the Minister stressed the fact that for the 1939-40 season actual costs incurred in the case of both butter and cheese were less than for the previous year. For the past season factory costs averaged 2.127d a pound butterfat in the case of butter factories—or .123d less than the 2.25d actually allowed for in sections of the community.

Although the dairy industry must necessarily be affected by war conditions, it would be the Government's objective to carry out the essential principles and spirit of the Primary Products Marketing Act by ensuring as far as it was practicable to do so that dairy-farmers are not subjected to undue hardship and are enabled to enjoy a standard of living at least comparable with that enjoyed by other

NATIONAL PARTY PRINCIPLES

MR W. J. BROADFOOT AT TIKOKINO

LABOUR ATTACKED

The Individual And The State

The principles for which the National Party stood, and which, he contended, were in sharp contrast to the expressed policy of the Labour Party, were outlined by Mr W. J. Broadfoot, M.P. for Waitomo, in an address to about 70 electors at the Tikokino Hall last evening.

The Riding member for the district (Mr T. Butler) was in the chair.

"What did the National Party stand for?" asked Mr Broadfoot.

"Government of the people? Yes, if members were freely elected at normal dates, which meant free and regular elections. That the election would be held on the usual date had been promised by the Prime Minisbeen promised by the Prime Minister, he said, but in the contest now proceeding the Labour candidate had indicated that the election would be held on the travel of the process. pe held on the usual date if possible.

"Ministerial Dictators"

Government by the people was not being carried out to-day, said Mr Broadfoot. It was now performed by Ministerial dictators plus bureaucratic control dominated by the Trade Unionists.

"In the same way there is no government for the people," he continued. There was government for one section at the expense of other sections, and some sections were being pillaged to-day for, in many cases, the less worthy. There was also the case of those who wanted the State to do everything for them.

Individual Liberty

"The National Party stands for the greatest liberty to the individual provided it does not infringe on the rights of others," said Mr Broadfoot. "To-day the individual's liberty is restricted by the Marketing Act, Industrial Efficiency Act and the Transport Act. Appeals to the Supreme Court are prevented and every Minister now is the Appeal Court. Unionism is compulsory and we have such things as import restrictions and the commandeering of the sterling assets.

"We believe in private enterprise and the profit motive. New Zealand was built on this, but State socialism is wrecking us to-day. We stand for freedom of speech, of the Press and of assembly. In short, we state most emphatically that the people must own the State and that the State must not own the people.

Motion of Confidence

At the conclusion of the address, on the motion of Mr A. W. Jull, seconded by Mr G. W. R. Limbrick, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mr Broadfoot for his address, and a resolution of confidence in the New Zealand National Party was

CAIRO, Nov. 12. With something of the art of concealment instinctive in other creatures of the desert, the fighting troops of the First New Zealand Contingent are ready to merge themselves into the dust-blown, rolling waste the moment their present sector is threatened by enemy land action. The defensive positions on which they have tirelessly worked since they moved as a complete formation into the Western Desert are their first

The part played by New Zealand's first overseas draft in the war so far Fifth Column In has been more or less a negative one and no opportunities for spectacular achievement have yet come its way. Behind the scenes, however, the contingent has carried out a diversity of duties as valuable as they have been unostentatious Many of these assignments have been linked with internal security measures—for example, the guard-ing of lines of communication, aerodromes and similar vital points.

Another major activity was assistance with the building of desert fortifications. This task, which is now only a memory of intense physical effort, was taken by the fighting units in relays and earned them the right to inherit the name of "Dirgers". Diggers."
The infantry companies have also helped to guard Italian and Libyan prisoners. Relieved largely of these duties, the greater part of the contingent took its place several weeks ago among the Empire forces which await a further advance of the Italians.

Italians Ready For Action

In line with the present general policy of active defence the New Zealanders' first battle stations are lefensive in nature and are ready o be manned and held at the briefest notice. Their trenches, dug-outs and gun positions are cunning-ly blended into the surroundings and are an invisible monument to the science of concealment and sheer hard work.

The situation, perhaps, can best be compared to that which ruled so long on France's Western Front in the early days of the war, when land hostilities were confined to sporadic outpost raids and the Allied troops even found time to help the peasant farmers behind the Maginot Line. The chief point of difference is that the New Zealanders have been too busy with such tasks as digging in to feel the pinch of real boredom. This waiting phase, moreboredom. This waiting phase, more-over, has been seized lately as an opportunity for advanced training exercises by companies, regiments, and the full brigade. Rumours which have arisen at home that the contingent has been in the thick of things are wistfully branded by the men as wishful thinking. The small percentage of battle casualties, of which all have been caused by aerial bomb splinters, is complete enough answer to

OCCUPATIONS NOT AFFECTED

Men who have considered enlisting with the Home Guard at Hastings have expressed the fear that their military duties will interfere with their daily work. This possibility is denied by the Hastings battalion commander (Mr S. I. Dixon). Mr Dixon said yesterday that while it was yet impossible to give details of parades, it was anticipated that these would be held on one evening a week and probably on a Saturday afternoon every fortnight. RUGBY, Nov. 12.

Tributes were paid to the memory of the Rt. Hon Neville Chamberlain in the House of Commons to-day by the leaders of the three great political parties, each of whom is a member of the present Cabinet.

Mr Churchill said: "It fell to Mr Chamberlain in one of the supreme crises of the world to be contradicted by events, disappointed in hopes, and deceived by a wicked man. But what were the hopes in which he was disappointed? What were the wishes in which he was frustrated? What was the faith that was abused? They were surely among the most noble and benevolent instincts of the human heart—love of peace, toil for peace, striving for peace, even at great peril.

Terrible Years

"Whatever else history may or may not say about these terrible and tremendous years," Mr Churchill added, "we can be sure that Mr Chamberlain acted with perfect sincerty according to his lights and strove to the utmost of his capacity and authority, which were powerful, to save the world from the awful and devastating struggle in which it is now engaged."

Mr Churchill continued that this effort was a help to the whole Empire for the verdict of future generations would be that Britain was guiltless of the blood, terror and misery which had engulfed so many lands and peoples.

"I had the singular experience of passing in a day from being one of his most prominent opponents and critics to one of his principal lieutenants, and, on another day, of passing from serving under him to becoming head of a Government of which, with perfect loyalty, he was content to be a member. Thereafter he acted with a singleness of purpose and simplicity of conduct which at all times, and especially in great times, ought to be a model to us all.

MAYOR'S STATEMENT

An appeal for blood donors for the Memorial Hospital, Hastings, was made by the Mayor of Hastings (Mr G. A. Maddison) yesterday. It was essential that an adequate list should be compiled of those persons who were prepared to give blood for the saving of life, so that this service might be available in case of injury to persons as a result of injury to persons as a result of enemy action or in the event of any enemy action or in the event of any outbreak of an epidemic, he said.

"May I explain that a blood transfusion is not given unless the case warrants it?" said the Mayor. "If the general health is good, donors of 20 years of age and upwards are suitable. Women will be accepted when the veins of the elbow are readily accessible.

Stringent Tests

"I am advised that blood is considered suitable for patients only of the country, the Minister of Finance (the Hon. W. Nash), at Waipukurau last night, stressed the fact that the withdrawal of manpower from industry and the diversion of so much of our resources to the war

Grand Carnival GROWERS MAY RECEIVE A SLIGHTLY HIGHER PRICE

> Minister Of Marketing Addresses Hawke's Bay Orchardists At Hastings

The possibility of a slightly higher price being paid to the growers this season for apples and pears under the Government purchase plan was mentioned by the Minister of Marketing (the Hon. W. Nash) addressing orchardists at Hastings

The Minister emphasised that with no shipping space available to send fruit to Britain, markets for what promised to be a record crop would have to be found in the Dominion. In view of this it was impossible to predict exactly what prices the Government might be able to pay.

He hoped that when the war was over, if the Government was still the marketing agent, costs would come under consideration in fixing the price.

The meeting, which was attended by about 200 fruitgrowers, was presided over by the Hawke's Bay discovers' Federation (Mr A. M. Robertson). On the platform were also Messrs W. E. Barnard, M.P., and E. L. Cullen, M.P.

Belle Cane Just Canters Home

EASY WIN IN THE OAKS

Farcical Race For Canterbury Cup

"Daily Mail" Special Service CHRISTCHURCH, Nov. 13.

In the slowest-run race since Mercy won in 1907, the Wanganui filly, Belle Cane, who is generally conceded to have been unlucky to lose the New Zealand Derby, added the New Zealand Oaks to her credit to-day. It was little more provided to the new Zealand Oaks to her credit to-day. exercise gallop for Belle Cane, who waited on Doria, Rue and Nightglass to the false rail and then ran past them with consumate ease

Belle Cane won pulling up and her effort left the impression that she is the best filly raced in the Dominion since Silver Scorn in 1932. Her Riccarton form suggests that the colts will find her hard to beat in the Great Northern Derby. The greatly improved form of Cherry Bay was not a surprise. She needs a strong rider to get the best out of her and Morris was content to tail the field to the straight. Cherry Bay responded well to be a good second and it is obvious that she is improving with her racing.

Doria tried to lead all the way, but was not equal to the task and had to be kept going to finish third. Sprinting appears to be her forte.

Rue ran a good race for a mile, but was not seasoned enough to go on with it, but Nightglass, after making a shortlived dab at the straight entrance, failed to go on with it over the last furlong. Phyto was also proved a non-stayer.

The hard tracks at Riccarton are against Sly Fox. There are quite a lot more horses at the meeting who would appreciate a good fall of rain.

Taurangi is again troubled with soreness and will not be started again at the Cup meeting.

The Buzzer might run a much better race in the Metropolitan Handicap on Saturday. He was disappointing in the New Zealand Cup.

WARUNA created a profound impression when he won at the Matinee meeting at Hast-ings, but his form in the Hast-Stakes and Roseneath ings Stakes and Roseneam Handicap at Trentham was very disappointing. It is now obvious that the big Vermeer colt needed racing for his improvement since then has been steadily maintained. Varuna ran a fine maintained. Varuna ran a fine race in the Welcome Stakes and then finished a good third to Corn Prince on Monday. Benefited by these races he led throughout in the Spring Nursery at Riccarton yesterday and won going away. Varuna, who was purchased by Mr. W.. A. Jewish Lad Again The greatly-improved Jewish Lad went to the front at the first jump in the Port Cooper Hurdles and was never headed. Recollection, Dorado and Sir Frederick all challenged him coming to the last fence, but he had ploute in head and agree the second but he had plenty in hand and came right away again to win convincingly. BELLE CANE was purchased at the 1939 National Yearling Sales by the Sydney owner and breeder, Mr W. J. Derby in 1935 with Lowenberg. The lease expires at the end of the current season, but Belle Cane is proving to be a good money-spinner for the Wanganui sportsmen, for her six starts BELLE CANE was purchased nui sportsmen, for her six starts this season have resulted in five wins and a fourth. SPLENDID FIELDS AT NAPIER

PROSPECTS BRIGHT

Keen Sport Assured On Saturday

Wonderful acceptances were received last night for the second day of the Napier Park Racing Club's spring meeting at Greenmeadows on Saturday and the response from owners is most gratifying. Now that the weather is "set fair" the club can look with confidence to Saturday to bring to a successful conclusion one of the finest meetings staged by the club for many years. The only absentee of note for Saturday is the Hawera-trained Royal Star II, whose runaway win last week earned him stiff penalties. However, both open races have drawn fields of seven and both will be two dividend races.

Saturday's hurdles field was a record for the past decade and again a dozen are carded for what promises to be one of the most interesting races of the day. There is a big field of eighteen in the Novice Stakes, while each of the hack races has drawn an evenly-balanced field of 13.

ATTRACTIVE FIXTURE FOR BOXING DAY

Waipukurau J.C. Summer Meeting

The Waipukurau Jockey Club's programme for its summer meeting at Waipukurau on Boxing Day will attract wide attention. Sight, also, will not be lost of the fact that this club is giving all its profits to patriotic purposes and Hawke's Bay owners will rally round to make the two one-day meetings this season in every way a success.

cap, run over 10 furlongs, is for amateur riders.

A further attraction is the club's f10 prize for the most successful trainer. Nominations for all events close with the secretary, Mr F. A. G. Dunn, Waipukurau, on December 11.

PROMISING PAIR AT FORDELL

By "Moturoa"

A good impression was created by the Lord Quex gelding Tuatara when he made his debut in open ranks at the Rangitikei meeting and it will surprise if the forthcoming district fixtures do 'not see his winning account should be augmented. This big chestnut gelding from Fordell should be suited by seven furlongs events at Feilding at the end of the month, but there is no reason why a middle-distance event should not be within his compass before the season is much further advanced.

Sunny Knight is bred to win good middle distance races. He is a fine big three-year-old by the successful Gainsborough horse Gainscourt from Sunny Maid, as smart performer her-self. Sunny Maid is by Psychology from Sunny Roe (dam of Sunny Sky and a number of good winners), by Sunny Lake from that great staying mare Merry Roe, by Soult from Erey Roe, by St. Hippo.

Merry Roe won over £7600 in stakes and her successes included the Great Northern Oaks, New Zealand St. Leger, Trentham Gold Cup and Champion Plate. She was the dam of that good handicapper Merry Damon. Solution and Putty also came from this line.

Red Cat impresses as being more solid now than at any other stage of the came home so well at Bulls that an extra furlong would appear any providing the part of the came home so well at Bulls that an extra furlong would be appeared to the part of the came home and the came home at all the came home.

WELL-BRED MAIDEN WINNER

Sunny Knight From A Good Family By "Moturoa"

Last Saturday's Napier maiden win-ner Sunny Knight created a very good impression and the ease with which he disposed of more seasoned rivals suggests that he will hold his own in more pretentious company be-fore the season is much further ad-vanced.

From FOREST TRACK by Tracery 19-Forest Lassie by Isinglass 3-Baroness ia Fleche by Ladas 1-La Fleche by St. Simon 11.

LANG BIAN is a particularly handsome horse and closely resembles his famous sire. He was a good winner in the best class races in France.

MASSINE, Lang Blain's sire, was a high-class winner in France, and also beat the Derby winner Papyrus in the Ascot Gold Cup. He has twice headed the winning sires' list in France and he introduces a fresh strain of St. Simon blood through that great galloper La Camargo.

FOREST TRACK'S pedigree is well known. Not only is she by that great brood mare sire Tracery, but her third dam is that wonderful mare La Fleche, the third dam of Beau Pere and Gay Shield, two of the most successful sires in New Zealand in modern-times.
