Gibraltar's Defences Strengthened: Ready To Repel All Attacks

(United Press Association-Copyright.) (Received April 27, 9.10 p.m.)

LONDON, April 26.

The Gibraltar correspondent of the British United Press states that any attempt to take Gibraltar will cost the lives of at least 150,000 men and the result would still be doubtful for the attacker.

This is the view of a senior Spanish officer who has just visited the Rock. His opinion is shared by high Spanish Gibraltar is now going through a state of complete preparedness for any emergency. Thousands of the inhabitants have been evacuated, many to London.

Canadian hard-rock miners a week ago completed the construction of a subterranean town inside the Rock, with underground roads, passages, hospitals, canteens, stores, magazines, shelters, offices and even rest centres.

The reservoirs hold millions of gallons of water.

Gibraltar itself is calm and cheerful and the troops relax in the cafes, cinemas and theatres after their jobs are done.

cinemas and theatres after their jobs are done.

The "Daily Express" says that Lord Gort's appointment as Commander-in-chief at Gibraltar shows clearly that the British Government is well aware of the danger and that the hour of attack against the Rock may be very near.

Lord Gort is the ideal man to defend Gibraltar. His record proves that he is an astute soldier of matchless courage and tenacity.

The Spanish Foreign Minister (Scnor Suner) who is confident of his ascendancy over General Franco, recently told the American Ambassador (Mr Weddell): "I hope and believe in a German victory. I will stop at nothing to help hasten it."

Spain's petrol supplies are reported to be good.

The appointment is expected of a German Minister to Tangier (across the Straits of Gibraltar) with a a largely increased staff to dominate the town. A Press censorship was established a few days ago. The Germans are pressing for control of cables and wireless.

"If the Nazis are in Greenland we have got to throw them out," commented Senator Josh Lee, when the report of a Nazi landing there was referred to him. The statement that it was possible that Axis forces had occupied the country had been made yesterday by the President, who disclosed it with frank surprise. Senator Brewster's comment was: "I guess we are beginning to recognise the facts of life."

The United States, said the President, was doing "something to counteract the Axis action," and he hoped there would be no further aggression.

Greenland was the subject of an agreement reached earlier this month between the United States Government and the Danish Minister to Washington. Under this agreement, the United States undertook the defence of Greenland in return for the use of bases there.

Subsequently the Danish Government, under German pressure, repudiated the agreement and recalled the Minister, but the latter, backed by the United States Government, ignored the recall order.

In the United States, for example, the Detroit "Free Press" states: "The more territory Hitler conquers the more certain is his doom, because Hitler's way is to bring doom to free people."

General Hugh Johnson also expressed the opinion that the millitary catastrophe in Greece and the Balkans was not of itself a British defeat. Owing to the inclemency of the weather and the fact that the date of the meeting had been changed, there was not the usual good attendance. Those members not present missed an unusual demonstration on cocking with a super heated steam. missed an unusual demonstration on cooking with a super heated steam cooking with a super heated steam cooker. This was ably given by Mrs Bark who had been fortunate enough to purchase this marvellous cooker when visiting England three years ago. Mrs Bark has used this regularly since and it is no small wonder as the food cooked this way is of excellent flavour. It took only half an hour to cook a full course dinner comprising of fish, five vegetables (including lima beans previously soaked for only 20 minutes), and a sweet. The demonstrator also produced an orange cake and a scone loaf she had cooked by this method. Everything made was handed around and enjoyed by all. A hearty vote of thanks was given Mrs Bark for this instructive demonstration.

HOUSEWIVES' UNION

HOUSEWIVES' UNION IN HASTINGS

A meeting of the Housewives' Union took place at the Friendly Hall, Warren Street, Hastings. This movement is devoted to the interests and problems of women in the home and is entirely non-sectarian and non-political. It is particularly stressed that all newcomers are welcomed no matter what their political or religious views may be as it is felt to be for the common good that these factors should not be brought in. Another meeting will be held on April 29.

Would acquit himself well in his new sphere.

L.A.C. Simpson replied in a most able manner, thanking the people for his present and the Social Club for giving him the opportunity to see his friends. He ended his speech by saying that he would do his very best to make the district proud of him. Musical honours followed.

A very appetising supper was served, after which dancing was resumed.

Mr Donald Gascoyne acted as M.C. and Mr Les Tasker supplied the music.

A most enjoyable evening was brought to a close in the early hours of the morning by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

A suggestion that, as freezing A suggestion that, as freezing space was at a premium, sheep which could be carried over for shearing, ewe lambs for instance, should be valued at killable rates, prohibited from the export market and treated as store stocks, was made by Mr A. F. Harris at a meeting of the Hawke's Bay provincial executive of the Farmers' Union, held in Waipukurau.

Mr D. J. Coughlan said he thought the suggestion a good one for next season as applied to white-faced ewe lambs.

Another speaker urged that action should be immediate because many farmers were concerned as to what the price would be next year and wanted to cash in on their lambs while they could.

Mr V. Stratford forsaw the possibility of selling to America for ultimate export to Britain and he felt that the union should not jump to any conclusions.

"HITLER-BEAST OF BERLIN"

The most hated man in the world to-day is Adolf Hitler, power-crazed dictator, and that hate is not confined to countries outside the iron rule of his dictatorship. For in Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Germany and other countries under Germany and other countries under Nazism there are organised groups of men and women of all religions and political faiths, fighting Hitlerism with every weapon their ingenuity and meagre resources can command. Hidden behind a black veil of censorship rigidly enforced by members of the brutal Gestapo, these courageous people are fighting. by members of the brutal Gestapo, these courageous people are fighting a battle for right against tremendous odds, "Hitler—Beast of Berlin," coming to-morrow to the Cosy Theatre, Hastings, and described as the most sensational picture ever produced, tells the uncensored truth of these people. Eventually despite of these people. Eventually, despite every precaution, they fall into the clutches of the dreaded Gestapo and re thrown into a concentration camp. "Hitler—Beast of Berlin," is indeed a frank, fearless expose of Nazism, based on actual happenings and enacted by the specially selected cast of International players, headed by Roland Drew, Steffi Duna and Allan Ladd. And the picture stresses the fact that Hitlerism and all that stands for, must be crushed-

On the same programme will be screened a gay comedy, "Meet the Missus," with Popular Roscoe Karns in one of his inimitable characteristics.

Current Programme

"Give Us Wings," aviation adventure featuring the "Dead End Kids" and the "Little Tough Guys," concludes its season to-day, with "Meet the Wildcat," comedy-mystery cofeaturing Ralph Bellamy and Margaret Lindsay.

'FOUR FEATHERS" ON RETURN SEASON

Alexander Korda's "The Four Feathers," showing at the State Theatre, Hastings, to-morrow, is a film that will live long in your memory. Like "The Drum," a previous Korda success, it inscribes on the screen another stirring chapter of Empire history. This time the scene is the Sudan, where beneath the hot sun Gordon met a martyr's death and Kitchener fought through to victory and enduring fame at Omdurman. You will thrill to the sight of these historic incidents relived on the screen; the solid British square—broken, it is said, only once, by the grandfathers of these self-same Fuzzie-Wuzzies that you see hurtling fearsomely across these self-same Fuzzie-Wuzzies that you see hurtling fearsomely across the screen—a bulwark against fanaticism and terror; the wheeling vultures, ominous specks against a clear blue sky; the hauling of Kitchener's army across the raging Nile cataracts, a feat without parallel in military history...these, and many more, are scenes that will not be forgotten easily.

Faversham as so convincingly be forgotten easily.

Faversham, as so convincingly portrayed by John Clements, a rising young player, comes to the screen with all the sympathy with which the author endowed him. The ill-fated Captain Durrance provides Ralph Richardson with an excellent opportunity for another of those excellent character studies that have placed him in the top flight of screen actors. In addition we have C. Aubrey Smith playing in inimitable style once of his crusty old gentlemen cameos as the father of June Duprez, a new Korda starlet who is clearly set on her course to who is clearly set on her course to fame.

Current Attraction

"Band Waggon," the hilarious Arthur Askey Jack Hylton musical comedy, concludes its season to-day, with Richard ("Stinker") Murdoch in support at the head of a cast of favourite English players.

THREE STARS IN "HIRED WIFE"

Fast-moving comedy of the type which depends on rituations rather than gags for laughs is the keynote of "Hired Wife" one of the year's most hilarious pictures, which is now screening at the Regent Theatre, Hastings. Co-starring Rosalind Russell, Brian Aherne and Virginia Bruce, "Hired Wife," is a story of a girl whose heart is broken when she marries the man she loves for business rather than romantic it up in already congested works.

The chairman (Mr T. B. H. Priest) thought that preventing the slaughtering of white-faced ewel lambs would be a step out of the difficulty.

Mr C. R. Edgecombe then moved a recommendation for the consideration of the Dominion executive that the killing of white-faced ewe lambs be prohibited for the remainder of the season with a view to preserving flocks and conserving storage space. Seconded by Mr Harris, the recommendation was adopted.

All three stars are perfectly cast All three stars are perfectly cast and turn in superb performances, making their characters appear real rather than mere shadows prancing across the screen. And they are given some excellent support by Robert Benchley and John Carroll. Benchley, believe it or not, is an attorney. Carroll is a Latin Romeo who tries to help Rosalind by attempting to woo Virginia away from Brian. Much of the credit for the fast pace maintained throughout the picture must be given producer-director William Seiter.

SPAIN'S ACCOUNT FALLS DUE

By the sheer weight of mechanised force the German war machine has broken Greece, the little nation whose heroic record in the present war has superseded that of Belgium in 1914. The situation now resolves itself into a single question: Who is next, Turkey or Spain? And at the moment the signs

At the beginning of the war Spain was expected to cling to neutrality for the very good reason that the country had been wrecked and impoverished by years of civil war. At the same time, Spain was expected to remain pro-Axis in view of the fact that Hitler and Mussolini, behind a smokescreen of unabashed hypocrisy, had used the civil war as a means of trying out their respective war-machines under modern conditions, and had jointly been responsible for the victory of General Franco. Further, for more than two centuries, Spain has had her eye on Gibraltar.

Recently there have been signs of wavering in Spain. She is dependent on outside sources of supply for food and other commodities, and the British blockade has constituted an effective brake on any move towards active association with the Axis. Now, however, the Axis has presented Spain with its account in the form of a demand for a right-of-way to Gibraltar, and it is difficult to see how Spain can make any attempt at refusal, whatever it may cost her.

The German plan is clear. If Hitler has finally made up his mind to attack Gibraltar there can be no doubt that he will be prepared to make appalling sacrifices to achieve his object. If he succeeds, the western entrance to the Mediterranean will be closed to the British Navy, for Tangier, on the African side, is Spanish territory.

Such is the tempting vista which lies beyond Spain. With the western Mediterranean secured, the Axis would be ready for the invasion of Turkey and the Near East. It is all very simple and logical—if Gibraltar can be taken.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST RUMOUR

More than once the "Daily Mail" has drawn public attention to the danger of rumour and of careless talk in the Dominion. On another page of this morning's paper will be found extracts from the script of a radio National Service talk by a Military Intelligence officer, and in directing the attention of readers to the report, the "Daily Mail" again stresses the urgency of the situation.

Much of the rumour-mongering in New Zealand and in other parts of the world can be traced to a natural human weakness—the love of the sensational. There is always the temptation to give the impression of knowing what is going on behind the scenes, of having more information than is given in the newspaper, to be able to read between the lines of a perfectly straightforward report in the morning's news. In peacetime this common fallibility is harmless enough, but in wartime it constitutes a major peril. After all, the situation at any period of any war is sufficiently grave to provide all the sensation necessary; there is no call to go one better. In any crisis nerves are quite taut enough without the added strain of senseless and unfounded rumours that start no one knows where, but can do a lot of damage before they have run their course.

The other aspect of the "careless talk" danger concerns the people who, usually without a thought of harm, prattle artlessly to all and sundry about ships, sailing times and details of military, naval or air activities, and broadcast information received in letters from overseas. This culpable thoughtlessness shows no signs of diminution. There has been a Royal Commission to investigate alleged leakages of vital information, but cill a leave alleged leakages of vital information, but still a large proportion of the New Zealand population maintains its sublime faith in human nature and in the loyalty of stray acquaintances and strangers who, for anything that is known, may not be as scrupulous as they appear.

Rumour-mongering and its companion evil of careless talk are a form of disloyalty. They are as dangerous as defeatism, which was one of the major causes of the fall of The peril of disseminating information which may be useful to the enemy—and in wartime almost all information is useful—has been illustrated again and again. New Zealanders are not a secretive people, but there are times when secrecy is a valuable ally, and that fact must be

FIGHTING THE PERIL OF "CARELESS TALK"

"Keep Quiet," Says Officer In Broadcast Appeal To N.Z.

"I want to talk to you about the necessity for keeping our mouths shut tightly and our pens and pencils from giving things away," said a Military Intelligence Officer in the course of a national broadcast appeal last night. The address was given as part of the endeavour to stop the spreading ofrumours and of vital information by irresponsible or careless people in New Zealand. The speaker continued:

months—to choose an example near home—and in the report of the Commission which recently considered an aspect of this question we were all told plainly that we gossip and chatter far too much about silpping movement.

Discretion Before Talking Surely it is not too much to ask of everyone in this country that he or she should exercise some discretion when talking—or preferably before talking—about the movements of ships, the disposition of troops, the strength of forts and defence posts, or anything at all that would give away some information of which the enemy could make use. I have no patience with the person attitude that breeds that a clever and unscrupulous enemy would rejoice to see in this country; it is the attitude that lays a country open to the deadliest of blows, for we must assume that this country, like any other country fighting in this cause for freedom is certainly not free from enemy influence within our midst.

Special Appeal

Although the deadlies of the country fighting in this cause for freedom is certainly not free from enemy influence within our midst. of which the enemy could make use. I have no patience with the person who so often says "Everyone knows about it, so why worry."

That is the attitude that breeds the indifference and carelessness that a clever and unscrupulous enemy would rejoice to see in this country; it is the attitude that lays a country open to the deadliest of

Although this talk is addressed to every person in the country, I earnestly suggest that particular heed should be paid to what I am saying by all persons who have to do in any way directly with information that might be of value to the enemy. If you were in a trench 50 yards from him you wouldn't send him over half your ammunition; he would be welcome to come and get it if he could but you certainly would not give up without a fight. So, when you have vital information would not give up without a fight. So, when you have vital information that could be of more use to the fce than any number of bombs or tanks or aeroplanes, why present it to him? Life in a democratic community makes possible the existence of loopholes that could never exist in a country where the lives of the people are ruled by fear.

Why Show Weakness?

One of the reasons why we are in

One of the reasons why we are in this war is to prove that our way simply commonsense,

The number of people in the Dominion who would deliberately retard or obstruct our National war effort is small. What we have to fear most, although it may seem a hard thing to say, is the thoughtless person who, without the slightest ill intention in the world, gives away information for no other reason that he—or she—simply cannot keep quiet about it. Evidence is not wanting to show that this type of person is disturbingly common.

Anyone who has considered the question for a moment knows quite well that one of the essentials of the Empire's war effort is the security of the shipping services that bind the Dominions to the Homeland and to one another. If the enemy gets the slightest chance he will strike and strike hard at these lifelines.

We already know the extent to which enemy raiders have been successful in the Pacific in the past few months—to choose an example near home—and in the report of the Commission which recently considered an aspect of this question we voy carrying food or war materials

Cause and Effect

I tell you plainly that all these things could result from one thoughtless word spoken in New Zealand.

I address these remarks to our soldiers, sailors and airmen, as well as the general public.

To You—who discussed in the local pub what you saw yesterday and what you heard to-day concerning our forces, our shipping, our aeroplanes, I say Keep Quiet. Walls have ears, and no good can come of such a discussion anyway.

To You—to whom someone wishes to impart information—authentic or otherwise—which cannot possibly do you any good, but can only do harm for being repeated, I say, tell your neighbour, your friends or whoever your informer may be, tell him to keep his mouth shut. Make him teel that he is appearing not only as a very silly or very stupid person, but one who endangers us all.

Just as there should be a zeal on

Just as there should be a zeal on the part of every loyal citizen to watch for individuals who show an excessive interest in military, naval, air and shipping forces and measures, so there should be no hesitation to guard against the person who passed on with life. on who passes on vital informa-

The new drug is the sodium salt of sulfathiazol. It was found to be effective when a five per cent. solution is used as a nasal spray.

Out of 47 patients who received the new treatment 40 reported definite relief. The spray reduced congestion, opened the nose passages, promoted drainage from the sinus cavities and relieved headaches. No improvement was reported by three patients, two of whom had hay fever and the other influenza. The remaining four have not yet reported.

RECORD CONSUMPTION IN UNITED STATES

October Wool Figures

LARGE IMPORTATIONS LAST YEAR

In October the United States mills consumed 82,450,000lb. of apparel wool, the largest quantity ever consumed in the States in a month. It is the approximate equivalent of 269,444 bales of Australian weight. In addition to that total a fair quantity of coarse carpet wool would be used. November consumption was estimated to be 76,000,000lb (state Winchcombe, Carson Ltd.)

Dwindling

GERMANY'S PLIGHT

Tt is considered that America imported more wool in 1940 than during any year since 1925. Despite the large imports, stocks of apparel wool in the States on December 1 were only estimated to total 295,000,000lb. compared with a December average for the previous 10 years of 376,000,000lb.

Not Over-Stocked

The country, therefore, was not over-stocked and as consumption is likely to remain high, further large importations look probable. The reserve stocks of Australian wool totalling about 830,000 bales which the British Courtment is established. British Government is establishing in the United States, are not primarily for the use of the American mills. They can be drawn upon under emergency shortage conditions subject to the proviso that wool withdrawn is replaced by shipments en route to the States. Arangements for storage have been ments en route to the States. Arrangements for storage have been made by the authorities in America.

Surveying Germany's commodity position in the light of the British Blockade the Minister of Economic Warfare (Dr Hugh Dalton) said it was his conviction that the blockade, in conjunction with the armed forces, would be able to shorten the war and lessen the total cost in terms of human life and wealth.

"We shall not be able to impose upon the enemy a shortage of iron made by the authorities in America. Fears have been expressed that because of wartime circumstances staple fibre and other substitutes may make inroads on the use of wool. No doubt on the Continent where the sheep's stable cannot be imported in any appreciable quantity, necessity has compelled the utilisation of artificial fibres more freely.

"We shall not be able to impose upon the enemy a shortage of iron ore, therefore, steel," he said. "On the other hand, there is a considerable shortage of the ferro alloys necessary for hardening steel, and this means poorer quality in German armaments. Fortunately, though they have much iron at their disposal, nickel and other important constituents are in short supply, and we have so far been able to put a pretty effective check upon reinforcements. During recent months wool consumption has been months wool consumption has been somewhat less in Great Britain, but in both countries enormous supplies have been utilised since the war

Quotations in England disclose an advance of 20 per cent to 25 per cent. in prices compared with August 1939 figures. That increased cost provides some check to the use of those fibres, though Merino tops in Bradford are over 50 per cent. above prewar level. As far as Government orders for equipment for the army, navy and air force, "all wool" is definitely necessary. That output and export business has been chiefly responsible for English mill activity.

Extended Operations

Mr Roosevelt declined to amplify his views on the convoy situation, but said that for a year and a-half vessels of the neutrality patrol had been operating 1000 miles into the Atlantic from the eastern shore of Maryland.

The President said that the patrol would not necessarily be confined to he Atlantic. When asked exactly what was the difference between a convoy and a patrol, Mr Roosevelt replied that, in the first instance, convoying was the escorting of merchant ships in a group to prevent an act of aggression against them. Patrol, he explained was a reconscience. plained, was a reconnaissance of cer-tain areas of the ocean to find out whether there was any possible aggressor ship that might be coming into the Western Hemisphere.

HOME GUARD IS NOT YET BIG ENOUGH IN DOMINION

War Has Come Closer To N.Z.. Says Governor-General At Auckland

(By Telegraph-Press Association.) AUCKLAND, April 27.

While stating that there had been a wonderful response, especially in the country districts, to the appeal for volunteers for the Home Guard, the Governor General (Sir Cyril Newall) when addressing a Home Guard parade at the Domain, said that the total Dominion enrolment of about 100,000 men was

The war, which had been far away, had come much nearer in the past few months, and the Empire was in jeopardy, his Excellency said.

"If we all play our parts we will win this fight for freedom," said Sir Cyril, He told the Guardsmen that they were training themselves to become fit to carry out a very important work for the defence of their country. He had seen the Home Guard in action in England and it had done wonderful work. Now it was recognised as an essential part of the defence of the Motherland. Regulars Relieved

Regulars Relieved
Guardsmen in Britain had taken over many duties which would otherwise have to be performed by regular soldiers, and thus thousands of men had been released for active service. Should the invasion of England be attempted the Home Guard would play a vitally important part, and the local knowledge of the Guardsmen would be of inestimable value.

estimable value.

"The Army at Home is wise to this and is giving it the greatest help," he said.

Equipment Shortage His Excellency said he knew that the present shortage of equipment made things difficult, but he also knew that Guardsmen would realise that the first two lines of defence would have to be equipped first.

"I am glad to see a number of exservicemen on parade, but there are a lot more who are not in the Home Guard," his Excellency said.

Chance For Service

"The experience of such men was "The experience of such men was invaluable. Those who were too young for the last war and too old for this also had a wonderful chance of service.
"It is of no use waiting for an attack to arrive," he added. "All available men should start training and do their bit now. That applies to those not already called up."

GOAL

100,000 Strong VOLUNTEERS STILL TO BE TAKEN

Keen Enthusiasm By Telegraph—Press Association. CHRISTCHURCH, April 26.

who volunteered. He was very impressed with the remarkable enthusiasm of the men. There was nothing that they would not do. In the country districts the enthusiasm was amazing. For a time the cities lagged behind, but in recent weeks they, too, had come up to scratch.

After referring to the work of the women's organisations and the Emergency Precautions Scheme, the Minister said:

"New Zealand is organised to-day as it has never been before in its history. There is, of course, still a lot of finishing work to be done. For instance, the men of the Home Guard have yet to receive equipment, but preparations to that end are in hand.

"There is a little impatience on the part of some people, but I want them to appreciate the fact that the difficulties are something over which we have no control. These difficul-

we have no control. These difficul-ties will disappear in due course and I ask those people to have patience and faith.

"The Women's Auxiliary will work in with both the Home Guard and the E.P.S., and many channels of activity are now open to women so that they may ease the strain of so that they may ease the strain of manpower very materially. In Britain, women are doing many kinds of jobs to ease the strain on manpower and they are doing them with the highest degree of efficiency. What the women of Britain can do, the girls of this country can and will do equally well, for they are made of the same stuff."

RAUPARE PARADE

Hastings Battalion At Work

OFFICER'S ADDRESS

"When the equipment comes along—as come it will, sooner or later—you will be able to use it to the best advantage," said Major-General R. Young, officer commanding the Home Guard, addressing members of the Hastings Battalion of the Home Guard at a parade at Raupare yesterday. Asking guardsmen not to slack on the job, the speaker told them to stick to their work under all circumstances.

Major-General Young spoke to the battalion at the conclusion of an

Major-General Young spoke to the battalion at the conclusion of an inspection of its work: He felt, he said, that he was talking to them "like a parson to a church congregation"—what he would like to do was to talk to those who were not on parade.

Too many members, he said, were taking their work too easily. He instanced the splendid effort of a country battalion which had turned out practically a 90 per cent attendance on parade as an example of what could be done.

"False Alarms" Stressing the importance of the task in hand he pointed out that two "false alarms" were liable to make a man careless, with the result that a third vital call might be ignored. The battalion's parade commenced with assembly at Nelson Park, where a short service was conducted by the Rev. D. M. Cattanach. The units then travelled by bus to Raupare.

units then travelled by bus to Raupare.

The day's training was divided into four periods; musketry, under the direction of Regimental Sergeant Major; open order work under the company commanders; instruction in trench systems, the construction of bombs and the art of throwing them, as well as the design of "Molotov" anti-tank "cocktails," were the main features of the training. The machine-gun platoon (which still needs more recruits preferably, men with experience) co-operated.

The luncheon break was from 12.15 to 1.15. Major-General Young rived at 2 p.m. and inspected work. As this is the first full day the battalion has spent at this type of work, the officers have expressed themselves as very satisfied with the results, except that a better attendance had been anticipated.

Fine Turn-Out By Guardsmen

LARGE ATTENDANCE

On Parade

Heretaunga Battalion

OFFICER'S INSPECTION A remarkably fine turn-out by members of the Heretaunga Battalion of the Home Guard on Saturday resulted in a 90 per cent attendance when the eight units of the battalion paraded in their three companies at Rotokare, Fernhill, the property of Mr P. S. Williams.

Each company arrived in its own transport column and started on the syllabus which had been arranged to provide a constant variety of work on three parade grounds.
The officer commanding the Home Guard (Major-General R. Young) inspected the battalion at work, and inspected the battalion at work, and expressed himself as very pleased with the work of the men.

At the conclusion of his review the Maori members gave an impromptu haka in Major-General Young's honour.

Major-General Young was accompanied by Lieutenant J. W. Snaddon, Area Commander, and by Captain J. Turnbull, Area Adjutant.

Signallers at Work During the afternoon the battalion's signallers were at work under their officer, Mr W. R. Clark. The ambulance unit was also engaged under an officer of the St.

John Ambulance Brigade.

Speaking at the conclusion of the parade the Battalion Commander (Mr S. I. Dixon) spoke in praise of the men's effort in turning out in such numbers from so scattered an area. It spoke wonderfully well, he said, for their enthusiasm and their Celtic showed a finish and combination unusual so early in the season to defeat H.H.S.O.B. at Hastings by 14 points to 6. The winners had the best of the play throughout.

This game, played at Napier, was characterised by solid forward play, and good back movements in which all the backs handled before they broke down. Infringements by Marist cost them three penalties in quick succession, but the attempts by Nightingale fell short. After half-time further determined efforts resulted in N. Ireland crossing wide out for Tech-High. Tech-High 6, Marist 0. E. Luke, Marist, went off, his place on the wing being taken by Exeter, who scored a good try after all the backs had handled. Tech-High 6, Marist 3, was the final score.

Bright and early the other morning an old Maori woman, wearing a man's battered felt hat and a brightly coloured shawl, was seated on the steps of a warehouse in Customs Caret Augustand on the steps of a warehouse in Customs Street, Auckland, calmly smoking a blackened clay pipe. Two smartly-dressed laughing girls passed. Said one: "How happy that old thing looks!" "She's enjoying her after-breakfast pipe," said the other. They seemed much amused. "I wonder," said the first, "what kind of tobacco she smokes—must be something special, I should say." "Let's go back and ask her," said her friend, "just for fun." So back they went and asked her. The old came smiled, and said: "Cut Plug No. 10," adding that she always smoked it. It is one of the five famous toasted tobaccos: Cut Plug No. 10 (Bullshead), Navy Cut No. 3 (Bulldog), Cavendish, Riverhead Gold and Desert Gold, and their rare flavour and delightful fragrance flavour and delightful fragrance appeal to pakeha and Maori alike. And they have another outstanding merit—they are harmless! It's the toasting that eliminates the poisonous nicotine! But beware of worth-

The Waipawa Band, under the leadership of Mr E. Maher, accompanied the hymns, "O God Our Help," and "Abide With Me," afterwards giving an impressive rendering of "The Garland of Flowers." A special tribute is due to the band, as the majority of players are only young lads, and they acquitted themselves well.

Several wreaths were placed on the memorial, the R.S.A. tribute being placed by Mr A. E. Black, the Women's Institute one by Mrs Wheeler, Otane School Children's by Joyce Rumbal and Stan Neagle, Home Guard, by Sergeant Brunton White, and the Mothers' Union one by Mrs W. F. Spargo. "Out of 100 shooters who shot on these lakes only three natives were holders of licences last season and I think that this is unfair.

"To overcome this difficulty I think we should report the matter to the Department and again press for the licensing of all shot guns. This will mean greater revenue for the Government and much more satisfaction to all sportsmen.

"During the season 140 pheasants were liberated in suitable places around Wairoa and from Waikare-moana to Mahia. According to reports this has been an excellent breeding season and some good bags should be taken.

Hastings Track Notes

MANY EXERCISE

Arabic And Limbohm Impressive

LIKELY MAIDENS

(By The Barb) On Saturday morning on the Hastings tracks the greatest part of the exercise witnessed was pace work, but there was a gallop or two by horses claiming engagements in the near future.

Sunny Knight was not sent out against the watch, being content to come home at a hand gallop down the straight on each of his two rounds of pace work.

Lambourn, who is in great heart, was given a strong working gallop over six furlongs on the plough. He has been entered for the Egmont meeting next week at Hawera. It has not been decided if the Bulandshar colt is to make the trip to the other coast. Arrangements will be made this week when Mr T. H. Lowry returns from Rotorua.

Proclamation was given his first run along against the watch since rejoining the actives and went nicely over three-quarters of a mile on the plough in 1.182, being assisted home the last three and a half furlongs by a companion.

Aristocrat, Parvita and the Sieg-fried gelding in W. C. Griffith's stable took 38½ to run three furlongs comfortably on the No. 1 inside grass. All hit out freely and should later make it interesting in maiden races. Maybe one or two of this trio will race at Napler Park at the winter meeting. the winter meeting, Arabic (C. L. Kerr) and Limbohm Arabic (C. L. Kerr) and Limbohm (E. Deslandes) were companions in a once-round schooling lesson over the hurdles. The pace was on throughout with Arabic out-jumping his mate at two of the six hurdles. Limbohm, at the second obstacle, ran off, but it was more of a misadventure than intentional.

Arabic races at Wayerley this

Arabic races at Waverley this week and Egmont next, but it will be on the flat as his owner-trainer, W. H. Corlett, does not intend to race him over fences until the Otaki meeting at the middle of next month.

Singapore, (A. E. Lord) was given his introduction to hurdling and made a very fair impression. The first obstacle, with the pace at practically race speed, he took in his stride, but at the second he swerved a little when taking off and unseated his rider, who appeared to be caught napping. Singapore should benefit by a course of schooling, which, however, should have been indulged in last spring.

City Song and Cattanach were associated in a three-quarter-mile run on the plough in 1.18½. At the finish City Song, with an advantage ar. in weight, was going the easier of the two and gave a glimpse of returning to the form which she is recently. This Bulandshar mare is booked to make the Gisborne trip next week.

Battle Gain and his stable mate, Black Majesty, were tried out together over half a mile on the plough which was accomplished in the very fair time of 50 4.5 with the pair finishing abreast.

On the inside grass, Gayest Son and Kinkajou were again gallop POVERTY BAY WINTER

Endorsement was galloped alone over five furlongs on the inside grass in 63%, the last half mile in 51sec. This mare continues to work impressively. Lady Garvagh, who went amiss after the Hawke's Bay Cup meeting with tendon trouble, although not yet back to the tracks, was noticed on Saturday morning being given road work, so it looks as though she is to be placed into work again for the local winter meetings.

Having her first gallop since holiday-making, Stolen Coat ran four furlongs comfortably in 511sec. accompanied by Diana Tetrix.
