A remarkable feat of nying is revealed in the adventurous voyage of Lieutenant J. G. Fleming, D.F.C., and Flying-Officer J. J. Meikle, two Canadians who joined the R.A.F., in bringing one of the famous Catalina P.B.Y. flying boats from Bermuda to Britain.

The Catalina carried a crew of six, comprising two pilots and two flight-engineers lent by the Fleet Air Arm, and two radio operators, Canadian chiling

Canadian civilians.

The journey was started in perfect weather, then suddenly, when flying at a height of 18,500 feet, the automatic pilot jammed. At this critical moment the right starboard aileron was full down and the effect was to throw the machine into a spiral dive. Immediately the ailerons began to flutter because of the steep angle at which they were meeting the flow of air.

The machine spun from 18,500

meeting the flow of air.

The machine spun from 18,500 feet to only 800ft. above sea level. During this staggering dive the pilots did their utmost to regain the stability of the aircraft. The pressure on the ailerons, however, due to the high speed, was so great that one of them broke away completely. This was the worst moment for the pilots. When the second aileron also broke away they found it helped to restore the balance of the ship.

When the flutter started Fleming told the radio operators to send out an S.O.S. This, however, was not received because, as it subsequently turned out, the fixed wireless aerial had been carried away with the aileron

The spokesman emphasised that the evacuation was not another Dunkirk because not only the majority of the troops were evacuated but most of the light equipment was saved and not a serviceable item of equipment was left for the Germans.

The evacuation was a fine feat for the Navy since the Germans at the end were using up their aeroplanes. The British lost their aerodromes as they retreated, then the Germans began bombing the machines on the ground, finally attacking the Athens aerodrome every three minutes.

The withdrawal to Thermopylae was successfully completed by April 20, thanks largely to the New Zealanders, who held their ground despite the fiercest attacks by a German armoured division, but it was obvious that without Greek assistance they could not hold that line with only two divisions against the enemy's five.

The spokesman added that the final evacuation was carried out under cover of a New Zealand brigade and an Australian brigade.

Reliable observers from Greece estimate the German losses at between 87,000 and 90,000.

The Associated Press Cairo correspondent says that the evacuation of the Imperial Forces in Greece proceeded with astonishing smoothness. Some reached the beach at Euripa Channel (between Attica and Euboea) south of Chalkis, where they were picked up by small boats. Others were taken off at places along the Aegean coast, but the bulk of the army cut across Attica to Megara. In this region heavy bombings indicated that the German suspected the British were there, so instead of embarking the British moved by night across the Corinth Isthmus to the shores of the Aegean and the coast of the Peloponnēsus, mainly on the Gulf of Argos. The biggest embarkation was carried out there on the nights between April 24 and 27.

Greater Power To War Effort Through Changes In Cabinet

(United Press Association-Copyright.) (Received May 2, 9.45 p.m.)

LONDON, May 2. The Cabinet changes reflect Mr Winston Churchill's determination to impart the utmost power and drive to the war effort. Lord Beaverbrook, it is believed, becomes virtual deputy Prime Minister, concentrating on the direction of general policy, particularly on the home front. Mr Churchill remains in control of war strategy. Lord Beaverbrook will direct the general field of production, the maximum utilisation of manpower and womanpower and the co-ordination of the Ministries concerned.

When Lord Beaverbrook joined the War Cabinet it was implicit that he was remaining at the Aircraft Ministry only until production had reached a satisfactory level. That has now happened, releasing Lord Beaverbrook for wider duties. The "Daily Telegraph" says: "The big surprise is Mr F. G. Leathers's appointment. He is little known in the political world but is a leading authority on dock problems. He will simplify the speeding up of the turn-round of shipping.

special rights to the exploitation of oil resources and other privileges."

"Parliamentarians have long urged that the Minister of Shipping should have more power to co-ordinate the authorities concerned with the loading and discharging of white."

The "Daily Mail" says: "The War The "Daily Mail" says: "The War Cabinet is gradually evolving nearer the shape which many Parliamentarians consider necessary—a number of Ministers free from departmental responsibility and able to direct their complete energies to major war planning. Messrs C. R. Attlee, Arthur Greenwood and Sir John Anderson have been largely released from Whitehall tasks for general directive works."

Nation's Desires The "Mail" in a leader, says: "Mr Churchill has responded to the desire of the nation. We have arrived at the point where new men obviously become necessary for the more efficient conduct of the war.

ously become necessary for the more efficient conduct of the war. Mr Churchill has replanned his Ministry on highly constructive lines. He has partially admitted the idea of a Supreme War Cabinet composed of men not harassed by departmental duties.

"Lord Beaverbrook, whose post is unique in British history, will devote his time to the general direction of war policy. He has been one of the big successes of the Government. He has stimulated every department of aircraft output and he leaves the Ministry with Britain well on the way to air supremacy.

"The telescoping of the Shipping and Transport Ministries, which will be renamed the Ministry of Wartime Communications, is a sound move which could advantageously have been taken before. There is no room in the movement of goods for two sets of officials competing and overlapping each other."

The plight of Fleming and the heroic crew seemed desperate. In their efforts to regain control they found it necessary to jettison smoke flares, spares and the tool kit.

Just when everyone believed the Catalina must hit the water, the pilots recovered control.

Although they were six hours distant from home the captain was confident of his ability to reach the coast and refused to send out another S.O.S. Instead, from the trailing aerial, he simply signalled that both ailerons had gone. The signal was received but no one believed it. It seemed impossible that a great machine like the Catalina, weighing about 15 tons, could still be flying without any lateral control.

Fleming and Meikle were compelled to sit side by side exerting all their strength on the controls to keep the machine in the air. They dared not remove their hands to look at the map. RUGBY, May 2.

Dispatches which have just been received from the Eritrean front pay a high tribute to the bravery of the Indian troops in the capture of the fortress of Keren, a natural defensive position set among the soaring hills.

Along the road dominated from the heights and up and over the peaks themselves the Indian troops fought their way to victory.

For more than a month the battle swayed on the ridges, flerce counter attack ceaselessly following attack. The final attack was launched one night and was pressed relentlessly all the next day, cutting into the heart of the Italian position and leaving thousands of the enemy Isolated on the heights on either flank.

Midland and Indian troops surged down from the captured fort of Dologorodoc to conquer the vital hills along the railway two miles from Keren. They smashed their way through a whole colonial brigade and a regiment of Carabinieri in their dash forward.

Even as they consolidated their position Scottish troops were swarming up the 6000-foot mountain of Sanchil, the most heavily defended Italian position, and enemy troops were being routed out at bayonet point.

Swooping down low over an escarpment an R.A.F. pilot carried out a daring machine-gun attack on enemy tanks and motor transport in the Sollum area on April 29, says the Air Ministry news service.

He made the first attack on four enemy tanks after diving low to ensure that his fire would have the greatest possible effect. The pilot then made for a concentration of enemy motor transports. Pressing home the attack with equal vigour, he saw as he turned away several troops were being routed out at bayonet point.

Soon they waved the white flag and surrendered.

In the Keren Gorge, where four miles from the town the Italians had blasted 2000 yards out of the road to block the advance, our soldiers were fighting hand to hand with machine-gun crews. .303 RIFLES AND PARTS IMPRESSMENT. BY NOTICE published in the New

BY NOTICE published in the New Zealand Gazette dated 1/5/41 pursuant to the Emergency Reserve Corps Regulations 1940—Amendment No. 1
ALL PERSONS HAVING IN THEIR POSSESSION .303 RIFLES OF ANY MAKE, DESIGN OR PATTERN WHETHER SERVICE-ABLE OR UNSERVICEABLE AND WHETHER OWNED BY THEM OR BY SOME OTHER PERSON are required to give up possession of such rifles to the Government on loan for Home Defence purposes on or before THE 15th DAY OF MAY, 1941.

Each rifle will be held on loan and will be returned in good order and condition or will be replaced by one of similar pattern and of equivalent value as soon as possible after the emergency ends. Compensation will be paid for any deterioration in the condition of the rifle during the period it is held by the Government.

Any person may be granted leave to retain his rifle until further notice if it can be shown to the Minister's satisfaction that it is urgently required. For example, a farmer or other owner who is unable to join the Home Guard may apply to retain his rifle to destroy deer or pigs which if allowed to go uncontrolled might seriously affect the productive capacity of the land.

It is particularly desired that no person should suffer personal loss or undue hardship by reason of the temporary loss of possession of his rifle and any applications for retention on these grounds will receive careful investigation and consideration by qualified Departmental Officers.

In the case of applications by farmers, arrangements have been made for Field Officers either of the Lands and Survey Department, the Department, to personally investigate and report on each application.

Rifles in the possession of active members of the Home Guard will be formally taken over in accordance with instructions issued to Unit Commanders but members may, if they so desire, be allowed to retain possession so long as they are taking an active part in the movement. All persons concerned are therefore hereby notified that on or before the 15th day of May, 1941, they are required to either:

May, 1941, they are required to either:

(1) Hand in the rifle or rifles in their possession to the nearest Police Station, if they have not already done so, or

(2) Lodge with the nearest Police Officer a written application for leave to retain possession, or

(3) Notify the Police Officer that they are active members of the Home Guard and desire to have the exclusive use of their rifles.

(4) If the rifle is not now in the original owner's possession he should notify the local Police Officer of the name and address of the person to whom he has either transferred or loaned it.

If any person has in his possession any 303 rifle parts—such as barrels or other accessories—they should also be handed in. J. S. HUNTER, Director of National Service.

OUTSTANDING CAST IN RECEIPTED RECEIP "ESCAPE"

"Escape," the Ethel Vance bestseller whose casting caused more speculation than any picture since "Gone With the Wind," is now at the Regent Theatre, Hastings with Norma Shearer and Robert Taylor heading an "allname" assemblage of outstanding actors, among them Conrad Veldt, silent film star Nazimova, Felix Bressart, Albert Bassermann, Philip
Dorn and Bonita Granville. Miss Shearer, whose stellar role in "The Women" brought her new acclaim, now enacts one of the most dramatic roles of her career as the Countess Ruby von Treck, world-weary, clinging to illusions, finding herself involved in the desperate attempt of young American artist Mark
Preysing to rescue his mother, exactress Emmy Ritter, from execution in a concentration camp.
Taylor finds the most exacting

tion in a concentration camp.

Taylor finds the most exacting role of his career as young Preysing. Emmy Ritter, around whose fate the whole suspenseful story revolves, is played by Nazimova, returning to films for the first time in fifteen years. Conrad Veidt, Continental star, is the General, ultimate menace to Emmy's escape others in the cast are a young Dutch newcomer, Philip Dorn, with Felix Bressart and Albert Bassermann. An almost unbearable susrelix Bressart and Albert Basser-mann. An almost unbearable sus-pense is piled up as these figures become involved one by one in Emmy Ritter's rescue. Whether they will revert to native kindness and help her is the great ques-tion mark as one thrilling episode follows another follows another.

Cosy

DESERT ADVENTURE AND COMEDY

"Drums of the Desert" is the action-packed Foreign Legion story which is now screening at the Cosy Theatre, Hastings. Ralph Byrd, handsome athletic star, heads the cast as gallant Captain Paul Dumont, special advisor to Sangalee parachute troops, instructing them in the latest methods of modern warfare. En route to his new post, Dumont falls in love with Helene, played by Lorna Gray. She returns his affection until it is discovered that he is the best friend of her flance, Raoul (Peter George Lynn). Just before the day set for the wedding of Helene to Raoul, the latter is injured in a surprise Arab uprising, necessitating postponement of the ceremony. Again thrown together, the lovers find it impossible to hide their true feelings when they are involved in a revolt in the Sahara which endangers their lives.

A film bubbling over with laughter, and rowners "Ladies Must

A film bubbling over with laughter and romance, "Ladies Must Live" is the second feature. Costarring Wayne Morris and Rosemary Lane, the picture tells of a glowing romance between a country boy who has made his millions in boy who has made his millions in the city and a lovely night club entertainer. The comedy results when Morris invites an old chum, Roscoe Karns, to act as best man at the wedding. Karns lets his small-town viewpoint get the better of him, and breaks up the romance, with the result that he has to patch up the affair to the accompaniment of the "I told you so's" of his wife (Lee Patrick).

ROMANCE AND DRAMA IN THE ORIENT

Paul Lukas, who has given many brilliant portrayals, adds another fine characterisation to his career with his performance in "The Chinese Bungalow," which is now showing at the State Theatre, Hastngs. Supporting Lukas is a line cast, including Jane Baxter, Robert Douglas, Kay Walsh and Vallace Douglas. The story skilully depicts the consequences of the marriage between a wealthy Chinese, Yuan Sing (Paul Lukas), and a young English cabaret singer Sadie (Kay Walsh). This dramatic plot gives an interesting glimpse into the oriental outlook on marriage, tradition and custom.

The young wife, bored with life in her opulently furnished bungation, falls in love with a young English planter, Harold Marquess (Wallish planter, Harold Marquess (Wallace Douglas), and her husband, discovering the liaison, murders the boy. Meanwhile, Sadie's sister, Charlotte (Jane Baxter), is visiting the Bungalow and Yuan has fallen in love with her. He demands that she marry him or else he will revenge himself on Sadie. Charlotte herself is in love with Richard Marquess (Robert Douglas), the brother of the man Yuan has murdered, and it is to him that she appeals. A breathless dramatic climax is reachit is to him that she appeals. A breathless dramatic climax is reached when the two men face each other over drinks, one of which is poisoned, to decide their fate, in a great ending to a well-acted story.

Municipal

'COME ON, GEORGE,' A FORMBY COMEDY

Ever since his entry into the film world it has been George Formby's ambition to make a comedy about horses. One difficulty after another had to be overcome, and how George had to be overcome, and how George finally got his own way is not revealed but the fact remains that "Come On, George," now at the Municipal Theatre, Hastings, is a horse racing comedy, and the jockey who turned joker is a jockey again, in the film he has always wanted to make. Press reviewers everywhere unanimously acclaim it "Formby's best and funniest film," which is not to be wondered at, when George admitted he enjoyed making it more than any picture he's ever made.

A film entitled "Jane Steps Out," A film entitled "Jane Steps Out," is the second feature and it has some is the second feature and it has some practical aspects which will interest everyone; this, in spite of, or because of its being a particularly amusing film. Even real life is funny at times. We see Jane, one of those useful people who are found in most families, who are always willing to sew on buttons, and knows what to do when the soun is burned. what to do when the soup is burned. One day Jane rebels, and her metamorphosis from the dustcap and overall to a Bond Street "perm" and creations has tremendous consequences. She fulfils her boast to steal her sister's boy friends, but when she tries to send him back to his old allegiance finds that rebel. when she thes to send min back to his old allegiance, finds that rebel-lion has its humiliations as well as its triumphs. Diana Churchill, Jean Muir and many other fine players are included in the cast,

GLORIA JEAN, "A LITTLE BIT OF HEAVEN"

Six other players from the casts of her earlier success are present in "A Little Bit of Heaven," Gloria Jean's latest starring vehicle, which is now showing at the Regent Theatre, Napier. They are C. Aubrey Smith, as Gloria's "Grandpa"; Nan Grey, as her older sister; Butch and Buddy, Billy Gilbert and Frank Jenks.

Story of the new picture, another hit from the producer of eight straight Deanna Durbin successes as well as "The Under-Pup," Gloria as an East Side girl comes a radio singing star. Her rise to fame causes family troubles, solved only after Gloria "loses" her voice and temporarily relinquishes ner career.

HOPALONG CASSIDY ADVENTURE

Flaming six-guns, thundering hoofs, red blooded action and an excellent plot characterise the lates screen adventures of "Hopalong" Cassidy in "Three Men From Texas,"

The action takes place in the California of the turn of the century, when land grabbing was at its height Cassidy, played as usual by William Boyd, is asked to bring law and order to the place, which he does in his own inimitable fashion.

Bob Burns has never been touted as one of the screen's outstanding Casanovas. But it's all different now—Bob put his foot down recently hard. So the final fadeout of the second feature, "Comin' Round the Mountain," will find the leading lady reposing in his manly, if not too romantic, arms.

'BAND WAGON" STARS ARTHUR ASKEY

Arthur Askey, the inimitable Engis now at the State Theatre, Napier.
"Band Wagon" is the film version of the radio feature in which he has been appearing on the English stage for the past year in company with Jack Hylton and Richard ("Stinker") Murdoch, both of whom are starred with him in the film. one of the most spectacular scenes is the reception hall of a haunted castle which Askey and Murdoch are inveigled into renting for the princely sum of £3. ### The Pumpkin Has Inspired Poets, So Should It Inspire The Housewife

What brightens the eye; What brings back the past Like a good pumpkin pie.

-Whittier. Do not despise the lowly pumpkin which has given inspiration to poets, but let it give inspiration to housewives also. If it grew in a hothouse it would be as great a delicacy as asparagus. Because of its prolific bearing it has been relegated to the bottom steps of the culinary ladder. Its delicate flavour and gorgeous colour make it worthy of better treatment. Pumpkin pies and pumpkin scones were grandmother's favourites. They'll be yours, too.

BAKED CHEESE

Cut the pumpkin into 1½-inch squares and place on a thickly-greased oven tray, each cube separated. Cover with greased paper and bake in a hot oven for 30 minutes. Remove, brush with butter, season lightly and sprinkle heavily with grated cheese. Return to the oven for a further 10 minutes.

PUMPKIN CHIFFON

Take 1½ cups mashed pumpkin, ½ cup brown sugar, ½ cup cold water, 1 dessertspoonful gelatine, 1 teaspoon each of cinnamon and ginger, ½ cup milk, 1 or 2 eggs, squeeze lemon juice, ½ teaspoon lemon rind. Method: Soften the gelatine in the cold water. Combine the pumpkin, spices, milk, egg-yolks, half the sugar, lemon juice and rind. Stir over boiling water for five minutes. Add the gelatine and stir until dissolved. Cool, and when beginning to set, fold in the stiffly-beaten eggwhites and the remainder of the sugar. Chill and serve topped with sprigs of fresh mint or chopped nuts.

Would you please send me your name so that I can welcome you properly and also tell me your birthday. Thank you for your competition and riddles. I thought your note paper splendid.

Bab, Hastings: Yes, it is a cplendid idea for you to become a Playmate, too, Bab, and I welcome you gladly. I am pleased that you answered the competitions and thank you also for the jokes you sent to me. I am sure you could not have two better hobbies—gardening for out-of-door exercise and reading for indoor leisure. What fun always to have your birthday on a holiday.

Bub, Hastings: I was exceedingly interested in the silk worm coccon which you sent to me, Bub, and also to hear all about them. As you will see by my letter this week I decided to share the information with all Playmates. Your little rabbit is certainly going to need a watchful eye on him or he will be escaping again.

Pippin, Port Ahuriri: Now that you have written to me again, Pippin, perhaps you will try to write each week. You have 11 marks not counting this week's so try hard to reach 25 and win your badge. Yours was a wonderful collection of jokes and riddles and so on; thank you for them all. The date you asked for is November 27. I hope you will write to me again soon.

Hiawatha, D.S.O., Hastings: I am very pleased indeed to hear that you are going away for a holiday, Hiawatha, and I think that it is a particularly good idea when you are about 15 to start work. I shall be anxious to hear both about the holiday and about your work. I though your story was quite good but now that our page is so much smaller I am afraid that it might be too long.

Nancy Paulsen, Takapau: Yes, the Anzac service was very good in Hastings, also, and I think it is splendid to have Scouts, Cubs, Guides and Brownies on parade, Nancy. I am sure you must have felt proud to be a Guide. I am afraid there were one or two errors in the competition last week but everyone seems to have worked them out all right.

Billy Boy Mobalta: I am so pleased.

Billy Boy, Mohaka: I am so pleased that you have started playing basketball again, Billy Boy, and I shall be very interested to hear whether you manage to win the shield again. You will need to try very hard and I hope you will have good luck. You will see that you have a good number of marks this week and thank you for all that you sent me.

Garthowen, D.S.O., Hastings: Your letter reached me nice and early this week, Garthowen, and I was pleased to receive it. I am most interested to hear that your daffodils are poking through the ground and also that you have bought the little flower pot. I hope that yours will be a lovely yellow crocus. You now have 145 marks not counting this week's so you are almost half way to your second hundred.

I saw Esau kissing Kate. The fact is, we all three saw. I saw Esau, he saw me and she saw I saw Esau.

Diana, Clive: I was most interested to hear about your day in Napier, Diana, and you really must have had good fun and then to finish it off with a visit to the pictures. Thank you for sending me Joy's and your birthday and also I was pleased that you answered the competitions and sent a poem. Your letter reached me good and early, too.

Plain Jane, Clive: Yours was a splendid collection of jokes and riddles, this week, Plain Jane, and I was very pleased indeed. I'm sure the Playmates will all enjoy the riddles. There were just one or two we had had before so I have not included them. If we are short of space this week they may not be in our page but you will see them later on.

You wrote most interestingly of your journey down to Wellington and I added an extra mark for good neat writing. Thank you for the riddles and I am glad you answered the riddle-me-ree. I hope you will write often.

Bib, Hastings: I am delighted to hear that you always look for the Playtime Page first thing on Saturday mornings, Bib, and I am sure you will soon earn enough marks to have a badge. I am sure you and your little group of playmates must have lots of fun at school. We have more than 100 Playmates and they are all ages. I had intended to tell you in my letter this week about keeping silkworms, because one of our Playmates has written me an interesting description of hers but I have decided to save this for next week because there is another thing about which I want to write.

Gamp is the name which has been given to a large, clumsy or untidily tied up umbrella—it is really a slang word. However, this is how it began.

In one of Charles Dickens' books, "Martin Chuzzlewit," one of the characters was an old nurse, Mrs Sarah Gamp, and as her umbrella was large, clumsy and untidy it became known by her own name and this has become the word we now have.

Just one thing I wanted to ask you this week—Please don't send the riddles or jokes in your next letters because I have rather a large number to use and would like to finish them all. I shall be glad of more the week after Hazel Lukey, Hastings: I cannot imagine how I forgot to send you your badge, Hazel, and I am so sorry. I thought that you had one and didn't notice that your marks had long since passed 25. However, by now you will have it safely. I was pleased that you enjoyed your holiday on Anzac Day.

Bo-Peep, D.S.O., Pakowhai: Yes, Bo-Peep, you will see that you have reached 100 marks and I am so pleased because you are one of my most faithful Playmates. When you bring in next week's letter will you collect your prize and I shall be very interested to know what you do with it. If you are not fond of gardening have you some other special hobby?

Sailor Boy, Hastings: You, too, will be able to see the one mistake you had in your competition answer, Sailor Boy, but I do not feel that it was your fault, except that you will know that we never had a Governor Greville. I was sorry about the mistakes though, because it was misleading, wasn't it?

Popeye, Hastings: Well, I did have a laugh at the story you sent to me this week, Popeye, and I feel sure that all the Playmates will enjoy the joke also. You will see that you made one mistake in your list of New Zealand Governors but I think that there was a letter wrong in that one so it was difficult.

Shirley Foote, Hastings: Thank you for sending me another competition, Shirley, and I am hoping to use it later on. Also I am pleased that you worked out the riddle-me-ree. I expect by now you are looking forward to your holidays.

Shirley Hannah, D.S.O., Hastings: I enjoyed the jokes that you sent me this week, Shirley, and was glad to hear that I was not really forgotten last week. I am only sorry that after your trouble in writing to me the letter did not arrive. As a matter-of-fact I thought that you were probably working very hard for your exams and I shall be anxious to hear the results.

Pollyanna, Te Awanga: I'm pleased that you tried the competitions, Pollyanna, because I do like the Playmates to do these first of all. Your sentence I thought was very tricky, and if I can find a corner for it I will do so but I never seem to be able to have as much space as I would like. Inspector Scott, D.S.O., Hastings: To ogo to Napier on a bicycle seems such a long way to me, Inspector Scott, but I suppose you soon get used to going long distances, and it sounds good fun to be able to go off with your friends. How interesting to see the meat being loaded and I am sure you must have hoped very much that it will reach England safely.

Marigold, Hastings: It was very nice indeed to receive a letter from you again, Marigold, because I had been wondering what had happened to you lately. Thank you for the poems which I hope to include next week as they reached me too late for to-day. I hope, too, that I can use the competition but am not quite sure if we can do the drawing.

Rose Marie, Hastings: I was glad to Rose Marie, Hastings: I was glad to receive a letter from you Rose Marie, and to find that you had answered the competitions, and also sent me another one which I am sure will set the Playmates thinking. I expect you are pretty busy as it is end of term.

Welcome, New Members

Patricia Price, Hastings, aged 11

Pat Dunn, Napier, aged 13 years. Shirley Bishop, Napier, aged 12

Busy Bee, D.S.O., Hastings: I was most interested to hear all that you have been doing lately, Busy Bee, and you seem to be having lots of fun with your Girl Guides. All the Guides looked splendid at the Anzac service and I'm sure your wreath must have been beautiful. Your hike to Havelock must also have been fun and I am glad it was not you who fell into the creek.

Jocelyn Irvine, Sherenden: I am very pleased to hear that you have begun your music and dancing lessons and that you are enjoying them. Jocelyn. It certainly does seem a long way to come each week but if you like it and try hard it is worth while. I am glad you have had a good birthday and thank you for your competition.

Tinkerbell, Hastings: Yes, Tinkerbell, it always helps to receive your letters early in the week whenever you can manage it. I am glad to hear that you are a Girl Guide because I think it is splendid organisation. Thank you for the jokes and so on that you sent me this week, they are very good.

Daffodil, D.S.O. Hastings: Yes, the holiday was a lovely day, Daffodil, and I'm so glad that you were able to have a drive into the country—and how lovely to collect pine cones. You will appreciate them on the fire when it becomes colder. I'm glad you answered the competitions.

Bluebell, D.S.O. Hastings: I missed.

the competitions.

Bluebell, D.S.O., Hastings: I missed your letter last week, Bluebell, but thought that you were probably extra busy as it was nearing the end of a term. I was pleased to receive your letter this week and to learn that you had a good birthday—I'm sure that your mother is right about doing without parties just now. Your jokes and riddles are good.

Maried Hastings: It was very nice.

Happy, D.S.O., Otane: Well, I did just manage to answer your letter I'm glad to say, Happy, though it only just arrived in time. I wonder if any of the letters from your English pen friends would interest the Playmates. If you think they would send them to me and I will let you have them back when I have picked out any interesting parts.

HOMERIC SAGA, 1941

Out of the tragedy of the enemy conquest of Greece has come a story which will rank with the great epics of history. It is a story that begins with the heroism of Greece herself and ends, for the time being, with the drama of the

The war which began in 1939 has not yet seen land campaigns comparable in magnitude with the colossal struggles of 1914-1918, but the beach of Dunkirk and the bays of southern Greece have provided the settings for equally stirring events. In the days to come it will be possible to see the story of the war in Greece as part of the vast pattern of war, and in that story the Anzacs will play

Homeric roles. It has been said that New Zealand achieved nationhood on the cliffs of Gallipoli. To-day New Zealand soldiers have provided a new drama to set beside the tale of Gallipoli. The tiny British Army in Greece, of which the Anzacs comprised almost one-half, have created a saga that will go down the centuries with the tales of Sparta and ancient Athens. And perhaps nothing will so stir the imagination of future generations as the picture of the Maori troops holding the historic Pass of Thermopylae to the end . . The story of the fall of Greece is a tragedy, as the conquest of any heroic and freedom-loving people by lesser barbarians is a tragedy. But in the case of Greece, tragedy is overshadowed by sacrifice and dauntless courage. It was through no faltering on the part of Greece or of her British ally that the Germans were able to sweep down to the Aegean. From the beginning it was a fight against hopeless odds.

The first Greek campaign has been fought and lost, but the cost to the Allies has been infinitesimal compared with the price the enemy has paid for conquest. The forces of the British Empire and Greece, overwhelmed by the sheer weight of numbers and machines, have maintained a tradition. If Greece has fallen she has suffered no dishonour and the Greeks will be remembered for all time as the little people who first exposed the shams of Fascist Italy.

To-day the British, Australian and New Zealand troops have been withdrawn from Greece as the Empire Army was withdrawn from Gallipoli 26 years ago. But this is not the end of the crusade, and there is comfort in the thought that Greece, like Gallipoli, has created an imperishable memory.

A WASTEFUL PRACTICE

Few more glaring examples of departmental inefficiency and waste can be found than in the annual change of number plates on motor vehicles.

In the early days of registration some official conceived the brilliant idea that if the colour of the plates were changed every year it would be obvious at a glance whether the vehicle had been relicensed or not. Ever since, owners have been required by law to affix a new set of plates every year. A charge of 2/- each is made which involves an entirely unnecessary expenditure of over £30,000 per annum.

The only persons who benefit from this wooden-headed example of administrative foolishness are the manufacturers of number plates. The time, labour and material could be better employed on munitions, and no doubt the firm which gets the order for number plates would be just as well pleased to be paid for doing something useful.

The English practice in regard to motor registration is simple, efficient and foolproof. It is incredible that our Transport Department has never heard of it; because Automobile Associations have not been altogether inactive in protesting on behalf of their members against the New Zealand system.

In Great Britain a vehicle is assigned a number when it goes into commission and retains it for life. To avoid running into unduly high numbers three letters of the alphabet and three numerals give sufficient combinations to cover all the vehicles on the register. The owner is given a card on which is recorded any transfer of the vehicle, and each quarterly payment of the annual licence fee. A small licenceholder clamped on the windscreen shows the date to which

The system answers all requirements and it is a mystery why it does not commend itself to the authorities in New Zealand.

An 18th Century Prophecy

The following verses have been forwarded by a "Daily Mail"

The time wilt come when thou shalt lift thine eyes
To watch a long-drawn battle in the skies,

the skies,
While aged peasants too amazed
for words,
Stare at the flying fleets of wond'rous birds.
England, so long the mistress of the sea, Where winds and waves confess her sovereignty, Her ancient triumphs yet on high shall bear,

And reign, the sovereign of the conquered air. -Thomas Grey, Cambridge, 1737. Author of the famous "Elegy Writen in a Country Churchyard."

Breakfast.

We are told that when the president of these super-gigantic-colossal film companies wants to go to sleep he counts elephants jumping over skyscrapers. "I dropped in on the young bride last night and found her in tears."

"Oh, dear! And I thought she had such a good match." "The trouble was the match went out."

Doctor: "You should take a bath before you retire." Patient: "But, doctor, I don't ex-pect to retire for another 20 years."

Better to remain silent and be thought a fool, than to speak out and remove all doubt.—Abraham Lincoln.

The "West of England" has faced up to fierce bombardment. There has been much damage, but the mills producing those wonderful suitings, for which England is world famous, are still pouring from their looms an unabated flood. Parkers always imported direct, and are therefore, in these times of restrictions, one of the few firms still able to do so. #### Fostering Football

In accordance with the Hawke's Bay Rugby Union's policy of fostering football in country schools, it was decided last night that one ball should be, sent to the Mokara school, Tutira, and four to Taupo. In the case of Taupo the authorities intend to organise an inter-school competition, and in view of this a grant of £4 was made to defray the expenses entailed in providing transexpenses entailed in providing transport for children from outlying dis-

Chocolate for Troops

The National Patriotic Fund Board has decided to increase the quantity of chocolate and other conquantity of chocolate and other confectionery placed on transports for the benefit of men who are nonsmokers during the voyage from New Zealand. This decision was made in accordance with the recommendation received by the board recently from a lieutenant who acted as gifts officer on one ship. He said he had found that there were many non-smokers, and suggested the advisability of putting aboard more sweets to provide more adequately for a substitute for cigarettes and tobacco. From now on, as a result of a report made to the meeting of the board by a special sub-committee, the comforts provided for each of the men aboard will include 1000 6d packets or blocks of sweets and chocolate.—Press Association.

Listeners Pleased

The lighting restrictions imposed in Hastings on Thursday night may not have been greeted with much jubilation by the majority of residents, but some radio listeners in the urban area have found compensations. With illuminated signs switched off, the reception in the evenings has been noticeably improved. One listener reported that the "circular saws," "frying pans" and "motor boats" that formerly interfered with programmes from the more distant stations have now been eliminated. eliminated.

Ballboy Scheme

Ballboy Scheme

The aid of Napier primary schools is to be enlisted in a scheme to provide ballboys for Saturday Rugby games at McLean Park. The providing of the boys was left in the hands of the Primary Schools Sports Association's representative on the Hawke's Bay Rugby Union (Mr E. Riley) at the union's meeting last night. Hastings delegates stated that the scheme worked splendidly. The names of the boys were published at the same time as the lists of fixtures and referees appeared.

Cool-Store Building

The construction of the cool-store and fruit assembly shed in King Street, Hastings, has reached a stage where, with much of the external work completed, it is possible to gain a very good idea of the impressive proportions of the completed building. The fitting-up of the interior will now be the main task ahead of the contractors, and when this is completed the store will prove a decided asset to the Hawke's Bay fruit industry. As far as could be ascertained yesterday no date has been set for the opening of the building.

Bobby Calf Pool

That Britain could not spare shipping space for boneless veal, even if canned, was told to the conference of Bobby Calf Pool delegates at Palmerston North by the Hon. J. G. Barclay yesterday. Delegates attended from Taranaki, Manawatu, Wairarapa, Hawke's Bay and the East Coast. Mr Barclay urged the pools to co-operate in keeping the industry going as vells were needed for rennet for cheese. After consideration in private, the conference framed a recommendation which will not be announced to the Press in the meantime.—Press Association.

Stirring Account Of Anzacs' Magnificent

(United Press Association-Copyright.) (Received May 2, 6 p.m.)

"Now we are back in Egypt, the story of the fight in Greece and the evacuation in the face of overwhelming German odds can be told," says the British United Press correspondent, Mr Richard McMillan.

is a story of German infantry being driven like cattle to the slaughter; of Maoris fighting to the last in the Pass of Thermopylae; of troops hiding throughout the day in wheatfields

The story, says Mr MeMillan, begins at Mount Olympus, where the New Zealanders—Maoris and white troops—made their names deathless as those of the ancient Spartens as they took the full shock. Ralkan campaign:— Spartans as they took the full shock Balkan campaign:-

Nurses' Heroism

The armada drew off the shores of Greece a couple of hours before dawn. The nurses had shared with the troops the terrors of front-line bombing, and bore the ordeal with the same heroism as the womenfolk of the blitzed areas of Britain.

most remarkable thing that struck him was that the troops were not disorganised, but disciplined and cheerful, and carried their full battle kit.

"I embarked on a convoy with 11,500 troops, among whom were scores of Dunkirk veterans," the correspondent adds. "They said the bombing of Dunkirk was nothing compared with that in Greece.

"In some ways it was Dunkirk all over again. Transports and warships worked inshore to the beaches despite German dive-bombers, and brought off thousands."

ships worked inshore to the beaches despite German dive-bombers, and brought off thousands of men night after night."

While the evacuation was going on, the rearguard action was proceeding. The New Zealanders held Thermopylae, and Australian units, backed by British artillery, held Bralo Pass, in the mountains south of Lamia, and the left flank of the British Army was spread out right over Bralo Pass to the Gulf of Corinth. It is revealed that the Navy, the merchant service, and the Air Force collaborated in the great undertaking. Open beaches had to be used for the embarkation, which was carried out under continued enemy pressure by land and air.

"We were waiting our turn to leave in a fishing-boat," a British officer said, "when word came that a destroyer was at hand. I can tell you, that was most welcome news—more welcome even than it was at

With the surrender of the Greek Army in Epirus, the British High Command had to make a rapid decision to form a shorter line with the object of covering the retreat.

A big German assault came in two prongs against the British line. One was directed at Thermopylae and the other at Bralo.

New Zealanders who fought at Thermopylae said that sheer weight of numbers, combined with overwhelming air superiority, won the battle for the enemy. Our platoons were sometimes separated by one-third of a mile, while, when we sent out patrols, five or six men encountered enemy patrols as strong as 400.

Still They Came On

After they had destroyed the bridge, they held off the German hordes and enabled the evacuation to go on in orderly fashion at three different points.

The troops hid throughout the day in wheatfields and among rocks while German bombers tried to blast the harbour into flaming ruin. "Our convoy consisted of large merchantmen, cruisers, and destroyers, all loaded almost to the rigging," Mr McMillan added. "R.A.F. nurses were there, too, and a number of Australian nurses.

"As the B.E.F. moved to the beaches, British wounded who had been in Greek hospitals hobbled to join them, singing "Tipperary" and "Pack Up Your Troubles."

"The embarkation went on throughout the day and night while the ship zigzagged to avoid divebombers. Ashore, an R.A.F. surgeon operated for 36 hours in a church with an operating table consisting of a stretcher placed on two chairs, while waves of German 'planes rained bombs on the town."

The troops, however, were ready for the next raid, and when the 'planes came over they were met with terrific rifle and Bren-gun fire from all on board, and six machines were shot down.

"There is no doubt, the officer said, "that the success of the evacuation was due to the stubborn rearguard action."

Bridges Blown Up

Another officer spoke of the demolition of bridges during the withdrawal, and one said that 104 perfectly good bridges had been blown up before they left.

The Germans adopted many ruses to try to capture our troops. Many of them spoke perfectly good English, and one of them was heard to say: "Where are you, Bill?" But Bill did not answer. Other Germans came over dressed up as Greek officers, speaking Greek perfectly.

However, in a crisis such as faces the nation at the present time, it is hoped that many more will offer their services, and thus make a definite contribution to the country's war effort.

King's Birthday

"I would like to see a sub-committee established to investigate the possibility of economies to reduce expenditure," said Mr N. McKenzie at last night's meeting of the Hawke's Bay Rugby Union. "I think we all realise that there will be difficulties ahead this season, and if such a committee were established it would do a good deal to bring in economies that will bring our expenditure down to the revenue we can expect from wartime Rugby."

A committee comprising the chairman (Mr B. Tweedie) the treasurer (Mr Callaghan) Mr A. Kirkpatrick and Mr N. McKenzie, was set up to go into the matter.

The gesture made by the Napier Park Racing Club in putting back its starting time for the last race to 2.45 p.m. on the King's Birthday, June 2, to enable patrons to attend both the race meeting and the Union's representative fixture on that date was the subject of appreciative comment. "Seeing that they have met us so freely," said Mr McKenzie, "I think we could meet them by starting our representative fixture at 3.10 instead of 3 p.m."

Hawke's Bay will meet Wairarapa on the King's Birthday, the southern union having confirmed the invitation extended for the usual fixture. At present no date has been fixed for the return match game, but arrangements will be made later in the season for the match to take place at the same time as other representative fixtures are arranged. An appeal from the Referees' Association for a grant to assist in the season's operations was met with an allowance of £10, after the association had assured the union that in view of war conditions they would make every effort to minimise expenditure.

The war has been responsible for a hold-up in the delivery of the representative blazers worn last year. It has been found that the monograms bearing the union crest are in short supply. An alternative pattern is to be sought so that production will not be held up in future.

Typical of the splendid record of sports clubs throughout Hawke's Bay, a long list of members serving overseas has been submitted by the Hastings High School Old Boys' Club to the Union, in response to the appeal for football clubs to assist in keeping track of men who have been actively engaged in the

Woodford House Principal

NEW APPOINTMENT Miss D. M. Holland To

The very genuine regret which has been expressed by the present pupils of Woodford House, Havelock North, their parents and old girls throughout the Dominion at the decision made by the principal, Miss D. M. Holland, to retire at the end of this year is evidence of the high opinion in which she is held, not only by those who are connected with the school, but by all who have come into contact with her in any way.

Miss Holland has been the effi-cient headmistress of Woodford House for the past 19 years, during which she has devoted her efforts to the improvement of the school in to the improvement of the school in every way.

It can be said to-day that the standard of education is as high as at any similar school in the Dominion, while the fine buildings and beautiful grounds have been a centre of admiration for overseas travellers as well as New Zealanders. To say that hers was a task well done by no means sufficiently describes the outstanding success of Miss Holland's work.

Two Headmistresses

Two Headmistresses Woodford House was founded in 1894, and the school has been for-tunate in having only two head-mistresses—the late Miss Hodge and the present principal, Miss Holland—both very fine and able House Trustees have been able to secure a worthy successor to Miss Holland. She is Miss Kathleen Moseley, who is at present the house mistress and senior teacher of English at Wycombe Abbey School, one of the leading girls' schools in England.

Miss Moseley's scholastic and academic training are exceptionally good. She was educated at Wycombe Abbey for four years and left as Head of the school and Head of her house. She then went to Lady Margaret Hall, Oxford, obtaining second class honours in the final School of English. She returned in 1933 to Wycombe Abbey. Those who recommend her speak of her as gifted, versatile and adaptable, possessing power and a charming personality. Miss Whitelaw, a former headmistress of Wycombe Abbey, says: "she is keen, with good powers of organisation and lots of initiative. One who cares about the things that matter." Miss Holland, in an interview yesterday, said she considered that the time had come for a younger woman to take up the work of the school, but at the special request of the trustees she had agreed to remain until the right successor could be found. Miss Moseley had considered an overseas post before the war broke out. Later, however, she wondered whether she ought to leave England when conditions there were so difficult. ### OBSERVATIONS OF BLACKOUT

An exhaustive examination of the Hawke's Bay blackout area carried out last night by members of the Napier and Hastings Reduced Lighting Committees under the direction of the District Lighting Controller (Mr H. H. Wylie) disclosed that the restrictions at present in force will have to be increased in order to achieve the necessary result.

Although much of the district lighting evident during the previous inspection had been eliminated, a considerable amount of glare was clearly apparent over both Napier and Hastings. It was more pronounced in the case of Hastings.

Te Awanga, Haumoana and Clive were easily distinguished by the naked street lighting, accentuated by the background of the hills.

As usual much of the effectiveness of the measures already undertaken in Napier was nullified by the headlights of motor cars. Each vehicle turning on to the Marine Parade from the many intersecting streets swept the sky in a huge arc. This was particularly noticeable during the period of total blackout. Shortly after 7 o'clock the party left Port Ahuriri on the tug Kuri, provided by courtesy of Richardson and Co. Ltd. and proceeded round the breakwater mole to make observations from the open sea. From a distance of about three miles and a half it was possible to distinguish a number of lights on the top floor of the Post Office.

Street Lights Out.

At prearranged times the street lights in both Napier and Hastings were extinguished, and a bearing was taken from red and amber beacons installed on the foreshore. From these it was possible to identify Napier South and Taradale by the glare, but the absence of street lights had the effect of reducing the glare considerably.

Observations taken from a point about eight and a-half miles east of Napier were almost identical with those taken closer to the shore, and the party returned to Port Ahuriri when it became evident that fog would prevent the collection of further information. Street Lights Out.

A SYDNEY JOURNALIST LOOKS AT "NEW ORDER"

"Businessmen Are Still In Business And People Are Happy"

Anybody want to see what a socialist democracy looks like? Then come to New Zealand, where I have been for a week, and take a look at a test tube experiment in the "new order," writes Godfrey Blunden in the Sydney "Sunday

Here in New Zealand they have a socialist democracy which has worked out so well that people are happier and more comfortable than I have seen them in Australia; yet business men are still in business and the British Empire is revered more deeply than anywhere else in the world.

It is an interesting experiment because all right-thinking people are coming round to the idea that a little socialism will be quite in order in the row order will in fact ro in the new order; will, in fact, be

Where New Zealand or socialist democracy goes from here is an-other thing. Where is anybody cther thing. Where is anybody going?

But let us look into this New Zealand experiment. We owe it to ourselves because we started it.
The basis of the present Government of New Zealand was laid in Australia at the end of the last century. It was brought across the Tasman by a couple of young Tom Mann revolutionaries (they thought they were revolutionaries, anyhow)

Australia at the end of the last century. It was brought across the Tasman by a couple of young Tom Mann revolutionaries (they thought they were revolutionaries, anyhow) called Paddy Webb and Mick Savage.

In Auckland they picked up with Peter Fraser, a wharf lumper, and Bob Semple, an Australian who had been mining on the Coolgardie.

Together they began to get moving among the unions. By 1914 they had strong organisations behind them and seats in Parliament.

Conscription issue came up, as it did in Australia. There were prosecutions and prison sentences. Paddy Webb did two months, lost his seat, re-elected, did another two years; was deprived of his civil rights for ten years. Bob Semple was arrested, bound over to keep peace.

There were really few casualties.

But, can you magine the impatience of the Old Lady of Thread nadled the Australian matter very satisfactorily, thanks to Mr Beasley and Joe Lyons. Think of the impute dence of this little neck of the woods, this cowyard of the Kingdom, daring to manage its own affairs!

The Old Lady

Gets Busy

In 1939 the Old Lady decided to nip the enterprising nipper in the bud. A New Zealand loan of £17,000,000 was due in London. There was precious little to the credit of New Zealand to pay it with. Walter Nash put on his Homburg hat and trotted over to see what he could do.

The Old Lady was very firm. She wanted her money in cold hard cash, wanted her money in licity.

Martyrdom sat easily on the shoulders of these young men, almost as if they had sought it.

The Depression Burden

The war over, the depression arrived with its burden of repressive and unimaginative legislation.

In 1935 Labour was swept into power on a tide of popular revulsion. The Tom Mann revolutionaries had their chance. Mick Savage became Prime Minister, Paddy Webb Minister for Labour, Bob Semple Minister for Labour, Bob Semple Minister for Public Works, Peter Fraser was Minister for Health and Education. Walter Nasn, a small-time English businessman who had joined them, became Finance Minister.

The first things the Utopians did were to restore the wages cuts made by the previous Government, and increase the powers of the Arbitration Court. They made it compulsory for every worker to belong to a union, increasing union membership from 71,000 to 250,000.

It did not happen all at once, of course. There were somewhere

It did not happen all at once, of course. There were somewhere about 80,000 men out of work. They had to get them back to work before they could become paying unionists. They did it with a vigorous policy of public works.

of public works.

Bob Semple, ex miner, had been doing a bit of contracting between union organising. He had a bright idea. He ordered a couple of million pounds worth of American road-making equipment, bulldozers, angledozers, dragline excavators, diesel tractors, graders, and whatnot. He put an army of men to work straightening, widening, metalling New Zealand's crooked, dusty roads.

Altogether Semple has spent

Altogether Semple has spent Altogetner Seinple has spent $50,000,000 on public works.

Public works projects are no longer an unorthodox means of dealing with unemployment. It was new then. Outsiders began to ask: Where is the money coming from?

The money was raised in the first instance from a heavy income tax as part of the Utopians' plans for the redistribution of wealth. Whereas the total revenue from income tax in New Zealand was not much more than half a million, the new Labour Government bumped it up to four million. (To-day it is roughly seventeen million).

The Reserve Bank

But there was another method of Government finance which the Uto-

Government finance which the Utopians were very quick to take practical advantage of.

While in the python-like grip of the depression, the Conservative Government had grasped at the chance of obtaining the advice of Sir Otto Niemeyer, Bank of England fixer, at that time doing his best in Australia. Sir Otto told them they would have to take the note issue out of the hands of the trading banks, suggested a reserve bank, somewhat on the lines of the Commonwealth Bank.

The Reserve Bank was just getting under way with a Niemeyer stooge in control when Labour came in.

You don't have to be 65 to enjoy age benefits. At 60 every married couple is entitled to 30/- a week each. At the same time they are allowed to earn £1 a week, possess a house, and £500 in the bank.

Invalids and widows get somewhere about the same.

Labour made full use of the Reserve Bark.

There had been a good deal of speculative gambling in New Zealand currency by international financiers. The Government had pegged the exchange at somewhere about 125 New Zealand pounds for 100 British pounds. Because of the fall in production and the bankrupt condition of the farmers, they reckoned the exchange would be certain to fall and they would be the gainers.

Money, of course, is the whole story of social democracy. The old Tom Mann socialists proposed to deal with the capitalists in their own coin. A combination of Scotch caution and Irish political cunning has enabled them in New Zealand to handle their finances orthodoxly and skilfully.

They had to. New Zealand depends on the world for her trade.
Unlike Russia, she cannot go into isolation, lock herself up for five or ten years, and work out her own economy, regardless of world currency.

That is the problem of New Zea-land at the present moment.
Her export trade, so useful a year or so ago, has dropped away by 50 per cent, due to no irascibility on the part of the Old Lady, but to the farmers to restrict production. That would mean more unemployment, less income, upset their precious schemes. They think of developing secondary industries and look enviously at Australia, but there is no iron in New Zealand (though plenty of coal).

Result was a howl from those business houses which had been doing well out of the overseas trade,

But, can you imagine the impatience of the Old Lady of Thread needle Street? Already she had handled the Australian matter very satisfactorily, thanks to Mr Beasley and Joe Lyons. The Old Lady was very firm. She wanted her money in cold hard cash, right on the knocker. Of course, if the Government liked to see reason, reduce this absurd basic wage of £3 16/-, and do one or two other things, the Old Lady might take a different view.

The Utopians get oue; and wiser. Paddy Webb to-day wears an onyx stone in his tie-pin, a heavy gold different view.

Protested Mick Savage: "When the Labour Government came into power the public debt was £10 per read in a country of only one and a half million. Some of this debt was contracted during the Maori wars. Now it falls due on a single date. Is that an accident?"

Labour decided to pay. The Old Lady's terms: One million immedivristlet watch, wears a sporty hat lipped down over his eyes, owns acehorses and mining scrip. One feels, surely, without underestimating Webb's influence in New Zealand politics, that his achievement is in the past. In what he has done for Labour.

for Labour.

"There is no unemployment problem any more," he told me. "We find work for everyone. It pays us to. A man on sustenance draws two-thirds of what he would earn as a basic wage worker. So we put him to work and get a week's production out of him."

And if you find he is a malingerer.

And if you find he is a malingerer, or doesn't agree with the Government?
"We give him nothing. He has to come to us for a job in the end."
But what happens when production is no longer wealth, as the Utopians learned at the knee of Tom Mann. What happens when a counpians learned at the knee of 10m Mann. What happens when a country cannot sell her production?

Paddy Webb had no answer. He talked about his search for oil.
Prime Minister Fraser is more sceptical of oil. "You don't get oil out of reports," he said.

Peter Fraser, the one-time what

Peter Fraser, the one-time wharf labourer and union agitator, is also to-day an elderly man. A tall, balding, slow-speaking, heavy-eyed, thick-ankled Scotsman, who observes you carefully before committing himself to speech.

you? Remember, that it might have been the story of Australia if we had kept the Scullin-Theodore Government. Both Governments were based on the same Tom Mann ideals. All the time the financiers were trying to scuttle Labour in New Zealand the Utopians, now somewhat aged, were bringing in the social legislation which they had talked about in the back rooms of Melbourne and Auckland thirty years before.

In five years they have built thousands of houses, and their housing projects have cost them £15,000,000. You can see these houses in all the cities and towns, handsome, bright, modern dwellings, all standing in their own grounds, as good as anything you will see in the smartest Sydney suburbs. prosecute the war with vigour-r-r Nor will we tolerate any interrup Nor will we tolerate any interruption of our effort."

And Bob Semple, the Coolgardie miner turned industrial organiser and contractor? A man of 68 today, a stern, erect figure, the corners of his mouth turned down, sharp, quick-moving eyes. A sample of Semple:—

"I will have no truck with Com-thing you will see in the smartest Sydney suburbs.

These houses are rented at from £1 to 32/6 a week, about a third the price that would be asked in Sydney.

They are hard to get, and the criticism has been made that it is not the poorest people who benefit by them, but the middle classes. This may be justified, but still there are 5000 very fine houses where there were none before.

But housing was only one thing. Look at these figures. This is what New Zealanders get for nothing. It is called Social Security, and is naid for, they say, by taking a shilling in the pound out of every wage paid in New Zealand.

The Social Democrats are really up against it. Who isn't?

The ladies used to say "they couldn't bear tobacco smoke; it made them quite ill." Now most of them will tell you "they just love it." Which is doubtless why they rush the smoking compartments on the trams and trains, so that men who are "hungering for a whiff" are often crowded out. Tobacco smoke is certainly pretty powerful sometimes. Baccy highly charged with nicotine will make it so. Brands like that mostly come from Yankeeland, and should be given a wide birth. Ask the doctors—they know. The purest tobaccos obtainable are those of the National Tobacco Company Ltd. (the pioneers of the tobacco industry in New Zealand). Sweet, cool and fragrant, they appeal to all smokers. Quite harmless, too, because they are toasted (no the gainers.

Well, what happened? As soon as Semple's public works programme got going money circulated. People began to buy things. Things (radios, refrigerators, motor cars) were brought into the country for people to buy.

But the imports, including the bulldozers and other works machinery, had to be paid for. The money which New Zealand banks had in London began to drain away.

Autumn Cattle Fair

FEILDING PRICES

Demand Was Above Expectations

FAT SHEEP WANTED

By Telegraph—Press Association FEILDING, May 2.

FEILDING, May 2.

Prices at the autumn cattle fair at Feilding to-day were better than had been anticipated. One thousand head were yarded which is the average for this fair. The stock was generally in splendid condition, fine weather conditions producing this attractiveness, and bidding continued good throughout the sale with practically a total clearance.

A medium yarding of fat sheep sold well with a keen demand for sheep showing quality, for which prices were higher than for some time previously. A small yarding of store sheep sold at previous rates.

Dairy cattle prices are stiffening up with inquiries especially for winter calvers. Fat cattle prices were easy, partly owing to lack of quality in the beef offering.

A range of prices is as follows: Run cattle: Four and five-year bullocks £7 15/- to £8 17/- and £9 1/-; 22-year P.A. steers £3 5/-; weaner P.A. steers £3 6/-; hereford steers to £6 8/-; to £7 15/- to £8 17/- and £9 1/-; 24-year P.A. steers £5 7/6 to £6 12/-; P.A. heifers calved, to £8; springing cows to £9.

Fat cattle: Run cows light £5 7/6 to £7 11/6; light fat steers £8.

Fat ewes: Prime 11/10 to 12/4; others from 8/1; prime maiden ewes 26/10 to 23/10: BFS 24/7 to 22/1; light from 16/10; fat lambs prime 24/4; good lines 20/10 to 23/10: BFS 24/7.

20/10 to 21/10; inferior 14/1 to 16/1; fat lambs prime 22/4 to 23/7; extra prime small pen 26/7; good pens 18/4 to 22/1; light from 16/10; fat wethers prime 24/4; good lines 20/10 to 23/10; B.F.S. 24/7.

Store sheep: Wether lambs good condition 14/- to 15/7; others from 12/6: ewe lambs good 23/6 to 24/6; others from 17/-; wethers to 17/-; blackface lambs to 15/-; two-tooth ewes r.w. rams to 28/1.

Mr R. N. Blakiston appeared on behalf of W. J. Sedcole, Kiritaki, who appealed for his son. The appeal was adjourned until October 20, the son to attend Home Guard parades.

Mrs C. Hales, Weber, lodged an appeal for her son, R. D. Hales, who had served overses in the last war

The appeal was adjourned sine die, the son to join the Home Guard.

D. B. Reid appealed on the ground of undue hardship, stating that his brother and partner was at present in the Foxton camp. The committee ruled that he should enter camp on May 19, when his brother would have returned and he was to be re-dismissed, service to be in May,

June and July.
The appeal of J. P. Wrenn, farmer. Oringi, was adjourned until December.
Appeals by D. Appeals by R. H. Floyd, Danne-virke, and E. Thompson, Norsewood, were dismissed for lack of prosecu-tion.

Dog Trials At SCHOOL BUILDINGS MUST BE INSURED BY HIRERS'

"Sinister Suggestion": Reply By Education Board Chairman

A denial that the Hawke's Bay Education Board by any means was endeavouring to prevent the Hastings Rate-payers' Association holding a meeting in the Mahora School was made by the chairman (Mr G. A. Maddison) in an interview yesterday.

"In their pamphlet and also publicly they have again made the sinister suggestion that the Education Board is trying to prevent the Ratepayers' Association from using school buildings for electioneering purposes," said Mr Maddison. "This is not the case, and the position has been repeatedly explained to them."

"It is an instruction from the Government that schools can only be used free of charge for Church services, Home Guard work and ordinary school gatherings," said Mr Maddison. "If anyone else requires the building the Government requires that it be insured for its full value. This arrangement is not made by the Education Board, but is beby the Education Board, but is be-tween the potential hirer and the insurance company. The board asks only for a cover note, and does not receive a penny of the insurance receive a penny of the insurance amount.

"This system is only right, for if schools were let for all and sundry purposes, it is possible that fire would occur and the people of this country would be involved in very heavy expenditure," said Mr Maddison. "As far as the Ratepayers' Association is concerned, the Education Board has no objection to its using the buildings if it can obtain a cover to satisfy the board."

WAVERLEY WINTER MEETING

WIN AND PLACE

Ringcraft Fancied For The Hack Cup

By The Barb

The Waverley Jockey Club's winter meeting takes place at Waverley to-day and although in some quarters it has been stated that Egmont starts the steeplechase season in the lower part of the North Island, that credit must go to Waverley.

Good fields have accepted in every race so that the win and place totalisators should be busy. The track is reported to be in excellent order, firm but without bone.

The meeting opens with the

11.45—WESTHOLM HURDLES, of f125; one mile and a half.—Aussie Ra 11.8, Pekoe 11.2, Mataroa 10.10, Rollicker 10.5, War Lap 9.5, Selkirk 9.3, Air Shot 3.0, Dunmanway 9.0, Eupatrid 9.0, Gold Tray 9.0, Lady Jim 9.0, Sanguine King

Aussie Ra, second in the last two National Hurdles, is topweight with 11.8 which should not stop him if forward enough. Pekoe might do better with a race. Mataroa may be the favourite but Rollicker looks dangerous. War Lap is anything but consistent. Of the lightweights Selkirk and Eupatrid seem the best. Dunmanway will be having his first hurdle race. The favourite may be EUPATRID, MATAROA, AUSSIE RA.

Amigo is also engaged in the Besley Memorial and it is in the latter event he is most likely to start. Royal Star II won at the last Waverley meeting and as he has had recent racing should be close to winning form again. Footloose is passed over in favour of the recent winner, Black Robe. Endorsement must run prominently, while Hagen may find the distance a little short. Screen Star likes it soft but he will be bracketed with Endorsement. There are some fair sprinters among the lightweights of which Lord Cavendish, Veldette and Boden Park may do best. Three that may appeal are ROYAL STAR II, ENDORSEMENT-SCREEN STAR bracket and BLACK ROBE.

1.5—SYMES MEMORIAL MAIDEN, of f100; six furlongs (all 8st.).—Desert Tide, Canox, Ocean Breeze, Lucky Luly, Chef d'Oeuvre, Miss Hallomet, Ra Rina, Hinehou, Magnifier, Vin Rouge, Royal Taille, Gallarda, Teasof, Sunfire, Courting, Te Oriko, Ringless,

There is little form offering among the novices but perhaps when the machine closes most money will be invested on MISS HALLOMET, DESERT TIDE, ROYAL TALKIE.

1.45—KOHI HACK HIGHWEIGHT, of. 25; seven furlongs.—Young Charles 6, Tavoy 8.11, Val Pere 8.10, War oud 8.9, Arabic 8.7, Tolaga 8.7, Gold rd 8.6, Curtail 8.3, Iddo 8.0, Valtour 9, Wildfire 8.0, Minvaal 8.0, Baron Bold 9, Natal 8.0, Ocean Breeze 8.0, Gitana iss 8.0, Ra Hou Hou 8.0, Earlscourt 9,

Young Charles is also engaged in the Hack Cup, an event he may prefer. Tavoy has not won for some time but is due any day. Val Pere Is only mediocre at best, but the class here is not so good. War Cloud is well reported on while Arabic is starting in the Hack Cup. Tolaga is fancied as also is Gold Card and Curtail. Iddo, although not confidently recommended, is not lightly passed over. There is not much form offering from the eight-stoners but Montana 8.12, Roy Bun 8.2, Esperance offering from the eight-stoners but Wildfire and Natal are not without possibilities. What will be better backed than YOUNG CHARLES (if started) TAVOY and TOLAGA?

2.25—BESLEY MEMORIAL, of £275; one mile and a quarter.—Amigo 9.2; Friesland 8.7, Dynasty 8.1, Tidewaiter 7.13, Kena 7.11, Alexcella 7.10, Trench Law 7.10, Surveyor-General 7.7, Ned Cuttle 7.6, Notium 7.4, Windsor Chief 7.0, Filbert 7.0, Boden Park 7.0, Last Acre 7.0.

Amigo should be suited by the track and at 9.2 is not overburdened for a horse of his class. Friesland is past his best but the class, taken for a horse of his class. Friesland is past his best but the class, taken all round, is not of the best handicap standard. Dynasty is not an easy one to follow but in the right mood must be dangerous. Tidewaiter might surprise. Kena is well overdue but there is a whisper for the Aucklander. Alexcelia is popular and as she won well the second day of the Easter meeting at Feilding is not without the right credentials. Trench Law does not appear yet to have regained last season's autumn form. Surveyor General, fourth in the Auckland Easter, should on that form have a fair chance of success. Ned Cuttle is said to be coming back to form and a wet track would materially enhance his prospects. Notium must have an average chance and is preferred to any below him on the list. In a good betting pool most money may be wagered on SURVEYOR GENERAL, ALEXCELIA and DYNASTY.

3.05—WAVERLEY STEEPLECHASE, of £170; about two miles.—Clarion Call 13.2, Kaliwaka 11.6, Aussie Ra 11.1, Riotbus 10.10, High Peer 10.7, Disturbed 9.8, War Lap 9.2, Ruling Star 9.0, Lady Jim 9.0, Gold Nut 9.0, Karere-nui 9.0, Hornpipe 9.0, Car Leaf 9.0.

As Clarion Call is said to be in capital fettle 13.2 should not stop him although it is a tidy load. Kaiwaka, the half brother to the top weight, may be his most dangerous opponent. Aussie Ra will probably contest the hurdles, while Riotous, a splendid fencer, has just claims to recognition. High Peer is a good fencer and stayer and although it is his first race over country he must be considered. Of the others Ruling Star, Kerere-nui and Hornpipe (if in Star, Kerere-nui and Hornpipe (if in the mood) may do best. The betting order may read CLARION CALL, RIOTOUS and KAIWAKA.

3.45—NGUTUWERA HACK CUP, of £150; eight furlongs and a quarter.—Young Charles 9.0, Auto Sweep 8.11, Ringcraft 8.5, Mountain Fox 8.4, Talenta 8.4, Katesbridge 8.2, Le Marquis 8.1, Gold Card 8.1, Val Pere 8.1, Arabic 8.0, Courting 7.7, Bridegroom 7.7, Tau-uru 7.7, Acrobat 7.7, Earlscourt 7.7.

ROYAL STAR II FOR Five Race Meetings Held To-day

CLARION CALL'S CONTRACT

Steeplechase Season Commences In Earnest

(By THE BARB)
There will be five race meetings in the Dominion to-day, two, Waverley and Franklin in the North Island, and Nelson, Amberley and Southland in the south. Three of the five fixtures will see cross-country events on the programme, heralding the winter steeplechase season, perhaps the most popular department of racing.

Hawke's Bay stables are represented only at the Waverley meeting, but not in either of the jumping races. Next week, however, a couple of our jumpers go to Egmont but at the Poverty Bay Turf Club's steeplechase meeting there will be at least half a dozen Hawke's Bay leppers competing.

Perhaps the outstanding item of to-day's racing is the re-appearance in a steeplechase of last August's New Zealand Grand National winner, Clarion Call, who is reported from Awapuni as inexcellent condition after his few races on the flat, in one of which he strangely fell.

The Hunting Song gelding is a brilliant fencer but 13st. 2lb. is a tidy impost to carry and will steady the very best over the big obstacles. Last season he began the jumping season by winning the Egmont Steeplechase with 11st. 10lb. but the extra 20lb, on his back now is surely a stiff test. However, the opposition can hardly be classified as qualified steeplechasers, with most making their first public appearance in a cross-country event.

draw more of the better type of racehorse.

The Nelson Cup sees the W.R.C. Thompson Handicap winner Augment on top of the weights, a position he will probably fill in the betting. Of the five race meetings today Nelson is the only club with the single pool system.

surely a stiff test. However, the opposition can hardly be classified as qualified steeplechasers, with most making their first public appearance in a cross-country event.

THE NELSON MEETING

One of the oldest race meetings in the Dominion is Nelson, but in recent years the horses do not travel to this rather isolated fixture in the

This concludes the programme S.4. Katesbridge 8.2. Le Marquis 8.1. Gold Card 8.1. Val Pere 8.1. Arabic 8.0. Courting 7.7. Bridegroom 7.7. Tau-uru 7.7. Acrobat 7.7. Earlscourt 7.7. Tau-uru 7.7. Acrobat 7.7. Earlscourt 7.7. Earlscourt 7.7. Earlscourt 7.7. Earlscourt 7.7. Sarting 1.7. Young Charles is fancied, if started, while Autosweep appears to have lost form since the spring. Ringeraft may be the actual favourite. Mountain Fox has been a long time getting out of the hack class. Talenta might surprise. Katesbridge left here fit and she and Arabic should both run fair races. Le Marquis is a recent surprise winner. Tau-uru might prove the best of the MARK and BARRY BOY.

MIXED PROGRAMME

By The Barb By The Barb

The one-day Southland meeting will be held to-day. The programme is a mixed one, there being hurdle, steeplechase, trotting and galloping races. The win and place betting system will be in operation. The sport commences with the Southland Hurdles, in which a field of seven will participate. The class is hardly national, but it is very even. Araboa, with 11.8, will have his work cut out to give the recent winner, Flagman, a stone, Kippen, so work cut out to give the recent winner, Flagman, a stone, Kippen, so report says, is a promising young hurdler. Viking has yet to show up in this department, but recent racing experience should have benefited the Lord Warden-Anthem gelding. Rosaleen Dhu has had but little racing this season.

The trotting events are of not a great deal of interest to Hawke's Bay race followers.

Hack Sprinters An even lot have accepted in the Myross Handicap, in which Gnohill heads the list. Ackemma is in form and should shade Gold Robe. Royal Chorus has been racing with little luck and is due any day. Of the others Dolita and Anglo-Trench

The Chief Event In the chief event Royal Lancer, the Riverton triple winner, has been set a fairly stiff task with 10.2 and, good as he undoubtedly is, his weight is a burden. Wild Career and Waitoru are fair handicap performers with winning form. Peony Rose and Aravane have also the right credentials. Heidelberg, at 7.11, is not to be counted out. Of the minimum weighted division, Southern Sail looks like being the hardest.

The Southland Steeplechase has In the chief event Royal Lancer,

The Southland Steeplechase has The Southland Steeplechase has drawn a field of seven able jumpers. The five-year-old Paper Money gelding, Spendthrift, heads the list with 11.2. He is a promising young 'chaser. Trisox is a proved jumper and in receipt of 11lbs. from the top weight should give a good account of himself, as also should Gay Boa. Pride O' Central is a recent winner, while the remaining trio show promise.

Minor Events The Bluff Handicap seems an open race. In the President's Handicap Boaform will be expected to run prominently, but will meet with stiff opposition from Phalanx, Strip, Sailing Lady and Sea Lady. A big disappointment this last few months has Gold Flight been.

Following may be the best backed: backed:-
