Iraqi Troops At Post On Pipeline Signal Surrender

(United Press Association-Copyright.)

(Received May 8, 1.30 a.m.)

CAIRO, May 7.

A further R.A.F. communique says that the situation in the area around Habbaniyah is much easier. Our night patrols found enemy positions on the edge of the escarpment unoccupied, and the plateau due south of the cantonment is reported to be clear of rebels.

Insurgents occupying a post on the pipeline signified their surrender by waving white flags when one of our reconnaissance 'planes approached. Our ground troops subsequently occupied the post.

The Ankara Radio states that three British transports have arrived at Basra with strong reinforcements of troops and tanks.

The Stefani (Rome) News Agency claims that the Habbaniyah airfield has been rendered useless, but the Iraqi troops have not yet entered because of barbed wire defences, electrically charged.

From a German source it is stated that the Iraqi High Command has told its troops to use their ammunition very sparingly as no new supplies are available. Iraqis Retreat.

Iraqi troops, according to the Ankara Radio, retreated to-day from the area around the port of Basra. The radio added that Turkey was strengthening her defences on the Turco-Iranian frontier under the Turco-Iranian agreement of last December providing for protective measures.

French officials at Beirut to-day denied that Axis 'planes had landed at Syrian airports or that Syria had granted a passage for Axis forces.

An Iraqi communique claims that the Araqi police force occupied a British post near Samarra and captured a wireless station.

Freyberg's Order

Of The Day

Salams of German Mooming trailers were over central Scotland last night in one of the heaviest attacks experienced there. The Luftwaffe scattered its other force over a wide area, but the month's total of enemy 'planes destroyed at night was brought to 50.

Nine enemy 'planes are known to have been destroyed last night following large-scale activity over many widely separated districts, says an Air Ministry communique.

Considerable damage was caused at Clydeside, which was again attacked, as was Merseyside. There were a number of casualties at both places.

STATEMENT IN HOUSE

Cheers For Mr Menzies

British Official Wireless (Received May 7, 7.0 p.m.)
RUGBY, May 6.

The British Government looks The British Government looks forward to the attendance of the New Zealand Prime Minister (the Rt. Hon. P. Fraser) at meetings of the War Cabinet during his forthcoming visit to Britain, the Lord Priwy Seal (the Hon. C. R. Attlee) stated in the House of Commons. Mr Attlee added that the Australian Prime Minister (the Rt. Hon. R. G. Menzies) had attended meetings of the Cabinet, and cheers greeted the statement: "We have greatly profited by his counsel."

ANZACS DROVE PAST CHEERING CROWDS

Withdrawal Step By Step

(N.Z.E.F. Official News Service.) CAIRO, May 6.

New Zealand troops who made a daylight withdrawal through the streets of Athens tell a moving story about the farewell given them by about the farewell given them by the Greek people.

As the convoy entered the city crowds were seen to be lining the streets. Taking no chances, Bren guns were prepared for action. False tales had been spread about the Greek collapse. When the crowds began to shower the New Zealanders with flowers and cheer them it was too much for some of our boys. With tears running down their cheeks they drove through the cheering crowds, who paid their respects to the heroes who had tried to save them from conquest.

At Olympus and Thermopylae New Zealand artillery regiments carried out rearguard actions which are probably unique in artillery history.

are probably unique in artillery history.

At Olympus, the field artillery units actually covered the retreat of the infantry. Overcoming tremendous odds they got the guns out, covering the demolitions and amazing road blocks by New Zealand engineers, and made it possible to withdraw the guns to the Thermopylae area south of Lamia.

Under cover of night big 25-pound guns withdrew. They passed right through the infantry, who heid up the Hun advance into Thessaly while they consolidated their new line in this Thermopylae area.

Leap-Frogging Tactics

Leap-Frogging Tactics By performing brilliant leap-frogging tactics the artillery were able to cover the withdrawal of our infantry into Southern Greece, and at the same time managed to inflict tremendous German losses in tanks, motor equipment and personnel motor equipment and personnel.

Our big guns dominated an essential river crossing, preventing the reconstruction of a bridge which our engineers had already destroyed. When our shells hit German tanks a stream of molten metal poured from the blazing wreck which remained. Large bombs were dropped at several places in north-east Eng-land, East Anglia, south-west Eng-land and elsewhere without doing

Again it was a question of a timed withdrawal, and if our flanks could have been maintained our guns could have held the German advance almost indefinitely. The forward guns were dragged back behind the second line of guns, however, and each leap back meant the loss of more guns. vhich remained.

Last Stand Before Athens

They were falling back on Athens, and the time came for the last stand. Infantry protection for the guns was withdrawn, the guns were spiked and the engineers carried out a brilliant series of demoli-tions and blocking tactics, which held up the advancing Huns and en-abled the artillery to evacuate almost the whole of their remaining

PARACHUTE TROOPS FOUGHT BY MAORIS

Unequal Battle As Huge Transport 'Planes Replaced German Losses

(N.Z.E.F. Official News Service.) (Received May 7, 8.30 p.m.)

CAIRO, May 6. A party of Maoris that had been attached to a brigade for special duties described the landing of parachute troops, which they witnessed south of the Corinth Canal. "Our troops had withdrawn across the canal and were resting in a dispersed area when suddenly clouds of bombers appeared in the sky," said one of the Maoris. "They circled over the area, bombing it constantly for nearly three hours. Then came huge troop-carrying 'planes which came down to 300 feet and dropped parachute troops.

Dr Heinrich Simon, a former anti-Nazi editor of the "Frankfurter Zeitung." who fled from Germany in 1934, died as the result of injuries received from an unknown assailant in a dark street.

"Several parachutes failed to open, which was just too bad. However, hundreds did. Here and there was a red parachute, about which the others gathered when they landed. Here and there were shell holes which the bombers had made and these were used as machinegun pits. Gun-ammunition had come down with the troops and the first men covered the landing of huge carrier 'planes, which disgorged' rearguards."

Anzacs Borrow Little Boats And Sail For Safety

(N.Z.E.F. Official News Service) (Received May 7, 8.35 p.m.)

CAIRO, May 6. The courageous leadership and determination displayed by small parties that escaped successfully from the Greek beaches where Nazis were in control before the evacuation was complete will fill the hearts of those at home with pride in the resourcefulness and daring of their soldiers. While the organised withdrawals from the Greek shore were a triumph, it is only natural that they should be overshadowed for sheer drama by the adventure of the little groups of men who refused to surrender and, after hairbreadth escapes, were picked up by the ever-vigilant Navy

"We were waiting in the bush for nightfall when we heard the sound of an engine which at first resembled that of another Nazi raider, but soon it could be distinguished as that of a truck. A sergeant and a corporal went out to investigate and before them was a grand new German car in which stood an officer in a blue uniform with a revolver in his hand," said a machinegunner relating the stirring experiences of a band of men.

"Throw down your arms!" cried the Nazi officer. One glance at him and the n.c.o.'s wheeled about and dived into the lane where the others were standing. Two revolver shots machine-gun fire.

In Full Flight

A sergeant told them that the Nazis had broken through and at the same time the German officer the same time the German onlice turned his tommy-gun on them as he spied them in the lane. Instead of surrendering, in less time than they realised they were in full flight through the vineyards, bursting through cactus hedges unconscious of the sharp pain inflicted by the thorns.

About half a mile away the little group collected and found that they numbered 22, including three officers. The decision was made to strike for the coast.

There followed a tortuous journey through vineyards, sneaking along nedges and diving into ditches as German machines flew overhead, and finally plunging through a thick swamp for 2½ hours with water at times up to their waists. Always there was the thought in their minds that the Navy would not let them "With the aid of an interpreter we learned of a fishing village some miles up the coast where we might be able to get a boat and we had someone to show us the way.

"We discarded all our surplus gear and set out. As we drew near an officer and two men went ahead while the rest crouched under the lee of a shingle bank anxiously awaiting their return. About half an hour later one returned to lead us silently to the shore, where we found three boats waiting. "Only two of us knew anything about sailing, so those, in the biggest boat, led the way with the others keeping within hailing dis-

Oysterfisherman Steers

"A sergeant who came from Bluff, where he had worked on the oyster where he had worked on the oyster beds, took the tiller, setting a course by the stars. Progress was laboured as the men were not used to using heavy oars and the largest boat lost contact with the other two. At about 3.30 in the morning we heard the hum of turbines and our spirits soared. So, with the aid of a torch shielded by a steel helmet, we endeavoured to attract the attention of boats by an S.O.S., but a thick mist lay over the bay and we were not successful.

"Dawn was now fast aproaching and we had to seek shelter, as the Nazi 'planes would not hesitate to "We can never feel thankful enough to the marvellous British Navy, which more than justified all the faith we had in it,"

"Soon, however, we were awakened by 'planes and not long after another boat turned up containing six more New Zealanders who had escaped from a port controlled by the Huns. They had heard that the Huns had been driven out of the port, but we knew they could bring up reinforcements so we did not decide to go back.

up reinforcements so we did not decide to go back.

"Never have I known so long a day to pass as we crouched there hiding from the 'planes and the German troops that passed along the road above our hiding place.

"During the afternoon peasants brought us food and water and their kindness was unbounded and much stant dread that they would betray us as they came and went.

"We decided to make another attempt to reach Crete and the three boats set out again with makeshift sails and what food and water there was divided up, but the smaller boats forged ahead and were lost again. We carried on with the arrival of daylight and as the day drew on the burning sun shone from a cloudless sky on our open boat. a cloudless sky on our open boat. "Our spirits were high until about 9 a.m., when we heard an ominous drone in the sky and all save the man at the tiller crouched in the bottom of the boat hoping we would be mistaken for Greek fishing craft. Our luck was with us as we heard him a little later bombing a bay behind us behind us.

take to oars. Hours dragged on but we never gave up hope though the island we were steering for never seemed to get any closer. Between spells of rowing we dozed fitfully.
The boat was feaking and we had to bale frequently.

Safe At Last.

"Shortly after 11 p.m. our dull senses were aroused to wakefulness by the hum of turbines and we rest by the hum of turbines and we rested on our oars listening to the craft come nearer. In about ten minutes we could make out the shapes of three destroyers ploughing towards use. We had no doubt as to what flag they flew. Only one Navy was in these waters. We used our flash lamp with renewed hope, and the boats circled around, ever getting nearer, a manoeuvre which we found out later was employed to make sure that we were not a decoy. make sure that we were not a decoy. dropped on both aerodromes.

The squadron leader who led the raid opened proceedings by starting two big fires among the aerodrome buildings and other members of his squadron followed him in and caused further havoc.

When the crew of one aircraft arrived they saw a hangar burning fiercely, and promptly set fire to another. A few moments after they had dropped their bombs there was a further heavy explosion.

Other aircraft of the Coastal Command bombed the French port of St. Nazaire for the second night ni succession. Heavy bombs burst directly on the docks, naval workshops, and on the railway depot.

Hitler's Powerful Lever To

RUGBY, May 6.

While sympathising with Vichy's problem of choosing between further concessions to the Nazis and a pathetic continuance of the spectacle of large numbers of able-bodied young Frenchmen in German prison camps, "The Times' insists that the people of France should remember that however specious the Nazi proposals, they amount to no more than an offer to shorten the temporary captivity of their sons in order that they may help towards the lasting enslavement of their country.

"The Times" continues that acording to reports from the United States, Admiral Darlan has probably been sent home from Paris with peremptory demands for further sub missions to the Nazi will.

Under threats that Vichy has little power to resist, Unoccupied France is to be harnessed to Hitler's war

Cunning Plan

By the terms of the armistice he cunningly limited the extent of his responsibility for the affairs of the starving and resentful people, while providing himself with ample instruments for bending them at any time to serve his purposes.

"The Times" concludes that while young Frenchmen remain imprisoned Hitler is precluded by the Geneva Convention of 1929 from employing them directly in any war industry, but he has discovered that he can use them indirectly as a most powerful lever in his plot to force the war industries of France to work for him.

A NEW SIRE FOR HAWKE'S BAY

MILDURA COMING TO OKAWA

ONE OF MANY

Famous Horses Who Came From Australia

By The Barb By The Barb

A cablegram recently from Sydney informs us that the Newmarket and double Doncaster winner, Mildura, is to be sent to the Dominion very soon and will take up stud duty in the Hawke's Bay district, probably at Mr E. J. Watt's brotherin-law's, Mr T. H. Lowry's successful Okawa Stud. In the past quite a few Australian-bred sires have been brought over to Hawke's Bay studs and have proved highly suc-

Cessiu.

The late Hon, J. D. Ormond was one of the first sportsmen to bring from Australia a sire for a Hawke's from Australia a sire for a Hawke's Bay stud. His first attempt was attended with great success, when he purchased Dreadnought—by Chester from Trafalgar by Blair Athol from Mosquito (by Toxopholite), a full sister to Musket. Dreadnought won the V.R.C. Derby, St. Leger, Australian Cup and A.J.C. St. Leger and was the best three-yearold of his year, although the opposition was not strong. However, he ran some close races to the mighty Carbine and on one occasion beat that wonderful performer.

He was very successful as a sire and at Karamu begat many fine performers including Renown, one of the best three-year-olds that ever raced in the Dominion. Further, Dreadnought mares proved first class stud matrons.

"Aussie" For Karamu

"Aussie" For Karamu

After Dreadnought came The Officer (by Robinson Crusoe-Marie Louise by Gang Forward-Josephine by The Palmer and a member of the No. 9 family), a fair performer on the turf in Australia, winning the V.A.T.C. Debutant Stakes, Caulfield Guineas and the V.R.C. St. Leger. He was not the success at the stud that Dreadnought proved. However.

He was not the success at the stud that Dreadnought proved. However, his stock were useful while his daughters were outstanding broodmares. Thus the late Hon. J. D. Ormond, with the two Australian importations, helped materially to build up strong blood lines.

San Fran was imported from Australia by the late Messrs W. J. and A. F. Douglas for the Te Mahanga stud and he, too, proved a successful sire. His stock could sprint, stay and jump, winning many races in the Dominion. The best sire by this Gozo horse was best sire by this Gozo horse was California.

Another Australian-bred sire that was purchased for the Te Mahanga stud was the Mountain King horse, Mountain Knight, and he got many winners. Bill of Portland's Sons Mr E. J. Watt at the beginning

Mr E. J. Watt at the beginning of the twentieth century purchased in Australia Merriwee by Bill of Portland from Etra Weenie by Trenton, for his Longlands stud, Hastings. Merriwee proved a great success, as his sons and daughters won many classic, weight-for-age, handicaps, sprints and jumping races in the Dominion and some who went over to Australia and won important races, including Aborigine who annexed the V.R.C. Caulifield Cup.

also successful. Another son of Bill of Portland that came to Hawke's Bay was Finland, a member of the No. 4 family, a son of Fishwife by King of the Anglers.
Finland was a first-class turf performer and as a sire was a very nighly successful progenitor of first-class racehorses including Bobrikoff, Finmark, Estland, Highland and numerous others who made their numerous others who made their mark on the Dominion turf.

Finland, as said before, is a member of the No. 4 family, while Mildura is a member of the No. 4 or No. 11 family, which was fully explained some few weeks back in the "Daily Mail."

Mildura's Ambitions Thus it will be seen that the Australian-bred sires that have been brought to Hawke's Bay studs include Dreadnought, The Officer, San Fran, Mountain Knight, Finland and Manning who all provide them. Merriwee, who all proved them-selves first-class sires, so that Mil-dura has been set a main that will take some living up to.

While on the subject, it may be mentioned that years ago there were two other Australian sires in this district, Patriarch and Lord of the Isles, both sons of Yattendon, who was a son of Sir Hercules and who also was the sire of Dreadwho also was the sire of Dreadnought's parent, Chester. Monuments Erected It is uncommon to see monuments erected over the graves of thoroughbreds and it is a coincidence that in Hawke's Bay two that have been placed to the memory of horses who have done yeoman service should be Australian-bred thoroughbreds.

Many years ago near the roadside thoroughbreds.

Many years ago near the roadside on the Omahu Road before the Okawa turn-off, Patriarch was buried by the late Mr Wi Broughton, and a tombstone was erected by the owner. His tombstone was not a tombstone, being a wooden one, and this, unfortunately, has been allowed to go into decay and it is not easy to recognise it to-day. However, it is still there.

When Merriwee died at the Longlands stud his grave was fenced off and a monument erected to his

NORTHERN DISTRICT

Meeting At Hastings On May 21 PRESIDENT'S REPORT

(Daily Mail Special Service) WAIROA

"There is very little to place on record this year as far as the Young Farmers' Club movement is concerned," states the president (Mr W. G. Brownlie) in his report to be presented at the annual meeting of the Northern Hawke's Bay District Committee, to be held at Hastings on Wednesday, May 21.

The report continues: "Delegates will realise that national activities to further the war effort have left little time or opportunity to sponsor greater interest within the movement. It is to be hoped that all members approve of such an outlook, and I am certain that they do. "It is surprising how the movement is bearing up under the difficulties of the present conditions, and the very loyalty of thousands of the members only proves the soundness of the foundation of the federation and points to the possibilities of the expansion under the happier tion and points to the possibilities of the expansion under the happier

Club Activities

"The clubs within Northern Hawke's Bay have struggled along creditably and from reports that I have gathered it appears that Hawke's Bay is probably working nearer to a normal programme than any other district. The Nuhaka Club has unfortunately been forced into recess for the duration of the war, but no difficulty is anticipated when re-forming after the war.

"Meeanee has passed through some hard times, but in spite of the loss of valuable officers this club has once again struggled through difficulties successfully. Matapiro is still a flourishing unit, and one of which any district might well be proud.

6 PER CENT. DIVIDEND RECOMMENDED

Hastings Society

£145,502 HELD IN INVESTMENTS

A recommendation that a dividend of six per cent. be paid on capital and investment shares was made by the directors of the annual meeting of the Hastings Permanent Building and Investment Society over which the chairman of directors (Mr G. Ebbett) presided.

Ebbett) presided.

In moving the adoption of the annual report and accounts, Mr Ebbett congratulated members on the satisfactory state of the society's affairs. Investments on mortgage now stood at £145,502. This showed a reduction on last year's figures, as although loans granted had shown an increase of £3500, the amount of loans repaid in full during the year had been abnormal. The effect had been liquidation of the bank overtarfit, and the year closed with credits in bank and Post Office of £2750. Fixed deposit transactions had remained steady, there being a slight increase in deposits to £73,000.

In recognition of the need for support of the war effort, £500 of the society's funds had been invested as a loan to the Government free of interest for the duration of the war and six months thereafter.

Four properties abandoned to the society had heen disposed of and the society had been disposed of, and the small loss entailed had not encroach-ed on the depreciation account which remained at £1000.

remained at £1000.

During the depression years shareholders had received a low rate of dividend, and as the directors felt that some equalisation could be made this year, they recommended that a dividend of 6 per cent. be paid on capital and investment shares. They further proposed that £500 be transferred to reserve account, bringing this up to £9500, and that after payment of directors' fees the balance of the year's profit be carried forward.

State WILL HAY IN "WHERE'S

THAT FIRE?"

The trio of play-writers for "Where's That Fire?" opening in Hastings to-morrow at the State Theatre, have seen to it that the stars' fans get what they want from beginning to end. Will Hay, Moore beginning to end. Will Hay, Moore Marriott and Graham Moffatt dominate the film and put over a crazy comedy with every sequence a welter of riotous slapstick. It is, in effect, a picture comprising some really funny detail work, bright dialogue and repartee. Will Hay plays an excellent part as Captain Viking, head of a village fire brigade, and is ably supported by Moore Marriott and Graham Moffatt.

The best sequence is when Viking decides to instal a pole in the station, like the one he had seen in London, down which the men slide. He gets it wedged across the street, causing great traffic confusion. A He gets it wedged across the street, causing great traffic confusion. A petrol store blaze lends itself to wild fooling, and finally leads to the capture of the villains of the piece in the Tower of London. Technically, the film reveals all the efficiency and ingenuity for which the studio unit is noted. The settings and atmosphere are realistic, and the authentic shots of fires ablaze are masterpieces. There is an interesting long shot descriptive of the approach to the Tower of London at night. Photography is at all times effective and responsible for a general sense of realism.

"A LITTLE BIT OF HEAVEN"

Gloria Jean's personality, performance and amazing soprano voice comprised a major motion picture surprise when "The Under-Pup" reached the screen. Therefore it is no surprise that Gloria gives another outstanding performance in "A Little Bit of Heaven," which will open to-morrow at the Bergent open to-morrow at the Regen Theatre, Hastings, Gloria hersel gives further evidence that she wil gives further evidence that she will soon rank among the foremost stars of the screen, if she has not already attained that position. She gives an assured and compelling performance as an East Side girl who sings on a sidewalk broadcast, becomes a famous radio star, and finds her family fighting as a result of her success.

her family fighting as a result of her success.

Story of the picture concerns Gloria's family, of the "brownstone front" district. That family, as loveable and funny a clan as has ever been assembled, including Hugh Herbert as "Pop." C. Aubrey Smith as "Grandpa," Nan Grey as the older sister "Janet," and Frank Jenks as "Uncle Dan." All deliver winning portrayals. Robert Stack and Stuart Erwin are effective as a radio team that "discovers" Gloria and places her on the air. Stack also provides romantic interest for Miss Grey. Eugene Pallette is also provides romantic interest for Miss Grey. Eugene Pallette is hilarious as a radio executive who first blocks Gloria's radio plans, as are Billy Gilbert and Butch and Buddy, teamed successfully for the third time. They play an East Side cafe proprietor and his mischievous kids. Tommy Bond, as Gloria's boy friend, and Alex D'Arcy as a society playboy, are also seen to advantage.

Current Attraction The famous Nathaniel Hawthorne story of the curse upon a strange New England household has reach ed the screen as gripping entertainment in "The House of Seven Gables," which concludes its season to-day. George Sanders, Vincent Price and Nan Grey head the cast.

"HIT PARADE OF 1941" AND "THE APE"

Merry tunes keep apace with the new 1941 fashions and dance ensembles of the timely Republic picture, "Hit Parade of 1941," where Kenny Baker, singing star of "The Mikado," and Frances Langford, world-famous contralto, steal the spotlight in five captivating songs. It is now at the Cosy Theatre, Hastings. Two charming numbers that carry on the plot of the story in song are "The Swap Shop Song" and "The Trading Post," in which all the principals, including Patsy Kelly, Hugh Herbert, Mary Boland, Phil Silvers and Barnett Parker have a merry hand in swinging. For Phil Silvers and Barnett Parker have a merry hand in swinging. For good measure, Borrah Minevitch and his famous Harmonica Rascals render two numbers.

One of the most sensational and certainly the eeriest of stage successes in recent years has been made into a super horror film. It is "The Ape," with Boris Karloff in the leading role. The story concerns the efforts of a half-crazed scientist, Dr Adrian, to develop a serum

RETURN OF "WINGS OF THE MORNING"

The glorious voice of the Irish tenor, John McCormack, makes "Wings of the Morning," now showing at the State Theatre, Napier, for a short return season, one of the greatest films ever to have come from English studios. Add to the tenor such film personalities as Annabella, Henry Fonda, Irene Vambrugh, and Harry Tate and the standard of entertainment is evident.

Briefly, the story concerns the impersonation of a boy by Annabella, who has just escaped from Spain, her exposure by Henry Fonda and the love which grows between them. Annabella's grandmother owns a horse, "Wings," which is to be run in the Derby and the climax of the film is reached on the great day in a sequence that is breathlessly thrilling.

Wherever Lord Halifax goes in America he will find someone who wants to talk about ghosts, writes ondon correspondent. Not political shosts, but the kind that send a cold thrill down the spine and make the Monk of Bolton Abbey Most of the stories were told to the compiler by friends and acquaintances. Many are vouched for by distinguished people. In one case, when Lord Hartington, eldest Gaumont British Picture Corporation recently arranged a complimentary film show featuring one of the best films produced in independent Austria. In "Maskerade," a romantic comedy of the days of Imperial Vienna, the exiles saw witnessed by King George V, who was staying at the Abbey at the time.

One story about which Lord Halifax will probably be asked many questions is "The Passenger with the Bag." Travelling from Euston, a man arranged to have a carriage to himself. The guard locked the door, but just as the train was about to start an elderly man carrying a bag turned the handle and got in.

After a little the two started to talk. The stranger, a Mr Dwerringhouse, said he was a railway director interested in the opening of a new branch line. His bag contained £70,000, which he was depositing in a local bank in connection with this. Then he said: "By the way, I know the house to which you are going. The lady of it is my niece," and he

A strange flying story is contributed to the "Ghost Book" by a nephew of the second Lord Halifax. Four pilots, due to go up next morning, were playing poker. The youngest of them lost heavily. When the game ended he gave the other three I.O.U.'s. "I cannot possibly pay you all to-might, but I will pay you all to-morrow," he said.

ST. MATTHEW'S GUILD MEMBERS MEET

Mission Afternoon

MRS H. M. FELKIN THE SPEAKER

Interesting Address

Much interest was taken by the members of St. Matthew's Guild of Fellowship in the address given by Mrs H. M. Felkin at their mission ay meeting in Hastings on Tuesday.

The Guild president, Mrs W. Barton Hobbs, presided and with her was the secretary, Mrs W. A. Bryant. Deaconess Esther Brand accompanied the hymn with which accompanied the hymn with which the meeting was opened and this was followed by a prayer.

Sympathy was expressed to Mrs Upchurch, one of the Guild's oldest members who has just lost her husband and also to the Rev. F. W. Marshall whose wife died last week.

Guild members were thrilled to learn that they had adopted two little leper children, Biltee, a boy of eight years, and Abe, a girl of 10 years. The news came in a letter received from Mrs Thomson, the wife of Dr. J. D. Thomson, who is the medical missionary at Fauahu, the leper settlement in the British Solomon Islands. Mrs Thomson wrote that the children are a happy little pair and are being well looked little pair and are being well looked after in the hopes that they may be cured in three years' time. Already two quilts have been begun and will be sent to Biltee and Abe.

The speaker at the meeting, Mrs H. M. Felkin, told most interestingly of personal contact with missionly of personal contact with mission-aries from her childhood. She spoke of the work of her husband, the late Dr. H. M. Felkin, as a medical missionary and said that at the age of 24 he was a qualified doctor and was appointed to Uganda. On arrival he had sailed up the Nile and as the boat constantly became entangled in weed, natives had to go out on ropes and cut the weed though the river was swarming with crocodiles.

When the boat trip was completed the doctor had to walk 2000 miles across the desert and from these desert walks he acquired a quick, short-stepped walk which he always retained.

Later, when in Khartoum, Dr. Felkin met and made friends with General Gordon and Emil Pasha. Dr. Felkin had said that it was felt afterwards that the cause of the at-

Profits Large As Fears Seldom Happen

Once, when I was visiting a very efficient country, a friend was showing me the buildings in the financial centre of the principal city. One large building stood out as the handsomest and best designed of all. It was really a radiant building, resplendent in rose and silver (writes Herbert N. Casson).

"In heaven's name," I asked, "what can that building be?"

"Aha!" replied my friend. "I thought it would surprise you. No other nation has such an institution. "We call it our 'Tonic Building,' It is the headquarters of the 'Worry Insurance Company, Ltd'."

"Whatever does it do?" I asked.

"Well," he replied, "whenever a business man has a fear or a worry, he runs to that company and takes out an insurance policy to protect himself.

"Not at all," he answered. "It makes large net profits and has huge reserves.

"You see," he continued, "the fact is that the things people are afraid of seldom happen."

I looked with sincere appreciation at the beautiful building. Then I said, "As soon as I go back to my own country, I'll make known the facts about this Worry Insurance Company. At the moment, there is nothing else that we need more."

HEALTH

THROUGH CHIROPRACTIC

CHIROPRACTIC for many years was not understood and the public led to believe that it was a usurper in the field of health. Perhaps this was best since by virtue of so gruelling a test its true value has become more firmly established.

A Chiropractic patient states:—
To-day I am well, free from pain, and weigh more now and feel better than ever before in my life. From the day I lifted that stove until I consulted you I did not have a moment free from pain. My sciatica and other troubles got worse.

After your examination and clear illustration of how the bones of my spine were rotated out of their proper alignment. I was convinced that you had located the cause of my trouble. I am thankful to state that the cause of my trouble has been removed by your skilful adjustments and that I am enjoying better health than ever before.

FACTS FOR THE AMERICANS

Ever since the fall of France the United States has been an unofficial belligerent. When the German armies appeared on the western coasts of France, it seemed to many Americans that the British Empire had lost the war, and there was a frenzied sounding-out of the British Government on various points which would inevitably arise if the British Isles should go the way of France. In short, for the first time the bulk of the American people realised what they were up against. More recent events have brought the United States to the brink of open participation in the conflict, and the statement by the Secretary for War (Mr H. L. Stimson) sums up the situation of the United States in the present crisis.

This review by Mr Stimson does not contain anything startlingly new, but it is remarkable for its blunt outspokenness and for the warning it gives the Americans of what they may expect if the spread of totalitarian influence goes on unchecked. It says, almost in as many words, that if Great Britain falls the United States cannot hope for survival in the struggle with a victorious Axis which would inevitably follow. It admits that for a century United States policy has been dependent on the control of the Atlantic by the British Navy, and it says that if the British Navy and the British shipyards fell into the hands of the enemy, the United States would be totally unable to meet the competition of the Axis on the sea.

What the United States has to do to cope with the present situation is outlined by Mr Stimson in a notable passage: To-day the wide-flung forces of the British Navy are threatened in the North Atlantic and in the Mediterranean. Those thinly-spread forces alone are securing us at the present time . . . We can successfully meet this most dangerous threat. We have a naval instrument prepared and ready for such an emergency right now. This is within our power-to use that instrument, turn the tide of darkness back from the Atlantic, and thus preclude the Nazis forever from attaining their full purpose. If our navy secures the sea for the delivery of munitions to Britain, it will render as great a service to our country and to the preservation of American freedom as in all its glorious history. . .

Mr Stimson says that the position at the moment "is an occasion for grave seriousness, but not for gloom." Further, he believes that Axis expansion has almost reached its high-water mark. Such a view merely emphasises all that has gone before. It means that the ability of Great Britain to withstand the Axis onslaught in the next few months or weeks will decide the outcome of the war. The fact that Germany has overrun the Continent and that the enemy has recovered much of the territory which Italy lost in Libya cannot in itself decide the issue. That will be determined in the Atlantic and in Great Britain if Hitler should ever decide to launch an invasion attempt.

In these circumstances, the American people have no option. The facts have been put before them, and unless the United States acts and acts at once the consequences will be unpredictable.

STOCKTAKING AT WESTMINSTER

The House of Commons debate on the war situation indicates that there is a certain amount of dissatisfaction in Great Britain over various aspects of the nation's conduct of the campaign. There are suggestions that the Foreign Office has been "outmanoeuvred," and a former War Minister, Mr L. Hore-Belisha, has severely criticised the British information service which, he says, "failed us in Norway, France, Dakar, and Iraq."

Such questioning, although somewhat disturbing, will do nothing but good if it succeeds in weeding out self-satisfaction and wishful thinking in high places. The war has provided some unhappy instances of British action coming too late, and the issues are too vast and too urgent to permit any continuance of what Sir P. A. Harris refers to as "kid-glove"

Tyre Imports

"It has been decided to grant an additional allocation for imports of pneumatic rubber tyres and inner tubes to the extent of 25 per cent. of the value of imports of such goods from all sources in 1938," states a circular displayed at the Customs House, Port Ahuriri. "Such allocation will be available for imports from the United Kingdom and other British countries' at the importer's discretion and for passenger 'other British countries' at the importer's discretion and for passenger and other truck tyres, on the understanding that the requirements of truck tyres will be provided for," the notice concludes. A further 25 per cent. increase has been made for imports from the United Kingdom and Australia only.

CRISIS IS GREAT

"Inconceivable Nation Will Refuse"

United Press Association—Copyright. (Received May 7, 6 p.m.)

WASHINGTON, May 6. The Secretary for War (Mr H. L. Stimson), in a nation-wide speech, advocated the use of the United States Navy to safeguard shipments of supplies to Britain. He warned Germany that the United States would not flinch and would not permit these munitions to be sunk in the Atlantic mit these munitions to be sunk in the Atlantic.

Mr Stimson said: "We have taken our place definitely behind the warring democracies against the aggressors. The world is facing a great crisis. All our efforts must be turned towards the defence of the nation's safety. The men under the leadership of Hitler propose to establish a world order in which they will be masters and all other people slaves.

Hostile New Order

Hostile New Order

"This so-called 'new order' is openly hostile to us. Steadily encircling the western world, advance agents are busy in the southern Republics building strategic airlines across vital portions of the Continent and creeping towards Panama. Armed forces threatening West Africa are looking for a jumping-off place within easy reach of the Brazil coast. Propagandists are vigorously active here. They now arrogantly confront the world, including ourselves, with the alternative of abject surrender or forceful resistance.

"For over 100 years control of the Atlantic has been exercised by the British Fleet. This tradition has been accepted by us as a dominant factor in ocean defence on which our safety and mode of life depends. To-day, the situation gravely threatens the British Isles, which have been a fortress against any despotic approach on our shores.

been a fortress against any despotic approach on our shores.
"If the British fall the Fleet, if it survives, will not have an adequate base for continued operations. Britain's great shipyards would pass into the hands of the aggressor nations, thus becoming seven times larger than ours. Under such conditions our Fleet would be unable to protect the Western Hemisphere from the overwhelming seapower then confronting it.

Only Just Begun

Only Just Begun "We have only just begun to build out our defences. Time is an essential factor. To-day, the wide-flung forces of the British Navy police the North Atlantic and the Mediterranean. Those thinly-spread forces alone are securing us at the present time. Britain's lifelines are threatened. We can successfully meet this most dangerous threat.

Instrument is Ready

Instrument Is Ready

"We have the naval instrument prepared ready for such an emergency. Right now it is within our power to use that instrument to turn the tide of darkness back from the Atlantic and thus gain the means to preclude the Nazis forever from attaining their fell purpose.

"It is our Navy which secures the sea for the delivery of munitions to Britain. It will render as great a service to our country in the preservation of American freedom as in all its glorious history. Supplementing the efforts of the British Navy, it can secure all the oceans surrounding our Continent, check the onward rise of the tide of Nazism until the defences of the democracies are completed permademocracies are completed perma-nently, and confine the malign forces until/the tide of freedom rises forces until/the tide of freedom rises again.

"On the other hand," he said, "if our Navy's assistance is withheld until the power of the British Fleet and nation is broken, its power of execution would shrink in impotence. If we allow the present strategic moment to pass our Navy merely becomes a secondary instead of a decisive winning power in the world conflict.

Must Be Effective

world conflict.

Must Be Effective

"Is it conceivable that the American people would allow this to happen in the face of the Congressional provision of billions for munitions? Shall we now flinch and permit these muntions to be sunk in the Atlantic? Our entire history does not show a precedent for such a supposition. The President has said that we must not allow the steps already taken to become ineffective.

"I do not minimise the danger. It is an occasion for grave seriousness, but not gloom. I have studied the military potency of the Axis Powers and I do not under-estimate their power. Provided we act with promptness and a united spirit, I have full faith in the outcome. Unless we are ready to sacrifice, if need be to die, for the conviction that the freedom of America must be saved, that freedom cannot be preserved."

ANNUAL MEETING

A small party of New Zealand infantrymen abandoned their last motor truck, packed some food and clothing and set out on foot down the Peloponese Peninsula in a southerly direction in search of a suitable vessel for their escape. They were directed by Greeks to a small Greek brig lying at anchor in an inlet.

With German aircraft above difficulty was experienced in embarking, but with a feeling of intense relief they stepped aboard after being constantly harassed by the enemy for two weeks. They were leaving Greece at last.

The cry of "Aircraft" went up, and two Messerschmitts dropped from the blue and began a furious attack with bombs and incendiary bullets. The New Zealanders scuttled below and crouched among a cargo of bale hay. There they found 30 other occupants in a rather frightened state. The Nazis meant business and bombs fell all round the frail little craft. Some of the rigging ropes and chains crashed through the hatch and the men heard the crackling of machine-guns and bullets beat on the deck above their heads.

Roaring Inferno Roaring Inferno
Panic overcame them when an incendiary bullet ignited the hay and fire swept through the hatch, the straw and dry timber making the hold in a minute a roaring inferno.
Like trapped rats they had one desire to leave the burning hell.
"Here they come again—duck!" yelled one of the party. Messerschmitts, still with machine-guns blazing, banked and dived at the doomed ship. An infantryman noticed a loose board in the ship's hull. This he smashed free and dived

When he reached the beach he wondered whether his companions wondered whether his companions had been as fortunate.

The sun was strong, so he stripped off his clothes to dry and stood naked beneath a rock. In this condition he was found by another member of the party, who reported that one man had been drowned and three others were casualties. They agreed that it was the narrowest escape they had known.

They slept on the bare ground in wet clothes and hid in the hills next day, where Greeks gave them food and water.

The possibility of escaping in the night seemed very remote. However, they were wakened by the shouting and tramping of feet on rock. They stumbled down to the bay, where they were taken on board by the Navy.

Australian women, like New Zealanders, are proving a trial to the military authorities, through their eagerness to tell men overseas all they know about local military and shipping movements. Seventy-five per cent of the letters delayed by the censor are written by women, the authorities claim. Their careless statements cause a big delay in the delivery of soldier's mail, for if a letter is too informative, it has to be held up for heavy censoring.

A soldier wonders why no letter arrives, and the answer is because his wife, sister, mother, or sweetheart has said too much. If she had confined her letter to home and family matters, instead of adding

A one-way track has been cleared through the blockage at Kate's Quarry on the Waipukurau-Porangahau main highway, and the route is now open to traffic right to Porangahau. However, care must be exercised in negotiating the access through the slip, for the surface is treacherous.

Bulldozers augmented manpower in attacking the slip, but the engineer of the Patangata County Council (Mr J. C. McLauchlan) estimates that it will be the end of this week before a reliable track will be provided.

before a remaple track will be provided.

At the same time slips along the Herbertville road are being cleared, and within four days access to the township should be available.

The Mangaorapa road presents a sorry spectacle, with slips every few chains and bridges out of alignment. The face of Dalby's Hill has slipped to form a major blockage, while the river alongside has scoured out a section which has collapsed.

The overseer of the Weber County Council (Mr K. G. McLean) advises that the Waihi bridge, on the Weber-Pongaroa Road, previously reported as destroyed by the flood waters, is intact. Mr McLean estimates that it will be six weeks before the road will be opened between the Blue Slin at Weber and the Waihi bridge.

In opening the debate in the House of Commons, Mr Eden reviewed the events of the last few months, and in particular their relation to the Middle East hostilities. For this survey, Mr Eden took as his starting-point early February, when it became clear that the Germans, having overrun Rumania, intended to establish themselves in Bulgaria, to encircle Yugoslavia. to subject encircle Yugoslavia, to subject Greece to pressure, and to immobilise Turkey, and from that position, attain without firing a single shot, to deliver their main blow—an attack on our positions in the East ern Mediterranean—from secure

"On the same day, February 8, a Note from the Greek Government reached Britain confirming its determination to resist German aggression. "It told us," said Mr Eden, "that Greece had united her fate with ours and would fight until final victory. It asked us to consider what help we could give it. It was not a cry for help; it was a statement of the Greek position and a request that we should state ours. "In the face of these conditions, the Government decided to maintain the decision previously arrived at the decision previously arrived at-to hold the desert advance at Ben ghazi and prepare a force to go to the help of Greece," said Mr Eden. Mr Simson criticised the policy of the Hawke's Bay Rivers Board and said that dire consequences must follow what he called their gross maladministration.

"I believe that I will live to see the day when the Tutaekuri will again flow into the Inner Harbour." said Mr Simson, who contended that the natural course of all Hawke's Bay rivers was north. The Rivers Board had made the great error of diverting them to flow south in their paths to the sea. "The reason that I have come into the arena is that I think my life is not done yet," said Mr Simson, stating that he was the same age as Mr Winston Churchill. "Men of my age are not yet on the shelf; we live for the future." He had waited for his opponents to come forward, said Mr Simson, but they had not yet done so. He claimed to know as much as any man in Hawke's Bay about the province's rivers, for he had lived on the banks for many years and had watched the changes in their courses to the sea.

watched the changes in their courses to the sea.

Hawke's Bay's rivers could be turned to the benefit of the people, but they had been ruined by the vested interests. The rivers had been driven in all sorts of directions. When Mr Simson came to Hawke's Bay they had their outlets in the Inner Harbour, but now they had been diverted to flow out at the had been diverted to flow out at the

This statement was made by Mr. H. B. Lee-Smith in the House of Commons debate on the war situation to-day.

He added: "The United States's attention should be drawn to this matter, because the American policy of patrol is being defeated by Southern Ireland's policy."

Sir P. A. Harris said there was a feeling that over and over again the Foreign Office had been outmanoeuvred. "We should cease to be superior," he said, "and adopt the crude but effective methods of Germany. Mr Eden should overhaul the Foreign Office and recognise that this is not a kid-glove war."

Help Was Too Late

The former War Minister, Mr L. Hore-Belisha, said that help to Greece should have been given six months earlier as was then advocated urgently by all sections of the House of Commons.

"Italy was very vulnerable," he said. "Our task was to break Italy's communication with Albania and, if possible, break Italy herself. Members pleaded for the discharge of our obligation to Greece by concentrated bombing of Italy.

"Why wasn't that followed when Lord Beaverbrook was saying that our stores were bulging with aeroplanes?"

"Self Beavertan"

"Those who are interested will agree with me that the rivers are dangerous to the people of this district," said Mr Simson. "If we get a repetition of the 1937 floods, then God help us."

Referring to the spending of £200,000 on rivers works, Mr Simson said that "Bob Semple blushed when he heard of it, and when Bob Semple blushes it's pretty bad. When I get in to the Rivers Board a lot of them will get their running shoes—especially the engineer," said Mr Simson. "The day will come when you will see the whole of Napier South under water," said Mr Simson. "The day will come when the beach won't break, and then, God help us."

It was pointed out that only one of the candidates standing for the association has resided in Hastings for less than 15 years, at least two were born here, and the other had lived in Hastings and Havelock North for 29 years.

"That is the duty of the council," said Mr Simson. "The council should be independent of the Government except for money, and they would get plenty for housing."

Mr Simson expressed approval of the Labour Party's council administration policy. "In drawing up this policy the Labour Party might have been in my room when I was out," said Mr Simson. The speaker generally lauded the work of the Labour Government, stating that,

Dealing with the drainage question, Mr Simson said that only a shower of rain was needed to convert Hastings into a Venice. This did not occur when he was Mayor 20 years ago, and he could only conclude that there was more rain nowadays.

It is now confirmed that one enemy bomber was shot down by anti-aircraft gunfire last night, making a total of nine raiders destroyed. The other eight were shot down by damaged several others, while anti-night fighters.

utmost difficulty and gravity in the Middle East, where the three main armies were French—in Syria, Tunis and Jibuti. "Our forces," the Minister said, "were relatively small, with a serious shortage of equipment, and in the late summer the Government was deeply exercised by the situation.

"After General Wavell had come home for consultation, the Government took a decision to take great risks to reinforce that army, and sent out armoured units, men, material and aircraft. And it was that equipment and those weapons which enabled Generals Wilson and O'Connor, in their desert advance, to secure such brilliant success."

On arrival at Cairo, Mr Eden and General Dill found the three commanders-in-chief in complete agreement with the policy of supplementing the help already sent to Greece in the autumn by the dispatch of land formations, leaving in Cyrenaica forces sufficient to meet anything expected there.

A "welcome home" dance in homour of Private P. Tahatu will be held in Fernhill Hall to-night under the auspices of the Fernhill Patriotic Committee.

Drivers' licences for 1941-42 may be obtained by Hawke's Bay County residents, and a list of Post Offices and stores at which application forms are available is advertised in this issue. Applicants over the age of 70 years are required to forward a doctor's certificate. Licences will be renewed for 13 months, the feebeing 5/6 instead of the usual 5/-.

Such a horror of tobacco-smoke had "Victoria the Good" that those of her guests at any of the Royal palaces who chanced to be smokers were compelled, if they craved a whiff, to indulge in their beforeoms after retiring for the night, with their heads up the chimney—lest perchance the tell-tale fumes should give them away! This seems almost incredible to-day, when both sexes smoke and even exalted personage puff away freely and unashamedly, and sometimes even to excess. Excessive smoking, by the way, is not always wise, but it needn't worry Maorilanders, because "toasted" is always at their service. It's the tobacco full of nicotine that does the harm. But there's very little nicotine in toasted. It's cut out by the toasting. So you run no risks with these beautiful tobaccos, so sweet always at their service. activities show a net loss of £5, this is accounted for by generous donations to patriotic causes, lesser return from reel classes and the loss of the usual borough subsidy through the inactivity of the pipe band during the latter part of 1939 and the earlier part of 1940.

The membership stands at slightly more than last year, the subscriptions showing an increase of about £4.

Band's Eventful Year

"The past year has been an event"

"The said that men and youths over the age of 17 years who were not required for military service were particularly desired. They would be required to assist in the control of pedestrian and vehicular traffic in the affected areas, but would not have authority over vehicles operated under the Emergency Precausitions Scheme. The inspector said that the successful applicants would also be required to protect private property in the areas to which they were assigned.

STORTFORD LODGE SALE

Slight Firming Tendency For Fat Cattle

Brisk bidding for all quality lines of lambs was a feature of yesterday's store sheep market at Stortford Lodge. On the basis of last week's prices, rates were fully firm for this class of sheep; grown wethers also remained steady, and a little more interest was shown in breeding ewes, though no top lines were offered.

Quality cow pens were in short supply in the yarding of 168 fat cattle, and a somewhat quickened demand was seen in the market's firming tendency. .Grown ox-beef was not featured, but there were several attractive offerings of steers, and for these, as for all quality stock in this section, there was ready competition.

There were over 300 head in the store cattle yarding, where quality was not prominent. Most of the lines were small odd lots, mixed in condition, and the bidding was far from spirited.

Among the top pens of wether lambs prices ranged from 17/6 to 19/10 and 21/6; medium made 14/to 16/6, lighter 12/5 to 13/1 and shorn were passed at 12/- to 14/3. The plainer type of wether lamb did not experience the demand ruling for top lines. Wethers made 19/10 and 20/-, with mixed quality two and four-tooths at 17/- to 17/10. The best of the ewe lambs made 20/- to 21/-; ewes r.w. ram. mainly 20/- to 21/-; ewes r.w. ram, mainly indifferent quality m.a. sorts, brought 10/3 to 16/6 and 17/7.

brought 10/3 to 16/6 and 17/7.
Young heifers in nice order made £5 16/- to £6 11/- in the fat pens; heavier-framed sold at £7 18/6 to £8 8/6, and young steers made £6 15/- to £8 8/6 and £9 11/-. Cows mixed in quality averaged between £5 12/6 and £7 6/-, better making £8 18/6, £9 16/- and £10 1/-.

In the store pens 20-months A.A. heifers made £2 18/-; older lines were passed in at £3 10/- to £3 15/-, one pen making £4 4/-. Cows r.w.

one pen making £4 4/-. Cows r.w. bull made £2 5/- to £3 5/-; 20-months steers made £4 17/6. Some of yesterday's realisations were as follows: STORE SHEEP

FAT SHEEP

Prices in the fat sheep section yesterday remained steady, with a firming note for top lines.

The tops of the wethers made 23/10 to 26/1, medium 21/1 to 21/7 and lighter 18/10. Prime fat two-tooth ewes sold at 20/7 to 21/1; Southdowns made 18/4 to 18/10. Medium pens of average quality went at 10/4 to 12/1, with lighter at 9/1 to 9/10. Extra-prime lambs at 9/1 to 9/10. Extra-prime lambs sold at 31/4; on the other extreme very light made 13/10. "In between" prices were 20/- to 22/7.

STORE CATTLE

Down from Patoka Station, 30 20-months A.A. heifers, fairly framed and in light to medium store order were sold at £2 18/-.

Sanction has not raced recently, but is reported to be in forward condition. Young Charles won so well on Monday that he will appeal again. Gold Craft should run prominently on Tauherenikau form. HAWERA HANDICAP, of £200; seven furlongs.—Gold Dale 8.13, Royal Star II 8.11, Noble Fox 8.6, Du Maurier 8.5, Minority 8.2, Night Eruption 8.2, Circular Note 8.0, Paso Robles 7.11, Surveyor-General 7.10, Endorsement 7.9, Alexcelia 7.9, Hagen 7.8, Screen Star 7.7, Lord Cavendish 7.4, Veldette 7.4, Grandora 7.4, Notium 7.3, Davilia 7.2, Valerian 7.0, Sporting Giff 7.0, War Lap 7.0, Happicoat 7.0, Air Flight 7.0, Boden Park 7.0. inently on Tauherenikau form. Phyto raced at Riccarton as though Phyto raced at Riccarton as though she could do with a let-up, while Hokumai is passed over in favour of Mountain Fox, who was second in the Hack Cup on Monday, and Talenta, who won that trophy race. Val Pere has not been racing well of late. War Cloud and Le Marquis are only mediocre. Arabic is fit, but has not won since Boxing Day. Tolaga should benefit by Monday's race. Of the lightweights the best appear to be Natal, Miss Clipper and Wildfire. Recovery may be looked to from This open sprint sees one of the largest fields of its class to go to the post in the Taranaki district for many years. Gold Dale heads the list with 8.13 and although a fair sprinter is better over six than seven. Royal Star II is engaged in two races to-day and is booked to start in this race with D. W. Redstone in the saddle. Noble Fox has one race to his credit this season, but it was over a middle distance. Du Maurier is not fancied, Minority is assured of solid support, the same applying to Night Eruption, who can be relied upon to run a generous race. Circular Note is well reported upon and may start the favourite. There is no recent form attached to

WARMTH WITHOUT Jockey MIDWAYS IN THE

Here's an end to feeling like a trussed-up turkey. Here's the way to keep out winter chills. Here's Jockey Midway in the winter weights . . . snug, smart; with their twin-to-your-skin fit that keeps the warmth in, the breezes out. Jockey's masculinised cut eliminates all bunching, bulking excess material. Hence no squirm-Ing discomfort at the crutch. Exclusive Y front design gives mild restful support to important muscles: support that's waist anchored and adjustable. The convenient angled opening can't possibly gap because of across-body tension, so eliminates undesirable body contacts with outer clothing. Lastex waistband will retain its elasticity longer than the life of the materlal; does away with fiddling ties and loops.

Jockey Midways are in 11 sizes and a choice

Jockey CONTOURED SINGLETS

They're made to sit neatly under Jockey underpants, to complete your Jockey comfort. The shorter front means no bulking: the longer back keeps them anchored down: the cut away hip overcomes riding up caused by leg movement. Jockey singlets are made in fabrics to match Jockey underpants, and are with or without sleeves.

Your favourite store will gladly show you Jockey, and be sure you're measured.
