"Eleventh Hour" Reached Brutal Treatment Iraq Rebels Flee: In Crete

BRITISH HANG ON GRIMLY

Berlin Claims That Empire Troops Are Trapped

(United Press Association-Copyright.) (Received June 1, 10.55 p.m.)

LONDON, June 1.

The "Daily Mail's" Cairo correspondent describes the fighting in Crete as "the eleventh hour." The Empire troops are holding the gullies and rocky riverbeds, throwing up ramparts of stones as they hastily construct machine-gun nests.

German troops, protected by screaming dive-bombers, continue to surge against them. The New Zealanders fight on almost automatically, their eyes red with watching and their ears half deafened with the constant bombing.

British circles in Cairo pay tribute to the sterling work of the Navy in bringing out wounded and other troops from Crete in destroyers. All the men were tired when picked up from small boats and the creeks round Suda Bay. One gunner walked 70 miles.

To miles.

The unanimous opinion of those who have returned is that the Maoris did a marvellous job. They fought amazingly and in the best spirits. They were disembarking from destroyers, all smiling and laughing desite the fact that they had been fighting all day and all night under hellish dive-bombing.

A German communique indicates that the cleaning up of Crete is not being accomplished as speedily as was expected. It says that the Germans continue in pursuit of the beaten enemy and junction with the Italians is only a matter of time.

The Berlin news agency claims that the British are now trapped. German troops, after a forced march, are approaching Spahkia and the Italians are advancing from the east of Crete.

"Nearing the End."

A German communique says that the operations for the possession of Crete are approaching the end and the enemy resistance has collapsed.

The Germans alleged that British troops captured at a number of points in Crete were wearing German uniforms and badges. One officer reported that a British soldier stood on a hilltop waving a Swastika flag. Germans ascended the hill believing their own troops were in occupation but met a murderous fire from Britishers lining the hill top and the greater part of the Germans were killed.

Germans ascended the hill believing their own troops were in occupation but met a murderous fire from Britishers lining the hill top and the greater part of the Germans were killed.

The situation in Crete is now most serious, resembling the closing days of the Greek campaign. The Germans describe the movements of the British forces as the world have meant total described the many fruitless attempts to get into the cockpits. Greek Gold Safe

The Germans have not captured stocks of Greek gold either in Greece or Crete. The national gold was safely transferred to New York and the King's personal funds are outside Greece.

The Greek Government spokesman told "The Times" Cairo correspondent that the German casualties in Crete had reached 12,000 including, 7000 shot in the air or on landing and 5000 drowned when attempting to invade from the sea. The 30,000 who reached the island comprise two divisions of parachutists and glider troops, one airborne division and two regiments of shock troops who were part of a division landed by sea. (Received June 1, 10.5 p.m.) "Captured German parachutists told us of the great shock our resistance in Crete had given them," says the Australian Official War Correspondent. "All stressed that they had been told that their task would be simple. All they had to do was to clear the 'dromes to make way for the troop-carrying 'planes."

They expected to return to German drive on Syria and Cyprus and within a day. Their corps had been cut to pieces in the first big peration and they were unnerved and appalled at the slaughter.

Britain Grants An Armistice FRANCE WILL ASSERT (United Press Association-Copyright.)

- (Received June 1, 11.35 p.m.) LONDON, May 31.

The British United Press Beirut correspondent reports that the Mayor of Baghdad announced the completion of an armistice "on good terms."

There is no confirmation in London of the reported kid-napping of the boy King.

The armstice does not mean that no more German aeroplanes and personnel will be able to go into action against Britain, but it does mean that Iraqi participation is at an end. The German and Italian Ministers have fled to Iran. British forces are reported to have reached the outskirts of Baghdad, penetrating the suburbs. According to an Ankara report, disturbances broke out at Baghdad and there was widespread looting.

The armistice was requested by the Iraq rebels following the flight to Iran of Rashid Ali accompanied by his Cabinet and Sherriff Sharaf, the false Regent, adds a British Official Wireless message.

It is pointed out in informed quarters that the granting of the armistice clears up the situation between the British and the rebels and any further dispute in Iraq will be between the British and the Germans, of whom there are still some in Iraq who might take action. Significance is attached to the action of Rashid Ali in leaving for Iran rather than trusting himself to the protection of the Germans in Mosul, where he had been summoned by his Nazi masters.

A communique from Baghdad says that the armistice was effective at 6 p.m. on Saturday and independence. It says that the situation has returned to normal. The black-out in Baghdad has been lifted but no traffic is permitted after 9 p.m.

All the leaders of the rebel movement have left Iraq. The Grand Mufti and other Palestinian Arabs have also fled.

"France is still strong enough not to put up with any violation of her territory or insult to her flag."

Summing up what he described as British acts of piracy against France, he said: "Ninety French ships totalling 370,000 tons have been seized since last July. Ten ships totalling 36,000 tons have been appropriated in French colonial territories and 33 ships totalling 158,000 tons have been captured at sea. Since last June 13 ships totalling 142,000 tons have been impounded in America under British orders. Everyone will receive 66 coupons a year, in which trafficking is forbidden. Under the scheme a man's suit and shirt will require 26 to 28 coupons and a woman's dress will require 11.

The system is expected to go some way towards preventing a shortage of supply of cheaper goods. Although a wealthy customer may pay 12 guineas for a suit, he cannot buy beyond the limit for his coupons. The same right is open to a man whose suit costs £2 10/-. It is probable that a family with an income of £4 5/- a week will find that the coupon system will reduce their consumption of footwear and clothing by about 20 per cent. The rationing will probably require to be slightly more than the present level of production. It is not designed to restrict supply so much as to overcome geographical and social maldistribution. #### CHAPLIN IN "GREAT DICTATOR"

The great and inimitable Charles Chaplin, who for a generation has maintained pre-eminence as the leading comedian of the screen, returns in "The Great Dictator," the master work upon which he has bent his tireless energies these past two years and the picture which is causing international repercussions. It is now screening at the State the State Theatre, Hastings, Chaplin portrays "The Great Dictator" in the spirit of satire, comedy and denunciation. He dons the robes and gestures of the company of the c Hitler but uses them with the buf-foonery and genius of Chaplin. His burlesque of the overlord of middle burlesque of the overlord of middle Europe is excruciatingly funny. No person who sees it can fail to be rocked with laughter.

The story (which Chaplin wrote himself) deals with the fortunes of a contented, busy little Jewish barber (this role is played by Chaplin) who serves in the army of Germany in 1918. Injured, he goes to the hospital and emerges years later, in ignorance of the political changes that have taken place in the country. There follows a series of amusing episodes, many of them dealing with his amusing encounters with the Great Dictator's ruthless secret police and bully boys. Although the production is nearly all Chaplin, which it what it should be, the performances of Jack Oakie and Paulette Goddard are excellent. Oakie is more Mussolini-esque than list the wadon "Caesar" himself Thomas, Crombie 2; Hounsell, Torr, Liley, Drury 1. and Paulette Goddard are excellent.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN IN BRILLIANT COMEDY

AT HASTINGS

The subject of the address given in the United Hall, Hastings, last night was "Baptism Essential to Salvation." The speaker, Mr A. R. Scrivener, showed from the Scrip-Charlie Chaplin is back. After two years of incredible confusion of rumours as to whether he would make "The Great Dictator" or not the news is that the first Charlie Chaplin comedy since "Modern Times," now showing at the State Theatre, Napier.

It cost in the neighbourhood of more than 2,000,000 dollars. That it is the most ambitious and the most expensive production that Chaplin has ever attempted is less important than the fact that it involves the little clown in artistic responsibili-than the fact that it involves the little clown in artistic responsibilities and caricature that he has never before attempted. For, in "The Great Dictator," Chaplin is seen not only as the little tramp with the derby, the cane and the awkwardly fitting shoes, but in another role as well—that of a mighty dictator of a war-mad power. There are two stories that converge—the story of the little barber from the ghetto, and the story of the palace.

Notwithstanding the fact that Charlie has the omnipresence of a dual role, the cast that supports him in "The Great Dictator" is larger by far and far more important than in "The dictator" is larger by far and f

Given a modernised treatment "Barnyard Follies," now screening at the Mayfair Theatre, Napier, emerges as a delightful rural comedy, musical with a galaxy of popular radio entertainers and specialty acts. Topped off by a bright story, the film is full of lively entertainment, quite apart from which it is significant for its featuring of Mary Lee, seen and heard recently in company with Gene Autry. This amazing little actress is definitely headed for screen prominence, as in "Barnyard Follies" she carried major singing and acting assignments with a thoroughly professional finish.

A MINISTRY OF INFORMATION

It can be accepted without much question that the Hon. W. Nash was exaggerating when he ventured the opinion that "not five per cent. of the people of New Zealand realised what was at stake in the present war." It is a reflection alike on the intelligence of the community and on the Government, whose business it is to see that everyone understands the perils of the present situation.

But in order that there may be a grim realisation by everyone of the danger that threatens our lives, liberties and the future of our Empire, the facts as they occur from day to day must be told with more fulness and candour than has hitherto attended their presentation for public information.

The Christchurch Returned Soldiers' Association is urging the creation of a Ministry of Information whose function it will be to keep the public informed and to help in creating the determination to put forth a maximum war effort.

This might at first sight convey an implication that the ordinary channels of information, the newspapers and the broadcasting services, are not telling the public what they ought to know and that a Minister of the Crown should supplement their activities by issuing from time to time official statements to repair these omissions.

The "Daily Mail" takes the view that there is a good deal to be said for the creation of a Ministry of Information, provided the right man is selected for the portfolio, but it would not expect him to work any miracles so far as the public's attitude to the war is concerned.

At the present time the publication of news is controlled by an officer of the Prime Minister's Department viho is responsible for censoring any item which, in his opinion, might prejudicially affect public morale, impede the war effort or furnish information to the enemy. Differences of opinion frequently arise between the Censor and the newspapers regarding the propriety of publishing certain items of news, and at the annual meeting of a newspaper company recently the chairman indulged in some strong criticism of the censorship.

The causes of these differences cannot be publicly discussed, but it can be stated that some of the matters for which papers have been called to account might very well have been the subject of an official announcement by a Cabinet Minister. A Minister of Information could do a good deal to keep the public informed on matters that would interest them, without benefiting the enemy in the slightest; but unfortunately Ministers are usually more concerned about handing out propaganda, of which everyone has had a surfeit.

Ministerial statements are always open to the suspicion that they are framed with the object of presenting the actions of Ministers in the most favourable light. On questions of fact there is a timidity that is carried rather far. The customary attitude of military and naval men to the publication of news is invariably hostile and their veto ties the hands of the censor—possibly against his better judgment. A Minister of the Crown, answerable to Cabinet, could assume responsibility for giving the public information that is now being withheld by an official who is bound by regulations and instructions which he cannot ignore. In fairness to the censor, it must be said that he is invariably courteous and helpful. Within the limits of his authority he is discharging a very onerous duty fairly and impartially, but the fact remains that the public, which is accused of failure to appreciate the seriousness of the position is being denied much of the information which would make them realise it. Unless such a Minister had exceptional qualities for the position, his appointment might not yield the desired results, but he could be questioned in Parliament and his department subjected to public criticism, which would be all to the good.

There was a good deal of damage in both towns in the form of burst pipes, with a resultant heavy call on plumbers.

Late In Changing

In theory every motor-vehicle on the roads yesterday should have carried the new number plates, as it was the first day of the new registration year. In practice, however, this was far from being the case, as a very brief survey showed. Many motorists through being unable to register in the last-minute rush or through forgetting the change were through forgetting the change, were still touring the highways under the old colours.

The departure of a long excursion train from Napier on Friday night and the consequent exodus of a percentage of the town's population was more than compensated by the large influx which arrived by two trains on Saturday morning.

A varied programme of outdoor sports will be available for holidaymakers to-day. The chief events will be the second day of the Napier Park Racing Club's winter meeting at Greenmeadows and the annual Hawke's Bay-Wairarapa Rugby fixture at McLean Park, Napier, this afternoon.

Skipper Saves Men, Pants And £10 In Notes

British Official Wireless (Received June 1, 7.45 p.m.)

RUGBY, June 1.

The hazards which beset little ships carrying out their vital part in maintaining British sea power are illustrated by the adventures of the crew of one of his Majesty's trawlers which a few nights ago was attacked by a German 'plane.

The moon was obscured at the time and the attack was over in 45 seconds after the aircraft was first sighted, which gives some idea of the speed at which the men have to fight their ships against aircraft.

In those 45 seconds two attacks were made and the trawler fought back with her guns. They did not claim the aircraft as it was not seen to crash, but they scored hits and it was last seen just skimming the sea.

Leaks In Engine-room

Though she had not been hit, one bomb had fallen very close to the trawler and there were many leaks trawler and there were many leaks in the engine room and she was filling fast. In spite of the heavy sea the skipper was determined to hold en, hoping to get his ship in tow rather than risk sinking in midchannel. However, it soon became obvious that the ship was sinking fast and would have to be abandoned. The only chance of transferring his crew was for the trawlers in company to manoeuvre alongside and for the men to jump for it. It was far too rough to attempt the use of small boats.

As a precaution, rafts and a Carley float were thrown overboard.

Skipper Off Last

Skipper Off Last When the skipper had seen the last of his men leave the ship he went the rounds once more to make certain that there was no one left on board and while he was still on deck the trawler capsized. How-on deck the trawler capsized. However, the skipper struggled clear and, coming up close to a Carley float, hauled himself aboard. He saw two men who had apparently missed their jump in the water and hauled them on board. Then he saw a third shape in the darkness and pulled it on to the float—it turned out to be his own trousers with £10 in notes in the pockets.

The Carley float was soon picked up and it was found that only two of the trawler's crew were missing.

REDUCED LIGHTING

Under-Verandah Lights

HASTINGS CASES

The non-compliance of several Hastings retailers with the lighting restrictions has been a cause of dissatisfaction to other shop-keepers and steps are being taken to bring the offenders into line with the regulations. It is felt that their lapse is due more to ignorance of the terms of the restrictions than to a deliberate attempt to flout them. In Napier, where restrictions have been in force for a much longer time, the position is much more satisfactory.

while the majority of Hastings shops on Friday night had dispensed with under-verandah lighting there were several retailers who switched on dome lights and advertising signs of various kinds. On resuming, the Old Boys backs got going in a concerted movement from which Norton crossed for an excellent try. The kick, taken by Kitt, fell short.

A forward rush by Marist carried play upfield, and Hardgraves was able to pick up and cross well out. He narrowly failed to convert his own try. Old Boys 8, Marist 6.

Loss Of Aerodromes Created Impossible Situation In Crete

(N.Z.E.F. Official News Service) CAIRO, May 31.

The R.A.F. view of the situation created by the withdrawal from Greece and the attack on Crete by airborne troops and fighters is expressed in authoritative quarters as largely a question of the possession of aerodromes and the ranges at which the machines were expected to operate.

With the position very delicate in Crete there has been and there will be a lot of criticism of the R.A.F. insofar as there has not been as much air support as one would like to position is very similar to that in Greece during the last few days, and it was pointed out this morning that when we fell back on Crete we were left with three aerodromes, those at Malemi, Retimo, and Heraklion.

The evacuation left the Germans with a number in Greece and elsewhere. There were two near Athens and others at Argus and Sparta. In addition, there was Milos, which was used as a landing-ground, as well as Carpanto and Rhodes.

Easy for the Enemy All this goes to show that the matter of operating bases has been an easy one for the enemy. They had the use of aerodromes on three sides, all within reasonable distance of their objectives. The flying distance from Milos to Crete is only 90 miles, and from Greece (the most distant) 192 miles. All bombers and troop-carriers could thus have fighter escort.

Eight German 'Dromes When the withdrawal to Crete was made, the Germans were in the fortunate position of having seven or eight aerodromes within easy distance of the island.

The R.A.F., in what they term the rosy days of Crete, were in possession of three landing grounds on the island, but now the nearest place

Damage

It is only fair to say that the tions in Crete is the Western Desert osition is very similar to that in —roughly 400 miles one way.

Under those conditions they find it next to impossible to bring to bear any number of fighter craft capable of sustained action at such great distance from the base. Hurricanes Were Used

Still, it is a fact that Hurricanes have been used against the Luftwaffe over Crete even though the position became desperate with the fall of the aerodrome at Malemi.

To do this, the R.A.F. had to fit these 'planes with special longrange fuel tanks. Normally this involves the removal of armour and ammunition and even then the 'plane must be handled very carefully.

However, this has not deflected the R.A.F. from their purpose. British Raids on Greece

Quite apart from purely local losses suffered by the Germans on Crete, they have been attacked severely by long-range craft of the R.A.F. which operate over aerodromes used by the enemy in Greece as part of their normal policy of reducing Nazi striking power by raiding bases.

In the air war the result so far of the campaign in Greece and Crete has been that the Germans have had to pay a high price for their

FIFTH TABLE SHOW HELD

Homing Pigeon Club

FEWER BIRDS AT HASTINGS

Club held the fifth table show of the season in the club room, Heretaunga Street West, on Saturday night. Fewer birds were exhibited than has been the case in previous shows. This was due to the fact that fewer pigeon fanciers go in for the class of pigeons dealt with on Saturday night, as the coloured classes are not generally accepted as being good racing pigeons, Blue Chequers and Red Chequers being the most popuar.

However, six fanciers exhibited and 24 entries were received. The lack of quantity was offset by the quality of the entries received; particular mention was made of the fine condition of some entries received from Clive. Mr W. S. Strothers, Napier, was judge for the evening and was accorded a vote of thanks at the conclusion. Mr B. M. Kessell donated a trophy for most points gained in all classes during the evening. Mr W. B. Wallace was the most successful exhibitor, gaining 14 points. Results:

RUGBY MATCHES AT DANNEVIRKE

SATURDAY'S GAMES

Wins For Camp A And Old Boys

(Dally Mail Special Service)
DANNEVIRKE

Matches in the Dannevirke Rugby competitions were continued on Saturday in fine sunny weather on Teams from the Dannevirke Territorial camp again attracted interest and a high standard of play resulted, the tackling in the match Ruahine v. Camp A being a feature. In the first game Old Boys beat Camp B by 31 to 3. For Old Boys Bromley, at centre, scored five tries. Edwards scored a try, converted one and potted a goal. Bedingfield kick-ed a penalty goal and converted two In the second match the thrust of the camp backs was too much for Ruahine, Reid particularly showing

Thomason, Hutchinson, Reid (2), Walker and Hansen scored tries and Mitchinson was successful with a conversion, the game thus ending 20—0 in favour of Camp A.

Lower grade results:—

CLEAN AND OPEN GAME

Waipukurau Rugby

(Daily Mail Special Service) WAIPUKURAU In a clean and open game, Te Aute B beat Old Boys 5 to nil at Central Park, Waipukurau, on Saturday afternoon. A slight breeze blowing across the field did not inconvenience the players to any great extent. Old Boys kicked off, and al-though both teams struggled hard to gain the upper hand, at half-time neither team had scored. Some good neither team had scored. Some good line kicking and passing was witnessed throughout the game and the outstanding player of Old Boys was Monteith who worked hard, but was unlucky on two or three occasions not to score. Whaangaa, for Te Aute, also played a good game.

In the second half Old Boys lost various opportunities through being over eager and fumbling the ball on the line. Te Aute, with a nice passing movement, completely outclassed their opponents to score under the posts, Whaangaa scoring and converting. A penalty against Te Aute posts, Whaangaa scoring and converting. A penalty against Te Auterleased Old Boys from a dangerous position and shortly after the final whistle sounded with the board reading: Te Aute 5, Old Boys 0.

During the first half of the play, Turei, for Te Aute, retired with a leg injury and about ten minutes before the final whistle, Cossar, for Old Boys, received a severe kick upon the ankle which necessitated his removal from the field. Mr A. Smales refereed.

The Athletic backs did not display their usual strong combination and

Napier Park Racing Club's BRIGHT PROSPECTS T. TITO RIDES THE Winter Meeting

OPENS SENSATIONALLY

Cherry Plum Shows Class When Winning

The Napier Park winter meeting opened somewhat sensationally at Greenmeadows on Saturday when, in the first race, at the second hurdle, and in front of the main stand, Siegall unseated her rider. In endeavouring to get his seat he unbalanced and his mount fell and eventually brought down Royal Stuart, Whetu and Malacca.

All the riders of the latter three horses tried to dodge the trouble but as their mounts were just gaining their balance after negotiating the hurdle, it could not be avoided and the three tipped out.

J. Scullin looked as though he were badly hurt, but was later seen walking round the course looking little the worse for wear.

The racing was interesting, but there were no thrilling finishes except in the last event. In most of the races the wins were easily achieved.

HANDICAPS AND

Hawke's Bay Jockey Club's Winter Meeting

All the receipts showed an increase. The sum of £8609 10/- passed through the totalisator, as against £6690 10/- for the corresponding day last year, when the betting was on the single pool system.

Nine went to the post in the opening event of the day, the Moteo Hack Hurdles, but the event was robbed of a lot of interest when at the second fence Siegall disloged her rider and thought down Malacca, Royal Stuart and Whetu. Thus three well backed horses were out with a mile to go.

From then on Rollicker, jumping like a stag, cleared right out from the others and, continuing to hurdle in brilliant fashion, eventually won by ten lengths, from Jungle King, who was five lengths ahead of Lambert, with another big gap to the other finisher, King Tractor.

The race was no more than a procession after the accident in front of stands, the finishing order being followed throughout.

CLASS PREVAILS

A SOLID EFFORT

Khurja's effort to win the concluding race was a solid one as two furlongs from home he was standing the leaders up a fair distance and to catch them and gain victory by a neck was very creditable.

Cherry Hunter went a little better than expected as it was considered he was in need of a race and it was learnt by his good second that he races better fresh.

Dainty Dell did a little better than usual to collect third money with Halley fourth. The latter ran a better race than expected as he was not raced for some time and on this showing it should not be long before he is on the winning list again.

After her attractive track gallops Laughing Song disappointed, but six may be a little short for her when it comes to the standing start. The others did not impress a great deal and it was surprising to see Dark est Son was last but he came home machines.

Results:— CLASS PREVAILS

Although Vin D'Honneur, the favourite for the Maiden Scurry, was drawn wide out, she was quickly into her stride and in a twinkling rider Marsh had her in front and on the rails. From then on it could easily be seen that she would win, and win she did by the official margin of three lengths, but it was more like five.

She was plainly in a class above the others opposed to her. Tea Lord, now trained at Onga Onga by her lady owner, ran the best race of his career to finish second. He had every chance and was always well placed in the running. The race should do him no harm.

Singapore also has no excuses as he was always near the leaders to collect third money. Nalla found the distance a little too short and should do better on Monday over the extra furlong. Captain Star was noticed wide out near the leading division making the home bend. He, too, will do better over six furlongs. Iretekura has a lot of speed but shows no stamina after half a mile.

CATANACH DECISIVELY

Catanach won the mile hack race in a very decisive manner. Always in a nice handy winning position, rider Callahan was content to wait until heads were turned for home, when he asked for an effort which his mount generously responded to, and won by a length and a half, which could have been improved on.

Val Pere happened to be in a better galloping mood than usual and the public must have anticipated it as he was second in demand on both totalisators. The small field may have suited him but although he raced generously he had no chance with the winner.
