(Received June 13, 2.5 a.m.) LONDON, June 12.

It is authoritatively stated that our forces in Syria operating on the coastal road are now six or seven miles south of Sidon.

The Australians' capture of Kyayam fortress was a prelude to the fall of Merjiyun, states a special correspondent with the forces in Syria.

After breaking the main fortified line defending Beirut the Australians are now advancing along the coast road and are nearing Sidon. The terrain is easy to defend but British warships are lending powerful aid and landing picked British units to attack defenders in the rear and the flank.

The fall of Merjiyun, south-eastward of Sidon, opens the way along the Litani Valley to Rayak. The defenders of Merjiyun have fallen back to positions near Hasbeiya. The terrain here is also difficult for the Allies but with the ad-terrain here is also difficult for the Allies but with the advance from El Quneitra they are now astride the second route to Damascus.

British and Free French forces in the main advance to Damascus have swept on from Gabarheb to Kiswe, where to-day they heavily engaged the main outer defences of Damascus.

A Vichy communique states: "The British have brought up powerful reinforcements and intensified their attacks, including incessant shelling by a strong naval squadron which destroyed a line of blockhouses on the north bank of the Litani. The defenders here put up a stiff resistance despite severe losses, in which a whole battalion was sacrificed. Violent Resistance

"The defenders of Kiswe are resisting violent infantry and tank attacks in an intensified Allied attempt to reach Damascus. Our planes have been very active bombing and machine quanting land and ing and machine-gunning land and naval forces."

Two Thrusts

Two important Allied thrusts into Syria are reported from Ankara. The first is an advance of 70 miles along the south bank of the Euphrates, and the second a penetration of 100 miles parallel to the Turkish frontier. There is no confirmation in London of these advances, nor of a Vichy report that French troops have withdrawn in the coastal area and from a further area some miles inland.

The thrusts in Northern Syria are apparently aimed at the German air base at Aleppo.

A message from Jerusalem says that two Vichy cruisers and a destroyer bombarded the British from a range of 500 yards south of Beirut. The British artillery answered, and the duel lasted half an hour until British warships arrived. The Vichy ships put up a smoke-screen and made off with the British in pursuit.

"The British defeats in the Mediterranean were caused by lack of unified command," said the Secretary of the Navy (Colonel Frank Knox) at a meeting of representatives of the aircraft industry.

He added that the lack of unity was appalling and had resulted in the defeat of Crete.

Colonel Knox's remarks were made in reply to suggestions that the United States form a separate Air Force Command.

He reiterated his belief that the war would be decided by naval power.

American Arms Arriving Soon At Red Sea Port

(United Press Association-Copyright.) (Received June 13, 0.15 a.m.) WASHINGTON, June 12.

The White House announced to-day that United States war supplies for the British forces in the Middle East would be arriving shortly at a Red Sea port. Mr Averill Harriman, the "defence expediter," is proceeding from London to supervise its arrival vise its arrival.

Twenty-six ships comprise the early future arrival.

The "New York Herald-Tribune" states: "Ten ships requisitioned by the United States Maritime Commission will be transferred to Pan-American registry and sail under the charter of the United States Lines. This move will enable substantial quantities of American materials to reach ports in the United Kingdom without violating the neutrality law. The vessels, however, will carry foreign crews.

"It is reported that many foreign ships seized by the United States will also be transferred to the Pan-American flag, thus making them cargo carriers to England."

British Official Wireless. (Received June 12, 7.35 p.m.) RUGBY, June 11.

The story of the courage of the czechoslovakian crew of an R.A.F. bomber during a recent attack on Hamburg is told in London. Within five miles of the town a searchlight picked up the aircraft and by the time it reached the target area it vas transfixed in a cone of 30 earchlights.

Shells began to burst all round shells began to burst all round the bomber and a few small splinters hit the starboard wing and the starboard side of the fuselage. The damage was not serious and the Czechoslovak crew kept on their way through the ever-increasing barrage.

Accurate Aim

The captain kept a steady course and made the bombing run without taking any evasive action which might have prevented the observer from taking accurate aim. The aircraft was hit twice. The captain heard the sound of breaking glass and felt a pain in his side. Though almost fainting, he kept at the controls and managed to keep the aircraft steady, to open the bomb doors and to follow the changes of course given him by the bombaimer as the aircraft continued on its bombing run.

War munitions but we will see to it that the munitions are delivered where they will be most effective to weaken and defeat the aggressors," he declared. "In implementing this pledge immediately I am making available to Britain 2,000,000 gross tons of cargo ships and oil tankers, but this is not enough. Adequate shipping must be assured.

"More than 75,000,000 dollars worth of munitions has already been trans-aimer as the aircraft continued on its bombing run.

It was hit again and again. Two shell fragments went through the pilot's cockpit without hurting anyone and another fragment destroyed the wireless equipment, but the captain still held on his course till the bombs had gone, then he took violent evasive action and shook off the pursuing searchlights.

Similarly, it was confidently deduced that curious streaks shown in the water of Kiel harbour were caused by ships travelling through a film of oil that had been liberated from a pipe-line we had demolished with a bomb. It is characteristic of the interpreter's thoroughness that he should specify this oil as of high viscosity, probably with an asphaltic basis.

EXPERTS WHO TRANSLATE AERIAL WAR PHOTOGRAPHS

Interpreting Pin-Points Into Useful Details Is Work Of Art

To the average man a photograph taken from the air is strangely puzzling. Even when the things it reveals are pointed out to him he may not be able to recognise them; often he wonders how anyone else can.

The interpretation of aerial photographs is discussed in this article, condensed from a contribution by George Fyfe of the "Daily Telegraph," London. In these days the interpretation of air photographs is more than ever a closed book to the civilian, and if he hopes for enlightenment he may be discovered. may be discouraged.

As a Royal Air Force authority told me, "The whole thing is rather hush-hush." He put the position like "In other days the spy was either a daring fellow or a beautiful lady, who with almost incredible resource gained possession of the enemy plans-danger, codes, wireless, pistols, and all that. To-day we are more prosaic. A piece of bromide paper, a photograph taken high in me that the discoveries are actually there.

"Obtaining the photograph is only one-half of the achievement. The other half consists in interpreting the print. The fortunate circumstance for us is the consistent brilliance with which our interpretative work is being done."

Scotland Yard Work

I had the opportunity of appreciating the truth of his remark on my closer introduction to the methods of the small body of Royal Air Force experts who interpret the photographs that are taken over the enemy lines. These officers bring to the work the attributes of the detective. As scientifically as Scot-land Yard they analyse their material.

Specially chosen, they include pilots who gained unique experience in peacetime. Their job was to carry out air surveys and to map country that was largely unknown. In this way they perfected a technique that is of peculiar value today. This knowledge, however, served merely as a basis when the war came. They supplemented it by intensive training, in the midst of which they had to familiarise themselves with the history of the war in all its aspects.

They were also required to be come conversant with communica economic organisation in the hostile or occupied countries, and at the same time to study all subjects relating to the various armed forces in those areas. Translating Pin-Points It is fascinating to trace page after page of "information" in the reports to its source in the uninspiring print lying alongside. Consider a few of the details of the record.

A pin-point spot in one print is shown by the experts to be a ship carrying 16 motor-launches on her deck; even the length of each launch is estimated. Here, again—gunpits; and two are empty.

After this, it is not at all surprising to find that a shadowy mark of apparently no significance is a ship carrying a gun, of which the dimensions are known. And barrage balloons that cannot be observed by the naked eye are counted for you up to a total of 14.

As the airman so often depends for future guidance on the accuracy of the interpretation of his prints, the Royal Air Force is not always content with a single photo-

Packing Of Meat For Export

METHODS DESCRIBED

Mutton Telescoped And Beef Boned PROVISION FOR EWES

As there appeared to be some misundertanding in connection with the packing of the Dominion's meat for export, the Meat Board some time ago gave to the Press a statement setting out the position win regard to the various classes of meat.

Since the commencement of the warthen manner in which our meat should be cut and packed for shipment to the United Kingdom has been a matter of discussion with the British Ministry of Food, and all their instructions have been carried out implicitly. The position is being reviewed from time to time, and at present the method of packing the various classes of meat is as follows: ows:—
All G.A.Q. and F.A.Q. ox and heifer peef, and G.A.Q. cow beef, which was previously shipped in quarters, is now being boned out.

Telescoping System
Mutton and lamb is being telescoped. At the present time no ewe mutton is being exported to the United Kingdom, and in view of the projected canning programme embracing ewe mutton, all ewes of exportable quality slaughtered as from early last month are required to be boned and trimmed in accordance with specifications laid down by the Primary Industries Controller.

Porker pigs are now being shipped in sides, minus the heads. Prior to the restrictions on the shipment of baconers, this class of meat was being prepared for shipment in the form of Wiltshire sides.

Sides.

Conserving Space

In telescoping mutton and lamb the main principle is to conserve space, and to land the carcases at their destination in the best possible condition. The same practice was adopted in the last war. No other method has yet been brought forward that will give the same results, the board considers.

In the packing of mutton and lamb by means of telescoping, a greater

RICHARD DIX, "THE INDIAN NATION"

"The Indian Nation," the Paramount picture which is now screening at the Cosy Theatre, Hastings, to-morrow, starring Richard Dix, is an historic romance of the settling of the west. The story concerns the feud between two clans of Texas cattle ranchers, the Lovells headed by Dix and the Barretts, headed by Victor Jory.

After signing a truce the Barretts, move to a border town on the Cherokee Strip where they continue their outlawry, one opening a bank, another a saloon and a third runs a gambling house in the Strip. Dix is appointed United States Marshal for the town to restore law and order. "Melody and Moonlight," surely the prime ingredients of romanice, are admirably incorporated in Republic's merry, modern musical of that title, which is the second feature.

Johnny Downs, of twinkling feet

State

"TALL, DARK AND HANDSOME"

"Tall, Dark and Handsome," now showing at the State Theatre, Hastings, has laughs, excitement, comance, grand music and a topotch featured cast headed by Cesar omero, Virginia Gilmore, Milton erle and Charlotte Greenwood. Funny as it is throughout, the ew film has rip-roaring drama, and a fine romance between suave esar Romero and lovely Virginia

Cesar Romero and lovely Virginia Gilmore, newcomer who appears to be going places fast on the screen. With emphasis on the unexpected, "Tall, Dark and Handsome" is a real entertainment package.

Things start happening with the rapidity of Tommy-gun fire when the dapper, big shot gangster, Cesar Romero (who hasn't the heart to kill), is attracted to comely Virginia Gilmore, a department store nursemaid. Posing as a "father," Cesar induces Virginia to take a job as nursemaid in his palatial home.

Cesar is taken for a "ride" . . . but lives to watch his own funeral! All the men he has "rubbed out"

All the men he has "rubbed out" come to life and in a madcap finish ne gets his adversary put behind

DRAMA, "THE MORTAL STORM"

Looking at history in the pres-nt rather than the past tense, "The fortal Storm," a thrilling document f current world affairs, is now howing at the Regent Theatre,

With an all star cast headed by Margaret Sullavan, James Stewart, Robert Young and Frank Morgna, the dramatic new offering, based on Phyllis Bottome's best seller novel, to the screen ample food for

The story deals with the experiences of a family "somewhere in Europe," who become a house divided as a result of political dissen-sion. It is dramatic, simply told, ef-fective. It is the picturisation rather than the fictionising of daily head-lines, presented with no more fanaticism than the report of a foreign correspondent.

As the daughter of the family, Freya Roth, Miss Sullavan turns in another sterling performance. Her treatment of the character is sympathetic and genuine. The same may be said of James Stewart as Martin Breitner. Stewart's expert handling of a difficult assignment puts him in line once again for an award.

Municipal

BERT BAILEY AS "DAD RUDD, M.P."

Bert Bailey has made four pictures for Australia's Cinesound Studios, and the latest, "Dad Rudd, M.P." is now at the municipal Studios, and the latest, "Dad Rudd, M.P." is now at the municipal Theatre, Hastings.

Whilst the underlying motif of "Dad Rudd, M.P." is necessarily comedy there is much more to its entertainment appeal than guffaws around the cowshed. A note of national importance is struck by the introduction of the problem of water conservation for the man on the land—the aspect, indeed, which motivates "Dad Rudd's political aspirations. But its main claim to attention is the fact that once again it brings the fact that once again it brings back the inimitable Rudd Family, who have won justifiable esteem because of their ability to provide entertainment that is light-hearted, wholesome and sincere.

The cast was carefully chosen and, for the most part, the Rudd Family remain identical to the former series. Under the paternal wing of the be-whiskered Bert Bailey, there are Mum (Connie Martyn); Dave (Fred McDonald); Joe (Ossie Wenban); Sally (Valerie Scanlon) and his eldest daughter, Ann, played by Yvonne East.

The associate feature is "Wolf Call," a thrilling and colourful romance of the Californian mountains, co-starring John Carroll and lovely Movita, the screen's new singing sweethearts. wholesome and sincere.

Mayfair DRAMA, "SATURDAY'S CHILDREN"

"Saturday's Children," now showing at the Mayfair Theatre, Napier, is a real-life story of young love on a budget, starring John Garfield and Anne Shirley. They are married, with high hopes and hearts, and two jobs. But the wife soon loses her job, and then begins the struggle to get along on twenty dollars a week. Some of the bright edges wear off under the economic stress, and their marriage comes close to the breaking point; until both learn a few lessons about what it takes besides love to make a marriage tick. Claude Rains plays the role of the girl's father.

The associate feature, "King of the Sierras," stars Red the Wonder Horse as the leader of a roving band of horses threatened with extermination.

COMEDY, "THE NAVY STEPS OUT"

Designed for laughter, the story of "The Navy Steps Out," now showing at the State Theatre, Napier, follows a new pattern with highly satisfactory results. George Murphy, Lucille Ball and Edmond O'Brien are featured in the title roles, Murphy casting aside his dancing shoes to do a comedy role as a sailor who wants to get married but can't quite make up his mind to say good-bye to the Navy. Lucille Ball's heroine is sympathetic; it's easy to understand why she is in love with both men because the snob, played by Edmond O'Brien, is a swell guy after he's been humanised by the girl and the sailor. Not until the ceremony is about to start does the sailor realise how matters stand between his girl and his friend, providing a surprise climax.

"BACK STREET," FINE ROMANCE

The same sensational situations, the same wealth of emotional drama which made Fannie Hurst's great novel, "Back Street," one of the outstanding novels of the day, have been captured and put on the screen in the picturisation of the story, which is now screening at the Regent Theatre, Napier, according to the multitudes who have read the book and also have seen the picture. Starring Charles Boyer and Margaret Sullavan, two of the most glamorous figures of the modern screen, "Back Street" was directed by Robert Stevenson, brilliant young English novelist. The story of the picture covers the period The same sensational situations young English novelist. The story of the picture covers the period from 1898 to 1930, with Cincinnati, Ohio, New York and Paris as backgrounds. Miss Sullavan is seen as Ray Smith, the girl who is content to live in the back street of the life of a wealthy and successful man, sacrificing herself unselfishly to help him in his world-famous career.

Working under the control of a co-ordinating contractor in South Australia, about 50 engineering firms in various States had produced components for the gun, numbering approximately 3500 for each complete equipment. Assembly and proof of the first gun had been accomplished in the remarkably short period of about six months from the receipt of drawings.

Outch Assembly

Quick Assembly It was in September, 1939, after the outbreak of war, that manufacture of the gun was decided upon. Some time elapsed in obtaining drawings and a sample gun, thus it was several months later that production of components actually components actually components.

It could be claimed therefore that a remarkably short period had elapsed in the assembly and proof of the first gun.

To initiate production, it had been necessary before placing orders to design a large quantity of jigs, tools, dies, fixtures and gauges and to manufacture in Australia numbers of machine tools, including some special purpose tools for rifling, lapping etc. Practically all the components had been made from high tensile, tough steel, locally developed for wartime requirements and not normally used in commercial manufacture. Many difficult problems associated with the workings of this steel had been solved and new practices in drop-forging, machine and other processes had been introduced.

Careful Planning

Careful Planning Bringing the 3500 components together to form the complete equipment, gun and carriage, involved 16 major assemblies, calling for the most careful planning between the Ministry of Munitions, the co-ordinating contractor and the sub-contractors

"The highest credit is due to all, from executive staffs to operatives, who have taken part in this splendid piece of teamwork." Senator McBride added. "To the general satisfaction that they must feel in the achievement of what must be regarded as an engineering record, must be added that of knowing that, it concerns the provision for the Army of a type of weapon which is classed as one of its most vital requirements."

Youthful Industry Into Its "Strides"

In Canberra is a man who spends nis working life smoking other beople's cigarettes. And when he really wants to enjoy a smoke he smokes his own.

He is the tobacco testing expert of the Government's Council for Scien-tific and Industrial Research. Dollar exchange restrictions have made it necessary to put Australia's youthful tobacco industry into long pants and start it out in life along pants and start it out in life along the right lines.

The job of the expert with his Heath Robinson apparatus of glass phials and rubber tubes, is to get a general survey of the type of tobacco being grown, the effect of climates, soils and fertilisers on the leaf, and reports on aroma, body strength, ash colour, narcotic effect and all the rest of it.

Present Urgency

Long before the war the council's staff was at work on research, but it was not impelled by the same urgency as now. Some years ago it came up against downy mildew, more commonly called blue mould, which became epidemic wherever seedlings were grown and threatened to wipe out the industry.

Every likely method of control by chemical sprays, special seed beds and frames, was tested without success, but in the end the invader

The American Federation of Labour has urged in a letter to President Roosevelt that "any Communists or 'fifth columnists' found responble for strikes in defence industries should be placed in concentration camps, as they would be dealt with in totalitarian countries."

The letter, signed by Harry F. Ensley, Central Secretary, urged the President and his Cabinet to "give cognisance to the recommendations of the Dies Committee before it is too late."

Referring to defence strikes, the Union, which claims a membership of 14,000, said "if management or workers are at fault, allow these facts to be given to the Press."

MATRON'S THANKS

The many workers for the Red Cross Society throughout New Zealand hear very little of what happens to their articles they make after they leave the Dominion.

They do, however, realise how very much appreciated they are and will feel encouraged by reading the following letter which has just been received by Mrs T. H. Lowry, Okawa, the vice-president of the New Zealand Red Cross Society. It is written by Matron Brown of the Second New Zealand General Hospital, Middle East Forces.

She writes as follows:

Members of the Hastings Women's Community Club spent a the stage at the Oddfellows' Hall, Hastings, yesterday afternoon for the Hastings Townswomen's Guild, at which the president, Mrs A. C. A. Hyde, presided. With her was the secretary, Mrs B. Baumgart.

In her welcome the president especially mentioned new members and hoped that they would enjoy all meetings. She also mentioned that at the recent Guild card party in aid of the Red Cross funds.

Miss Cocks-Johnson was welcomended by Mrs T. W. Lewis, who deputited for the club president, Mrs W. G. Stead, who was unable to be present.

A PROGRAMME OF ENGLISH MUSIC

Splendid Afternoon

Various circle announcements Various circle announcements were made, chief of which were the need of the Patriotic Circle for garments to remake and material for quilts, an appeal by the Sunshine Circle for members willing to visit the hospital and also for books and magazines and the Keep Fit class which meets every Wednesday evening in the Guild room would welcome new members. Members were asked to keep the collection for proasked to keep the collection for pro-viding supper for boys undergoing their medical tests and they were reminded of the birthday party next month.

Mrs S. Jones spoke briefly of the Greek Christening custom of the parents of the baby giving small gifts and she handed round one of these gifts.

Before the business concluded an appeal was made for beads for the Red Cross jug covers.

Afternoon tea was enjoyed and following this a very delightful programme of English music was presented by the leader of the Music Circle, Miss B. McHutchon, and the circle members. This was one of the finest yet presented by the circle and every item earned well merited applause. Mrs F. Deans opened the pro-

Enthusiastic Reception

A particularly fine programme of music was thoroughly enjoyed at the Hastings Women's Community Club Music Circle meeting this week. The whole programme had been arranged by Mrs Gerald Wilson, Ongaonga, who was assisted by Mrs J. L. Brathwaite, Waipukurau, and Miss Decima Ormond, Wallingford.

Mrs W. T. Drake, the leader of the Music Circle, introduced the visitors and before commencing Mrs Wilson explained that the programme con-sisted of the lighter type of British music.

Mrs J. L. Brathwaite, accompanied by Mrs Wilson, opened the programme with the songs, "O Peaceful England," "An Epitaph," and an encore "I'll Walk Beside You." Mrs Wilson afterwards played "Coronach" (Edgar Burrett) and an encore "Two Sea Shanties."

Miss Decima Ormond followed with songs, "For England," "Young Love Lies Sleeping," and an encore "A Nightingale Sang in Berkeley Square."

"A Nightingale Sang in Berkeley Square."

Mrs Brathwaite afterwards sang "Hedgerow Carnival," "Whatever Is, Is Best," and two encores, "Terrible Robber Men" and "Five Eyes."

Three delightful nursery rhymes were then played by Mrs Wilson, who also was accompanist for the afternoon, followed by a realistic piece "The Metal Pig."

Miss Decima Ormond concluded the programme with her songs "If There were Dreams to Sell," "The Kerry Dances," and an encore "To

The position now is that the New Zealand Division through its operations in Greece and Crete and, to a much lesser extent, the assistance some units gave in the Western Desert fighting, has lost close upon half of its effective strength. The missing aggregate over 5000 and the killed and wounded may be expected to bring the total casualties up ed to bring the total casualties up to 6000. How many men have been sent overseas in the reinforcement sent overseas in the reinforcement drafts has not been disclosed, but even if they are sufficient to make good this loss immediately, there does not exist a pool of trained personnel from which future losses may be replaced with the speed necessary for the successful functioning of the division.

Reserves in Last War

During the last war, except at one or two exceptional periods, and even these might have been avoided, these might have been avoided, there was always such a pool. The reinforcement camps in the Dominion held up to four reinforcement drafts, of which the senior had been trained up to advanced company field work and had fired the full musketry, or weapon training, courses. In England, there were the reserve brigades and units, which were all undergoing advanced graining and which, as a rule, were which were all undergoing advanced craining and which, as a rule, were equal in strength to a brigade or unit in the field. SERVICE IN GREECE

'Has Not Done Justice To Himself"

DISPATCH RIDER

A military censor's tribute to the work in Greece of a Christchurch soldier was discovered on a letter to his mother written by Driver John A, Mashlan. "Your son has told his story," says the censor's note, "but he has not been able to do justice to himself. He was one of the heroes of the Greek campaign and there will be a sequel. He is a son of whom you can rightly be proud."

In his letter Driver Mashlan de-

be proud."

In his letter Driver Mashlan describes several dispatch rides he had to make on a motor-cycle. One of them was to go to a unit 25 miles away and return in an hour. He managed it in an hour and a-quarter over a road that he says was no more than a dirt track. He was entering Larissa when it was bombed for the first time. He jumped into a slit trench with some Greeks, but when nothing happened in the next five minutes he returned to his machine and rode on. He had gone about a mile when a bomber apabout a mile when a bomber appeared 500ft. over his head.

A few miles further he ran into a Greek on a motor-cycle and went over a 4ft. bank and on to a field. over a 41t. bank and on to a fleid. Getting on to his cycle again he continued. When he was passing a truck coming the opposite way he felt something brush his arm and was nearly thrown off. It was another truck doing high speed without lights. On another ride Driver Mashlan, says he was machine. Mashlan says he was machine-gunned from the air, but he saw the tracer bullets coming, and jumped

THROUGH CHIROPRACTIC

Nerve impulses that direct and time the activities of the body are essential for life. When nerve impulses are not normal, good health cannot be enjoyed. The Chiropractor gets good results because mechanical interference with nerve impulses is corrected.

A Chiropractic patient writes:

Our son had been suffering with severe attacks of headache. He would come in from school in such pain that he would lie down and cry. We considered taking him out of school for a while.

As we had a wonderful previous experience with Chiropractic when our daughter had a severe spell of sickness, we consulted our Chiropractor. After a course of adjustments he was wonderfully improved.

He is enjoying his school work now, reads constantly, and never complains with the headache, and we are glad to give our Chiropractor credit for this.

By Telegraph-Press Association. WELLINGTON, June 12.

A recommendation by the tram-ways committee that the council take into consideration the question of dismissal of conscientious objectors to military service who refused to do any form of service, including attending the wounded and ambu lance work, was approved without discussion by the Wellington City Council last night.

The mayor, Mr T. C. A. Hislop said that the matter had arisen from a particular case, which was before the tramway committee, of an employee conscientious objector who refused to do any type of service.

The feeling of the committee was that it should not, having due regard to the true conscientious objector, keep in the council's employ at the public expense an objector who would do nothing for the public,

NEUTRALITY PROBLEMS

More than once in recent months a difficult situation has arisen in New Zealand over the status of citizens of Eire who have been called in overseas or territorial ballots. The other day no fewer than 13 Irish reservists appealed to the Armed Forces Appeal Board at Auckland, and there is no doubt that unless a working principle covering such cases is established by the Government there will be similar cases in the future. The fact that in Auckland six of the appeals were allowed on conscientious grounds, two were adjourned to permit the appellants to give further evidence, and the remaining five were dismissed serves to illustrate the complexity of the situation.

Perhaps it may be said that the question is more awkard for New Zealand than for other British countries (except Great Britain) for the reason that most of the other Dominions do not conscript for overseas service, although many of them have some form of conscription for home defence. Nevertheless, the status of Irish-born persons who claim citizenship of a neutral State is a problem for all the belligerent parts of the Empire. The Statute of Westminster admits of no questioning of the legal right of Eire to remain neutral in the present war. Although the country at the present time is safely within the framework of the British Commonwealth of Nations, it is to all intents and purposes a sovereign State, and despite the fact that it is suffering heavy economic loss through the war, it remains officially aloof.

Perhaps the official interpretation of the word "neutrality" in Eire is questionable. The country has suffered at the hands of German bombers; Dublin itself has been raided by the Luftwaffe with heavy damage and loss of life; Irish ships have been sunk in the Irish Sea-and yet the Government of Eire has responded to these German acts of war by nothing more than futile protests to Berlin. On the other hand, Eire has remained implacable in her attitude towards Great Britain, and the recent proposal to introduce conscription in Ulster-still an integral part of the United Kingdom-led to such an outburst of opposition across the border that the plan was shelved.

It is an unfortunate truth that the enmity between the north and the south of Ireland, and the bitterness which some sections of the Irish people still feel toward Britain, have resulted in a policy which could be safe for Irishmen only if the present world struggle were actually a private fight. This policy denies Britain the use of naval bases in Eire, although the denial threatens the stand of a people who now hold the last barrier against Nazi domination of all Europe—including Eire.

There have been some curious contradictions in Ireland—as opposed to Eire—recently. When the German raiders attacked Belfast and the northern capital suffered from firebombs and high-explosives, generous help was given from the southern side of the partition. Similarly, when Dublin was raided Belfast immediately offered assistance in fighting the fires. The truth of the matter is that the German attacks have put all Irishmen in the same boat. It may be said that Dublin's aid to Belfast was an infringement of neutrality, but it was none the less a gesture of common humanity.

Since the establishment of the Free State in 1920 it has been the endeavour of the Dublin Government to make Eire a foreign State distinct from Great Britain in language, sympathies and political relationships. At the same time there has been a certain reluctance to cut the few remaining ties that bind Eire to the Empire. Nevertheless Irishmen are not foreigners to the British—at least not to the same extent as, say, the French Canadians or the South African Dutch, and it is difficult to see why the Government of Eire should persist in an attitude of "neutrality" which very plainly confers more benefits on Germany than it does on

"I'm just wondering whether, when a journeyman in Auckland gets £40 a week, this amount is sufficient, considering the time and effort put into the job," said Mr G. W. B. The necessary items of uniform in connection with the proposed schoolboy patrols will be available shortly, stated a letter from the Automobile Association (Hawke's Bay) received at yesterday's meeting of the Hastings Borough Council. 40-Hour Week Abolition The acting-Prime Minister (the Hon. W. Nash) in reply to a question, stated that while in London the resolution urging an immediate cessation of the 40-hour week and asking for support was "received" when it came up for discussion at yesterday's meeting of the Hastings Borough Council. The council is taking no action in the matter, Prime Minister (the Rt. Hon. P. Fraser) would discuss such a matter as holding an Imperial Conference and would communicate with the Government later,

Bag of Mail Lost

The Postmaster-General (the Hon. P. C. Webb) regrets to announce that a small mail, consisting of one bag of letters from Great Britain, routed by surface mail across the Atlantic, had been lost through enemy action. The approximate dates of posting were March 13 to 15.—Press Association,

"Every Jack . . . "

"I am not going to make a long speech this evening," said the Governor-General (Sir Cyril Newall) speaking in Napier last night. "I never do. I am a serving officer and not an orator. But I am going to confine myself to one subject, the subject which is uppermost in all our minds, namely, the war."

Fateful Day

To-day, Friday the thirteenth, some superstitious people will go to elaborate ends to offset the ill-omen associated with this coincidence of date and day. Friday is always regarded as the unlucky day of the week, due, it is said, to the fact that the Crucifixion took place on that day, while 13 sat at the Last Supper.

Tidal Water in Bath

Warning of a "raid" on motorists for licences and warrants of fitness was given at yesterday's meeting of the Hastings Borough Council. It was the custom each year to make a check-up soon after relicensing, said Mr G. W. B. McCormick, and this would be done as soon as the necessary staff could be engaged. In the vicinity of 1000 persons have not renewed their licences this year, indicating that many are driving cars without them. At the height of the tide at Red-cliffs, Christchurch, on Tuesday, a man living in a house some distance from the sea was having a bath. When he finished he pulled out the plug to send the water away. He was astonished to see the level ris-ing instead of falling. The tide had backed up in the drain, and when he pulled out the plug he admitted sea water. Cheaper Power

Total reductions of approximately £63,000 in rates for electricity supply were approved by the Auckland Electric Power Board at a meeting this week, when a report from the general manager (Mr R. H. Bartley) embodying a new scale of charges was adopted. For other classes than street lighting, the new charges will operate from July 1, the street lighting rate coming into effect from April 1. With the exception of water heating and bulk rates, practically the whole of the various classes of supply are covered, the plan adopted being to make uniform reductions for all high rate units. Cheaper Power sea water.

Smart Uniform

Members of the Women's War Service Auxiliary in their new uni-Service Auxiliary in their new uniforms created a good impression at the parade inspected by his Excellency the Governor-General at Napier last night. The uniforms, in the form of a greatcoat-frock with visored cuffs with tie to match, were issued the previous evening. About 30 of the 84 members of the organisation are yet to be issued with uniforms.

Replacing Apprentices

Replacing Apprentices

Some confusion exists concerning the replacement of apprentices who enlist in the forces. Attention has been drawn by the district inspector of factories (Mr W. J. Berryman) to the following resolution passed by the Industrial Emergency Council:

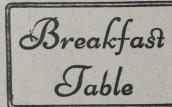

"An employer may take steps immediately on the loss of an apprentice to military service, to obtain approval for the appointment of another to replace him at the end of four months, so the maximum period of delay need not exceed four months." Reviewing the conversion operations yesterday, the Minister of Finance (the Hon. W. Nash) said that the Government's offer of conversion to holders of securities maturing on July 15 and November 15 this year and March 15, 1943, will close on Saturday. Holders who have not as yet taken any steps to complete the forms should do so immediately. The Minister said that applications for conversion received to date totalled £17,034,000, while requests for repayment amounted to only £240,000. This was very satisfactory, but the Minister expressed concern lest some people were under the impression that securities would be converted automatically. This was not so. The choice lay entirely with the investor and in the event of either conversion or repayment the choice should be indicated by completing the appropriate form.—Press Association.

Old Mine May Close

Clessation of operations by the Blackball Coal Mines Proprietary, Limited, at Blackball, one of the oldest mining companies on the West Coast, is imminent owing to the high overhead cost of production. The company's original mine was worked out some years ago, and a new area opened up three or four years ago, but ever since the seam was struck the greatest difficulty has been experienced in keeping the workings clear of water. This necessitated incessant pumping at a high workings clear of water. This necessitated incessant pumping at a high cost, while only about 100 tons of coal daily could be produced. The peak production of the old mine was 1000 tons daily. Over 70 men will be thrown out of employment in the event of no further development following the company's decision to close the mine.

Immediately on the announcement of the Governor-General's message introducing the Imprest Supply Bill, the passing of which was granted urgency on the notice of the acting-Prime Minister (the Hon. W. Nash) Mr J. A. Lee (Dem. Lab., Grey Lynn) took an early opportunity of speaking.

He said that taxation last year had been so heavy that we had paid off about £10,000,000 of the Reserve Bank's overdraft. We had been led to believe, when the taxation screw was put on, that the money was urgently required for adequately equipping our armed forces and increasing our war effort. We were using the war for reducing our indebtedness, he said.

"Homes Needing Food"

Far too much was being taken from homes that required food while food was being placed in stores and possibly would be turned into fertilisers.

The State had taken not only money that was necessary for administering the Dominion, but the state of the message introducing the Imprest is seriousness. He was of the opinion that Members of Parliament should set some example by putting their discussion that Members of Parliament should set some example by putting their discussion. He was only human that there should be differences, but if they in Parliament at the present time could not set those differences on one side.

Closing the Ranks

"We in Parliament," he continued "are now failing because we haven't closed up our ranks, and when we ask the people of New Zealand to closed up our ranks, and when we ask the people of New Zealand to close up their ranks what can they think of our sincerity?"

Mr Forbes said he would not accept the responsibility of carrying the Dominion through the stern days ahead if he were the head of a Government as the representative of one section of the people. Admithed the providence of the people of people of the people of people of the people of people of

The State had taken not only money that was necessary for administering the Dominion, but £10,000,000 in addition. Why had this staggering rate of taxation been imposed on lower incomes? he asked.

Reference to a report of the payment of high wages in an Auckland foundry were made in the House today by Mr H. S. S. Kyle (Nat., Riccarton) in a question addressed to the acting-Prime Minister (the Hon. W. Nash).

Mr Dickie said that the nolicy of the Government during its term of office had been to borrow, spend and tax, and this last year had been a record as far as taxation was concerned. He expressed the opinion that since the outbreak of war he, as a layman, had been studying the declarations from two returned soldier members of the House, the Rt. Hon. J. G. Coates and Mr J. A. Lee. He was prepared at all times to accept the opinions of returned soldiers on military matters.

"Industry's Job"

Essential To Plan.

He believed the Greek and Cretan campaigns were essential to the Commonwealth's war plan, and he also believed that if the men were also believed that if the men were asked to go again they would go and would want to go (Hear, Hear).

The New Zealanders had grumbled about being kept out of the Egyptian campaign, said Mr Nash, and they knew they were going into difficulties and dangers in Greece, but they had gone and had performed magnificent feats.

Mr Nash claimed that the Greek campaign had succeeded because the strategy had had splendid results. Those results were not as good as they could have been, but they justified the sacrifice.

The New Zealanders had not gone into Greece to fight for traditions alone. Everything had been weigh ed up and they had gone with a possible objective which, if it had been gained under happier circumstances. Personally, said Mr Webb, he considered that Mr Elworthy had been unfair to the conference. He should Reserve Bank Overdraft.

Referring to Mr Lee's assertion concerning the reduction in the Reserve Bank overdraft, Mr Nash said that the Reserve Bank balance usually went down because it was the policy of the Government to take money to pay the accounts of the country, and when money was available from taxation at the end of the financial year the bank was repaid. Extra Days Wanted

If the conference had thought there were too many days for racing, it would not have approached the Minister for extra days for hunt meetings. Mr Webb concluded with an appeal for more co-operation from the Opposition.

Mr F. W. Doidge (Nat., Tauranga) said that the Minister had asked for more co-operation from the Opposition, but he thought the Minister himself should first set an example in that direction. In other words, the State had an overdraft at the Reserve Bank and that overdraft had been as high as

COALITION ISSUE

RIVAL SUSPICIOUS

By Telegraph—Press Association. PARLT. BLDGS., June 12. Urging the need for the eliminaion of party politics in the interests of the war effort, the Leader of the Opposition (Mr S. G. Holland) said in the House to-night that the National Party was quite prepared to join in the formation of a National Government.

He urged, however, that if there vere to be a National Government it should be formed now. If there were not going to be a National Government the people should be told that there was going to be an election. The present was no time for party squabbles.

The Opposition would give to the Government of New Zealand and to the Empire its full support in any course the Government thought should be taken in furtherance of the war effort, continued Mr Holland.

Full Support He added that when he was elected Leader of the Opposition he had gone to Mr Fraser and had offered full support for the war effort.

Later, Mr Fraser had asked him to join the War Cabinet and he said he would not join because he considered he was wanted in it so that he could be leg-ironed. He had offered to do any other work, and was still waiting for the Government to give him his first commission. was the War Cabinet the utmost that Parliamentarians could do? He asked for the formation of a National Government. This did not mean the sabotaging of the Government's policy.

Dropping Party Politics

If the Government asked for a National Government and dropped party politics, the National Party would drop party politics at once.

Mr Holland added that he had often been asked if there were to be an election. He thought it would be a good thing if that point were cleared.

The 40-hour Week

Questioned by the Minister of Marketing (the Hon. J. G. Barclay) about the retention of the 40-hour week, Mr Forbes said it would be a matter for the War Cabinet to decide. If it decided that longer hours were necessary it would not be worthy of the name unless it saw that the change was made.

Mr Dickie said that the nolicy of the Government during its term of office had been to borrow, spend and tax, and this last year had been a record as far as taxation was concerned. He expressed the opinion that money had been thrown around with such prodigality that no one had any confidence in the Government's spending.

Totalisator and Savings De a good thing if that point were cleared.

The Minister of Agriculture (the Hon. J. G. Barclay) referring to the proposal to form a National Government, said the Labour Government did not mind getting together, but the actual getting together meant nothing. It was what was done when they got together that counted they got together that counted. "White Anting"

"White Anting"

He considered that the Opposition wanted to get into the Government to "white ant" it from inside. Both the Hon. A. Hamilton and the Rt. Hon. J. G. Coates, members of the War Council, had said that the Dominion's war effort was a worthy one, and with this the Minister agreed.

ernment which sought to carry on a partisan administration in wartime could escape criticism, he said.

He also expressed his personal opinion that racing should be reduced in New Zealand in wartime. The president of the New Zealand Racing Conference (Mr A. S. Elworthy), he said, had given New Zealand a lead although it was not the job of an individual to give a lead. Speaking of New Zealand's war speaking of New Zealand's war effort, Mr Atmore said that our effort was infinitely greater than that of South Africa, Canada or Australia, and he failed to see how it could be increased further than that if the Opposition joined the Government

When the House met at 7.30, the debate was continued by the Minister of Labour (the Hon. P. C. Wahh) By Telegraph—Press Association. NEW PLYMOUTH, June 12. The formation of a non-party Cabinet, not necessarily confined to members of Parliament, but along the lines adopted by Mr Churchill in England, was supported by 400 persons at a public meeting at Hawers today. Many of the excuses put up were simply atrocious. It was clear that many of the appellants were liars or humbugs, and many of them could be regarded as potential Fifth Columnists. Some of them were in this country.

Mr Webb also paid a tribute to the watersiders, stating that in get-ting a quicker turn-round in vessels a total of 190 days had been saved key positions in the Government.

Defence of Workers

Mr J. Thorn (Govt., Thames) said that members of the Opposition and the Press tried to convey the im-pression that the workers, through their laziness and strikes, were paralysing the industry of this The Minister also replied to Mr Polson's reference to the proposal to reduce the number of racing days Mr Webb said he did not wish to express an opinion as to whether this reduction was right or wrong, but he would say that it was the duty of the president of the Racing Conference to consult his conference before he made such a recommendation.

He gave statistics relating to re-cent strikes showing that compara-tively little time had been lost as a esult of the strikes. There were two ways of dealing with workers, he said. One was by bullying or threats, and that was Hitler's way. The other was by treating the workers as human beings, and it would be found that if this method were adonted the

Mr Nash spoke shortly after midnight contending that the whole case made out by the Opposition and the Press for an extension of the 40-hour week was not for extrahours to be worked so much as for a reduction in pay for those hours worked.

The Imprest Supply Bill was then passed through the remaining stages without further discussion.

The Bill provides a total sum of £11,950,000 representing three months' supply.

THREE REASONS

Attempt To Frighten Stalin

United Press Association—Copyright. (Received June 12, 6 p.m.)

LONDON, June 11.

LONDON, June 11.

From almost all over Europe comes evidence suggesting that Hitler is deliberately forcing relations with the Soviet to a crisis, says the diplomatic correspondent of "The Times." Coinciding with the visit to London of Sir Stafford Cripps, British Ambassador to the Soviet, there are reports that, on a front ranging from the Baltic to the Black Sea, about 100 German divisions are now standing near the Soviet frontier, all fully equipped for war. for war.

Three Possibilities There are three possible explana-ions, says the correspondent. They

1. An attempt to lull the British into the belief that the invasion of Britain has been postponed.

2. An endeavour to frighten Stalin into great concessions.

3. Germany actually intends to invade Russia.

The correspondent gives the opin-ion that the second is at present the on that the second is at present the most likely explanation.

Outwardly, he says, all seems calm between Germany and the Soviet. There is a pact of friendship, and each apparently wishes to live and let live. That is the official superficial picture. It is a threadbare canvas which no longer covers the truth.

Sharp About-Face

Sharp About-Face
Hitler has been gathering the bulk of his forces along the Soviet frontier for the past few weeks. Immediately his armoured divisions had done their work in Yugoslavia and Greece, they turned sharply around, paused to refit in Austria and Bohemia, and then turned eastward to join other divisions already ward to join other divisions already in eastern Poland. Infantry drawn from France and Germany concen-trated in East Prussia and Central Poland.

The correspondent adds that three fresh army corps from Rumania joined others on the Bessarabian frontier at the beginning of the month. All roads from Bucharest to the frontier are reported to be filled with military transports. The 90-mile road from Sibiu is bordered with many German military camps. At the same time, the nominal heads of the occupied territories and of certain neutral countries have been told that the German Army is about to invade the Soviet. Germany has asked some of the neutrals for assurances of continued neutrality during "any new war in which Germany may become engaged."

Hitler recently while printed.

Hitler recently, while privately conversing with Prince Paul, ex-Regent of Yugoslavia, vehemently declared his determination to attack Russia in 1941.

Anti-Soviet Moves

"Anti-Soviet Moves
"All this," says the correspondent,
"comes after a winter in which the Germans have developed and extended all their old anti-Soviet organisations. Several hundred Ukrainians are training at a large camp in Moravia 'for the coming struggle for Ukrainian freedom'.
Similar organisations have been builte up in Poland, where the Ukrainians have been given equal citizenship with Germans. The Slovakians have seen Germany build vakians have seen Germany build eight strategic roads across Slovakia and develop more than a dozen aero-dromes. The complete lack of secrecy, together with Hitler's own declarations to strangers, suggest either that the Germans are su-premely confident of success or that the whole thing is an elaborate bluff."

Fuller details are now available of the incident in Crete outlined by Mr Winston Churchill in the House of Commons yesterday, in which German parachutists, after landing at one point, drove a number of New Zealander walking wounded before them and consequently the cry arose that the parachutists were themselves dressed in New Zealand uniforms. The correspondent concludes:
"The broad acres of Eastern Europe are convenient places for a huge army, because they keep a monitory eye on the Soviet. A striking force could quickly be transferred to the west if the British were lulled into believing that invasion had been postponed.

Tired of Stalin

The correspondent's reasons for saying that Germany may invade Russia are that the Germans are known to have a low opinion of the Red Army and have set their eyes on the Ukrainian wheatfields and that they are tired of depending upon Stalin's goodwill for supplies. He adds that the possibility of intimidation seems most likely, but that the extent of the preparations shows that Hitler is expecting great concessions.

Two-million gross tons of cargo ships and oil tankers are to be made available immediately to the Allies by the United States. This announcement was made to-day by President Roosevelt when he spoke of the help that was being given under the Lease-and-Lend Act.

Since the passing of the Act 550,000,000 dollars (£138,000,000) had been allocated for new ships, the President added. Allied ships were being repaired, equipped and armed; naval ships, too, were being repaired. Vast quantities of iron, steel, and machine tools were being seat and being received. Millions of pounds' worth of food was also being sent.

BOROUGH SCHEME

Hastings will be one of the first centres in the Dominion to adopt safety measures to aid and protect townspeople in the blackout, as a result of a decision made by a subcommittee of the Hastings Borough Council yesterday. Main routes are to be marked with a broad white centre line to assist motorists and corner posts and kerbs are to be painted white.

COMBINED EFFORT?

The question of the venue for the next annual national conference of norticulturists and the national dower show will be discussed at a conference to be held in the Napier Borough Council Chambers this afernoon.

The Director of the Horticultural Division of the Department of Agriculture (Mr W. K. Dallas) and the secretary of the Royal New Zealand Institute of Horticulture (Mr G. F. Nicoll), are at present visiting Napier and will discuss the possibility of holding the conference in the town.

Yesterday the superintendent of reserves (Mr C. W. Corner), Mr R. G. Wilson and the two officials, accompanied by Mr K. Merritt, inspected the buildings available and although the result of their irspection is not known, it was learned that the party would investigate the suitability of buildings at Hastings.

WORK FOR RETIRED NAVAL MEN

Admirals and other naval men, now retired, may soon sail again—as bargees on Britain's inland water-ways. They will "ship" at the rates of pay ruling on the canals—£3 a week for mates and £3 10/- to £6 10/- for skippers and engineers.

The Minister of Transport has asked the Little Ship Club, whose 2000 members range from admirals to workers in offices and shops, to help him to meet the transport difficulties caused by the shortage of skilled canal bargemen. He believes the work of a bargee can be performed by yachtsmen, especially those with knowledge of Diesel, semi-Diesel and internal combustion engines, which many of their small craft carry.

Mr T. V. Mercer, solicitor, who owns a 13-ton auxiliary ketch and is a member of the Little Ship Club committee said: "I am forming a preliminary roster of members willriding on footpaths at night are a menace and several pedestrians have suffered bruises and abrasions through collisions.

Hawke's Bay Jockey Club's HASTINGS TRACK Winter Meeting

THE MINOR EVENTS

Quality And Quantity Engaged On Saturday

(By The Barb)

Judging by the general satisfaction expressed by the racing public on the appearance of Saturday's acceptances, the second of the two winter meetings of the Hawke's Bay Jockey Club at Hastings this week-end should be a successful

The jumping entries are larger than last week and with fresh horses engaged these should be the main attraction, but the flat races have filled so well that the whole programme is a most attractive one.

There is an abundance of recent form offering while the going, though rapidly drying, will be by no means fast. The majority of the horses will appreciate the easier track although there are one or two exceptions.

As well as "fresh" horses engaged on Saturday there will be a better class of jockeys present. There is no doubt that the presence of first-class jockeys greatly influences the amount speculated, as the public will much rather put £1 on a horse ridden by an able rider than a "dollar" on a horse that carries a boy not in the boom or fashion.

THE NOVICE CLASS

suggest that she was coming back to her best. Hunting Moments with a track made to order may surprise although she has not raced since April, 1940. Dainty Dell meets the does not win now her supporters can scratch her name off their cards. Queen Cardine had a clear-cut decision last Saturday after a good hiding all the way down the lic will much rather put £1 on a horse ridden by an able rider than a "dollar" on a horse that carries a boy not in the boom or fashion.

THE NOVICE CLASS

As the totalisator can cope with only 16 runners it has been found necessary to bracket the last three pairs in the Hastings Trial on the totalisator thus, Gay Rona-Parvati, Dusky Bay-Captain Star and Whackie-Flying Spray. Tashi Lama and Condole will also be bracketed, as the latter is held on lease by MF. Ormond, owner of Tashi Lama.

The field on Saturday is rather interesting for this reason, At Napier Vin d'Honneur won the novice the first day from Tea Lord, which pointed to Tea Lord winning the next with the former out, and this he accomplished. Second to Tea Lord was Ruling Moment and he, true to form, came to Hastings and won the Maiden. Now, if this sequence works out correctly, Siyana, second to Ruling Moment last Saturday, is the logical winner on Saturday. However, last Saturday won have a surrously both days at Napier Park while last week, in anything but a strong field, a strong field, as the latter is the best of the St division. urday, is the logical winner on Sat-urday. However, last Saturday Siyana was more fortunate than two or three who finished behind her, so she will need to have Dame her, so she will need to have Dame Fortune again on her side to carry on the sequence.

Saturday's field of novices sees the majority of those which have been competing here recently again starting, with the addition of Worton and Cyprene, who are both with recent racing experience. Miss Hallomet, who did not start at Hastings last Saturday, was third to Tea Lord and Ruling Moment the second day at Napier, so on that form may day at Napier, so on that form may earn prior consideration, on form, to Siyana. Flying Spray was un-lucky last Saturday, so in this race now under discussion may start the

A BAKER'S DOZEN

A baker's dozen have accepted in the Whakatu Hurdles, run over a quarter of a mile less than the Hawke's Bay Hurdles. There are nine fresh hurdlers in this event. Great Quex won so handsomely last week that even with the shorter distance he may be hard to dispose of despite his 12lb. Whetu was soundly beaten in the Hawke's Bay Hurdles, finishing last, so can hardly improve sufficiently. Soho has not raced since last July. Despite his clever hurdling the want of racing condition may tell its tale before the mile and a half is traversed. However, he is not disregarded. Limbohm was not too conspicuous Limbohm was not too conspicuous last week and he, like Whetu, needs to improve to win. He won the second day last year after an indifferent showing the week previous. It is rumoured that a change of horsemen will be made this week. Majority and Gay Fox, both trained by Ashley Jenkins, Opaki, have accepted, but it is hardly likely that both will start. Both are novices but whichever one is started will but whichever one is started will find a fair following.

Malacca is a handy hurdler and when all is said and done this phy-sically-fit gelding will be as hard to beat this week-end as the next. Shu is a newcomer but would occasion no surprise if returned the winner or even sent out first favourite. Baron Bold is good in the mud, so if more rain is experienced this animal will be in demand. Misurina acquitted himself satisfactorily last nonth, but is not yet an experienced hurdler, therefore he is not con-ed hurdler, therefore he is not confidently recommended unless ridden by a proficient hurdle rider.

Siegall was second in the Hawke's Bay Hurdles and on that form enters calculations as a likely lightweight but, as previously said, her game is the "big stuff."

Chequers, an improver and one that will eventually make the grade, is preferred to Royal Stuart, who is nursing a sore knee.

THE AMATEUR RIDERS

The Corinthian Plate for amateur riders is an open event and looks like carrying the most investments for a race of its kind since the Duke of Gloucester Cup was held at Hastings. Gay Mimic heads the list with 12.10 or 7lb. more than he has won with. Last Boxing Day, at Waipukurau, he was successful with 12.3, so now he will have his work cut out with the extra poundage. He is not a big horse, although his gameness is unquestioned. Master Cyklon will have a track that he will appreciate, but so far no horseman has been engaged to ride him, The Corinthian Plate for amateur man has been engaged to ride him, as many amateur riders have either as many amateur ricers have either gone overseas or are in camp. Should he start, this gelding will find favour with the public.

Solaria is not fancied. Pretty Lass cleared right away with a race under the same conditions a fortnight ago at Napier Park, so the extra 61b may not he a worry. In-

Jockey Kilgour Breaks

Jockey Injured.

The young horseman, T. Kilgour, who was sent out on Centrepoise to participate in a six furlong run with Lambourn and Proclamation, met with a slight accident. When awaiting Lambourn to do his trotting exercise Centrepoise became unsettled and, rearing up, dislodged Kilgour when the girths broke. Medical examination disclosed that this rider had fractured a rib and, although his injury is not serious, it will prevent him from riding at Hastings on Saturday.

Centrepoise careered back to the Centrepoise careered back to the entrance gate to the course proper but was quickly caught and suffered no ill effects.

First Gallop.

First Gallop.

The first gallop was between Hunting Moments (Kilgour) and Stolen Coat (L. Barnett). The former is getting away a little before time, led throughout to complete the half mile in 55½. Hunting Moments has not raced for some months, but the way in which she went yesterday morning was suggestive of an outside chance on Saturday.

Tashi Lama (W. L. Aitken) was associated with Midlass (C. Eley) over half a mile which occupied 56, the last three in 43sec. The pair finised practically together with both going away easy passing the final post.

Lambourn (. Stowe) and Proclamation (G. Stowe), after the Centrepoise mishap, were galloped six furlongs together. The pair were abreast all the way in an unextended gallop to register 1.23 after running the first three in 41½. Lambourn is in great heart and on Saturday will be ridden by the Dominion's premier horseman, W. J. Broughton.

An Easy Effort. ROTOPAI HACK

There is a strong field of hacks engaged in the mile Rotopai Hack race, in which Authoress heads the list with 10.3, or 8lb. more than she was successful with last Saturday. The quarter of a mile less to travel off-sets the increased poundage and, with B. H. Morris again in the saddle, Mr Todd's mare will go very close to winning this, her last hack appearance. Khurja won narrowly both days at Napier Park while last week, in anything but a strong field, was a mediocre fourth; with 9.12 and her first trial over a mile, this well conditioned Ngatarawa three-year-old gelding will need to put his best foot forward to earn the first prize. Catanach has his share of best foot forward to earn the first prize. Catanach has his share of weight but he will be one of the favourite division nevertheless. As commented upon in Wednesday's issue of the "Daily Mail," Laughing Song has not raced up to expectations in her last three starts but her trainer holds that the increased distance will suit her much better than the sprint courses.

An Easy Effort.

tance will suit her much better than the sprint courses.

Goldcraft did not race well enough at Greenmeadows to suggest that she will win now but her form has not been consistent. Last at Napier, Kobi needs to improve to reverse that decision. Tea Lord, a game little fellow who fights on, will have to be taken seriously. Katesbridge is of little use unless the ground is firm. Arabic galloped well yesterday morning but his form this season is not encouraging. However, it might be his turn now. Rhodes will hardly be saddled up again, while of the lightweights Cartoonist appears the best of a poor lot, although Skyette seems better suited to middle than short distances. An Easy Effort.

Laughing Song (S. Paramore) was not fully extended when running five furlongs in 67sec, the second best of the morning over this distance. Paramore will ride her on Saturday in the mile hack.

Dusky Bay (S. Pell) was sent out for half a mile with Parvati (W. L. Aitken) taking 54½. Although finishing together Dusky Bay was going obviously the easier passing the winning post.

Centrepoise may no win here but his turn is not lar oil.
Lindrum is never a recommendation but firm going he is useless. Nelumbo galloped well enough yesterday morning to bring her chance before the public, while Proclamation is another that, at the weights, has it in him to bring off a surprise.

Although the time 1.23½ was only average for the morning's six furlong gallops, Catanach (H. J. Callahan) pleased when registering that time comfortably, disposing of Master Solway (S. Pell). Catanach, for a horse that has won only a maiden race and a hack event in poor company, is not well treated. However, with fitness on his side and his ability to handle easy going, the Kincardine horse will have a solid backing in the Rotopai.

Dainty Dell Fit.

Dainty Dell (H. Callahan) in her gallop with Stella Lux (S. Pell) showed that she is a fit mare. Always holding the upper hand of her stablemate, she completed five furlongs in 68, but did it with ease. Her turn does not appear far distant. Owners are reminded that entries for yearlings (progeny of nominated sires) in the Manawatu Sires' Produce Stakes to be run at the 1942 autumn meeting and nominations of Sires for the 1943 Manawatu Sires' Produce Stakes close with the secretary, Miss M. Buchanan, Palmerston North, at 9 p.m. tonight.

Her turn does not appear far distant.

The best five-furlong gallop of the morning went to the credit of J. M. Cameron's Hunting Song mare Nelumbo (P. Winiata), who registered 65\(^3\). She is reputed to be of little use on going other than firm, but judging by the way she handled the track yesterday, she must have changed. The time draws attention to her winning chances this week.

Master Cyklon (T. Winiata) was far too good for Katesbridge (H. Lunn) over a mile in 1.54, the first half taking 56sec. Master Cyklon was always superior and the supporters of Katesbridge are advised to wait for a firm track before backing this Foxbridge four-year-old this Foxbridge four-year-old

A Rib

(By THE BARB)

Horses quartered at Hastings with engagements on Saturday at the second of the two Hawke's Bay winter meetings were given their final gallops yesterday morning.

There was nothing outstanding as regards times, but in most cases the horses were not sent out to be tested as, with recent racing, they are not in need of extended efforts.

The course proper with one exception was used for all the trials and the going was dead and the times recorded were slower than on the Hastings tracks for some time. However, the racing track is drying out and with continued fine weather should be ideal for Saturday.

A reminder is given that nominations for the Wellesley Stakes (spring meeting, 1941), Wellington Stakes (summer meeting, 1942), N.Z. St. Leger Stakes (autumn meeting, 1942), N.I. Challenge Stakes (autumn meeting, 1942) and the Wellington Guineas (spring meeting, 1942) close with the secretary of the Wellington Racing Club, Miss M. Bray, at 5 o'clock to-night. Entries for the 28th Taranaki Stakes of £425, to be run for at the 1942 autumn meeting, close for yearlings and other ages with the secretary, Mr G. B. Webster, New Plymouth, to-night at 9 p.m. night ago at Napier Park, so the extra 6lb. may not be a worry. Indian Sun, who will have the services of Mr G. G. Beatson, is rather useless on other than firm going, but horses so reputed have won before on tracks said to be against them. Rhodes is a typical "bracelet" horse and, as he has twice been in the money in similar races and now has the services of Mr Ken Duncan, Mr Norman Trillo's racehorse may be first past the post. Dunvegan is not recommended, but on Makaia's showing in his first up at Napier he will have to be taken into consideration. As regards the Porangahautrained and owned Holiday Pay, his form is not impressive. Nominations For Yearlings of Washington to the will have to be taken into consideration. The field in the hack sprint, like last week, is not strong. Soho (E. Deslandes) was also schooled over five hurdles, the first of which he took a little high up in the air, but with the pace increased hack of the performed much better. Sono (L. Cullen) registered 1.24 for three-quarters of a mile. The time appears fair enough but there was nothing else galloped here, so a comparison is not possible.
