"Anglo-Russian relations and the return of the British Ambassador (Sir Stafford Cripps) to Moscow may have to be reconsidered if Stalin concedes to Germany's economic demands," says the "Daily Express." "These demands are reported to be so sweeping as to amount to military concessions, including huge supplies of oil and wheat under direct German supervision of production and transport."

Meanwhile, according to the "Daily Telegraph's Helsingfors correspondent, the Red Army is strongly opposing Stalin's policy of appeasing Hitler. The Defence Commissar (M. Temoshenko) particularly is urging resistance to the Nazi demands.

The fighting for Sidon provided the nearest approach to a full-scale battle so far, with Allied and German-Vichy 'planes and British and Vichy Government warships contesting the seaward flank and the air and land forces of both sides clashing south and east of the town.

Vichy's official announcement of Sidon's fall followed hard on the heels of a communique from Beirut saying that, while British warships continued their systematic bombardment of the Sidon district, armoured cars launched an attack on Friday and Saturday.

Damascus Will Soon Be Surrounded: Advance On Beirut

LONDON, June 16.

Allied troops are now converging on Damascus in two columns and it is expected that the Syrian capital will soon be surrounded. As the result of a flanking movement the Allies have occupied Nahta, a village seven miles north-east of Kiswe, which is already in our hands.

With the capture of Sidon, on the coast, a strong advance seems likely on Beirut, the chief port of Syria, which lies about 25 miles north of Sidon.

The whole advance is proceeding by persuasion, the forces advancing bearing the white flag and inviting any Vichy troops to surrender, commentary. "Do you imagine," Air-Commodore Goddard asked his listeners, "that the great bulk of the long-range bombers has gone to the Mediterranean? That is not so. We know from our reconnaissance that a small proportion of the long-range bombers have gone south recently but it is not sufficient to account for the reduction of the enemy bomber effort in the past month, nor do I consider that the misty nights have been the full cause for the night bombers staying at home since their last disastrous raid on London-disastrous to them, I mean.

In the centre sector of the advance, the British thrust northward from Jezzin provides means of passing by these defences of the coastal plain by traversing the mountains and outflanking the main positions.

The capture of Jezzin was also valuable for the operations against Sidon, giving the Allies control of a road to Sidon, which, according to the British United Press correspondent, was undefended, and thus permitting the forces in the central sector to support a local outflanking movement against Sidon.

United Press Association—Copyright,
(Received June 16, 6 p.m.)
LONDON, June 15.
There is great excitement in Hungary and Rumania about the prospects of a German-Russian conflict, but Turkish political circles are sceptical, believing that the possibility of a conflict is very remote, says the Ankara correspondent of "The Times."

German losses over Germany and German-occupied territory were eight, and R.A.F. losses 27.

In the Middle East, Axis losses in the air were 34 and on the ground 20, and R.A.F. losses were 18.

In addition, his Majesty's ships destroyed two German 'planes and probably destroyed another. The destruction of four enemy 'planes by naval aircraft during the withdrawal from Crete is announced. Germany, he adds, considers Russia's political and economic co-operation in the new European order essential; therefore she is exerting the strongest pressure to obtain Russia's acquiescence.
Stalin, it is said, is anxious to maintain peace and will yield certain economic concessions.

WOMEN IN WARTIME: A LONDON LETTER

Dress Sense Of Women Tested: Frocks May Be Standardised: Mass-Produced Nurseries

(By Philine)

The day is fast approaching when the women of Britain will have great difficulty in dressing becomingly. With the standardisation of frocks and suits, the rationing of leather for boots, shoes and bags, the almost complete absence of silk, the near absence of cosmetics and, even the rationing of visits to the hairdressers, they will not find it easy to present a chic personal appearance to the world.

Still, this may not be altogether bad for the women of our country. Certainly it will test the value of their dress sense, their originality, good taste and initiative in difficult circumstances. But they must beware of ugly wartime fashions which often sail under the guise of practical fashions. They will cave to bear in mind that there is no necestal to treat their corsets gently, because they may have to last them a long time! Next week a deputation from the Corset Trade Association meets a Board of Trade Committee to discuss the situation. The present quota—50 per cent of pre-war output—expires on May 31, and then it may be cut still further.

EXPERT'S FORECAST forget or forgive the hide-ous sack-like frocks with their ultra low waist lines which made their appearance during and after the last war? Already, one expert has forecast the trend of styles at the close of the present war. It should fill us with alarm. war. It should fill us with alarm. War, he believes, brings in its wake the exaggerated waistine; either very low or very high. This time, he thinks, the very high waistline will come into vogue. He draws a picture of a girl in a knee-length, full-skirted frock, 'waisted' somewhere just under the armpits. On her Eton-cropped head is a sort of airman's cap, no less a hat monstrosity than the 'cloche' hat of post 1914-18 days.

Well, to be forewarned must be forearmed in this case. Britons must see to it that the expert's prophesy forearmed in this case. Britons must see to it that the expert's prophesy is not fulfilled. Standardisation of styles for garments of all kinds provide an economical solution of our dress material shortage. Just as there will be fewer styles so there will be fewer types of cloth. The problem of dressing well will be a hard one. There is no doubt about this, All the same, it should not be impossible to solve.

WILL ETON CROP RETURN? WILL ETON CROP RETURN?

Some of the difficulties facing those who value their smart appearance will be realised when one considers two recent items of dress news which have come to the woman of Britain. Women would be doing a national service, says the Ministry of Labour, if they would cut their hair short like a man's for the duration. No need to ask why. Crimps, clips, hairpins, setting lotions, etc., etc., would become redundant. That is the official comment.

In spite of the feeling among women that a visit to the hair-dressers plays an important part in keeping morale, they will have to cut down on their shampoo-and-set bookings, for the simple reason that heighters are will be searce in future. hairdressers will be scarce in future. They will not be in the list of re-served jobs for women which will be announced in the next week or The 1.15 p.m. car from Napier is timed to connect at Palmerston North with the 5.46 p.m. express for Auckland, while the 5 p.m. car connects with the Limited Express leaving Palmerston North at 9.51 p.m.

Napier Terminus and Booking Office:

Napier Terminus Agreement Terminus Agree curls is a wasteful fashion so far as both time and money are concerned. Very few are the curly heads about to-day. The mode which has been most generally adopted sees the hair, either loosely waved or completely straight, brushed back from the forehead in a neat roll which joins the semi-circular roll in the nape of the neck. It is, I think, a clever mixture of beauty and practicability.

practical fashions. They will dave to bear in mind that there is no necessity to choose unsightly clothes because there are few of any kind.

EXPERT'S FORECAST

Who, remembering, can ever forget or forgive the hideous sack-like frocks with their ultra low waist lines which made their appearance during and after the last war? Already, and after the last war? Already in peace-time.

may be cut still further.

All "supporting garments" are affected, for corsets bust bodices and girdles. One might imagine that in these days women could easily do without corsets. The vogue of the wasp waist, being a thing of the past, are corsets really necessary? Just now they are more necessary to women's comfort than they were in peace-time.

Many now sleep in their corsets for warmth and a "feeling of security" in air raids. Young women who have been corset-free have also who have been corset-free have also found that they need extra support for standing at machines in war factories. It is said that during the last war, the French Government was forced to increase supplies of corsets because the lack of body support for women workers caused the flagging of munitions output. What will be the result of such rationing to-day in this country?

COUNTRY NURSERIES

Lady Allen of Hurtwood has raised £6,545 for the Nursery School Association of Great Britain, so that a scheme for emergency nursery centres can be started immediately. The idea is to have massproduced nurseries, their walls gayly painted and their furniture all ready to be put into them, which can be set up in any part of the country for children evacuated from the bombed towns.

These will be furnished with cheerful toys for little people aged from two to five. The toys are being made by working parties in schools, A.R.P. depots and clubs. The material comes from bombed houses, packing cases—"and anything we can get hold of," says Lady Allen of Hurtwood, who feels that the important thing about her scheme is the rapidity with which the centres can be established.

The difficulty at the moment is that the centres are only for evacuhe bombed towns. that the centres are only for evacuated children, but Lady Allen is urging that the plans for the nurseries for evacuated children, and

SERVANT SHORTAGE

Domestic servants are not to be had. Private homes, hospitals, service flats and hotels are having great difficulty in obtaining domestic staff. Children's nurses are particularly hard to obtain. The call to Britain's womenfolk to serve the country in munition and other factories and in the Auxiliary Services threatens to revolutionise the domestic system in the country. In service flats, women residents are looking after their own rooms; in hotels they are using daily workers as fare as recall be accounted to the provided meals for men of the Forces; and the making of garments for the Merchant Seamen of Great Britain. The request for the latter has come through Lord Bledisloe, and these are urgently needed, as the Merchant Navy has to go out in all weathers and face great danger. Members were urged to procure wool and start knitting these garments as soon as possible. Mrs E. Honeybun is to have charge of the wool distributed from the branch. Notice was given of the Patriotic Shop in aid of the Home Guard to be held in Hastings on June 20, and of the dance in the Assembly Hall on June 21 for soldiers' parcels. Mrs Holden read the Dominion President's letter regarding the merchant service work and spinning. CORSETS ARE PRECIOUS

The monthly meeting of the Mangateretere branch of the Women's Division of the Farmers' Union was held in the School on Saturday afternoon. The president,

Mrs D. J. Holden, was in the chair, and with her Mrs A. W. T. Webb, the secretary. After welcoming the members, Mrs Holden asked them to stand for Mrs Holden asked them to stand for a minute as a mark of respect to the memory of the late Mrs W. J. Polson, one of the founders and most ardent workers of the W.D.F.U. Mrs Holden then read Mrs Wickham's tribute to Mrs Polson. Mrs Honeybun described how the W.D.F.U. first started with Mrs Polson as its first president, and her personal contact with Mrs Polson in W.D.F.U. work, when her fine qualities were noted and admired. She mentioned that the Creed recited by all mem-series for evacuated children, and other plans on hand for the establishment of day nurseries for munition workers' children, should be worked out together. There are thousands of evacuated children who need to be looked after by skilled teachers and also thousands of foster-parents who need to be relieved of their charges for a few hours daily. COUGHS-GOLDS (INHALATION AND BLOOD STREAM ABSORPTION GIVES QUICK

Here is PROOF of the marvellous efficacy of 2-Way Relief of PULMONAS

Pulmonas act by both Inhalation of powerful yet soothing, germ destroying vapours, which are released when you suck Pulmonas, and by Absorption of these same antiseptic properties into the blood stream. Pulmonas give you 2-Way Relief from all chest and throat troubles. At the first sign of a cold, place Pulmonas on the tongue and suck slowly. Relief comes at once! Coughing stops, breathing passages are cleared and soothed. Read the following testimonial.

HEALTH THROUGH CHIROPRACTIC

Paralysis does not always mean permanent disability. A patient writes: "I have not had a recurrence of my trouble—paralysis of the facial nerve. It is now twelve months since I had your treatment and I can truthfully state that it was your treatment that put me right. I could not shut my left eye nor move the left side of my face a fraction until after I had your Chiropractic treatment, for which I am truly thankful."

In an opinion delivered by a Judge of the Supreme Court of Tennessee are found these words: "The court thinks that Chiropractors cannot be classed along with charlatans and fakers. This science of healing is well developed in many jurisdictions and many believe in its efficacy," Keneth Kent is the cheerful foodloving Inspector Hanaud and we have an opportunity of seeing some loving Inspector Hanaud and we have an opportunity of seeing some brilliant work by Diana Churchill.

A young lady who finds lies so much more fun than dull truth is the cause of a great deal of trouble in the associate feature, "She Couldn't Say No," and Tommy Trinder, radio and variety star, is one of those on whom the trouble falls. The laughs begin from the first few seconds when Tommy wakes up seconds when Tommy wakes up after a night out and says he "feels like a taster in a castor oil factory

THRILLS IN "GUNGA DIN"

Teamed together for the first ime, Cary Grant, Victor McLaglen and Douglas Fairbanks, jun., are seen as three comrade sergeants whose adventures form the basis of whose adventures form the basis of the stirring screen version of the famous ballad by Rudyard Kipling, "Gunga Din," now screening at the State Theatre, Hastings. the State Theatre, Hastings.

The three stars, each of whom has soared to new fame in recent months, portray a trio of British soldiers stationed at an army post in northern India. Their exciting experiences while trying to quell an uprising among a band of religious fanatics, who commit wholesale murder according to religious rites. murder according to religious rites, provide the dramatic action of the Grant has recently achieved added opularity in a number of successll pictures.

Joan Fontaine has the leading feminine part in "Gunga Din," the title role of which is portrayed by Sam Jaffe. Other players are Eduardo Ciannelli, Montagu Love, Robert Coote and Abner Biberman.

CLEVER MYSTERY STORY

What is undoubtedly one of the funniest and most original "whodunits" the screen has seen in some time comes to the Regent Theatre, Hastings, to-day in "Busman's Honeymoon," film version of Dorothy I. Sayer's entertaining parra-Honeymoon," film version of Dorothy L. Sayer's entertaining narrative of a pair of honeymooners, both previously associated with the business of crime, who go to the English countryside to "get away from it all" only to discover themselves in possession of the corpse of a murdered man.

With Robert Montgomery as Lord

With Robert Montgomery as Lord With Robert Montgomery as Lord Peter Wimsey, debonair amateur detective, and Constance Cummings as his mystery fiction-writer wife, filling the leads, the action runs along at a merry pace with any number of suspects seeming to fit the picture as the guilty men, and an innocent-looking unwatered plant forming a pivotal clue in the final solving of the crime.

Montgomery shifts with agility

Montgomery shifts with agility from his neurotic gangster noble-man of "The Earl of Chicago" to the suave top-hat-and-tails crime detector of his present vehicle.

A mystery so bewildering that it has to be solved twice is the situation facing the Roving Reporters, Michael Whalen and Chick Chandler, in their latest escapade, "While New York Sleeps," now showing at the Mayfair Theatre, Napier. The the Mayfair Theatre, Napier. The action starts out innocently enough with Michael Whalen and Chick Chandler starting a month's vacation in the country. They're hardly inside the cottage door when the city editor of the newspaper breaks the news that Steve Martin, insurance detective and friend of Whalen's, has committed suicide. They discover he has been murdered in a thrilling climax.

"Ask a Policeman," stars Will Hay and Moore Marriott in another hilarious farce, this time as guardhilarious farce, this time as guard-ians of the law.

A. E. W. MASON'S "FOUR FEATHERS"

The drama-packed story of Harry Faversham, who is accused of cow-ardice by his closest friends when he resigns from his regiment on the eve of his departure to join Kitchener's Army in the Sudan, and who redeems himself by some of the most daredevil feats on record, is unfolded in the gripping tale of "The Four Feathers," Alexander Korda's new Technicolor feature now showing at the State Theatre,

Napier. Heading the cast of "The Four Feathers," which was directed by Zoltan Korda and adapted from A. Zoltan Korda and adapted from A. E. W. Mason's popular novel, are Ralph Richardson, John Clements, C. Aubrey Smith and June Duprez, stunning 20-year-old brunette who was discovered by Alexander Korda and awarded the leading feminine

"BACK STREET," FINE ROMANCE

The same sensational situations the same wealth of emotional drama which made Fannie Hurst's great novel, "Back Street," one of the out-standing novels of the day, have been captured and put on the screen in the picturisation of the story, which is now screening at the Regent Theatre, Napier, according to the multitudes who have read the to the multitudes who have read the book and also have seen the picture. Starring Charles Boyer and Margaret Sullavan, two of the most glamorous figures of the modern screen, "Back Street" was directed by Robert Stevenson, brilliant young English novelist. The story of the picture covers the period from 1898 to 1930, with Cincinnati, Ohio, New York and Paris as backgrounds. Miss Sullavan is seen as Ray Smith, the girl who is content to live in the back street of the life of a wealthy and successful man, sacrificing herself unselfishly to help him in his world-famous career.

WAR IN THE AIR

Before September 3, 1939, it was generally accepted that the second world war—which had been inevitable for at least three years—would open with terrific aerial on-slaughts by the Power holding numerical superiority in 'planes against the capitals and great cities of the opposing States. At the time of the British declaration of war on Germany the A.R.P. services throughout the United King-dom were prepared, although not sufficiently prepared, to deal with a tremendous attack on London, and the metropoli-tan hospitals were hastily organised to cope with an appelling tan hospitals were hastily organised to cope with an appalling number of civilian casualti

The unexpected course of the war resulted in a postponement of full-scale aerial warfare, with the single exception of the Polish campaign, for almost a year. But since the fall of France the war in the air has flared up on an ever-increasing scale.

The most remarkable feature of the conflict has been the utter defeat of the German onslaught against Great Britain in August and September, 1940, and the subsequent reluctance of the Germans again to undertake daylight mass attacks against the British Isles. On the other hand, night attacks have become more and more extensive and destructive.

Various measures have been taken in Britain to combat these attacks but as yet they have not been eliminated. The reasons for this are clear. In the first place, the speed of modern aircraft has reduced the effectiveness of searchlights which, in the last war, were able to catch and hold enemy 'planes until the anti-aircraft defences came into full operation. Secondly, now that the greatest burden of defence has been thrown on fighter aircraft, the odds in favour of attacking 'planes, which are very difficult to find in the cloudy skies of Britain, have greatly increased.

It is true that the Germans are up against the same problems and their lack of success in finding adequate systems of defence is indicated by the widespread destruction which the R.A.F. has been spreading over the length and breadth of the German industrial areas, but the fact remains that until the R.A.F. is equal or superior to the Luftwaffe in numbers, the advantage will remain with the enemy. There have been many hints lately that Britain is on the point of evolving adequate means to counter the night bomber. What those means may be is naturally not yet known, but the fact that major developments may be expected is one of the most encouraging signs in the present

During the last ten months Britain has suffered more heavily from wanton attacks on civilian population than any nation in the history of warfare. Great cities like London, Plymouth, Portsmouth, Coventry, Cardiff, Sheffield, Man-chester, Birmingham, Bristol, Liverpool and Glasgow have been subjected time after time to the most intense and utterly ruthless attacks ever launched from the air. The reasons for these attacks have been both psychological and a matter of military necessity.

There is no doubt that the love of destruction is part of that curiously barbaric strain in the German mentality which, in the last war, was exemplified by the deliberate shelling of Rheims Cathedral, the burning of Louvain, and the useless destruction of innumerable of the architectural treasures of Belgium and France. A people which is capable of such acts cannot be expected to reverence such places as Westminster Abbey or the cathedrals of Canterbury and Coventry. At the same time, the impulse which in 1914 sent the German armies to hack their way through Belgium and France has again inspired the Germans to attempt to conquer Great Britain by terrorism and unrestricted warfare against the civilian population.

The fact that British civilian morale remains unshaken is due to no lack of effort on the part of Germany and her airmen. Undoubtedly the most striking feature of the night blitzes, whether on London, Coventry, Plymouth or Manchester, is not the havoc and destruction, great as this has been, but the almost incredible circumstance that the British people, the ordinary men and women in all walks of life, have taken the onslaught so courageously and so calmly. It is clear that the people of Britain have been forced by the very extensiveness of the damage to sever their affections and sense of association from their homes and the historic buildings which have gone for ever. It is because they have found a new unity in the indestructible qualities which underlie these outward forms that Germany's air war has failed and Great Britain remains unconquered.

He said that Mr Fergusson had been a much beloved and trusted servant of the public. Captain Lyon was a Hastings Borough representative on the board from May, 1929, to December, 1930. During that period he proved himself an alert and keen member. Subsequently he left the district to enter national politics, and was elected to the House of Representatives. The board expressed its sympathy with the relatives of both Mr Fergusson and Captain Lyon. Reference to the deaths of Mr A.

HORTICULTURAL SHOW

Society Willing To Assist

DETAILS DISCUSSED

The projected holding of the National Horticultural Show in Hastings early next year was the subject of a special meeting of the Hastings Horticultural Society, held in the Borough Council Chambers last night, Mr N. Fippard presided.

It was decided that, subject to certain conditions, the society would offer full co-operation in staging the out on an alarm at 7.20 last evening to a fire in the rapo and grass along the old Tutaekuri riverbed at George's Drive. The blaze was quelled without difficulty. This was the second fire in the same locality within a fortnight.

War Memorial

An application from the Hastings Returned Soldiers' Association for permission to install a garden seat in the grounds of the Soldiers' Memorial Hospital, in commemoration of the generous and self-sacrificing services rendered during the last war by the late Miss M. J. Luckie,

Question of Finance
Discussion at the meeting centred mainly on the question of finance, the chairman stating that the national organisations would bear two-thirds of any loss incurred, the remainder being found by the local committee controlling the event. If a profit were shown the allocation would be on the same basis. The gross expenditure would be about £300. Question of Finance

It had been agreed that one-half of any proceeds accruing to the local society would be devoted to patriotic purposes.

Mr Rainbow promised to call a public meeting to discuss the whole question of organisation for the show, and said he would place before the council the question of providing a financial guarantee to the society.

Further Conditions

The other conditions laid down by the society were that the Government cool-store was made available for the show; that the services of a capable secretary could be obtained; and that full co-operation was accorded by other organisations in the town The Theatres:

It was stated that, subject to the consent of the Napier Borough Council, Mr J. G. McKenzie had agreed to undertake the duties of secretary. Pinned Beneath

> INDUSTRIAL TARGETS SOUGHT OUT

POOR VISIBILITY

When the British bombers attacked industrial objectives in Cologne, bad weather was their enemy and navigation was the most difficult work of the night. Several crews reported that no land was visible during the greater part of the flight, and over the target itself there were oppressive banks of cloud all the way down from 15,000 to 2000 feet. The bombers sometimes found it necessary to dive below the clouds to get the target in sight and for the crews to see the fires they had started.

We were flying pretty high as we approached the coast of southern Norway, and found several gaps in the clouds where the moon was breaking through. You could see the surface of the sea, and, as we came into one of the sea, and, as we came into one of these clearings, we suddenly spotted a formation of enemy warships away down under the starboard wing. The white wakes trailing behind them caught our eyes first.

"Then we saw the ships—small, black slim shapes. They were arranged in formation, with the pocket battleship in the middle and five escorting destroyers around her. One destroyer was right ahead, and there were two more destroyers on each side, making a pretty effective screen.

No Time For Tactics "We dived to a few hundred feet above the sea and flew at right angles across the sterns of the two destroyers bring up at the rear," the pilot added. "That put us on the port side of the formation. We made a right about turn to starboard and came straight back on its beam. There was not much time to think about tactics. One destroyer was right in our way, and I had to skirt round its stern to get a suitable angle to drop.

GAZETTE NOTICE Dr H. M. Wilson Reviews Problem ISSUED In Address Given At 18-45 YEARS Hastings

That the difficulties associated with the medical benefits scheme could have been avoided had the Government in the first place treated the representations of the medical profession in a reasonable and practical manner was affirmed by the Dominion president of the B.M.A. (Dr. H. M. Wilson) addressing the Hastings Chamber of Commerce last night.

The Acting-Minister of National Service (the Hon. D. Wilson) to-day made a statement regarding the effect of the proclamation gazetted "Without any kind of preparation, ne profession was suddenly rought face to face with the denands upon its resources when its r this morning directing the enrol-ment of the second division of the General Reserve.

"The second division," said the Minister, "consists of married men who are natural-born British subjects other than Maoris, and whose mands upon its resources when the war," said Dr. Wilson. "Our little time must elapse before they are all sent out.

"A further announcement will be made when this has been done, and any reservist who does not then receive his certificate within a few days must communicate with the Director of National Service, Wellington, Any reservist who changes his residential address subsequent to registration must advise the Director of National Service within seven days of the event.

"As stated previously," said Mr Wilson, "it is not anticipated that any married men will be balloted until towards the end of the year, and then men with no children will be called up first." "Personal Opinion"

Dr. Wilson made it clear at the outset of his address that his remarks were his personal opinion, although, no doubt, they represented the majority opinion of the B.M.A. The opposition of the B.M.A. The opposition of the B.M.A. had been attributed to the members' political disagreement with the Government and their concern over the financial arrangements, he said, but the opposition was a fundamental one based on the fact that the doctors were totally opposed to a regimentation or a socialisation of a profession that had become great through its freedom of action and thought.

Dealing with the differences between the schemes proposed by the Government and the B.M.A.'s counter-proposal, Dr. Wilson said that the profession suggested that the people should be divided into four grades, according to their incomes. This scheme was not favourably received by the Government because it differentiated between 'sections of the people, while the State plan regimented and socialised the profession and in effect put out all competition. Under the Government's scheme there was no competition and endless trivialities to Dr. Wilson made it clear at the Magant Mr Athol Williams in an address to the Napier Rotary Club yesterday. "If we don't use the time while we still have our freedom, it's 'God help us.' We will repeat the mistakes as we made at the end of the last war."

The importance of maintaining morale was recognised by Moral Rearmament, said Mr Williams, In illustration he said that 50,000 pamphlets setting out the tenets of the organisation had been distributed in Bristol shortly before the blitz reached there and had played so big a part in keeping up the spirits of the townspeople that businessmen themselves hard hit, had had full-page advertisements inserted in the newspapers at their agathered at the Courthouse vester.

Mr J. M. Runciman

"It has been thrown at the profession that their motives in resisting the Bill are financial," continued Dr. Wilson. "This is a very gross libel and it would be illustrated in no better way than in the case of Dr. Densem, of Runanga, which I will state later on. No man can succeed in medicine who makes money his one object. You must give service first. Many medical men would be better off under the Government scheme in broadcast by Government. "Under the Government's scheme than they are now. "Under the Government's scheme the doctor becomes a servant with no settled hours of labour, with no superannuation or compensation for illowed. At the conc the doctor becomes a servant with no superannuation or compensation for illowed. At the conc the chamber supporting the time motives in resisting the Bill are financial." Continued Dr. Wilson. "It had been thrown at the prosision that their motives in resisting the townse, and it would be illustrated in no better way than in the case of Dr. Densem, of Runanga, which I will state later on. No man can succeed in medici no settled hours of labour, with no superannuation or compensation for illness," said Dr. Wilson. "His 'master' can alter the terms of service and payment. Like the transport owner, he has no appeal. He has unlimited obligations day and night; he has no choice of the type of work he has to do; he is snowed under with trivialities; he becomes visited on the same lines as the barber; he is beholden to the district health officer."

"Tendency To Friction" page advertisements inserted in the newspapers at their expense to spread the idea. The part that Moral Rearmament was playing in industry was stressed by Mr Williams. An English oil magnate had applied the principles of the movement to his factories and offices and had found that the increase in work had englished. that the increase in work had enabled him to undersell his competitors. The interest evoked by his experiment had enabled the oil industry to make the change towards coperation that the war situation demanded very easy.

"Tendency To Friction" The district health officers were nedical men who had chosen the very essential service of administrative work, but generally speaking, they had not imbibed the conditions of general practitioner service, said Dr. Wilson. "I think there would be a tendency to friction between them and the practising practitionthem and the practising practitioners. They are attached to a Government department and necessarily have to carry out the instructions of the political head."

to help unite the various factions in American industry."

The successes in preventing strikes that the Moral Rearmament "team" had achieved were described by Mr Williams. "At the conclusion of the tour it was remarked that "the visit of the King and Queen and the Moral Rearmament group had done more to unite. In the long line of negotiations outlined by the former Dominion president of the B.M.A. (Dr. Jamieson) he told of the lack of cooperation with the profession from the Government, said Dr. Wilson.

Meetings With Ministers

"Mr Fraser met us with courtesy and good humour, even though we differed," continued Dr. Wilson.

"The Minister was asked to give us his confidence in whatever proposals the Government decided upon. This was readily promised with evident sincerity. He was unable to do this. There was no co-operation. We were given a copy of the Act only after it had been introduced to Parliament.

it had been introduced to Parliament.

"With Mr Armstrong there was still the same good feeling, but differences. Mr Nash met us with courtesy and some seven months after our plan had been supplied, he was asked: 'Have you read it?' He said, taking up the pamphlet, 'I am reading it now.' The Minister went on: 'This divides the people into sections and it would leave the doctors free to fix their own fees over the greater part of their work.' In this lies the key to the position. Complete socialisation and complete financial control of the profession was what was sought," said Dr Wilson.

"In all these negotiations there was a divergence of views, but both sides realised this and met each other with the realisation that we were one people and in future had to live and work together. Since the present Minister, Mr Nordmeyer, has taken office there has been a complete difference in the tone. He shows intolerance to our attitude. Perhaps I may be permitted to remind him of the great part that held by the board. These contained lint and other dressings.

Mr H. V. Hoadley pointed out that all instruments would have to be sterilised before being used so that even if they were obtainable, no good purpose could be achieved by including them in the panniers.

The secretary (Mr E. T. Rees) explained that units of the Red Cross Society and St. John Ambulance would attend to all stretcher cases and that the board would have nothing to do with patients until they were delivered at the doors of the hospitals.

On the suggestion of the chairman (Mr W. E. Bate) it was decided to inform the committee that all panniers would be held at the hospitals until required. Mr Bate said that the baskets could be distributed quickly when and as required. Replacements would be provided by the board.

method of mass coercion on the part of organised labour in the hope that the doctors would be brought to heel, the speaker alleged.

Dealing with the case of Dr Densem of the Runanga Medical Association, Dr Wilson said that he served members for a salary of £712 per annum plus certain allowances. The Minister suggested that the basis should be altered and Dr Densem should sign contract forms with sem should sign contract forms with all members and that the association would then be relieved of payment of doctor's salary. This meant that he would receive about £2000 per annum for work he does for the association for his present salary.

When Dr Densem refused, the Minister advised the association to cancel his contract, but the miners would not allow this and threatened the attribut pulper medical aid. cancel his contract, but the miners would not allow this and threatened to strike unless medical aid was always available to them. The Minister was then asked by the association to subsidise the association to the extent of the doctor's salary, but he said that this would not and could not be done, but even as he was saying this the Health Department in Wellington was posting circulars to the associations suggesting this same subsidy method.

When the Ngakawau-Stockton Medical Association terminated its agreement with Dr Simpson because he would not sign up, the miners were considering striking unless medical attention was available for them, and Mr Nordmeyer was going again to Westland to see about it. "If he had kept away from the West Coast in the first place there would probably have not been any trouble," added Dr Wilson.

Recently the B.M.A. asked the Minister of Broadcasting for permission to broadcast the objections that it had to the Social Security Scheme in reply to statements broadcast by or on behalf of the Government. It was met by a refusal, and the refusal stated that a criticism of the law could not be allowed.

"One feels strongly on the actions of anyone who acts in a manner detrimental to the war effort," said Mr Brown. "I don't think it can be said that anybody in New Zealand is doing better and more patriotic work than the doctors." (Applause).

Many doctors were serving with the armed forces, and the attempt by the Minister of Health (the Hon. A. H. Nordmeyer) to take advantage of the shortage of medical mencertainly was not helping the war effort, the speaker stated. The B.M.A. did not make effective use of propaganda, but it was not too late to give the public full details of what had happened.

An indication that this year the National Party would oppose any effort to regiment the doctors was given by Mr H. W. Dowling, of the Napier Chamber of Commerce. The party would suggest bringing down

INQUIRY WANTED

The view that a more equitable means of hospital taxation by transfer to a national basis was expressed by the Hastings Chamber of Commerce at last night's meeting.

A resolution to this effect to be sent to the Associated Chambers of Commerce contained the recommendation that there should be an inquiry aiming at a more economical basis of hospital administration.

"It is my feeling that this chamber approves the removal of the burden of hospital costs from local body rates and their transfer to a national basis," said the president (Mr W. A. Whitlock), "At the same time, I think that the whole problem of nospital costs should be examined to secure a more economic administration of hospitals."

To remove hospital costs from local body rates would be to "take the brakes off" hospital expenditure, continued Mr Whitlock. Once the burden was transferred to the Conburden was transferred to the Con-solidated Fund or the Social Secur-ity Fund there would be little deter-

OVER THE COUNTRY.

The two meetings furnished three steeplechaser winners of four events, Cherry Plum winning a double. Sufficient has been written in connection with this gelding to make the public conversant with him, and it is to be hoped he will continue the right way, as he is a young 'chaser that is welcome to the ranks.

Birkology won well the second day at Napier Park and then, reserved for the Hawke's Bay Steeplechase, was unlucky when his rider broke a stirrup leather. This the public resented, and they are keen to know who was responsible for the horse going out with unsound gear—the rider, M. Ritchle, or the trainer, W. Wilson. The Press has not been advised where the fault lay, but an explanation is needed.

Birkology looked a picture of fitness Trainers and Riders ed.

Birkology looked a picture of fitness parading in the birdcage prior to the Hawke's Bay Steeplechase and he should have run a great race. He was out on the Hastings tracks yesterday morning and will race at the Trentham meeting early next month. It depends on this showing whether he will make the Riccarton trip. Trainers and Riders

The most successful trainer was G.
W. B. Greene, Hastings, with three successes. Following him came H. Griffiths
(2), D. Ducker, Miss D. Wedgewood,
H. S. Greene, E. W. Watson, R. Marsh,
Mr J. M. Paul, A. Jenkins, J. M. Cameron and Mr G. D. Beatson (one each).
Hastings trainers won nine of the 14 events, Greenmeadows and Awapuni two,
and Opaki one.
B. H. Morris was the most successful professional horseman with three riding wins. Then came H. J. Callahan (2), N. Vaughan, P. Brady, P. Jarvis, S. A.
Waddell, R. Marsh, W. J. Broughton, P.
Burgess, A. E. Lord and Mr G. H. James
(one each).

Leading Sires

ANINI PROMISING.

The Commandant mare Anini was started three times in the fortnight, won once and was second in the other two, which is promising for a beginner. This Waipukurau-owned sixyear-old mare, with a little more racing experience, should win a good-class race as on her day she jumps well, has speed and shows signs of staying power. Leading Sires The sires who were represented by inning progeny at the two meetings dded the following amounts to their realts. added the following amounts to their credit:—
Defoe (Authoress 2, Dainty Dell and Black Majesty), £450; Lord Quex (Great Quex), £270; Beau Pere (Cherry Plum), £260/10/-; Commandant (Anini), £245; Song (Master Cyklon), £130; Gainscourt Foxbridge (Gay Fox). £175; Hunting (Sunny Knight), £130; Kincardine (Queen Cardine), £110; Cockpit (Pitmark), £105; Phaleron Bay (Dusky Bay), £90; Rulanut (Ruling Moment), £85.
All of the above, with the exception of Rulanut and Commandant, are imported sires.

Well, has speed and shows signs of staying power.

Prior to Napier Park good judges declared that Lucullus Boy was one of the most promising young 'chasers in this district for years. His three performances must have been disappointing to his admirers. This well-bred gelding might, with racing, do better, but he lacks stamina.

Son and Heir is only average, but there are hopes that he will improve with racing. As a hack and hunter he should not be hard to place with advantage.

Iddo broke down badly on Saturday in the Hawke's Bay Steeplechase, and yesterday morning on the Hastings tracks, trainer Wallace D. Young said that he would not be tried again as his case was hopeless.

ANINI PROMISING.

A DANDY QUARTETTE. No doubt there is a difference of opinion as to which was the best flat performer at Napier and Hastings—Rakanui, Diana Tetrix, Sunny Knight or Black Majesty. Before endeavouring to weigh up the quartette, distance would be the first question. Rakanui has given his best over a middle distance, as he won the Hastings racecourse on Wednesday, June 25, close with the secre-Hawke's Bay Cup from end to end on Friday next. June 20. at 8 p.m.

Criticism Of M.P.'s Statements

enlington):

Penlington):

"The Press reports of recent public utterances by the Hon. W. E. Barnard regarding the war effort of New Zealand give reason for very serious concern.

"He appears to have adopted a course of propaganda which, if not checked promptly, will tend to obstruct the reinforcement of our troops overseas, and also to embarrass military commanders in making the best possible strategic use of them. It would be difficult to imagine any more effective way of hindering New Zealand's contribution to the nation's cause than this, or any which could be more wellowed to the enemy—though I do not for one moment believe Mr Barnard to be capable of conscious disloyalty.

PRINCIPAL'S VIEWS

The following letter, addressed to he Hastings branch of the Returned Soldiers' Association, has been forvarded by the principal of the Hastngs High School (Mr W. A. G.

"The question about air support conveys the suggestion that Britain has been guilty of neglecting to give our troops all possible protection. It contains the seeds of dissension,

"All this tends to obstruct and devitalise our war effort, and should not be tolerated.
"In general, the attitude which Mr Barnard is fostering appears to be not what is the most we can do' but in the is the least we can get away."
